"AND WHEN the day of Pentecost was fully come, they (the apostles) were all with one accord in one place. The day of Pentecost came, as far as we can judge, on Sunday, May 28 A. D. 30. It was the feast of the harvest, it was celebrated by the Jews in commemoration of their possession of the land of promise.

The apostles were gathered together in their house in in Jerusalem, probably in that upper oorm. "Suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

"And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them."

They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and, strange to say, they began to speak in other languages. The city was filled with Jews from different parts of Palestine there to celebrate the Pentecost, and to their amazement, these men from Galilee, ignorant men, most of them, spoke to these strangers in their own tongues.

"Behold, are not all these which speak Galileans"? asked some. Others scornfully replied, "These men are full of new wine."

Peter Explains

Seeing the general amazement, Peter, the spokesman, stood up in their midst and explained that they were not drunk, as it was only the third hour of the day—around 9 o'clock. Quoting the prophet Joel, he quoted, "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of My Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, any your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams."

He told them that Jesus of Nazareth, who was approved of God and who worked miracles among them, had been slain by them, but that He had risen again, which he, Peter, and his friends had personally witnessed.

"Therefore, let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ."

Peter's sermon converted many, who were baptized and "continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship."

Peter and John went to the temple one day to pray. Now a certain man who had been lame since his birth was duly laid at the gate called Beautiful of the temple, to ask for charity. He accosted the apostles, and Peter looked at him, then said, "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk."

Peter took hold of the man's hand, lifted him up, and the man walked, his feet and ankle bones receiving strength. He leapt up, walked, entered into the temple, praising God. And all the people who saw him also praised God.

Peter Again Preaches

Peter took this occasion to again preach to the people, but when the priests, captains of the temple and Sadduccees heard about this matter they arrested Peter and John and, as it was evening, put them in prison for the night. In the morning they heard what they had to say. You remember how timid Peter had been heretofore, and fearful of being arrested. Thrice had he denied his Master. But now, knowing that his Lord had risen, and filled with the Holy Ghost, he bravely defied these leaders. He told them that it was through the Lord Jesus, whom they had crucified, that he was able to perform this miracle.

The leaders were puzzled as to what to do with these men. The miracle was indisputable, and the people were filled with wonder and praise, and they hardly dared punish the men. They sent Peter and John outside while they conferred, and then called them back and told them they could go, but they were not to preach the gospel of Jesus any more.

"But Peter and John answered and said unto them, "whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye.

"For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard."

Nevertheless, the priests, captains and Sadducees again warned them and let them go, and they went to their own company and reported all that had happened to them. And the whole company rejoiced and praised God and prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness."

Using Witnessing Power — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 2:1-4:31.

After the Holy Ghost had descended upon the apostles, they began to speak in different languages, whereat some said, "Are not all these that speak Galileans?" and some said that they were drunk.

Peter explained that the Spirit of God was upon them, as it was written, "and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams."

Peter and John went to the temple to pray, and a man lame from birth asked alms of them; but they told him they had no gold or silver, but they healed him of his lameness in the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

The priests, captains of the temple and Sadducees arrested Peter and John, but seeing the lame man healed, they dared not harm them, so threatened them about preaching and let them go.

When We Are At War

"This country is in a state of war.... It is quite possible that during such a time some persons may be detained wrongfully under the Defence of Canada regulations....The Government during a time of war has to act on the information of secret agents even though some of them may be unworthy."

Those were the plain statements made by Mr. Justice W. T. Henderson when he concurred in a decision of the Court of Appeal rejecting a new plea for the release of J. A. Sullivan, president of the Seamen's Union. In presenting the case on behalf of Sullivan it was claimed he had received no particulars beyond the statement that he was a Communist and therefore considered disloyal to Canada.

Mr. Justice Henderson, very wisely we think, took time out to explain that in war time the Minister of Justice was not in a position to disclose the names of his informants. He did not like that way of doing business, but the Government had to act on the advice of secret agents, and it is possible that some of these agents may not be entirely worthy. It created a situation where some innocent people might be detained. The names of people who had presented information could not be revealed, otherwise it would cease to be a secret service. Concluding, his Lordship remarked: "You condemn all secret services; so do I. But that is something we have to suffer just now."

Admittedly there is much in that contention which is difficult for a democracy to take, but it is essential that we face the plain fact that we are at war; that we have passed entirely out of the realm of peace; that many of our former customs have been for the duration of the war suspended. In times of peace we were an easy going people, and we trusted all with whom we came in contact. If they were strangers from the outside world we did not ask for their credentials nor did we inquire particularly why they were here or what they intended to do. They might have been friends or enemy agents, but the truth is we never stopped to inquire.

It is also a fact that we have been brought up on the feeling that we had rights which could not be taken from us. If we were arrested we could refuse to make any statement; we could apply for bail, and beyond that we could be sure of a fair trial before judge and jury. We could not be taken off to some place of detention and be made powerless to begin the battle for our freedom or release.

When Mr. Justice Henderson says "We are at war" he explained a good deal which is difficult to explain and more difficult to understand in any other way. And when we are at war we have to conduct our affairs pretty much the same as other nations in the same position. We have not abandoned our liberties. We have merely set some of them to one side because they do not fit in with war-time conditions. His Lordship did well to go rather fully into this matter, otherwise a democratic people might find it difficult to understand why things which are plainly undesirable in peace times have to be done when the country is at war.

The Time To Speak

As a rule this paper does not advice public men on what they should or should not do, but on occasions it seems right enough to do so. Prime Minister King left a few days ago on a trip to Washington to see President Roosevelt. We have always been in favor of international visitation, and if Mr. King could manage to secure a little rest out of it so much the better.

When he left he was careful to explain that he would make no addresses and no statements during his absence. He never has been at any time much given to making statements for the press, and it might help matters a good deal if he changed his outlook on that form of expression.

At the time when Mr. King was away Lawrence Hunt, a lawyer from New York, was giving an address in Montreal and his text was the degree to which United States was participating. This Mr. Hunt is not a new convert to the British cause; he knew what it was all about months ago and has kept on with increasing advocacy for more assistance and more participation. Just one phase tells plainly enough his view: "We Americans know that we must contribute our full share of 'the blood, toil, tears and sweat' needed for a common victory."

In his Montreal address Mr. Hunt said that false statements have been made in his country by those who are fighting Hitler's battles there regarding the extent to which Canada was participating. The people who were ready to reply did not possess the needed information. From that point he proceeded:

"There may have been in the early days of the war certain reasons of policy why you told us very little. Those reasons don't exist today. We're with you in this terrible struggle to the end. Moreover you must not be guilty of excessive modesty. This is no time for free men to hide their lights under a bushel. They should be beacons for all peoples, free and slave, to see. We have watched with profound respect your sacrifices in a cause we now realize is also our cause."

When Mr. Hunt says the people of United States desire to know more of our war effort we are satisfied he is stating the case exactly as it exists. He comes to speak to us as a sincere friend who has proved his friendship. That is why we believe it would have been desirable for Prime Minister King to have made a plain and adequate statement when he was in United States. When he was the guest of the President he was right in the centre of things, in a position where his statement would have had the greatest possible coverage. Admittedly we do not often urge statesmen to make statements, but here was a chance of which Mr. King could have availed himself to advantage of the large calibre size. Nothing could have carried more weight than a direct statement from our Prime Minister.

Directions Are Plain

A note from a rural reader says little provision has been made to grant exemption from military service to farmers and farm workers. Truth is there is no provision to grant exemption, but postponement can be granted if it is possible to show that extreme hardship would result from a man being called for four months' training during a time of "seasonable" work.

The complaint is also made that the method is involved and not easy to understand and also that it has not been sufficiently explained. It has all been announced and explained in publications and otherwise, but those interested may not have taken the trouble to read about it.

Any man of military age will first receive notice that he is to appear for medical examination, and that notice will come from the Divisional Registrar. Three days are allowed for this and the individual should see his doctor and take the notice with him. The doctor in turn sends his report to the Registrar.

If it is desired to make application for postponement of training it should be attended to right then, immediately after the medical examination. The call for examination shows that the wheels have been set in motion, and if it desired to delay the motion then action is necessary.

Apply in writing to the Divisional Registrar whose name was attached to the notice first received. State the reasons for requesting postponement, and do it within eight days of the date appearing on the medical examination notice.

The Registrar will then submit the application to a Divisional Board, of which the chairman is a judge of the Superior Court, and two other members are citizens of the locality. If the applicant desires to appear in person he will have to do so at his own expense. If additional postponement is desired it must be applied for before the initial period of postponement has elapsed. No definite postponement can be granted under existing law.

Changing The Speed Limit

Toronto Board of Police Commissioners recommend a ten-mile-an-hour reduction for driving at night or in inclement weather. The suggestion goes to the Highways Department, and it adopted means 20 miles an hour in Toronto and 40 miles in the outlying districts.

A regulation of that sort is going to be somewhat awkward because what might be termed "night" changes its time of arrival with the seasons of the year.

There are many cars from the outside passing through or driving around Toronto every day in the week, and it would be necessary to have the changed speed laws for night driving clearly understood.

But back of it all is the reason, and that is because at present speeds there are too many people being killed in the city; when it turns dark people wearing dark clothing are hard to see. When there is that known situation it is right that those in charge should desire to experiment. There is no good reason why they should not, and there is urgent cause why they should.

When the speed limit was set at 30 miles an hour for cities there was nothing known to indicate that it was the proper figure. It was done because people were ignoring the former and lower figure and because there was a desire to speed up traffic. The result has been that as traffic has been speeded up the same thing has happened to the death rate due to accidents.

As a useful experiment it would be valuable to know what change would be made in Toronto if the night rate were reduced to 20 miles. We can think of no sufficient reason why a speed rate once set should remain unalterable in spite of the tragic results it is producing.

Can't Measure Up

We have had a number of young men in training camps who have been turned down as unfit although they had been examined previously by doctors in their own localities and passed. The men would be in the same physical condition at each examination, so it leaves something to be explained.

United States is getting a shock when it starts going over the young men who are called there for military service. There are in all 16,500,000 available recruits in the age categories liable for military service, and those in charge of medical examinations have estimated that not more than 20 per cent. are what we would call Class A men.

And that is not a comforting situation to face. It is claimed that many have defects which can be remedied, but it is going to take a good deal of effort on the part of the individual, and there is nothing to indicate that he has to make the effort.

But when physically fit young men become scarce it is enough to make a nation take stock. What's the trouble? Life too easy or too fast? Too much night life? Too much driving and not sufficient foot-work? Too much fat and not sufficient bone and muscle? It is not a nice time to make the discovery when a nation is beginning to build an army, but it does look as though the nation would be justified in placing demands on those who are sub-standard that they shall proceed at once to do something definite toward getting in shape.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A toad may live a year without food, but it would be a miserable way in which to spend the time.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald published the picture of a new policeman on the force in that city. It would have been nicer to have included the other officer and made a group photo of it.

A Philadelphia woman left $2,000 to care for her pet dog, but a lawyer proved she did not own the dog. It is such cases which cause one to rejoice there are smart lawyers.

One newspaper heading said: "Steel Prices May Rise," and our humble opinion is it would have been more correct to say "Steel Prices Will Rise."

Suggestion has been made by U. S. fishermen on the Great Lakes that competition between U.S. and Canada be eliminated. Well, let's see—we have some carp in our lakes and we are willing that the U.S. fishermen shall come and take every last one of them.

DOING THEIR BEST

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I heard the bull frog chorus sing, they turned it on like everything, and it grew very loud; and there was volume in their stuff, some voices though a little rough, from singing in a crowd.

¶ I wondered if they had a theme, to show just what their song might mean, it rather made me frown; for all their notes were very plain, and each frog seemed to sing the same, went neither up nor down.

¶ But as I listened now and then, I heard notes from the older men, and they were rather deep; not joyful like the others were, but like one who just makes a stir, before he goes to sleep.

¶ There was no song like robins sing, when they come to us on the wing, and chirp at close of day; there was no music in the frogs, just hooting on some sunken logs, and no good cause to stay.

¶ I read somewhere just how they sing, how they puff up and do the thing, and why they croak at night; it struck me then as rather strange, or why their tunes they never change, they can't be very bright.

¶ And yet perhaps I may be wrong, I should appreciate their song, and marvel at their plan; it may be true in days of spring, when they puff up and start to sing—they're doing the best they can.

CAP and BELLS . .

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IT would be difficult to convince the average citizen (that mythical personage whom the more up-and-coming American publications sometimes refer to affectionately as "John J. Public") that his life was in any way influenced by trends and fashions in the world of art. The average citizen does not take much interest in art, regarding it as out of his ken, the private concern of "highbrows." If he is put in the position of having to express an opinion on an artistic matter he is quite likely to say that he doesn't know anything about it but he knows what he likes. This is usually quite untrue. He does not know what he likes; he only becomes used to what he sees. And this is precisely where the average citizen falls under the influence of the most powerful trends in modern art, for he sees nothing more often than the shop-windows in his own town, and window dressing follows modern art very closely.

C & B

Window dressing is a highly paid occupation. Many of us can remember the days when it was nothing of the kind, and when the chief aim of the window dresser was to get as much stuff into the window as he could possibly cram. Towels, handkerchiefs, sheets, stockings, underclothes and hats might all be found, huddled together in a single window, with price tickets pinned to them. It was fairly safe to assume that there were nothing inside the shop which was not represented in the window. This method, of course, only prevailed in the more progressive shops. Humbler establishments simply put a few things in the window and left them there to grow yellow and fly-blown. Elaborate fixtures were unknown. A shop which had two wax figures was rich indeed. I can remember some of those figures from my childhood. They had amazing complexions, and wore expressions of sweet refinement. Their hair was dry and abundantly supplied with what hairdressers call "short ends." They all seemed to be victims of some horrible wasting disease, which had cost them a finger here, a blotch on the cheek there, or even, in advanced cases, a nose. I remember one in particular which had fared very ill in a hot July sun, but its owner continued to put it in his window for years; it looked like an African zombie, a creature which had returned from the dead.

C & B

Some of the more conservative stores used dummies of the type generally encountered in dressmaker's workrooms; these were large black shapes, standing on poles, and with a bronze knob where the head should have been. They always had an ominous look about them, as though they disapproved of everything which came within the range of their enormous busts. They could be dressed and undressed with reasonable decorum, but the wax ladies were often to be seen moving in or out of the windows, partially dressed or quite naked, in the grip of the storekeeper.

C & B

THOSE days are gone, let us hope, forever. Window dressing is now as much an art as is the designing of clothes, and it follows the fashions and trends of the artistic world closely. At the moment it seems to be very much influenced by surrealism. Now you may not know what surrealism is; I certainly do not, though I have waded through a heavy book on the subject. But I will guarantee that you have seen plenty of surrealism in shop windows. Roughly, the idea of surrealism is to combine objects in such a way as to produce a pleasing, unusual, and poetic effect. Recently in Toronto I saw a magnificent group of surrealistic windows in one of the big department stores there. It was displaying spring fashions. In one window a bass viol made of tree bark lay against a stump; inside it, nestling among moss, was a bracelet and a pair of earrings. In another window was what looked like a moss-covered piano; inside it was a little pool of water, and in the pool was reflected a string of beads and a pair of gloves. In another window stood a tree; from the trunk of the tree emerged a pair of green hands, and dangling from the fingers were a few jewels, a hat and a handkerchief. From another tree grew a pair of hands which were playing a violin, using a twig for a bow. Odd, you may think, or even repulsive, but the effect was certainly arresting. It took the eye; it was beautiful, unusual and pleasing.

C & B

Perhaps your local merchants do not go in for quite such exotic window displays as that. But I would be very much surprised if they did not follow the surrealistic trend to some extent. Do they have unusual objects in their windows, merely to catch your attention and to direct it to the thing which they really want you to buy? Old wagon wheels, painted in strange colors are often used for this purpose. Sometimes goods are displayed pouring out of a jug. Keep your eyes open and see if you can spot anything of the kind. Of course, not all combinations of unusual objects are surrealistic; only those which are pleasing and poetic, as well as unusual, are the real thing.

C & B

The great surrealistic window dresser is Salvador Dali, the artist. He was engaged by a great New York firm a few months ago to do some work of this kind for them, in their Fifth Avenue windows. He filled the windows with rubber cows, headless women and similar oddities until the other Fifth Avenue merchants objected on the ground that his work was sensational. This is probably the first time on record that a shop has been censured for making its window displays too sensational. But since that time the public have grown more used to surrealistic window dressing, and the average citizen, without having realized it, has absorbed one of the most important of modern artistic influences.

BAGGED

—London Daily Herald.

• Is President Handicapped?

Frank R. Kent, in the Baltimore Sun

THE BELIEF that once the lend-lease bill became law (thus putting seven billion more dollars at the President's disposal and vastly extending his power) Mr. Roosevelt, supported by the great bulk of the people, would be free to move, without hindrance, toward his two goals —full aid to the British and an effectively armed America—that belief does not seem to have been well founded.

In the two really vital fields of action he finds himself definitely handicapped. That the handicaps are of his own contriving, the direct result of the course he chose to steer before our policy became clear and the situation critical, does not lessen their weight. One of these makes him hesitant and equivocal in dealings with the epidemic of strikes with which the defence program has been afflicted from the start. The other prevents him from taking the prompt and firm stand on the question of convoys which he wants to take, which he almost surely must take in the end and which it seems unintelligent not to take immediately.

As to the question of convoys, the situation is this: With British shipping losses running at the rate of 5,000,000 tons a year, it is obvious that unless the submarines can be more effectively coped with the war is likely to be lost. At any rate, most of the material, on which we are spending billions, will land not in England, but at the bottom of the sea. Obviously, the only protection for the freighter is through adequate naval convoys. The British are unable to supply adequate convoys. The clear logic of the situation is for us to supplement the British naval convoys with our own navy.

But, that would mean shooting. It would mean the sinking of American vessels and risk of American lives. The difficulty with the President is that while he knows that risk must be incurred, if our effort is not to be rendered futile, he also knows that he has pledged himself not to lead the nation into war and that he secured the lend-lease act largely through the argument that it would keep us out rather than take us in. In addition, he recently said at a press conference that the suggestion of convoying with our naval vessels was absurd, although it was at that moment being seriously considered by the Administration strategists.

But the need for convoying grows more acute every day. The President's trouble is this, as in the matter of the strikes, is how to overcome the handicap imposed by his own record and his own words. Of course, there are ways to overcome both, and they have been pointed out to Mr. Roosevelt. It is not easy, however, to get him to act. On the one hand, he shrinks from having his labor-leader friends charge him with having "sold out to the interests." On the other hand, he fears the effect of charges by the isolationists that he deceived the people when he promised to keep the country out of a "shooting war." It seems pretty tough that, with the fate of the world hanging in the balance, fears such as these should partially paralyze our leadership at a most critical moment.

• Clydeside Buries Its Dead

From the Glasgow Herald

THE unidentified victims of Clydeside's two nights of severe aerial attack were buried in a common grave. The occasion represented Scotland's first experience of large-scale interment following enemy action. Great secrecy was observed, and the only mourners present comprised representatives of Government and local civil defence services, the military, police, and a few casual observers. The shrouded bodies which were lowered into the grave included those of many children. Despite the absence of large numbers of private mourners, the burial was impressive and solemn.

Prior to the arrival of the vehicles containing the bodies, which were covered by Union Jacks, press representatives waited in the hillside cemetery.

Even in that quiet spot ample evidence was found of the fury and indiscriminateness of the Nazi onslaught. The paths of the graveyard were punctured with holes; everywhere were to be found pieces of shrapnel, the ends of incendiary bombs, and heaps of whitened magnesium, bomb craters marred the surrounding countryside; and heaps of masonry from the cemetery walls were hurled on to nearby graves, smashing gravestones, and littering the paths with wreaths, tombstones, and memorial tablets.

The cortege was preceded by cars bearing police and district officials, Sir Steven Bilsland, Bt., Civil Defence Commissioner for the West of Scotland, representing Lord Rosebery, Scottish Commissioner, who was unable to be present; Mr. Thomas Johnston, Secretary of State for Scotland; and Mr. David Kirkwood, M.P. The leader of a contingent of wardens carried a wreath from the local Council.

The funeral service took place after a number of the bodies had been placed in the grave. Those taking part were three Roman Catholic priests and a Church of Scotland minister. At the conclusion of the joint service the civic chief of the community which was raided stepped forward and placed his wreath; then Sir Iain Colquhoun, Bt., who was in military uniform, stood reverently at the head of the grave for a second or two and saluted. Sir Steven Bilsland then deposited his floral tribute of red carnations.

To add to the grimness of the moment, and to act as a reminder that the effects of the wanton German attack did not end with the last rites over the men, women and children victims, the funeral proceedings were disturbed by detonations from wrecked buildings which were being demolished by military and civil clearance units.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

If therefore perfection were by the Levitical priesthood, (for under it the people received the law,) what further need was there that another priest should rise after the order of Melchisedec, and not to be called after the order of Aaron? For it is evident that our Lord sprang out of Juda; of which tribe Moses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

And it is yet far more evident: for that after the similitude of Melchisedec—there ariseth another priest, who is made, not after the law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endless life.

For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens; who needeth not daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once, when he offered up himself.—Heb. vii; 11, 14-16, 26, 27.

TRAINING PLANE IS WRECKED IN FORCED LANDING NEAR GRAFTON

Hit Soft Spot Airplane Turns Turtle

COBOURG, April 19 (ENS) — Coming in for what is believed to be a forced landing a light Yale training plane came to grief near Grafton Friday. The all-metal two-seater was safely down but before it could reduce landing speed its wheels sank into soft earth. The plane, it is believed, then turned over after putting both wing tips into the soft field.

The landing accident occurred in a farmer's field east of Grafton and both occupants escaped serious injury. The field is near Highway No. 2 and members of the R.C.A.F. mounted guard over the upside down ship throughout the night.

Some of the nearby farmers assisted in pulling the dazed men from the cockpit of the grounded ship.

Both wings were damaged, the tail assembly being smashed while the propeller's steel shaft was bent in a semi-circle. The cockpit top had been smashed by the contact with the ground. The field had been ploughed and early seeding was already showing results.

The ship came in over a small fence and some wires without touching either and had it not been for the treacherously soft ground the pilot would have made a successful landing. The identity of the airmen was not announced.

Provincial police watched with vigilant eyes the constant stream of the curious.

Stolen Car Recovered

COBOURG, April 19.—(ENS) — Prompt action here during the early hours of Friday morning resulted in the recovery of a stolen automobile before the owner had realized it was gone. Constable Houghton of Cobourg force saw a car driven by a soldier in the early morning, the driver of which excited his suspicion. The officer questioned the driver and was not satisfied with the explanation given. He detained the soldier, who was Pte. J. Dutton of Camp Borden.

Nearly twelve hours later the constable's quick action was borne out. The car had been stolen in Brighton and was the property of Oscar Morgan of that village. The soldier, who was returning from leave, had apparently decided that transportation of any kind was desirable, with or without the owner's permission. He had acted accordingly.

A German Booster

Chicago, April 19 (AP)

A THEORY that John F. Arena's editorial attacks on pro-Fascists led to the slaying of the Italian language newspaper editor weakened today on the basis of fresh evidence. Arena was shot to death Wednesday by two gunmen.

Police Sergeant George Brady reported that among papers found in Arena's office yesterday was a copy of a letter the editor had sent in 1939 to Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda head.

Brady said that in the letter Arena had offered his services in behalf of the German cause. The officer also said he learned from Arena's secretary, Betty Eich, that the editor had been on friendly terms with the German consulate in Chicago.

In recent issues of his paper, La Tribuna, Arena published editorials against what he termed "fifth-column activities" by a member of the Chicago Italian consulate.

WINNIPEG WILL MEET MONTREAL IN THE MEMORIAL CUP FINALS

Rangers Trim Saskatoon To Take Title

WINNIPEG, April 19 — (CP). — Winnipeg Rangers won the Western Canada Junior hockey championship and the right to meet Montreal Royals in the national final by defeating Saskatoon Quakers, 7-3, here Friday night in the seventh game of a hectic series in which each team previously won three games.

Rangers will leave Saturday night for Toronto, where the best-of-five Memorial Cup series opens Monday night. Second game will be in Montreal Thursday, and the third in Toronto the following Saturday.

Friday night's one-sided result climaxed a series of surprises in the Western final. Rangers gained a 2-1 edge in games when the series opened on Winnipeg ice, winning the first and third 6-4 and 3-1 and losing the second, 4-1. The next three games were on Saskatoon ice, Quakers winning 10-5, losing 4-3 and then sending the series to the limit with a 10-2 victory on Wednesday.

Penalties Settled Duel

As in that last game at Saskatoon when six Quaker goals were scored while Rangers were a man short penalties played an important part in Friday's result. Winnipeg led 4-0 at the end of the second period and three of those goals were scored while Quakers were short-handed.

Then after Rangers led 7-1 in the third, Saskatoon took advantage of a penalty to Glen Harmon, Winnipeg defenceman, and rammed in two goals while he was off. The rally came too late.

Defenceman Bill Mortimer, who missed the last two games because of a shoulder injury, returned last night and led Rangers to victory with two goals. The other Winnipeg counters were by Bob Ballance, Hugh Millar, Earl Fast, Les Hickey and Bill Robinson. Robinson also had two assists and Fast and Hickey one each.

Tony Leswick, who was serving a penalty in the first period when Rangers got their second and third goals, redeemed himself by scoring the first two Saskatoon counters in solo plays. Dave Livingstone got the other, with Harold Laycoe assisting.

Capacity Crowd

Rangers were helped also by the return of winger Hub Macey, who also missed the last two games because of a hip injury. Macey was used sparingly, however.

The crowd of 5,000, capacity for the Amphitheatre Rink, was the largest of the present hockey season in Winnipeg.

2 Hurt At Plant

DETROIT, April 19—(AP).—Two members of the United Automobile Workers (Congress of Industrial Organizations) were treated for facial injuries at the union first aid station this morning following a reported altercation with Negro foundry workers at the Ford Motor Co. River Rouge plant.

Efforts to resume full-time production at the huge plant, scene of a 10-day United Automobile Workers' strike that ended last Friday, continued without interruption, however.

Spokesmen at the U.A.W.-C.I.O. organizing headquarters said they were informed that other men, including union members, were injured in the fighting and received first aid treatment at company stations in the plant.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The work of two grand old pitchers, Lyons of the White Sox and Bob 'Lefty' Grove of the Boston Red Sox featured the American League games yesterday. Lyons, 40 years old, won his first start of the season when the Sox defeated St. Louis 6 to 3, Lyons keeping nine St. Louis hits well scattered. Grove who has turned his 41st birthday did not get credit for the win as he was behind 2 to 1 when relieved in the eighth by Hash yesterday but the old master pitched grand ball and showed that while he cannot work as often as in his palmy days, he can still produce the stuff. Boston defeated the Athletics 3 to 2 and Conie Mack's team got but two hits. The big bat of Bobby Doerr was the principal factor in the Red Sox win as the second-basman came through with two home runs to tie and then win the ball game. Incidentally Doerr has kicked in four circuit clouts in the three games so far played by the Boston club.

New York Yanks are not finding the going so good. They were tossed for a loss yesterday by the Washington Senators who got seventeen hits off the delivery of Russo, Chandler and Donald. Russo shut Washington out on opening day but he had nothing with which to fool them yesterday. Another veteran pitcher came through with a fine performance in the American loop Friday when Tommy Bridges held the Cleveland Indians to six hits and two runs and the Tigers hung up their first win of the season 4 to 2. Young Jim Bagby was on the hilltop for the losers. Boston Red Sox with three straight wins are heading the American loop. The Sox have come through with seven home runs in three battles and that without any assistance from the dean of their slugging crew Jimmy Foxx who has yet to hit his first homer of the young season.

Baseball commentators do not know which is the most remarkable thing in the National League, the fact that the New York Giants have opened the campaign with four straight wins or the other circumstance that the Cincinnati Reds, world's champion have started out by losing four in a row. The Giants scalped the Phillies 7 to 2 yesterday, with a homer by Mel Ott with the bases full, the most powerful blow struck in the Giant cause. In fact it was the prize wallop of the day in both leagues. Cincinnati sent Bucky Walters to the mound against Pittsburg but he did not have any better luck than Paul Derringer and Junior Thompson had against St. Louis. The Pirates took the tussle 4 to 1 with Walters yielding six hits and Butcher on the mound for the winners allowing but five safe blows. Brooklyn Dodgers, staggering from the effects of three straight losses at the hands of the Giants managed to beat the Boston Bees 11 to six.

It's The Army For Hank Greenberg

Hank Greenberg, Detroit's biggest gun, has passed his medical tests and will be called into the United States army almost at once. It was announced yesterday that the big outfielder has no intention of appealing against his being drafted and that he will put on the uniform of his country instead of the monkey suit of the Tigers in the near future. The calling up of Greenberg will be a heavy blow to Detroit. He was one of the club's chief powerhouses and his hitting last season helped materially to win the pennant for the Bengals. There is no one in sight to fill his shoes so far as offensive strength is concerned. Another well known ball player who goes into the U.S. army shortly is Joe Gallagher formerly of the Brooklyn Dodgers and recently sold to Montreal. He has been notified that he will be called soon.

The following tribute in the Globe and Mail to the Simpson Grads of Toronto will be appreciated by local basketball fans. The Grads made a lot of friends here in their trips down to play St. Paul's by their clean, fast playing and their anxiety to put on a good show for the public and basketball enthusiasts will wish them luck in their effort to land Canadian honors. Says the Globe and Mail: "Each member of the ten-man playing squad, plus the coach and the manager, has dug into his own jeans and contributed on a pro-rata basis to the $300 guarantee that was needed to bring the Montreal team to Toronto....Nobody is complaining, because that's the way it has been all season....The players bought their own uniforms at the start of the year, paid floor rental for their practices, and have underwritten rentals for league and playoff games at the Central Y.M.C.A.....Jack Smith, the coach, has travelled in three nights a week from his home in Hamilton, at his own expense....For the first time this season, the athletes hope to be able to admit their girl friends on passes during the series against Montreal....Up to now, each player has had to buy a ticket for his personal No. 1 cheer leader, but they have agreed that for every nine tickets they can sell on a personal canvass the members of the team get one for nothing ....That's not all the story....Because a badminton tournament has moved in, the Grads have been forced to move out of the Central "Y," where they haven't lost a game in four years.... They'll meet the Rocklands at Parkdale Collegiate, which virtually means they'll surrender their home-floor advantage, because they've never played there before, can't even get in for a practice, in fact, because the Parkdale gym is closed for holidays and renovations."

The Oshawa Bees Out

Frank Black, coach of the Oshawa Bees seems to be able to get his club into the final round without much trouble but that is as far as he has been able to go. The Bees who conquered the local Colts for the group honors after losing the first two games of the best-three-of-five series were eliminated last night when Brantford Lions took them into camp for the third time in a row in the final round. At that Black has been doing a fine job year after year with the Bees who are of course the Cinderellas of hockey in Oshawa. The Generals and the GM get all the patronage and the Bee outfit usually play to empty seats. But they keep on plugging along developing young material and this season Coach Black uncovered several boys, notably Furey, Hinton, Davies and McIntyre who will be heard from later on.

All lacrosse players and enthusiasts are reminded of the meeting to be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the Duffus Bowley Alleys. The interest shown in this gathering may decide whether or not Peterborough will have a team this season. The outlook is not the brightest in view of the uncertaintly of work conditions, etc., and the loss the club has sustained by reason of enlistments. Six of last season's players are now in uniform and it will be hard work to fill their places locally. If there is to be a club in the Ontario Association it will be necessary to bring in a number of players to give Peterborough a chance to make a showing. It is important therefore that there should be a large attendance at tonight's meeting so that the whole situation may be discussed thoroughly.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Young Dick Fowler, product of the Toronto sandlots pitched two-hit ball as the Leafs shutout the Baltimore Orioles 3 to 0 yesterday. He had a no-hitter until the ninth....Mike Caplan outpointed Fritzie Zivic by a wide margin last night but the welterweight go was a non-title affair....It's Winnipeg Rangers and Montreal Royals for the final series for the Memorial Cup....The Winnipegers finally managed last night to take the Western title from the Saskatoon Quakers after a series that went the full seven games....Canadian runners are conceded a great chance to cop the Boston marathon race today. It is a habit with the long distance runners from the Dominion....Men's City Softball League meet at Duffus' at eight o'clock Monday eve.

Big Leaguers Get Call For Army Draft

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The United States Army draft is striking the mighty and the meek of baseball exactly alike.

A selective service board in Detroit ended the confusion surounding the status of big Hank Greenberg yesterday, and knocked the Tigers out of the American League pennant picture by classifying him definitely 1-A and announcing he would be inducted into the Army about May 7.

Another Draft Board disclosed yesterday Cecil Travis, star shortstop of Washington Senators, had been classified 1-A and probably would be called next month at about the time third baseman Buddy Lewis of the same team is to be inducted. Earlier this week Outfielder Joe Marty of the Phillies had been informed he is to be summoned, and the same team already has given up Hugh Mulcahy.

The importance of these blows to the respective clubs can not be over estimated. Washington Senators already are in th American League cellar and the loss of the only two really big league infielders they have means that the club may never get off the bottom.

Await the Cellar.

The Phillies have lost three straight games and they'll be in the National League dungeon to stay just as soon as Cincinnati Reds move out.

Both clubs probably would have finished there anyway. Greenberg's going means a change in position for Detroit—possibly a drop into the Second Division.

The towering home-run hitter was the most valuable player in the American League and no club can lose that kind of a keystone and go ahead as though nothing had happened. Besides the Tigers are weak in outfield reserves. Hank, highest salaried player in baseball, is believed to earn about $2,000 a week and probably will get $7,000 before he is inducted.

In the meantime the races in the two leagues are muddled in more than the usual early season turmoil.

In the National League New York Giants are undefeated and on top and the world champion Reds are on the bottom without a single victory. Boston Red Sox are unbeaten leaders of the American League, while five clubs are tied for second with an even split of their games to date.

Pirates Won.

The Reds were routed by Pittsburg Pirates yesterday in spite of the fact that they sent Bucky Walters, the old dependable, out after their first victory. Walters went swell for six innings. Then in the seventh Maurice Van Robays opened with a homer and Vince DiMaggio followed with another with two teammates on base. The result—a 4-1 triumph for the Pirates. Max Butcher held Cincinnati to five hits and the only run he allowed was a homer by Rookie Dick West.

St. Louis Cardinals suffered their first defeat when Chicago Cubs got rough with Clyde Shoun in the seventh inning on three extra-base blows, the last a homer by Bill Nicholson, and won by 6-4.

New York Giants made peasoup of the Phillies 7-2, starting with a five-run third inning when Mel Ott homered with the bases loaded.

Bees Blow Up to Drop Game

Brooklyn's bashful Dodgers, who hadn't won a game previously, had one given to them at Boston, where the Bees blew up with six errors and handed over an 11-6 decision. Principal among Brooklyn's 14 hits was a three-run homes by rookie Pete Reiser.

Boston Red Sox stayed unbeaten with a nerve-tingling 3-2 victory over Philadelphia Athletics. Lefty Grove held the A's to two hits for seven innings, but one of these was a two-run homer by Sam Chapman in the fourth. He was removed for a pinchhitter and young Herb Hash finished with two hitless innings.

In the seventh Bob Doerr hit a home run for the Sox to put them back in the running and in the ninth he smashed another with a mate aboard to win the game.

Home runs decided Detroit's 4-2 triumph over Cleveland Indians. Each team got six hits. One of Cleveland's was a roundtripper by Ken Keltner. Two of the Tigers' were homers by Charley Gehringer and Birdie Tebbetts, the latter with one on. Al Benton relieved Tommy Bridges on the mound for Detroit with the bases loaded in the ninth and saved the game.

Washington revenged its opening-day defeat by New York Yankees by shelling Marius Russo for a dozen hits in four frames and won out 7-4.

Old Ted Lyons led Chicago White Sox to a 6-3 verdict over St. Louis Browns.

Rookies Playing Major Roles In International Loop

International League rookies, like the flowers in Spring, are in full bloom.

Five of them played major roles in yesterday's games, impressing fans and vindicating the faith of their managers.

Most notable achievement was 20-year-old Dick Fowler's two-hit pitching effort in hurling Toronto Leafs to a 3-0 triumph over Baltimore Orioles. Runner-up honors went to Chet Kehn, whose brilliant relief pitching helped Montreal Royals edge out Newark Bears, 3-2.

Johnny Davis, up from Houston in the Texas League, delivered a timely single in the 10th inning at Jersey City to give Little Giants and Rookie Rube Fischer a 2-1 victory over the champion Rochester Red Wings, while Virigil "Fire" Trucks limited Syracuse Chiefs to five hits in fashioning a 5-2 victory for Buffalo Bisons.

Saved Day for Royals

Bears were just beginning to get to Steve Rachunok, Montreal starter, when Kehn stepped in to quell the uprising at Newark. With two runs in and only one out, the 19-year-old right-hander from Elmira came through with flying colors, allowing only one hit. Each club garnered six safeties and Royals used three of theirs to score all three runs off Tommie Byrne in the sixth.

Although Davis' single was the telling blow at Jersey City, Fischer's classy hurling played a big part in the Little Giants' victory. The right-hander, who toiled for Clinton of the Three-Eye League last season, held the Wings to four hits for eight innings, but trailed 1-0 when he left the game for a pinch-hitter because one was a homer by George Kurowski. Jersey City tied it up in the ninth with two out on a walk and Manager Tony Cuccinello's double. Hugh East and Roy Henshaw stopped Rochester after Fischer went out, with Henshaw receiving credit for the decision. Charley Brumbeloe went the distance for Rochester and gave up seven hits.

Buffalo Bisons continued their cannonading against Syracuse, pounding out 11 hits off Les Hinckle to make it two straight. Trucks struck out six and walked three.

Vote On Pay Deduction

EDMONTON, April 18 (CP) — Representatives of Edmonton Civic Employees' Unions and of the Federation agreed late yesterday to allow the question of pay deductions for war and other charities to be voted on by all civic employees and to abide by the decision of the majority. Two civic employee groups refused recently to accept compulsory payroll deductions in aid of the war and other charities, stating they wished to make voluntary donations.

BALTIMORE SILENCED UNTIL NINTH AS TORONTO LEAFS WIN 3-0

Fowler Hurls 2-Hit Game For Leafs' Win

BALTIMORE, Md., April 19. — Balked in his bid for a no-hit game, with one out in the ninth inning, Toronto's own Dick Fowler climaxed a masterful pitching job here on Friday afternoon by stemming a last-minute Baltimore rally to give the Maple Leafs a 3 to 0 verdict over the Orioles.

The 20-year old six-foot-four-inch right-hander just fell short of a perfect game, but no matter how much damage the Birds might have perpetrated in that final frame, it would not have detracted from his eight-inning masterpiece.

Gantenbein Features at Bat.

Hal Sieling and Bob Hamilton connected for successive singles with one out in the ninth, but Fowler, working calmly and deliberately, wiped out Al Flair and Bob Seeds to wind up the game.

Joe Gantenbein collaborated with Fowler to even the series with Baltimore at one game each. While Fowler was checking the Baltimore clubbers, Gantenbein went on a one-man spree to pace the Toronto attack. He bagged three of the Leafs' seven safe hits, including a home run and double, and he made a couple of sparkling fielding plays that enabled Fowler to carry no-hit hopes into the ninth.

The Leafs played spectacular ball behind Fowler. They saved his hitless performance more than once with great plays, but when the ninth inning rolled around, Fowler appeared to be the one Toronto performer who was not unduly worried about the situation.

There was plenty to be worried about, too, Bob Seeds came close to dislodging the youthful Leaf from the hero's throne, but his home run bid with two on base was foul by a couple of yards. Then on a 3 and 2 pitch Seeds sent a liner into right. Johnny Tyler raced in, misjudged the ball, but finally stretched high to pull it down for the final out.

The Leafs didn't exactly enjoy a field day on the offence themselves. Lefty Clyde Smoll was working along pretty smoothly most of the trip, but he couldn't subdue Gantenbein. Smoll claimed nine strikeout victims, including Fowler and Latshaw three times each. He walked only one man. Fowler fanned three and walked Art Graham twice.

What developed into the winning run, was Gantenbein's homer into the right field bleachers with one out in the second. In the fourth Tipton singled with one out, Gantenbein doubled him to third and Rubeling brought Tipton home with a grounder to Corbet.

Tipton Clouts Triple.

Bill Lillard drew the only walk two Oriole hurlers have given in two games, with one away in the eighth. After Tyler rolled out, Eric Tipton dropped a triple down the right field foul line to drive home the final run of the game. The only Leafs to hit safety betsides Tipton and Gantenbein, were Al Rubeling and Fowler, both of whom banged out singles.

Fowler had to be both good and lucky to subject the Orioles to a pair of safe blows in this small park. Any pitcher has to be good to pitch hitless ball for eight straight innings, and Fowler was fortunate enough to have Gantenbein, Lillard and Rubeling come up with marvellous plays on those vexatious infield bounders that more often than not go for infield singles. There were a couple of well-tagged line drives, too, but for the most part Fowler had the Birds eating out of his hand.

Manager Tommy Thomas of the homesters was trying hard all the way. He used Pinchhitters Jack was retired on a long drive to centre. Then Sieling blasted a torrid single past Gantenbein. Bob Hamilton bounced one over the mound on which Robeling made a great bare-hand stop, but his back-hand flip to Lillard was wide, both runners being safe. Flair then forced Hamilton at second and Seeds lined to Tyler.

Dick Not Disappointed.

In the clubhouse, after accepting congratulations from teammates, Fowler said he felt "better" when Sieling singled.

If he was disappointed over losing a no-hitter he didn't show it. When Sieling connected Fowler had two strikes and one ball on him.

Jim Walkup will face the Birds to-day in the series final. Jim Reninger and Pat McLaughlin may get their chances on Sunday in the double-header at Syracuse.

Dom Is Out At First Despite High Leap

Dominick DiMaggio, Boston Red Sox member of the famous diamond family, takes a high leap for first base in the first inning of the Red Sox-Senators game in Boston. Dom's leap was in vain as George Archie reached out to grab the ball just a tick before DiMaggio's foot touched the bag.

Zivic Whipped By Kaplan Non-Title Bout

BOSTON, April 19 — (AP). — Merry Mike Kaplan, of Boston, stamped himself as the outstanding contender for the world's welterweight title by outpointing Champion Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburg by a wide margin in a ten-round overweight bout last night at the Boston Garden. Both weighed 148 pounds.

The decision was unanimous for Kaplan.

Profiting by his experiences against Zivic about eighteen months ago, when the latter gained a split decision in Philadelphia with a late surge, Kaplan never was in danger when he rushed and missed. His drive always was forceful enough to bring him well inside of Zivic's defence and place his own head well out of danger.

Few of Kaplan's many scoring blows were strong enough to bother Zivic. The champion, however, managed to punish Kaplan's back by clubbing him in clinches, and he landed three low lefts that made Merry Mike wince.

Kaplan's easy triumph, witnessed by a 9,092 crowd which provided gross gate receipts of $16,544, probably earned him a title shot at Zivic here this summer.

The clever Bostonian used his highly polished left jab throughout to keep Zivic just enough off balance to prevent him from bringing his supposedly superior punching power into play.

After an easy first two rounds, during which Kaplan gauged the range of Zivic's left, Mike started to pile up his winning margin by closing in with a straight left, tying up both of his opponent's hands and forcing him against the ropes.

Not until the last two rounds was Zivic able to take the lead away from his aggressive opponent.

Cote, Rankine Rule Favorites

BOSTON, April 19—(AP).—Eight outstanding marathoners including two of the three Canadians entered in the field of 154, are regarded as co-favorites for to-day 45th Boston Athletic Association "grind" from Hopkinton to the Back Bay section of Boston.

Standing just a trifle higher than the rest in the opinions of the experts are little Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinth, Que., who set the 2:28.28 3-5 record for the tortuous 26-miles, 385 yards course last year, and two-time winner Leslie Pawson of Pawtucket, R.I.

Two of the other four former winners entered also are highly regarded, Johnny Kelley, who led the pack in 1935, and Ellisom (Tarzan) Brown, the unpredictable Indian from Westerly, R.I. The latter, according to students of long-distance racing form, can do anything he wills, as he did in 1936 and 1939, when he raced over the hilly course almost unchallenged by the brilliant fields of those years.

Among the non-winners who threaten to gain the victor's laurel wreath are such Boston standouts as Fred McGlone and Paul Domato.

Allan Cup Series Be Wide Open Western Style

CALGARY, April 19. — (CP)— Hockey western style is expected to be the menu when Regina Rangers and Sydney Millionaires tangle here tonight in the first game of the best-of-five series for the Allan Cup and the Canadian Senior amateur title.

The western champions from the Saskatchewan capital always have played a speedy game since Coach Freddy Metcalfe organized the squad last fall.

Then Bill Gill, the Broadview, Sask., boy who coaches the Eastern champions from the Cape Breton mining town breezed into town yesterday, announced his team will play "wide open" against Rangers and proceeded to devote 30 minutes of an hour's workout to Millionaires power play.

The fans who saw Millionaires admitted they will be one of the few teams to compare with Rangers for speed this season, and chiefly because Millionaires have Johnny McCreedy, Dick Kowcinak and Mel Snowdon, all shooting for their fourth championship in four years. They installed the Easterners as slight favorites.

The teams appeared about even in defensive strength. Any edge that Sydney's first forward line had over Regina's No. 1 trio was made up by the margin Regina has in goal with the spectacular Jim Henry.

After last Saturday's game here between Rangers and Lethbridge Maple Leafs, J. T. Sutherland of Kingston, Ont., led delegates to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in praising the wide-open hockey with a minimum of bodychecking and interference.

"It was the best game I have seen in 10 years," said Mr. Sutherland.

The referees for tonight are Leo Heffernan of Montreal and Dick Davis of Winnipeg.

Less Homework Advocated At OEA Session

TORONTO, April 19 — (CP). — Delegates to the 80th annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association yesterday wound up their busy four-day session of meetings, discussions and addresses. Since Monday the O.E.A. has gone through an exhaustive program.

At a meeting of the Trustees and Ratepayers section of the Association late Wednesday, it was recommended that greater stress be placed on religious education in Ontario schools. It was proposed that religious instruction become a compulsory subject and be included in the courses for teachers-in-training.

An announcement was made at the same meeting that scholarships may be supplied in future to students who show promise but have not the financial means to attend universities. A resolution in support of school boards which deny school privileges to children who refuse to salute the flag and sing the National Anthem was withdrawn.

Catholic delegates to the convention passed a resolution asking the Ontario Government to accept a representative from Separate schools to advise the Department of Education on Separate schools problems.

Less homework in elementary schools was advocated by Dr. G. F. Rogers, deputy minister of education. Vocational guidance in the secondary schools was recommended in an address by V. S. Stevens, vocational guidance expert at the Eastern Commerce and Technical school here.

The Federation of Women Teachers' section of the Association passed a resolution asking that the degree "Bachelor of Education" be conferred upon elementary school teachers in future.

The musical highlight of the convention—the Ninth Annual Spring Music Festival—was held last night with 1,200 participants from all parts of the province included on the program.

Raiders Forced To 20,000 Feet In Welsh Blitz

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

CARDIFF, March 19 (by mail)—(CP)—Greatest coal exporting port in the world and since the war one of Britain's importing gateways to the western hemisphere, Cardiff is a natural target for German bombers.

Enemy planes first crossed the Bristol Channel to attack this South Wales city in June, 1940, and since then the presence of raiders has been signalled hundreds of times. Bombs were not always dropped, but Cardiff shares a place with other British ports in the front line of air warfare.

It was not until this year, however, that Cardiff entered the category of "blitzed" cities. Such bombing as there was last year, was on a comparatively minor scale, and damage was insignificant compared with what some other British cities suffered.

The first intense raid came in January and up to the present none has caused more casualties, although damage was less than the fire attack March 3.

Deaths from all Cardiff's bombings, however, have been fewer than one night's toll in some of the early raids on London. Lessons learned from other towns, caution and luck combined to keep the casualty list low.

"The novelty of air raids has worn off and people keep under cover," said a Royal Air Force corporal, in Cardiff through all its attacks. "At first there used to be crowds in the street watching shells burst in the sky but people aren't so curious now"

Shelters at Home

Surface shelters are conveniently spaced throughout the city, but many residents prefer to stay at home, among them Mayor Charles H. McCale who believes a shelter under the stairs as safe a place as any. To support his belief he told of a direct hit on an Anderson shelter that killed eight occupants, while the same number of people sheltering under the fairway of their home were unscathed when a bomb landed on the house.

Cardiff in many ways resembles parts of London after the first few nights of heavy bombing there. It is possible to walk for blocks without seeing more than a shattered window, and houses flattened to the ground are still a magnet for sightseers.

Such heaps of debris can be found in every district, but the nearest thing I saw to mass destruction was a street of workman's little houses, many shattered beyond repair and scores more with windows and roofs blasted open.

Superficial damage is repaired quickly for Cardiff officials try to get people back to their home as soon as possible. Services of construction companies are pooled and it is sometimes only a matter of hours before windows are boarded up and roofs patched.

Anti-Aircraft Effective

Effective anti-aircraft defence is one reason why damage has not been more extensive. Cardiff's guns, which put up a better show than any I heard in seven months in London, are credited with keeping planes well above 20,000 feet and many that ventured lower crashed into Bristol Channel, victims of deadly accurate fire.

If damage to military objectives has been slight and damage to civilian property great it is partly because of the great ground defences. Germans, Mayor McCale said, cannot find their targets from such a height, but drop bombs none the less and civilians have to pay the price.

I arrived here the evening after the fiercest fire raid any city outside London has experienced. Officials said 140 blazes started but there were no flames to guide raiders when they returned the next night. Despite the intensity of the attack, services functioned almost normally. I travelled in trains from Cardiff's two main stations, rode buses and trams, passed stores, theatres and hotels crowded with people, drank water from a tap and read newspapers by electric light in front of a lighted gas fire.

There naturally were inconveniences. A main street was roped off because of delayed action bombs but Royal Engineers were removing them, cheered by shop owners who soon got back to their premises. In other places direct hits by high explosive bombs or danger from debris falling from burned-out buildings kept streets closed, but diversion signs guided pedestrians and motorists around the areas.

The people of Cardiff stood up their ordeal with courage typical of all Britain's civilians. "I don't think the people of London or anywhere else are taking it better than we," said Mayor McCale.

E. Whitby Raid Nets Ten Fines

OSHAWA, April 19. — Pleading guilty to charges of keeping a common gaming house, Richard Williams, Toronto; Mike Zap, Toronto, and Alfred E. Fisher, East Whitby Township, were all fined $100 and costs in district police court yesterday. Seven others pleaded guilty to being "found in" and were fined $5 and costs.

The charges followed a raid on January 24, when Provincial Police smashed their way through two heavy doors into the farm house of Alfred E. Fisher, north of Thornton's Corners. Found on the premises were an alarm system, a trap for hiding dice from the police, grilled doors and boarded windows over which linen was stretched to resemble window blinds.

Inspector H. Noakes of the C.I.D. told the court that when he and four other officers reached Fisher's house a man standing outside bent down and pressed an alarm button which warned those inside. The officers had then broken two heavy doors as a grill over the glass prevented them from breaking it and reaching in to open the lock, Inspector Noakes testified. Boxes of chips, packs of playing cards, dice wrappers, poo tables, a lunch counter and a black-jack table were among the equipment found inside.

A small trap used to hide dice was found suspended in the heat register by a thin wire. Williams had admitted he was in charge, $617 was found in the possession of Zap, and Williams had been found behind a barred door upstairs, the court was told.

"Some of the clients went out through the bathroom window," the inspector remarked.

Those convicted as found-ins were George D. MacDonald, Toronto; Peter Zaplacinski, Oshawa; Frederick M. Holliday, Brooklin; Peter Chaszewski, Toronto; Russell Dean, Arthur Dean and Cyril Johnson, Oshawa.

CIO Turns Strike Threat Upon General Motors

DETROIT, April 19—(AP).—One week after settlement of their strike at the Ford Motor Company the Congress of Industrial Organizations' United Automobile Workers threatened to-day to walk out at plants of General Motors Corporation.

R. J. Thomas, union president, announced that a five-day notice of intention to strike had been filed with the Michigan Labor Mediation Board in compliance with state law, and at the same time union heads instructed locals in 61 General Motors plants throughout the country to take strike votes.

The actions came after six weeks of negotiations between the corporation, world's largest producer of motor cars, and the union over the latter's demands for amendments to an agreement governing wages and working conditions.

Expiration date of the agreement is Sunday. It automatically renews itself from year to year, however, and union officials said they believed it would be kept in effect beyond Sunday even though no settlement of differences may be reached by that time.

A strike in the 61 plants would affect an estimated 160,000 workers. Union officials omitted 13 additional plants from the strike vote notifications in order, they said, to prevent an interruption of defence production.

"In no case will any defence work be struck," a union statement said.

The 13 omitted plants, the union said, have the bulk of defence orders, an estimated $442,500,000.

Walter P. Reuther, director of the U.A.W. - C.I.O.'s General Motors Department, said that in other plants the local managements would be asked to name the men required to operate defence jobs and these would not be called out in event of a strike.

The union estimated that General Motors' defence orders, in all, aggregate $683,000,000.

Spencerville Lad Champion Orator

TORONTO, April 19 — (CP). — "Who falls if freedom stand? Who dies if England live?" So declared 13-year-old Dengil Malcolmson of Spencerville in an oratory contest at the Trustees' Section of the Ontario Educational Association on Thursday. He won the contest and a set of books. The other winner was Gordon Jacobs of Campbellford.

Each of the five contestants had to talk on "What Can I Do to Aid the Empire's War Effort?"

"I could tell you some funny stories of the things children are doing to help win the war," said Malcolmson. "A boy named Leonard Stephens, living in our School Section, peddles milk every day, carrying the bottles around in a little cart. His profit is one cent a quart. Yet, since September, he has bought nine War Savings Certificates—invested $36 from his earnings to help win the war."

Estelle Tobe of Niagara Falls was third prize winner, and said children should avoid gossip about war moves lest the enemy learn something of value. Marion Frost, St. Thomas, was fourth prize winner.

Leone Schwartz, 11, of Hepworth, youngest contestant, was fifth.

A Warning Signal!
BACKACHE
Yes, it's a fact! It's a fact that poorly made shoes, incorrectly fitted, may throw the body off balance—may throw the internal organs out of alignment—causing backache! And remember, backache is only one of the many ailments that incorrect shoes can create. Don't invite flat feet, pronation, corns, bunions, hammer toes and other foot ills. . . . See that your child is protected with shoes built for safety and comfort!

MAIN STREET TOPICS

MAY GO TO BRANTFORD

The four men convicted here of breaking and entering the C.D.S. store may be taken to Brantford to stand trial on a similar charge although no definite word has so far been received from the Brantford authorities. Burns and Nicholls are still confined in the Cobourg jail and Gallow and Bradd in the local jail. A special guard has been on watch ever since the attempted jail-break.

A BRIEF SESSION.

This morning's session of the police court was brief. One young man who pleaded guilty to having been drunk last night was fined $10 and 75 cents costs, and an Indian who was picked up on Hilliard Street asked for a week's adjournment on a similar charge. On his statement that he was busy with trapping, the accused was granted his request.

GOING TO OTTAWA

Mayor Hamilton is leaving for Ottawa Monday morning to attend the meetings of the Association of Canadian mayors.

VISITING HERE

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hopkins and daughter of Kingston were guests at the Empress last night. Captain Hopkins will be remembered by all those who were associated with him in the building of the military camp at Morrow Park last September.

SOLDIERS AND GIRLS.

The conduct of two young Lindsay girls and two soldiers from Exhibition Camp on the C.N.R. bridge over Bethune Street near Murray Street, early last evening attracted the attention of citizens nearby and police were called. The girls were sent back to Lindsay and the soldiers turned over to the camp authorities.

$300 Is Needed To Make 6th Donation

There is an old saying, "He who gives quickly, gives twice" and with the tempo of the devastation in Britain being stepped up, as it has been in the past few days, the quick response with practical and sympathetic help, will do much to alleviate the sufferings, and give strength to carry on. For the sixteenth time, the employees of the Brinton Carpet Co. have contributed to the fund, this time with $14.00. This brings their total well over the $300 mark, which is also per capita of the employees, well above the average per capita of the city at large. The Induction Motor Test of the C.G.E., which has only a few employees, comes forward with their second contribution.

D. D. Brown, manager of Bank of Toronto at Keene, sends in collections from the penny boxes in that village.

Queens Bouquet China.

The draw on the china set donated by Routley China Store will be held shortly, tickets up town may be secured at the Routley China Store this afternoon and evening.

China events in aid of the fund show the splendid co-operative spirit prevailing throughout the city, and give all a splendid chance to indulge in activities of their own preference for the benefit of the fund. Amongst these are "The Call of the Kawarthas" in the Collegiate Auditorium under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the War Service Council on Monday night; The Salute to Britain matinee at the Centre Theatre on Wednesday afternoon through the kindness of th manager, Mr. Goldstone, and St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Choir under the direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.R.C.O., are putting on a festival, in honor of St. George's Day, in the Sunday school hall on Wednesday night. In comparison, the co-operative effort far outweighs the individual effort, and a greater response in this particular would be most welcome, and no matter how small, individual subscriptions are much appreciated, and one can use a pen name if they so wish. A lady who prefers to give under the name of "In As Much" brought in her 8th contribution of $10 yesterday, and leads the way for all individual contributions.

Jimmy Paisley Receives I.O.D.E. Parcel

In a letter received by Jack Lorne, 507 George street, Jimmy D. Paisley, a Peterborough sailor, who is now with H.M.T. Andes expresing thanks for a Daughters of the Empire Christmas parcel received by him from Peterborough. Here is what he says:

"Some one in Peterborough has been very thoughtful. I received a lovely Christmas box a few days ago sent to me by the Daughters of the Empire, Peterborough branch. I got two pairs of hand-knitted socks, knitted by a Peterborough lady, two packages of cigarettes, two cakes of chocolates, two packages of gum, a lovely piece of Christmas cake and half a pound of sugar, all of which was enjoyed and appreciated by my shipmates and myself. It goes right to your heart to know that although far from home people that a fellow does not even know go out of their way to convey an expression of cheer and good wishes to him."

Paisley, like every other visitor to Britain these days, has been impressed by the courage of the people. He refers to that as follows:

"It would be pretty hard to quit now when you see how the folks here are taking the tough spots with their chins up. Talking about men having lots of courage, you have to hand it to the women and kiddies over here. Hitler couldn't beat the spirit in these people in a hundred years' war. It makes a fellow feel you just can't let them down."

Ken Soble In Person At The Centre

Ken Soble (In Person) and Doc Lindsey, both of radio fame will present the popular radio program, "Did I Say That?" on the stage of the CENTRE Theatre on Wednesday evening at 8:45 p.m. Those wishing to take part in this program, and hear their voice "on the air" the following day over CFRB, may do so by filling in the slip at any drug store and leave it at the box-office of the Centre Theatre.

Rev. W. A. Filer Is Inducted At All Saints'

His Grace, Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen, Primate of Canada, officiated at induction services Friday night in All Saints' Church here for the Rev. William A. Filer, new rector. Sanctuary of the church was filled with many visiting clergy from the surrounding district and Toronto, and the body of the church was filled with parishioners to see their minister inducted into his new parish.

Among the visiting clergy were Canon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Church; Rev. G. S. Bousfield of St. Luke's Church, and Rev. W. H. Floyd of St George's Church, all of Peterborough; Dr. W. L. Armitage of Cobourg; Rev. R. E. Lemon of Norwood; Rev. C. A. G. Spence of Apsley; Rural Dean Moore of Young's Point; Rev. Scovell of Toronto; Archdeacon Simpson of Millbrook, and Canon Douglas Paterson of Toronto.

Delivering the sermon, Archdeacon Simpson told the congregation that the presence of so many parishioners and friends was a suggestion of how wide and vital was the interest shown in the object of the service. "We have all been impressed with the consciousness of the occasion. It is not a service familiar to us," he said. "Perhaps it is better that way, because it means each time the closing of a chapter in the ministry."

"It has been 17 years since this ceremony was used in this church. On that occasion, Canon Paterson was inducted into a faithful and fruitful ministry. Many are the hearts grateful to him for the years he was your faithful pastor."

Speaking on the service itself, the Archdeacon told the congregation he hoped they did not miss its spiritual beauty. "The official installation of a clergyman consists of two main parts," he pointed out.

"They are the "institution" and "induction." "First, institution is a name given to the introduction of the clergyman into the spiritual part of his responsibility. That is a very important part of the ceremony and is made only by the chief shepherd of the flock, your Archbishop. You have witnessed the solemn declarations and oaths. Your pastor knelt before the Archbishop and was commissioned to cure souls and he has accepted this charge. He received the prayer book into his hands."

Personal Blessing

"A special personal blessing was given by the Archbishop to your pastor, who chose to lay aside the study of the world and the flesh in favor of Bible study. He has dedicated himself to a high calling. Probably one of the greatest responsibilities he will have to face is diligence—it is a great responsibility cast upon him by his own choosing. Among other things, he must set forth is the teaching of peace among the people.'

Dealing with the second part of the service, the Archdeacon said the induction ceremony was where the new incumbent is inducted into rights and properties of the church.

"This might be termed the physical part of the service, while the institution part was spiritual," he pointed out. "The people play a part in this ceremony as was evidenced when two church wardens presented your pastor with the keys of the church. This act was a proclamation of a voluntary agreement between the parishioners and their pastor. Your leader to-night is the leader of your holy choice."

"The parochial system now in use dates back for many centuries. It is a principle carried down to the present day. The induction which you have seen here is symbolic of things which do not change. A pastor has always been at the head of his flock."

"I urge the loyal co-operation and support of you people toward your new minister. This is essential. If he is to have the leadership effective to produce results, he must have your loyalty. Your pastor has a record of loyalty to his people and Archbishop. He has been a faithful dispenser of the Gospel since his ordination. A tremendous responsibility rests upon him and you. After he has been here for a time, don't talk unfavorably about him—pray for him," the speaker concluded.

Three Generations Of Tears In War-Torn Greece

Three generations of Greek peasants sit amid the ruins of their home after Nazi bombs had crashed it to bits. The youngest, terrified, is whimpering in his mother's arms. The grandmother sobs broken-heartedly. This picture is only one new epitome of the impact of war on civilians. The men suffer in the battlefields and the women and children at home in the Nazi type of all-out war against the people of the enemy country.

Replica Of Mace Is Given Kiwanis

Rotarian Dr. John A. Bannister, guest speaker at Kiwanis luncheon Friday, presented to the club a replica of the royal mace, a splendid sample of his own handicraft. It is made of walnut and Osage orangewood, and was turned out on his own lathe by Dr. Bannister. The head of his copy of the mace which represents the symbol of authority in the British and Canadian Houses of Parliament is inset with white bone and Kiwanis letter "K" in blue. One of the most striking details of Dr. Bannister's ingenuity is the fact that inlay was made by himself out of a soup bone.

The gift to Kiwanis was received by John M. Troke, who expressed the club's appreciation and also his own compliment of the fine work done by Dr. Bannister.

Five Boys Greatly Enjoy Trip

Examiner Carriers from Warsaw, Madoc, Hastings and Norwood shared an exciting and enjoyable trip to Montreal and Ottawa during the Easter week, as a reward for their success in a recent circulation contest. Starting out on Monday morning on a tour of the city of Montreal they first visited the Notre Dame Cathedral, the magnificent Jacques Cartier monument and the Wax Museum. The afternoon was spent in a tour of a French language newspaper, "La Patrie," which has its own broadcasting station, CHLP. A member of the staff very considerately volunteered to take the party around, showing them the transmitting station apparatus, the art department and the printing plant. In the afternoon the boys were taken across the Jacques Cartier bridge to St. Hubert airport, arriving in time to see Trans-Canada planes from Vancouver land and the plane for Boston take off, besides the manouvering of scores of Canada's bombing and training aircraft. The evening was taken up with a grand show at His Majesty's Theatre, where they were entertained by "Dante" the world famous magician and illusionist.

Going on to Ottawa on Tuesday morning they made a conducted tour of the Parliament Buildings, the Senate Chamber, the 295-foot Victory Memorial Tower, the carillon of 53 bells, the Hall of Fame and the Parliament Library, the Memorial Chamber and the Altar of Sacrifice. The boys who won this trip were: George Payne, Warsaw; Tim Coughlan, Hastings; Don Kumpf, Hastings; Vernon Haddlesey, Norwood; Thorlo Ellis, Madoc.

Customs Of Early Settlers Are Reflected In Records Of Courts

Customs of the early settlers of Ontario as reflected in records of the first courts of law known as Quarter Sessions of the Peace were recalled by Dr. John A. Bannister, principal of the Normal School, as guest speaker at Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Empress Friday.

Days of the stocks and the public whipping post in the districts of London and York (Toronto), and the common mode of life, were typical of other areas in pioneer times of this province, and in his recounting of old ways and attitudes and social values of a century and a half ago, Dr. Bannister touched his interesting narrative with glints of dry humor that kept his audience in frequent chuckles of appreciation.

The first Commission of the Peace for London (Ontario) District, issued in 1800, named eight local residents as Justices. None had any legal training or experience. Yet they were able to carry on the business of an extensive district, to preside over its Courts and to mete out justice in a crude but effectual manner.

Met In Farm House

"The first meeting of the London District Court was held in a farm house, as there was no accommodation elsewhere, and one can picture to himself the Chairman, or presiding Justice, and his associate Justices with high boots and suits of homespun, seated upon the judicial bench, with little of the pomp and circumstance, but with all the solemn dignity of the modern court room," Dr. Bannister said, and the following are excerpts from his illuminating sketches of those times.

"Evidently men took religion seriously. The right to perform marriage was not shared by all ministers. To the Court came a minister, the founder of Presbyterianism in the District, with a petition asking that he be allowed the privilege of solemnizing marriage. His credentials were presented, and the Court appeared satisfied. However, the presiding Justice objected, and it was four years before the desired permission was grudgingly given.

The father of the founder of our free school system, a brother of the presiding Justice of the Court, was bitterly opposed to the inroads of other denominations, and when young Egerton (Ryerson) avowed himself a Methodist, he drove him from the house. To his utter disgust five of his six stalwart sons became contaminated and entered the Methodist ministry. Perhaps it is the irony of fate that the irascible old Colonel lies buried in a Methodist burying ground in the very shadow of a Methodist church.

Days of Cheap Whiskey

The sale of intoxicants was no sooner authorized by the Legislature than infringements of the law began to appear. The Court looked upon the sale of spiritous liquors as a serious offence. There were also distillers who were licensed to manufacture but were not permitted to sell at retail. These could not always resist the temptation to add to their profits by dispensing their product in pints and quarts to thirsty visitors to their plant. There is no means of knowing at what price the fiery product of the distillers art was selling, but some thirty years later two shillings a gallon was the regular price. Apparently the seriousness of the offence of sale without proper license lay not in the sale itself, but in the fact that it interfered with the very meagre revenues, for, then as now, the Government's income was supposed to more than make up for all the evils of drunkenness and the sufferings and privations of those affected.

The Whipping Post

At one of the early sessions of the Court it was decided to erect movable stocks and a whipping post at the expense of the District. This is one of the relics of a bygone day from which we have now freed ourselves, though it is not all certain that exposure in a public place with feet fast in the stocks, and with all the attendant ridicule of onlookers might not be an effective remedy today for certain offences and with some classes of wrong-doers."

Fines for public profanity was one shilling an oath, and Sabbath

CHECKS GIRLS' HONESTY

Young Francis G. Gilbert told the court in Manchester, England, that he was "professional shopper employed by a detective agency for the purpose of checking purchases at large stores" and added that he also checked the honesty of sales girls.

Cheese Board To Meet May 1

Three weeks earlier than usual, the Campbellford Cheese Board is holding its first meeting of the 1941 setason on Thursday, May 1, George A. Elliott, president of the board, told the Examiner this morning.

"We expect the factories generally to be open by Monday, April 28, and there might be a few ahead of that date," Mr. Elliott said. "That will be at least two weeks in advance of the normal date of opening.

"The cheese-making industry can't let the grass grow under its feet, and really the way grass is growing is astonishing. The Government talked about making an earlier start than usual because we've got to produce more cheese for the British people. Providence is lending a splendid hand, so the job will have to be done, because I can't see an excuse for failing to make that 112,000,000 pounds of cheese."

From both Mr. Elliott and Frank Paterson it is estimated that the cheese factories are going to be three weeks out in front of the average of the productive seasons.

Y.M.C.A. Classes Present Annual Display

One hundred young men of the Y.M.C.A. entertained a full gallery of spectators last night with their annual "gym" display concluding the winter's indoor work. Sixty-five of the big class were juniors from around eight years up to fourteen and fifteen, and under the direction of Al Clark, physical director, they put on a smart variety show with a ten-minute basketball game between the Y.W.C.A. "Cadets" team and the Y.M.C.A. boys.

The boys, the mean things, won by four to nothing, but the girls made it interesting, and kept the crowd on its toes and hoping and also yelling for a score.

Another feature was announced as bronze modelling, statue stuff they used to call it in the circus. The group ashigned to this spectacle, Cliff McInroy, Ron Horton and "Pinky" Robinson, like figures moulded in bronze presented a series of "living statuary," such as the Discus Thrower, and joined together with a final symbolic grouping typifying "Industry." This work is exceedingly exacting in its demand of lifeless posing, and the young men in the flashes of light between preparatory "blackouts" provided an entertaining novelty.

Mr. Clarke placed the emphasis this year on recreational activities rather than on formal drills. The standard "gym" features were all splendidly done, the senior tumbling, and the work on rings and bars and so on.

The junior leaders closed the show with a fine stunt in their parallel bar pyramid. Cliff McIntory and his little daughter Marilyn provided another outstanding number in physical work that really headlined his daughter.

The weight lifters, representing a class of fifteen to twenty members, were Dave Martin, Cliff McIntory and Ron Horton.

Mr. Clarke's only disappointment, in fact the item was not listed in the program, was the suspension of the Hayes and Heffernan bounding mat work. Mr. Heffernan recently wrenched an ankle, and Mr. Hayes was hooked up with work, and the whole number for which a mat had been bought simply had to rubbed out for the time being.

1st Aid Point Helped By Peterborough Gifts

Peterboro friends of Mrs. E. N. Willyams (Beatrice Blewett), will be interested in an article which appeared in a March edition of "The Guardian," sent from England to Mrs. Mary Blewett, Reid street, by her daughter. In the article is expressed warm appreciation of the gifts sent to this former Peterboro girl by local friends and one-time schoolmates.

The occasion referred to in the article is the opening of a First Aid Point and Wardens' Post, the Congregational Church hall having been converted to serve the dual purpose. Mrs. Willyams, county vice-president for the Pydar Division of the British Red Cross Society, who formally opened it, declared: "We in St. Columb are very proud of yet another weapon we have ready, and that is our First Aid point. We know we cannot fight the enemy with it, but we can give First Aid and restore the wounded so that they may be able to fight again."

The spacious room, the newspaper article states, is equipped with beds, medical supplies and appliances for the rendering of first aid, and it has all been done by voluntary effort, some of the medical requisites and a quantity of bedding have been contributed by friends of of Mrs. Willyams in Canada through the Canadian Red Cross. In fact (and herae local folk should feel a thrill) through the generous gifts which have come from this source Mrs. Willyams has been able to supply medical requisites, sterile bandages and bedding to all the 18 First Aid points in the Pydar Division.

Referring to "the beautiful gifts from my friends in Canada, which have been sent to equip the First Aid points in my districts," Mrs. Willyams mentioned that she had been advised that a further gift of four large cases of blankets had been landed safely in this country from her Canadian friends for First Aid points.

Mrs. Willyams was presented with a bouquet by Miss Mary Perrott and thanked on the initiative of Mrs. P. C. Roskruge, Lady Commandant of the St. Columb Red Cross Detachment.

Sweets Are Treat To People Across The Water

Parcels of food, now more than ever, will be welcomed by men in service and civilians in Britain, especially those luxuries such as sugar, tea, butter and sweets of any kind. There are no complaints heard from across the water about the strict rationing; on the contrary, letters received in this country are most cheerful, telling of the happier situations, and minimizing the curtailment of foodstuffs. However, we know that although there is no dire need for certain commodities in the Old Land, a parcel from Canada containing a gift of "luxury" items would be received with much pleasure.

While we in Canada enjoy the finest foods from a bounteous store, we cannot imagine what it would be like to curtail our purchase of butter, meats, tea, etc. The people of Britain are also accustomed to the everyday neecssities of life, in abundance, but when the time came, they cheerfully accepted the restrictions. This does not mean they would not like to have more, but they are making the best of it in the traditional British manner. If we can send them something which will prove to be a real treat, that is our privilege, living in this land of plenty. If there are children in the family, tuck in an extra bar or two of chocolate. It will help in the front line of battle to know that they are remembered by friends and relatives in the Dominion.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 20

Sunday's horoscope is not a particularly promising one, since it holds portent of sudden and disrupting visitations difficult to analyze or forecast. Something in the nature of an upheaval, spading-up or precipitate or violent action may materialize. This may make unexpected inroads on the finances, call for unusual outlay of funds or perhaps involve litigation. Shun conflict and any sort of excess.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared for a year of sudden and unpredictable events, with turbulence, disruption and upheaval affecting the emotional as well as business life. It may involve ligitation, financial loss or other disagreeable and aggravating forms, but in all maintain balance, good judgment.

A child born on this day may be erratic, indulgent, temperamental, prone to extravagance and indulgences which may mean loss and sorrow. It should have early discipline by discerning parents.

For Monday, April 21

Monday's astrological forecast is a fairly fortunate one, with promise of success, advancement and preferment in employment, business and in the purely personal phases of life. However, there are curious, intriguing and even sinister aspects of an insidious and obscure nature which might lead to loss, litigation and other undesirable entanglements.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a rather successful and prosperous year, with promotion, honors, preferments in both business and private life. Curious situations and intrigues may lure to loss, litigation or dangers, but the judgment being sane may avert such peculiar entanglements. Public or community associations are not encouraged.

A child born on this day should have a gentle, compassionate and amiable nature unless aroused to resentments by annoyance or peculiar and insidious assaults.

Customs

breaking is mentioned in the records as a misdemeanor incurring a fine equal to that which was levied for indulging in several old-fashioned oaths, Dr. Bannister related.

"On one occasion a miller, bearing the name of Mordecai, was found, guilty of taking more than the legal toll of one-twelfth. His accusers and the jury before which he was tried were not millers, but producers of wheat, and therefore presumably in need of protection from the greedy profiteer. He was fined £10. Nothing daunted, Mordecai petitioned the Court for recommendation for a tavern license, but was refused, though three other applications on the same day were granted. Six months later the fine was still unpaid, and the Court had recourse to an "execution" which brought prompt payment.

Assault and Battery

The charge of assault and battery was a frequent one. A writer discussing this phase of pioneer life, says: "It was rough work they had to do, and none but rough-and-ready men were qualified to do it. They were of necessity muscular, and they indulged freely in cheap whiskey. They were conscientious, but they were also rough and impulsive, and when they ran up against each other it was a word and a blow. They had no time or inclination for wordy disputations, and they had no respect for the coward or for the man whose word was not as good as his bond.

In our day suits are instituted mostly for the enforcing of property rights, for values due, arising from broken promises and violated contracts. We rush into court with disputed accounts without any compunction of conscience; and we sue and permit ourselves to be sued for sums withheld and for damage arising from broken faith, and we have come to look upon cupidity and double-dealing with indifference, but to be dragged before the bar of justice on a charge of assault and battery would be considered by us as very damaging to character.

It was not so in our Grandfathers' days. Their code of honor was quite different from ours. They branded the man who wilfully broke his word or violated his pledge for personal gain or through malice, with the mark of Cain, but the man who was convicted of the crime of assault and battery did not lose caste in the social circle, provided he proved himself capable of taking care of himself, and paid his fine like a man.

Lashes for Stealing

In petty larceny cases the usual punishment was a fine, but there one record where the culprit was ordered "to receive twenty lashes upon his bare back, well laid on."

The sentence was immediately carried out, and this is one instance where the whipping post proved its usefulness. This device was by no means popular, and one of the settlers showed his dislike by throwing down the stocks. An indignant sentenced him to be set in the stocks for one half hour. This was surely a case of "poetic justice."

Members of Parliament received ten shillings, or $1.25 a day. In 1606 the Member received £19 10s, or $46.75. For this a special addition was made to the tax rate, amounting to one-fifth of the regular levy, which was ordinarily one penny in the pound, or slightly more than four mills. In one recorded instance the tax on 150 acres of land amounted to two shillings three pence, or 28 cents. Those must have been happy days. The tax rate on a piece of property which I am unfortunate enough to own is over 66 mills. The property is for sale.

In spite of all this, there were still paupers to be cared for or buried. A coffin cost two shillings and four pence or 29 cents, in one case; digging the grave cost twelve pence. However the authorities were really generous in the matter of a winding sheet, and actually spent four dollars upon it.

Glimpses of York

The Home District centered around the town of York, but included everything from the county of Hastings on the east to the Niagara District on the west, and northward as far as Georgian Bay.

In 1801 it is recorded "The Court are of the opinion that six persons are sufficient number for keeping tavern in the town of York (Toronto) for the ensuing year."

The "Drink Problem"

In 1602 the Grand Jury made the following presentment to Court: "That it is proper to direct the wardens appointed for the town of York to visit the several keepers of houses of public entertainment and represent to them the indecency and impropriety of allowing people to drink intoxicating liquors and be guilty of disorderly behavior during the hours of Divine Service, and generally on the Sabbath days."

Another recommendation proposed that the butchers of York should be obliged to bury the garbage and useless offal of their slaughtered cattle, remove from the town or otherwise dispose of the same so that it cease to be what it now is, a public nuisance.

It is well known that the extreme penalty of the law, although not within the jurisdiction of the Courts of Quater Sessions, was inflicted on persons guilty of theft. Two men confined in the jail of London District were brought to the scaffold, had the noose about their necks, and were saved from execution by the protracted prayer of the Minister attending them.

The Sheriff would not interrupt the prayer, and the Minister continued until a messenger who had been dispatched from York, and whose return was expected every moment, dashed up on a horse covered with foam, and produced a reprieve. Before its expiration the sentence was commuted."

"We have travelled far since 1800. Few of us would care to exchange present conditions for those under which the pioneers lived. Yet, I sometimes wonder, with all our progress, whether we are any better, any happier or any more contented than they."

What Terrific Aerial Attack Did To Britain's Capital City

This cablephoto from London shows only a part of the devastation wrought by German aerial bombers in a terrific eight-hour raid of the British capital. It was the greatest massed Nazi air attack of the war. U.S. Ambassador John G. Winant narrowly escaped death when a high explosive bomb fell near where he stood speaking to residents in the west end, hard hit by the bombing.

RN and RAF Bag 37 Axis Ships In Past 16 Days

LONDON, April 19 —(CP).—The brusque manner in which a squadron of the Mediterranean fleet "annihilated" an Italian convoy of five supply ships and three destroyers that were intended to protect them pointed up today the joint campaign of the Navy and Royal Air Force which since April 1 has sunk or seriously damaged at least 37 Axis ships.

These 37 craft included eight destroyers of Italy's dwindling navy, all sunk, mostly by British action but two by scuttling when capture appeared imminent. Twenty craft were sunk or damaged in the Mediterranean, Adriatic and Red seas and may be presumed to be Italian; 17 were sunk or damaged in the North Sea and nearby waters or the harbors of Germany, The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway and France, and presumably are German.

Throughout the list can be seen the concerted effort of British seamen and airmen to disrupt enemy communications, disorganize their supply lines and prevent troop reinforcement. The successful convoy attack this week, and the repeated damaging raids on shipping in Tripoli are a part of Britain's answer to the Nazi-Fascist attempt to threatend Egypt by way of Libya.

How The Toll Went

Here is the count, from British communiques, of ships sunk or damaged, the dates given being those on which the communiques were issued:

April 16—Destroyer Luca Tarigo, 1,628 tons; two smaller destroyers; two 5,000-ton supply ships, carrying motor transport; one ammunition ship, 4,000 tons; two ships of 3,000 tons each, probably transports, All sunk by the Royal Navy between Sicily and Tripoli.

—Merchant ship of 6,000 tons and ammunition ship of 7,000 tons, blown up by R.A.F. in Valona Harbor, Albania.

—Two heavily-laden coastal vessels left sinking by aerial bomb hits off northwest coast of France; freighter off island of Borkum hit twice amidships, all by R.A.F.

April 15—Submarine Tigris torpedoed and sank 10,000-ton tanker en route to German-occupied French port.

—Vessel in Tripoli habor burning fiercely after R.A.F. bombing.

—Supply ship of about 4,000 tons hit and left with clouds of steam escaping in R.A.F. raid on Netherlands coast convoy.

April 14—Large vessels at Tripoli seeen burning fiercely after R.A.F. attack.

—Supply ship of about 1,500 tons hit by two bombs off Netherlands coast; when last seen was well down by the stern.

April 13—Supply ships alongside jetty at Zouteland, Germany, bombed and hit; two supply ships near Fecamp, France, bombed and machine-gunned.

April 12—Direct hits obtained by R.A.F. on patrol vessel in North Sea; supply ship off Norway bombed and left sinking, abandoned by crew.

April 10—One ship in Massaua harbor, Eritrea, hit by R.A.F. bomb.

April 9—British submarine in Central Mediterannean torpedoed ship of about 12,000 tons and one of 6,000 tons.

April 7—German destroyer torpedoed by coastal command aircraft off coast of France, believed to have sunk; another destroyer damaged by bow bomb hit.

April 4—Five Italian destroyers sunk in Red Sea; Leone, Nazario-Sauro and Daniele Manin by naval aircraft; Pantera and Tigre by scuttling.

April 2—Merchant ship off coast of Denmark torpedoed by naval aircraft.

April 1—Two tankers set afire by R.A.F. off Le Havre, France, and left sinking; destroyer off Freisian Islands hit twice and came to standstill, listing heavily.

Seamen's Union Pickets 9 Ships

TORONTO, April 19 (CP).—Canadian Seamen's Union strikers today were picketing nine vessels in three Great Lakes ports as a result of walkouts yesterday in support of a strike called against five lakes shipping companies who have refused to sign agreements as recommended by a government-authorized conciliation board last January.

Dewar Ferguson, acting president of the union, said last night that crews of five keystone transportation company vessels had left the boats at Kingston, while other crews at Collingwood and Port Dalhousie struck in support of the C.S.U. He said men had left the Colonial Steamships' vessels Berryton and Starwell, at Collingwood, and the St. Lawrence Steamship Company's Cheyenne at Port Dalhousie.

Other companies against which the C.S.U. called a strike several days ago are the Valley Camp Coal Company and the Gulf and Lake Navigation Company. The Valley Camp's collier Valley Camp was said to have been picketed in Prescott yetserday, when Prescott police said six crew members were forced to leave by men who boarded the ship. The police report said all but one returned. In Ferguson's statement last night he said three had returned, three had not.

About 40 ships and 700 men were said to be affected in the strike against the five companies.

Havelock Road Is Impassable

HASTINGS, April 19—(ENS). —Roads are now in a very bad condition, and are heaving due to the frost. The highway from Campbellford to Havelock is impassable and motorists have to make the long trip via Hastings.

A rapid growth is noticed in the clover and pasture fields and the fall grains appear to have wintered well. Although there have been no floods this spring, the water has seeped into the ground and wells are filled to the top.

Sponsoring a Bingo

The Hastings Red Cross in order to raise funds for war work is sponsoring their third bingo in the town hall on Friday evening, April 25.

Beaverbrook Plugs On

LONDON, April 19 (CP Cable).—Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production, is "suffering considerable pain and inconvenience" as a result of two eye operations but is still on the job, it was learned today. The latest operation was performed April 11, a month after the original.

More than forty aviation clubs have been organized in Brazil in the last year.

VITAL STATISTICS.

Since this is the year in which the Canadian Government has decennial stocktaking in the taking of the census, it should be timely to give a little of the history and purpose of census taking. All studies in vital statistics are studies of attributes of a given population. The information compiled is the result of census taking as obtained by means of the census. Census taking dates from the dawn of civilization. Moses numbered the children of Israel in the 15th century B.C. Census taking was originally the means of numbering the fighting men of a nation.

The credit of being among the very first to take a census as it is known in modern times belongs to Canada. The census was that of the colony of New France in 1666. A Dominion census was first taken in 1871. The modern census is described as the greatest single peace time activity in which governments engage both in the extent of its organization and the important part its results play in the general administration of public affairs. The legal reason for the Canadian census is to determine the representation in the Federal House of Parliament. In addition to this, however, the census provides the Government with information regarding each and every individual in the country and forms the background for almost all other facts relating to the country. Birth and death rates, criminology, production, trade and wealth can only be obtained through the medium of population statistics. By comparing our own figures with those of other countries we are able to see ourselves as others see us. The censuses of the various Dominions are taken in the same year and within a few weeks of each other.

The difference between census figures and local estimates of population has caused a great deal of comment. Some of the reasons for this difference are that city directories omit the names of wives and children; assessment rolls include many duplications since some people own property in more than one part of the community; voters' lists are an uncertain estimate since the basis of inclusion is subject to change, and changes in the wards of the city will alter the total number.

Now, of course, the question arises of what use is this to the Health Department? First of all, it gives us a measure of the density of population and the amount of crowding in certain districts. This is important because disease spreads more rapidly in crowded districts and provides us with a larger share of public health work than do more sparsely populated areas. We are able to obtain a knowledge of the ages and occupations of the inhabitants and to gauge from these what parts of our program require special emphasis to meet the needs of the particular community or group of people in the community. It also assists us in estimating the value of such measures as are taken to promote the health of the people and to prevent disease. As an adjunct of census taking, the reporting and compilation of such things as births, deaths and marriages, the infectious diseases and other illnesses as well as accidents, form the basis upon which the work of health departments is laid. We must confess that a great many inaccuracies occur, due largely to carelessness and ignorance of the requirements of the law. Registration of births is important due to the individual and to the state in determining parentage, heredity, legal inheritance, citizenship, and in establishing proof of age. For instance, many people have been unable to secure old-age pensions because their births had not been registered. Complete birth registration is also necessary for the accurate study of infant mortality. It is one of the essential foundations of an infant welfare program.

Records of deaths and their causes are important to health departments for the determination of death rates, rates of natural increase, duration of life, as well as for an estimation of the comparative healthfulness of communities or for the same community over a period of years. This also gives us a measure of the effectiveness of new practices in medicine and public health in reducing mortality from any disease.

So you see that we anticipate that the coming census will be of vital interest to your health department in enabling it to formulate an intelligent program of health promotion and disease prevention.

F.D.R. Doesn't Know

Washington, April 19 (CP)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT said today he did not have the faintest idea how $3,500,000,000 in taxes ought to be raised, but he indicated he did not like the idea of a sales tax.

Administration officials and congressional leaders of both parties agreed yesterday on a huge program to raise $3,500,000,000 in new revenue next fiscal year to bring United States government income up to two-thirds of expenditures.

The manner of obtaining the money and the exploration of sources, the president said, is for the determination of the house ways and means committee.

Mr. Roosevelt said he expected to make a public statement on the tax problem soon but had not decided how or when.

CANADIANS AT WAR

THE CANADIAN PRESS, Canada's national news service, covers them thoroughly whether they patrol the skies above Europe, stand ready on the Channel for invasion or fight the Battle of the Atlantic. A band of eight eager young CP men work tirelessly in embattled London, with the Canadian Corps and at sea to send Canadian newspaper readers a true picture of the glorious part the Dominion's sons are playing in this Second Great War. All Canadians, they sail with Canada's Navy on the Atlantic, live with the troops in England and keep night-long vigils at R.C.A.F. stations to write fast, accurate and intimate reports of the achievements of Canada's fighting men. Here you meet two of them.

SAM ROBERTSON,

who recently scooped the world on the torpedoing of several vessels in a convoy with which he sailed to Canada. Soon to resume his post as London Superintendent, Robertson will move to the front as a War Correspondent should Hitler attempt invasion. Thirty-five, Robertson is a veteran of 21 years newspaper work in Canada, the U.S. and England.

(CP)

The hallmark of news integrity.

ROSS MUNRO,

27-year-old CP War Correspondent, who lives with the Canadian Corps and writes daily stories on its activities, from invasion preparations to softball games. Scion of a distinguished newspaper family, Munro left his Ottawa post on a few hours notice last September to sail on a former U.S. destroyer to England and don a War Correspondent's uniform.

Besides these, The CP London staff includes six other young men who share the fortunes of the front line to bring you news of the bomb blitz, the changes war has brought in Britain's way of life, the stirring deeds of her navy, army and air force and the stories of those who have escaped death from German torpedoes.

They have been bombed in their homes, on the way to work and in their former office—later destroyed by incendiary bombs. One heard Nazi bombs thud nearby as he lay helpless in hospital. But none has been hurt; all are eager to stay in London for the duration.

Exciting Card Fortunes Keep Your Friends Agog

...s in the Surprise Cards!

What's going to happen? Is love, money, a thrill one of the surprises right around the corner? Read the cards and see!

By telling card fortunes you have grand fun and all you need to impress friends is some card meanings and a mysterious look in your eye!

Try the "Birthday Fortune" method. Is your fortune-seeker born on Aug. 15? First she shuffles the deck, cuts it and removes her name card, a red Queen if she's blue-eyed. Then you lay aside the 8th card for the 8th month and, after she shuffles again, the 15th card.

The fateful surprise cards are next, the top three after another shuffle. The Five of Diamonds means big news, the Two of Hearts a proposal, the Four of Diamonds a raise.

Or in other cards in the "Birthday Fortune" you may find an Ace of Hearts, a new house; a Nine of Clubs, a pleasure trip. But may there be none of such sad fellows as the Two of Clubs, a disappointment.

How to tell a complete "Birthday Fortune" is explained in our 32-page booklet. Gives meaning of every card in the deck; also has a horoscope for each month and shows how to read exciting fortunes with tea-leaves, dominoes, dice, the "crystal."

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of FUN WITH FORTUNE TELLING to the Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

IT KNOCKS ONLY ONCE

OPPORTUNITY does not usually pay a return visit in bridge, any more than it does in anything else. Your chance to defeat the opponents' contract—if the hand offers any kind of a close question—usually depends upon your not overlooking a solitary bet along the way, but doing the right thing at the exactly right moment. Much of bridge is like that—hinging on the time element which insists that some particular thing must be done at a particular time, not too soon, perhaps, or not too late.

When West led his heart K against this contract, opportunity banged upon Mr. East's door, but he refused to listen. He gave the high card signal of the heart 7 to urge his partner to repeat the suit, and that very moment his chance to beat the contract was gone. West naturally followed the instructions of the signal, which he reckoned was based on the fact that East had a four-card suit and counted on South to have another heart.

South gleefully ruffed the second heart and led his club K. After East took this, he led the diamond K. But it was too late. He was locking the stable after the departure of the horse. South's diamond A won that trick, and he dropped the last hostile club, then ran the spades, discarding the losing diamond on the last one.

East should have read that West had four hearts and South only a singleton. His play was to come up with the A over the K lead, then fire back his diamond K at once. That would have knocked out the diamond A. When he then won with his club A, he could have laid down the diamond Q to set the contract.

280 Ships Out

CLEVELAND, April 19—(AP).—Despite the earliness of the season, the United States ore fleet on the Great Lakes is 96 per cent. (or 200 of 291) in commission, a compilation by C. C. Lindeman, statistician for M. A. Hanna Company, showed today.

Shipping circles expected, however, that movement of ore from the upper lakes would be slowed by the slackening of coal cargoes on the northward trips, due to the work stoppage in the bituminous coal industry.

12 Boxes Sent By I.O.D.E. To Norwood Boys

NORWOOD, April 19—(ENS).—The monthly meeting of the 40th Northumberland Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Mrs. Basil Tucker with a good attendance, the Regent, Mrs. Tucker, being in the chair.

It was moved and unanimously passed that the thanks of the Chapter be extended to all non-members who by their work and gifts, support the efforts of the Chapter so wholeheartedly.

It was reported that twelve boxes had been sent to the local boys overseas containing 2 pairs of socks each and chocolate bars and other similar treats. The treasurer's report showed a very heavy outlay during the month for wool and materials for the war work. The Knitting Committee reported that besides the socks sent overseas, ten pairs of socks and four sweaters had been given to local boys who had recently joined the forces. It was decided the surplus knitting of navy and air force articles would be sent as soon as possible to headquarters.

Adopt a School.

The educational secretary reported, reading a very interesting and revealing letter on conditions as they exist in the school districts of the Bancroft area. The question of adopting a school was once again brought forward, and the regent was asked to find out all particulars concerning this at the provincial annual to be held next week.

The regent was selected a delegate from the branch to the provincial annual to be held in Hamilton from April 22 to 25.

A letter was read from headquarters regarding the Endowment Fund which it was stated had fallen a little short of the usual amount this year. After some discussion it was decided to leave the matter of the Chapter's contribution until the fall which is the usual time of sending.

A book entitled "God Good Tide" by Dr. Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., was introduced to the meeting, and the regent was instructed to find out particulars of price, etc., with a view to ordering some for the Chapter.

Arrangements were completed for the "Spring Fantasy" which a number of the children are presenting on April 30 under the direction of Mrs. Perrin Rork, Mrs. Armar Weir, Mrs. Waddell and Mrs. Carleton. The title of the play is "Peter Rabbit Helps the Children to Find Spring," and promises to be a very pretty and worth-while entertainment. The proceeds are to be devoted to the Chapter's war work.

It was also decided to have a house-to-house collection for salvage on Monday, April 28.

Meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served, Mrs. E. P. Cuffe and Mrs. de C. Cuteliffe acting as hostesses.

French-Canuck Nurses Go Over

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 19—(CP).—Charming, gay, and mighty good nurses, the first group of French-Canadian nursing sisters to come overseas is working in the newest General Hospital of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps in England.

There are seven of them—Beatrice Biron of St. Boniface, Man.; Rochel Lachance of Quebec, and Yvonne Diagle Viola Fischer, Jeanne Latur, Cecile Levesque and Rita Numainville, all of Montreal.

Sister Levesque looks on her war work overseas as a new adventure in an exciting career.

Brunette and pretty with flashing dark eyes, she was one of the original stewardesses with Trans-Canada Air Lines. She flew across the country many times and was often on the Toronto-Ottawa-Montreal route.

Then she left the service to become a nurse in Gaspe for the Quebec Government.

"That was some fun, all right," she said. "I was nurse, doctor and all, and I had to drive my own dog team."

For months she worked in the Gaspe backwoods, then went back to Montreal.

"I even took my dogs and sleigh with me for there was no place to leave them," she said.

But she added that was nothing compared with her war work.

Korizis, 56, only last Jan. 29 succeeded his close friend, Gen. Metzas, 70-year-old builder of the line of frontier defences which stopped the Italians, but finally gave way before the Nazi onrush.

Metaxas, who died of a throat infection, was said to have personally designated Korizis as his successor, and the scholarly financier was duly appointed by King George II.

Korizis, tall and lean, was not a military man but took up the work of one, assuming the portfolios of war, aviation, foreign affairs, navy and education which Metaxas had held before him.

In Metaxas' Path

"We have only to follow the road of policies traced by the late Metaxas, who died for us bodily if not spiritually," Korizis once declared. "We have him always by our side to guide us on the road to honor and duty."

Korizis was familiar with those policies as a veteran "behind-the-scenes" advisor of Metaxas.

He was born on the Island of Poros, near Salonika, studied law, but entered the banking business and rose to be president of the board of the Independent Agricultural Bank of Greece and sub-governor of the National Bank of Greece. He first came into the cabinet as Minister of Welfare when Metaxas became Premier in 1936.

Kotzias, however, is a military man. His most recent assignment was Governor of Thrace, to which he was sent to carry out the government's policies in the weeks just before the German invasion from Bulgaria. Before that he had been Military Governor of Athens, a post taken over today by Kristos Kavrakos. Kotzias first came to the Metxas Cabinet in 1937, but earlier had conducted negotiations which led to the return of King George II from exile to Britain.

The Greek Code

In a radio address after Korizis' death, he appealed to the Greek people to stand as an example to their fighting men and at the same time paid tribute to British imperial forces "fighting on our soil at the side of our troops."

The Athens news agency said King George II personally had charged Kotzias with his new duties as premier.

On the fighting front, the Greek high command said "all enemy pressure" had been repelled by the Allied defences around Mount Olympus on the eastern end of the defence line, in the central valley of the Aliakmon River and around Grevena in the central sector further west.

"On the Albanian front," the communique said, "our movements on Albanian soil were carried out calmly."

A Greek spokesman said Italians attacking the Greek rearguard in the Chimara sector of Albania "are chased every time."

(Chimara, captured by the Greeks Dec. 23, is 20 miles north of Porto Edda and six miles north of Porto Palermo which the Italian High Command claimed to have taken yesterday.)

Pressure Increasing

The Greek ministry, in a review of the fighting last night, declared:

"The situation is serious in view of increasing German reinforcements from Yugoslavia.

"The struggle continues with great violence all over Northern Greece. German pressure is increasing...So far no success has been achieved by the Germans and the battle is by no means decided...

"Greek forces are steadily resisting, inflicting exceptionally heavy losses on the enemy. Their assault has been stemmed but this does not mean the situation is not serious...

"Particularly heavy is German pressure to the south of Mount Olympus where Australians are holding out 10 German divisions that have been thrown against this point. The Germans are sacrificing men regardless of number."

Indian River Agent Honored By Friends

INDIAN RIVER, April 18.—About eighty of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Green gathered at their home Tuesday evening to bid them farewell on their departure for Smith's Falls, and to present them with an address of remembrance and a floor lamp.

Mr. Green has been C.P.R. agent here for the last eight years. The address was read by Michael Walsh expressing appreciation of the neighborliness of Mr. and Mrs. Green and also of friendly associations with them, and at the same time regretting the necessity of their leaving this community. The floor lamp was presented by Gavin Shearer and Roland Walsh.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Green spoke in reply to the good wishes of their Indian River friends. They recalled the pleasant period of their lives in their neighborhood, and said they would always remember their many friends at Indian River. They also extended a general invitation to visit them in their home at Smith's Falls.

The program included progressive euchre, the ladies' prizes being won by Mrs. Gus Torpey and Miss Edith Armstrong, and the men's prizes by Albert Elmhurst and Robert Hope. John White gave a little appropriate speech and recitation, "Scotland," and the social evening closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Chrysler's attitude was expressed by K. T. Keller, its president.

"We have been so busy with defence work that we have not had a chance to think about 1943 models," he said. "We have not got our 1942 models out yet."

Sloan said that General Motors' elimination of 1943 model plans would reduce the pressure on machine tools and plants. He said the Corporation spends from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 on an "average model change."

"This involves tooling, almost entirely," he said. "Probably 90 per cent of this capacity could be diverted to defence purposes. In terms of production, there would be involved approximately 15,000,000 man hours."

Hall's Bridge WI Hear Talks Upon Pioneers

HALL'S BRIDGE, April 19. — (ENS). — The monthly meeting of the Hall's Bridge branch of the W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Galvin Dunsford on April 9, with 14 members present and a number of visitors. The roll call was answered by each member giving some interesting event.

The treasurer and Fruit Committee then gave their reports. Since the March banquet four baskets of fruit have been sent to the sick.

Mrs. A. Bennett read a portion of the hand book and a five minute discussion followed.

The convener of Historical Research, Miss O. Wilson, was called on to give a reading about the pioneers of Lakehurst. This reading told how the first settlers in that district were British Army officers, pensioned off by the Government and given grants of land on the western shore of Sandy Lake. Around 1864 people, chiefly from Otonabee, began to come in and buy land. The first clearing was made by James Coons, who came from Murchy Township, near Trenton. Nearly every home had a spinning wheel and the women spun their own yarn to knit socks and mitts. Some of the yarn would be sent to the nearest weaver and spun into cloth from which the women made the clothing for the whole family. They worked hard and lived plainly.

Miss Marjorie Windover then favored with a number of selections on the piano-accordion. A contest was given by Mrs. H. Pearson. Mrs. E. Graham gave paper on "A Trip to Stoney Lake One Hundred Years Ago," told by Mrs. Moodie in her book "Roughing It in the Bush." A party started out at sunrise to go to Stoney Lake. They were to go as far as Mr. Young's in their own canoe, then re-embark with his sons and go in their birchbark canoes. It told about an island in Clear Lake with one blasted black ash tree where it is said an Indian girl is buried. Some say the Indian name for this lake is Bessikakoon, which means "The Indian Grave." There was a mill at Clear Lake Rapids which an old hunter had chosen for his homestead in the wilderness. It was a log building and it stood till 100 and then was torn down. When the party had arrived at this mill, the good people made them stay until they would prepare a lunch for them. Mr. Young had emigrated from the south of Ireland a few years before with a family of seven sons and two daughters. He owned this large grist mill, and people from Smith and Douro brought their wheat there.

It was past two o'clock when they sat down to a dinner of roast and boiled fish and fowl, pumpkin, raspberry, cherry and currant pies, cheese, maple syrup, preserves, and pickles, tea and coffee— it was a grand feast.

After dinner they got into birchbark canoes and started through Clear Lake, then went through to Stoney Lake, where they saw so many islands. They were told that some had tried to count the islands, and had got up to 140 and then quit. It was two o'clock in the morning when they arrived back at their own landing after a grand trip.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Miss Windover played soft music while the hostess and her helpers prepared a very dainty lunch.

U.S. Calls 500,000 Raid Spotters

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP)—The United States army called today for a half million civilian volunteers to man an air raid spotting system, capping a series of swift defence moves which reflected the grave attitude of government officials toward the mounting war crisis abroad.

Women as well as men were expected to be enrolled in the air raid precaution network which Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, called "real preparedness for a possible emergency." Housewives of New England and New York worked side by side with male volunteers when a test of such a spotting service was made last January.

Lt.-Gen. Dewes C. Emmons, commander of the army's general headquarters air office, will have charge of the program, aided by officers who have checked the operations of the British Air Raids Precaution Service under war conditions.

Four ships were turned over in another defence move, to the raid-beset British Merchant Marine. They were the first dispatched under the Lease-Lend Bill. The S.S. Robin Doncaster already has been delivered to Britain at Baltimore; the S.S. Almeria Lykes, S.S. Exemplar and S.S. Nightingale were reported in process of delivery. Manned entirely by British officers and men, they sail under the red ensign.

Reports On Number Dead, Differ In Prisoner Chase

PENINSULA, Ont., April 21—(CP)—A report came back from the bush to this railway point early this afternoon that the last six of the 28 Germans who escaped from their internment camp Friday night had been cornered 10 miles from here.

The prisoners were reported to be divided in two parties of three each.

"It's just a matter of time now," said one of the guards here.

Four Men Shot

PENINSULA, Ont., April 21.—(CP)—Major C. B. Lindsey, guard commander and acting camp commandant of internment camp from which 28 German prisoners-of-war escaped Friday night, confirmed today that all but six had been accounted for.

Major Lindsey said two men had died of gunshot wounds suffered during their capture, another was in grave condition from gunshot wounds and a fourth was in serious condition.

(At Toronto, Attorney-General Conant said he had received word from Provincial Police Inspector W. G. Ingram at Heron Bay that four of the prisoner are dead. Mr. Conant gave this information after a conference with police and law officers called to determine Ontario's jurisdiction in the escape and the shooting of the prisoners.

Major Lindsey said 11 of the 28 who broke from the camp were captured Saturday, eight Sunday and three this morning. The capture of the three today gave him hope that the camp guards and police would "recapture everyone."

Army Minister Percy Spender likewise criticized the attention given to sport.

Referring to war costs, the acting prime minister spoke of the possibility of compulsory subscriptions if the £35,000,000 ($124,250,000) war loan is not completely taken up.

Cologne Blazes, Brest, Dunkirk Feel RAF Might

LONDON, April 21—(CP)—Bombers of the Royal Air Force started large fires in Cologne last night, the Air Ministry said today. The R.A.F. also raided Dusseldorf and Brest docks, on the German-occupied French coast.

Oil stores at Rotterdam and the docks at Dunkirk and Ostend also were bombed, the Ministry said.

A heavily laden ship of 3,000 tons was hit and left sinking off the coast of Norway and other shipping was attacked off the Netherlands coast and other aircraft bombed the airdrome near Caen.

Although vilibility was poor, the Air Ministry said, bursts were observed on the quays and near the drydock at Brest, and large fires were started at Cologne.

(The Germans admitted the R.A.F. had raided Western Germany but claimed that only "slight" damage was done to residential sections.)

Siren shrieked an alert in London at mid-morning today but the all-clear signal sounded after 30 minutes and no incidents were reported.

In the only activity over Britain yesterday, some bombs fell in east and southwest England during the night, the government said, and two Scottish towns were strafed during the day. A three-year-old boy was reported killed by machine-gun bullets in one Scotch town.

During the day, the R.A.F. struck at German shipping in the Channel and at Brest and other points on the German-held French coast. A 5,000-ton Axis ship was reported sunk and an 8,000-tonner damaged. One Nazi plane was reported destroyed and the Admiralty reported today that two others had been shot down by the mine sweeper Bassett yesterday.

Vichy Warships Grab Craft Off Gibraltar Run It To Morocco

VICHY, April 21 (AP)—Reports reaching Vichy today from the German-occupied zone of France said French warships had "recaptured" the 4,279-ton French freighter Fort de France from Britain off Gibraltar and brought her to Casablanca, French Morocco, a week ago today.

(No comment was available from British sources.)

According to a report, printed in a Paris newspaper, the ship had been stopped by a British warship which headed her for Gibraltar. French warships were said to have intercepted the Fort de France and forced a British prize crew to change course to the Moroccan port. This account said the freighter carried supplies for France's civilian population.

The Fort de France, used in trade between France and the West Indies before the war, came to the port of New York after the war began and finally was held there under a Federal writ of attachment pending libel action for $145,000 damages.

French Line officials paid the libel and litigation charges, releasing the ship, which sailed last December 17 for Martinique, French colony in the West Indies.

Mastery Of Air 1st Hun Aim In Days Of 1940

By H. M. PETERS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 21.—(CP).— The German war machine had as its avowed objective a quick decision in the war by autumn or early winter of 1940 and to achieve this an invasion of Britain was evidently thought to be essential, declares "The Battle of Britain," a booklet issued by the British government describing the mass German air attacks which were beaten off last August, September and October.

Preparations to launch the invasion were pushed forward "with great energy and determination throughout the last days of June, the month of July and the first week of August," the period immediately following the collapse of France and the evacuation from Dunkirk by the British expeditionary force.

"By August 8 the enemy felt himself ready to begin the opening phase, on the success of which his plan depended," relates the booklet.

"Before the German army could land it was necessary to destroy our coastal convoys to sink or immobilize such units of the Royal Navy as would dispute its passage, and above all to drive the Royal Air Force from the sky. He (the en-

Tobruk, Salum Stand Allow Wavell To Bring Up Aid

LONDON, April 21 (CP)—Successful British resistance to Axis counter-attacks in the Libyan-Egyptian desert is gaining valuable time needed by Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell to rush reinforcements from other fronts, military quarters said today.

The beleaguered British garrison at Tobruk, Libya, still is holding out.

In the Salum area, just inside the Egyptian border, British mobile columns harassing Axis forces "again caused the enemy serious losse. (The Germans claimed they took Salum last week.)

Meanwhile, cautious references began appearing in London as to the possibility of a Panzer force raid on Siwa Oasis, which is 200 miles due south of Salum and which served as the base for an unsuccessful German attempt to attack the Nile valley and the Sudan in 1915.

British said it is a glittering enough prospect to tempt the Nazis to defy seasonable sandstorms and treacherous desert conditions, for Siwa is but 250 miles west of the Bahariya Oasis, from which roads and trails radiate to Cairo and other points down the Nile valley to Asyut, where a dam supplies Middle Egypt with water.

Britons also kept a close eye on developments at the two ends of the Mediterranean — the British landing in Iraq and a two-day Spanish cabinet meeting which the British press generally viewed with suspicion as possibly having a bearing on the fate of Gibraltar.

THE WAR TO-DAY

By GUY RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Retreat of the British and Imperial Forces across the Thessaly Plain, together with a corresponding Greek withdrawal in the western sector, was completed today, leaving the Allied armies holding a front perhaps only half as broad as the abandoned line running west from Mount Olympus.

The new front presumably stretches from the Pass of Thermopolae to the Gulf of Corinth, in mountainous territory which was a traditional barrier defending ancient Attica from invasion. In numbers as against those of the Germans the Allies today are in proportion to the small band of Leonidas who made the historic stand against the Persians at Thermopolae in 480 B.C.

How durable these old natural barriers may be against the mechanized forces of today the next few days will make known. The Allied forces, worn after 10 days of the hardest fighting against the superior numbers of the enemy, are called upon to turn back the fresh troops the Germans are able to send up from their great reservoir of manpower moving down through Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

London newspapers conceded that Britain may be compelled to give up the unequal battle to hold Greece and continue on other fields the Mediterranean struggle. But with one accord British newspapers said the fight in Greece has been worthwhile and that the soldiers from the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand have covered themselves with new glory.

Britain at the same time prepared for the next blow on Hitler's springtime program. The Axis offensive along the

Buying US Goods With Goods Boon To Canada

OTTAWA, April 21 —(CP)—Officials responsible for munitions production in Canada hailed with satisfaction the arrangement reached by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt for the joint utilization of the resources of Canada and the United States in the production of war materials.

"This is a very important development and the prime minister deserves a great deal of credit for working it out," said Munitions Minister Howe today.

The effect of the joint announcement made last night by Mr. King and Mr. Roosevelt after their meeting at Hyde Park is that Canada will pay for the parts and materials required from the United States with goods instead of money, said Mr. Howe.

While full details of the program for exchanging war materials have not been worked out there is a wide range of supplies and manufactured articles which Canada can advantageously supply to the United States.

Some of them come from new factories established here since the start of the war, Mr. Howe said.

The items include aluminum, small ships, chemicals, zinc and possibly other metals and gun barrels.

Making Gun Barrels.

Canadian factories are already in production of anti-aircraft gun barrels and production is starting or will start soon on barrels for field guns.

In shipbuilding it is expected Canadian shipyards will go ahead on small vessels of the corvette type as well as minesweepers and patrol vessels. They are already equipped for this work and during the past

Air Assaults Resemble Battle Of Britain With 16 Nazis Downed Sunday 14 Of Them In Great Dogfight Above Athens

ATHENS, April 21—(AP).—The British withdrawal to new positions in Greece has been nearly completed despite terrific assaults by the German Air Force, and the Germans are advancing "very cautiously," an army communique said today.

Brtiish casualties in the retreat from the Mount Olympus line were described as light. Nazi caution in following up the withdrawal was said to be partly due to bad roads, "but largely because of the rough handling he (the enemy) had received."

ATHENS, April 21—(AP).—Air war in the style of the 1940 daylight battle of Britain surged over Athens as British and Greeks, allies in a desperate struggle on the plains and mountains of Thessaly, withdrew to new, undisclosed positions in the face of the German advance.

The British command announced today that 16 German planes were shot down on Sunday—14 of them over this seat of ancient democracy in a single battle with a "very large formation" of Nazi dive bombers and fighters.

Many others of the raiders were crippled. Seven Allied fighter planes and four pilots were lost. Seven of the German planes downed were JU-88 dive bombers.

The British forces took their new positions after the Nazis penetrated a Greek-held pass at Grevena in the centre of the Mount Olympus line Friday.

The retirement was said to be in conformity with the "movement of the Greek army" on the left.

Australians and New Zealanders fought a "brilliantly conducted" covering manoeuvre, exacting immense losses among the Germans.

The Germans have taken Kardhitsa, 40 miles north of Lamia, after passing Trikkala.

The Greeks said they also had withdrawn as a result of a defeat on the right of their line, but said they were holding their new positions and had stemmed the Italian attacks on the northwest.

Meanwhile, Emmanuel Tsouderos was named Premier to head the new Cabinet announced Sunday, formed as a result of the suicide last Friday of Premier Alexandros Korizis.

Fight To The End.

The new government was announced as the Greeks acknowledge that the German drive had forced an Allied withdrawal and King George called upon the nation to fight "to the very end."

Tsouderos had been named Minister of Foreign Affairs and Finance in the Cabinet formed yesterday by Admiral Alexander Sakellariou as Vice-Premier and the King in the dual role of monarch and Premier.

Rome Says Aosta Will Fight, Snubs Surrender

ROME, April 21 — (AP). — The Italians claimed today that the Duke d'Aosta, Italian Commander in East Africa, rejected a British demand for unconditional surrender of his forces in order to ensure protection of the Italian population in East Africa.

They said Lt.-Gen. Alan Cuningham, the British Commander, sent the Italian Viceroy a message declaring he could not assume responsibility for protection or succor of Italian located outside the zone occupied by British troops unless the Italian forces laid down their arms.

"Consequences can only be avoided with complete and unconditional surrender of the whole Italian forces," Gen. Cunningham wrote the Duke.

Reporters Get Story At Scene Of Hun Break Despite Detention

WINNIPEG, April 21. —(CP)—Newspapermen moving into the area where 28 Germans escaped from a Northwestern Ontario internment camp Friday night "were promtly placed under temporary arrest and their cameras temporarily confiscated," the Winnipeg Free Press says today in a dispatch from the internment-camp district.

"Later following an interview with Major C. B. Lindsey, commander of the guard and temporary camp commandant, the cameras were returned, the reporters released and escorted to the train," the story says.

The Free Press story reported two prisoners were shot dead and another two wounded Sunday morning within a radius of 3½ miles from the camp "when, together with a fifth, they were ambushed by heavily-armed soldiers. The fifth came out with his hands high in the air, thereby avoiding the fate of his companions."

The story says the dead are a German airman and a member of a German submarine crew. It added that authorities at Ottawa rushed a surgeon to the camp after learning of the shooting to remove a bullet from one of the prisoner's lungs but "there was little hope of saving his life, camp officials said."

"A brief outline of the daring break was given newsmen by Major Lindsay. Friday evening, as is the nightly custom, the men were counted and all were found to be present, he explained. At 11 o'clock the same night, however, a guard heard a suspicious noise. He called to a companion and the pair investigated. What they discovered caused a fast checkup and 28 of the prisoners were found missing.

"He declined to state exactly how the prisoners escaped but paid tribute to the speed with which the guards worked.

"'We were very fortunate in discovering the escape so quickly,'" he said. 'We were right on them before they had a chance to get very far.'"

6-Way Pact in East to Bar Japs

Tokyo Reports U.S.-U.K. Defence Job—Says Reds After Iron

NEW YORK, April 21 (CP).—The New York Times, in a dispatch from Tokyo, quotes the Japanese press as saying today that Britain, the United States, China, India, Australia and the Netherlands East Indies have concluded a military and naval pact to strengthen their defences in the Far East and to oppose Japan's advance southward.

A second dispatch in the Japanese press quoted by the Times, published in Japan under a Vichy date, says that Russia is demanding the right to occupy the northern provinces of Iran (Persia) in order to protect the Baku oil fields, as well as to obtain a possible outlet on the Persian Gulf in the event of a German drive on the Dardanelles.

To back these demands Russia was said to be concentrating troops around Tiflis for "manoeuvre purposes."

(Dispatches from the Far East to the Associated Press said that all passenger traffic on the Trans-Siberian Railway had been halted by the Russians and it was assumed troop movements were under way).

The Times dispatch, from its Tokyo correspondent, Otto D. Tolischus, said these reports were published in the Osaka Mainichi and the Tokyo Nichi Nichi's English-language edition. These papers, he said, so far as could be ascertained, are the only ones carrying the reports in Japan so far.

As regards the military and naval pact to halt Japan's southward advance, the newspapers reported that the six powers had pooled their military and material resources in the East, including those of the Phillipines. The end in view, it was added, was protection of the communication lines linking South Africa, British India, Singapore, Hong Kong, Manila, Australia and the United States.

Under this pact, Mr. Tolischus writes, Air Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, British Far East-

Continental Basis Laid For U.S.-Canada Defence

HYDE PARK, N.Y., April 21 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt have agreed to place Canadian and American defence policies on a continental basis.

In a seven-hour conference here on Sunday between the two leaders it was decided that Canada will sell the United States between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 in defence articles in the next 12 months which not only will assist the American defence program but fortify Canada's financial position in the United States.

A statement issued after the conference in Mr. Roosevelt's Hudson River home announced that in addition to mobilizing the wartime resources of the continent jointly, the provisions of the Lend-Lease Act will be extended to munitions which Canada is producing for Britain and which involve materials purchased in the United States.

These two policies should have a profound effect on Canada's financial position in the United States and overcome the slow but steady drain on the Dominion's American dollar resources.

If Canada is able to sell the United States $200,000,000 or $300,000,000 in munitions and raw materials such as aluminum this year, it has been estimated the deficit on American dollar account in the present fiscal year will just about be covered.

The joint policy enunciated by the two leaders was regarded as vital to the war effort because it will prevent unnecessary overlapping in industrial effort and harness the industrial machines and raw materials of the two nations to a common purpose.

Whether the president and the prime minister discussed other topics such as the removal of Halifax from the combat zone established by congress and related subjects like Greenland and the battle of the Atlantic was not known.

There was little doubt here that the general policy of harnessing the immense resources of the continent to the general war effort—looking at the problem of winning the war from a continental rather than a national viewpoint — would have a profound effect in the end.

Big Aid To Canada

There also was little doubt the new policy would assist Canada materially. In the present fiscal year, Canada faces a deficit of $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 on American account because of big increases in war materials in the United States. The general policy of using Canadian factories and raw materials to help the American defence program will wipe out this deficit and place the finances of the Dominion, insofar as they relate to the United States, on a sound basis.

The extension of the lend-lease act to Canadian purchases in the United States which ultimately will go to Britain also was regarded as of vital assistance to the Dominion.

Part of Canada's financial difficulties in the United States spring from the fact that in the current fiscal year, Ottawa must finance in one way or another, most of it by government credits, $1,150,000,000 of British orders in Canada for which Britain cannot pay. Many of these materials involve transactions in the

Bush Fires Burn Path Over 8 Eastern States

NEW YORK, April 21 —(CP)— Thousands of woodland acres in eight eastern states are charred ruins today, aftermath of a devastating series of forest fires that consumed sun-dried countrysides like cordwood.

Tiny sparks became raging flames under the double spur of brisk Breezes and tinder-like trees, shrubs and grasses and devoured hundreds of homes as well as forests and farms.

A fortnight of unseasonably warm, dry weather was blamed for the seriousness of several hundred indivdual blazes that felled dozens of firefighters and resulted in at least two deaths.

Vice-Premier.

Tsouderos, in his fifties, has been active in Greek public life for more than 20 years. He is a native of the Island of Crete and began a political career with his election to parliament in 1920.

One of Greece's leading economists, he carried on negotiations with Britain in 1926 for settlement of the Greek war debt. He has held Cabinet posts previously as Minister of Finance and Communications, and more recently served as president of the Bank of Greece.

On the war front meanwhile the Greeks said that the Italians were being stemmed on the west flank of the Allied line but that elsewhere the front gave way under the weight of Nazi pressure.

Skilful Retreat

With the British Forces in Greece, April 21 (AP) — British forces are falling back generally to new positions in the face of a powerful German drive coupled with terrific air attacks.

The Germans poured into the plan of Thessaly from three directions, occupied Larisa and then continued southward.

British, Australian and New Zealand troops are effecting the withdrawal skilfully, it is said, and their losses are comparatively low. Repeated German efforts to outflank and capture the British units failed.

Karditsa, 14 miles south of Trikkala, is in German hands.

The general descent of the German divsions from the mountains came at dawn Friday after they had been held in the precipitous passes for almost two weeks.

Their first advance was through Grevena Pass, where they pushed back the Greek defenders with an overwhelming mass of troops and equipment.

The British command rushed some armored units to this region to check the advance temporarily and then, because of the danger of being outflanked, they began moving their front line units back.

They left light covering forces behind, however, and these held the Germans several days and inflicted immense casualties in violent fighting.

Anzacs Covered With Glory

MELBOURNE, April 21—(AAP). Army Minister Spender declared today in a survey of the Australian industrial position that her soldiers depend on the maximum output of essential industries, "and unless there is a more earnest realization that production cannot be held up while men are dying overseas, there is great possibility of Australian going under as a nation."

Acting Prime Minister A. W. Fadden announced that the position in Greece had further deteriorated during the past 24 hours, but the new British line was intact. He said the Australians in Greece were reported in excellent spirits, although engaged in heavy fighting. Apparently they had acquitted themselves with great distinction and their heroism and initiative were major factors in the operations in their sector, he said.

Battle Nearing Suez.

LONDON, April 21 (CP)—British observers closely followed the campaign in Greece today with much thought being given to its possible effects on the Middle East theatre of war generally.

Britain's action in sending troops to Iraq was taken as a visible indication of the official belief that the battle is nearing Suez and the Oil Fields of the Middle East.

Hitler's "real aim," it was said, is to use his armies and diplomacy, in lieu of a fleet, to win not merely the battle in the Balkans, but to trap the British Mediterranean fleet and Middle Eastern army.

Observers viewed the unfriendly tone of the Spanish press and reports of prolonged cabinet meetings in Spain as a result of Axis pressure. They said a German march to Gibraltar would not help Hitler much in his present campaign in the Eastern Mediterranean, but it might give him new ports in Spain and Africa to fight the Battle of the Atlantic.

Supporting the view that Hitler's aim is to destroy British power in the Mediterranean, qualified sources declared the loss of the battle in Greece in itself would "by no means be conclusive."

If Britain is able to hold a portion of North Africa, including her naval base at Alexandria, one source declared, "Hitler would have a devil of a time closing up Suez and Gibraltar." But he admitted the latter is "not impregnable."

In this connection observers attached significance to the increasingly steady stand the British troops are making at Tobruk and Salum in Libya and Egypt.

As a matter of fact, it is reported that at one time before Britain sent troops to Greece, London was prepared to accept German occupation of Greece and to reply on North Africa to keep the Eastern Mediterranean open.

The reason Britain finally did send troops to Greece is believed to have been explained yesterday by First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, who said the Government would have been denounced "for having failed to go to the assistance of a gallant nation."

The Evening News warned that "our troops may be compelled to break off the battle (in Greece) against hopeless odds. If evacuation comes we need have no regrets that we went to the aid of the gallant Greeks. They will have fulfilled a pledge of honor."

The Manchester Guardian declared, "We must not be caught on two fronts with half an army on each...."

"There were four phases in the battle, the first from 8th-18th August, the second from the 19th August-5th September, the third from the 6th September-5th October, the fourth from 6th-31st October.

Following Pole Campaign.

The Germans proceeded on the general plan of seizing and exploiting full mastery of the air, as they had done in the Polish campaign, in the attacks on Norway and the Low Countries and again to a large extent in France.

Under such a general plan, the Germans began their daylight aerial onslaught on Britain on August 8.

Britain's method of defence, which the Government naturally does not discuss in all its detail, was based on the "governing principle that a sufficient strength of fighters must be assembled at the required height over a given place where it can intercept the oncoming enemy raid and break it up before it can reach its objective."

The account continues:

"There is general agreement that the principle of employing standing patrols is impracticable owing to its wastefulness. To keep a sufficient strength of fighters always in the air to guard our shores from any attack would be beyond the powers of the biggest air force imaginable. The fighter force is there kept on the ground in the interests of economy of effort, and only ordered off the ground when raids appear to be imminent.

"Information regarding the approach of the enemy is obtained by a variety of methods and is co-ordinated and passed to 'operations rooms.' The coastline if Britain is divided into sectors each with its own fighter airdromes and headquarters. These sectors are grouped together under a conveniently-situated group headquarters which in turn comes under the general control of headquarters, fighter command....

"Squadrons are maintained at their sector airdromes at various 'states of preparedness.' The most relaxed state is 'released,' which means that the squadron is not required to operate until a specified hour.....Next comes 'available,' which means the squadrons must prepare to be in the air within so many minutes of receiving the order. 'Readiness' reduces this to a minimum and is the most advanced state normally used. Occasionally 'standby' is employed which means that the pilots are seated in their aircraft, with the engines off, but all pointing into wind read to start up and take off, the moment the leader gets his orders from the controller..

"The 'enemy sighted' signal, the 'tallyho,' is at once transmitted to group headquarters and recorded... The red letter day for any group was on September 27 when, in No. 11 group, 21 squadrons out of 21 ordered up were able to report 'enemy sighted'...."

North African seaboard is stalled after its rapid advance across Libya, but British officials voiced concern lest the Germans divert their armored forces from the coastal roads, where British naval gunpower can be brought into effect, to a southeasterly dash across desert trails to threaten the Nile Valley and the Sudan.

Lengthy Cabinet meetings in Spain and news that Germany has been requisitioning French shipping in large quantities also aroused fears that a storm may be developing in the Western Mediterranean. A march through Spain to lay siege to Gibraltar, a move against French North and West Africa, or an attempt to seize Portugal and her island possessions lying across Britain's trade routes from the South Atlantic are possibilities in this sphere.

In the Eastern Mediterranean the landing of a British expeditionary force from India in Iraq was regarded as good insurance against a German thrust toward the oil fields in the northern part of that country. These fields lie directly east of Turkey and the prospect of British forces there has brought expressions of satisfaction from Turkish sources.

Three Men Shot As Soldiers Comb The Bush

PENINSULA, Ont., April 21—(CP) —Weary soldiers and guards plodded the snowy wilderness of the Northwestern Ontario bush country today and watched the railroad tracks in search of the nine German war prisoners still believed at large after a mass break from Canada's most isolated internment camp.

Meagre reports reaching this station house on the railroad between Schreiber and White River indicate that 22 of the 28 non-commissioned officers of the German air force who broke out of camp Friday night are accounted for. Three were reported killed, in addition to the 19 said to have been captured.

The possibility that even more of the prisoners may have died from exposure was expressed by bushmen who trickled into the station here from their winter's work in the lumber camps along Lake Superior's north shore. These men said they cannot believe anything human can remain live in the snowly desolation of the bush country.

A prison guard advanced the theory that the German had been fooled by nature when they tunnelled their way out of camp.

Snow Blankets North

The last two weeks were sunny and Friday night was Spring-like. Then the Northern Winter took one last fling and covered the bush country with six inches of snow. A biting wind whipped it into drifts and even the guards in their sheepskin coats and woollen helmets were morning arrived at the camp today just as newsmen were leaving after an interview with Major Lindsey. The prisoners were dressed in civilian overall-type clothes and carried packs on their backs. They marched in single file with a guard in front and another behind.

On their way to the compound the Germans passed another single-file procession headed out of the camp. The second group was a search party in which were Royal Canadian Mounted Police, soldiers armed with rifles and a huge police dog straining against his leash as he sniffed the snow.

Gang Keep Diaries

He said these men had kept diaries of their 2½ days of trekking over this desolate Lake Superior northshore terrain. The diaries, he added, indicated that the men had been among the first to escape.

They were caught trying to cross a river over which there is only one bridge in this area.

Use Hideout Over Night

PENINSULA, Ont., April 21—(CP) —The capture of three escaped German prisoners of war who were found during the night with their clothes dry and showing no signs of the bitter cold raised the possibility today that those remaining at large of the 28 who tunnelled to freedom Friday night had found a hide-out.

Others captured near here during the week-end had suffered from the cold and the rain and snow-storm that swept the district. The three captured during the night were reported to have been dry and to have suffered none at all from the severe weather. Six inches of snow lie on the open ground and it is even deeper in the bush.

The search, with policemen, civilians, soldiers and Indian trappers participating, was intensified at daybreak in the area where the three Germans were captured during the night. Searchers who brought the trio in from the bush reported that tracks of two other men had been found in the snow three miles north of Peninsula.

The searchers had been unable ot follow the trail in the dark, but the marks remained clear for the patrols to pick up when the first rays of light broke over the desolate country this morning.

Reports here said that a camp guard's finding of a pail led to discovery of the tunnel through which the Germans fled to a rock cut nearby, where they are believed to have changed from their camp clothes into civilian attire.

Went Out To Hide Food.

It was believed here that the men who escaped actually were supposed to cache food, then return to the camp and prepare for a bigger escape Sunday, Hitler's 52nd birthday. It was learned at Ottawa Saturday that internment officials had planned to strengthen the guard at every camp to watch against any possible break the Germans might have planned to mark Hitler's birthday.

The 28 were said to have gone ahead with escape on their own when the guard found the pail while they were outside, then discovered the tunnel entrance near the pail He sounded the alarm and the Germans scattered into the bush

The shooting that led to the death of three of the German prisoners was said here to have been necessitated when five Germans, discovered in an abandoned cabin previously used by highway construction workers, rushed the soldiers who started a second search of the cabin, after having looked in once and found nothing wrong.

The cabin was one of a group used to house the men who had worked on the highway and when finished their inspection, the soldiers, either by chance or on a hunch, were said to have returned to the first cabin for another look. The Germans, it was reported here, apparently had crep into the cabin from nearby hiding places in the bush after watching the soldiers make their first inspection.

Balkan Outlook Darkens As Lines Retreat

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.)

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP).—The full effects of these tragic days in the Balkans on the trends of the main battle in the Atlantic are still beyond accurate appraisal.

But even a rough estimate provides a startling picture of German achievements in the last fourteen days. Some offsetting items tend to relieve British gloom, but generally speaking the balance has been heavily weighted in German favor, both militarily and politically.

These entries on the war books can be noted:

The Yugoslav army, more than 1,000,000 strong, has been liquidated.

The back door to essential Nazi-Fascist war resources of Balkan oil and food, once held vulnerable, has been closed. A German threat to British Mediterranean lifelines has been created.

Boost For Italy.

Italy has been bolstered against the chance of internal collapse; virtually all of Albania is restored to her, and all the Adriatic coastline across from Italy given into Italian hands. Russia and Turkey as possible active or even passive British helpers have been immobilized, if not worse.

The effect of the Nazi blows in the east on British morale at home cannot yet be fully gauged.

It is on that factor alone that German hopes of a complete victory in Europe within months, during this year, must hinge. There are already definite intimations of a possible German halt in the East, and a turnabout to throw the full Nazi power against Britain. Ruthless "retaliatory" Nazi bombing of London was a foretaste.

And there are intimations that a Nazi-Turkish pact of non-aggression is brewing.

Indeed, this possibility that Turkey might stand aside for an Axis thrust south—when and if the Balkan barrier falls—spurred Britain to hurry strong Imperial forces into Iraq. In that little desert State, where sixteen days ago there was a coup against the Government, are the great oil fields from which comes much fuel for Britain's Mediterranean fleet.

British return bombing of Berlin within hours after a devastating Nazi raid on London speaks of her determination to fight on to the bitter end. Nor have the Axis successes in the Balkans influenced the United States help-for-Berlin program—except to quicken it.

African Scene Brighter.

Current developments in North Africa and the Mediterranean do something to lighten the Middle Eastern war picture for British eyes. Even Berlin admits the Axis Libyan-Egyptian thrust is now on the defensive, not the attack.

British crippling of the Italian Fleet in repeated actions is another asset item. Except for the situation in Greece, shifting of British naval forces from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic, where they are desperately needed, would be possible.

In Greece, however, the British situation is grave. The collapse of Yugoslav resistance released new Nazi hordes for use on the Greek front.

A general backward movement of the whole Greek-British line is even now in progress. It will be a dangerouse withdrawal under the relentless pounding of Axis shock divisions and clouds of planes. It is nearly 100 miles from present Allied positions to the water-flanked Greek waistline from Thermopylae to the Gulf of Artes where a new stand might be made.

To reach this line, Allied troops would have to cross the wide valley lands of Central Greece which offer opportunity lacking in the mountain terrain northward for high-speed mechanized warfare.

King Assumes Dual Role As Premier

Allied Forces Move Southward In Orderly Fashion

ATHENS, April 21—(AP) —The Greeks acknowledged today that the Allied defence line has given way anew to the German drive on the east but said Italian attacks on the west were being stemmed, and King George II., in a new dual role of Monarch and Premier, called upon his forces to fight "to the very end."

Greek communique declared a new stand had been taken after the week-end withdrawal south of Mt. Olympus and said that line — its location not specified—held doggedly against violent attacks and nowhere was broken.

(The Nazis, describing the Greek campaign as entering its final phase, claimed yesterday the fighting had developed into a retreat of British and Greek forces across the plains of Thessaly south of captured Larisa toward the port of Volos, and claimed the capture of Trikkala, directly west of Larisa and 45 miles southeast of Olympus.

(The Italians countered Greek statements their attacks had been repulsed in Southern Albania, with declarations their forces had fought their way to the Greek frontier in most places despite stiff Greek rear-guard action).

Once-exiled King George stepped into a government breach caused by what was officially announod as the sui ide of Premier Alexandros Korizis last Friday. Yesterday he set up a Cabinet under Admiral Alexander Sakellariou, naval career man, as Vice-Premier. The King himself became president of the Cabinet "for the time being."

Bacon Business Looks Up Again

CHICAGO, April 21—(AP).—The hog business, rounding the bottom of a short drop in the production curve, once again is on a profitable basis. Not only is the market price favorable for a high pig birth-rate, but the Government has taken unprecedented steps to encourage production to make pork and lard for relief at home and shipment abroad.

The market pays almost nine cents a pound for a nice corn fattened hog. While this price is far below the 21 cents hog men received after the close of the First Great War, it's far better than the five cents a pound quoted a year ago and the four cents paid in the depths of the depression.

The Government has announced it intends to hold the Chicago hog price to at least nine cents through pork and lard purchases in order to stimulate production.

MIDLAND BOYS TAKE LEAD IN LANSDOWNE PARK ATHLETIC MEET

Legion Rally Is Held In Brighton

Veterans of the Great War 1914-18 and business men to the number of 135, from Trenton, Campbellford, Port Hope, Cobourg and Colborne, attended a Canadian Legion Rally in Brighton under the auspices of Brighton Branch No 100, in the Town Hall.

Presiding as toastmaster, T. Clive Thompson, proposed the toast to the King.

Called on to propose a toast to England, Rev. J. L. Hughes, rector of St. Paul's Church, Brighton, reviewed the characteristics of the people of his native land, emphasizing their patience, optimism, humor, thoroughness and Christian ideals, illustrating these attributes with many amusing anecdotes. In responding to the toast, Mr. H. N. Carr, Campbellford, M.P.P. for Northumberland, challenged Canadians to emulate the glorious example of courage and tenacity displayed by the British people. Referring to the noble example of that great American, Wendell Willkie, the speaker pleaded for unity of purpose among Canadians by forgetting partisanship.

W. A. Fraser, M.P. for Northumberland, in proposing a toast to the Canadian Legion, reminded his audience that the present war was due to the failure of democracy following the First Great War. "Freedom demands responsibility," said Mr. Fraser, reminding his listeners that hope for the future lies with the English-speaking peoples of the world. "To lose the Battle of the Atlantic," warned the speaker, "would be to isolate this continent and result in an economic war more devastating than the present struggle."

Replying to this toast, His Worship Mayor J. D. Burnett of Cobourg, Zone Commander, expressed appreciation to Messrs. Fraser and Carr for past favors, and pledged full support of the Legion to the Government in prosecution of the war.

The guest speaker, Capt. T. Magladery, Toronto, president of the Provincial Command of the Legion, also paid tribute to the parliamentary representatives, to the zone officers, and spoke appreciatively of the late Sam Nesbit. While the Legion had been organized as a peace-time organization the Commander pointed out that today it was pledged to assist in a successful prosecution of the war. Praising the example of the King and Queen, the British leaders, civilians and members of the services, Mr. Magladery predicted the triumph of liberty and justice, and exhorted Canadians to work, to sacrifice and to fight for victory.

German Fliers At Northern Ontario Internment Camp Escape

Thirty German airmen broke from a Lake Superior internment camp some miles east of Port Arthur and escaped into the bush. It was the first mass escape since Canada entered the war. The men, all prisoners of war, burrowed a tunnel under the barricade and vanished without raising an alarm. It was not until some time after the escape that guards saw the tunnel and the most desperate police and army hunt in the history of Canada at war began. At TOP LEFT is a typical Canadian internment camp. It is seen to be surrounded by wire, with guards posted. One of the first war prisoners to make a temporary escape was Lt. Werner Koche, the naval officer in the CENTRE of the group of prisoners seen, TOP CENTRE. Guards are seen searching for escapees during a smaller Northern Ontario break. BOTTOM LEFT. Joseph Houche, BOTTOM RIGHT, once escaped, but was caught at Bala.

United Church In Port Hope Marks Its 65th Anniversary

PORT HOPE, April 21—(ENS).—Baptists and Presbyterians joined with the United Church congregation Sunday night on the occasion of the latter's 65th anniversary. The Rev. R. D. Smith, B.A., B.D., Brockville, addressed large audiences at both morning and evening services.

Special music at the evening service under the direction of Mr. T. W. Stanley, organist, included Gounod's "Send Out the Light," by the choir, the solo, "The Penitent," sung by Mr. Charles Stephenson and Nevin's "At the Close of Day," by the male quartette of Messrs. G. Darling, B. Cole, A. Fulford and L. Roberts.

Basing his sermon, "Possessing Thy Faith," on the story of Nicodemus as related in the third chapter of St. John's Gospel, Mr. Smith pointed out that like Nicodemus we have inherited a wealth of religious tradition and background, but the true spiritual belief leading to the awareness of God must be attained. The church is but a means to an end, it was emphasized, which can only be attained by spiritual reawakening. Without the rebirth which Nicodemus was told he must have the institutions and religious experiences which have been inherited are without value.

There must be an appreciation of the difference between religious possessions and religious faith, Mr. Smith said, relating the parable of a man who inherited his grandfather's library, but failed to enthuse his friends with literature because he was not imbued with the spirit which his grandfather before him had. Similarly there are religious possessions but without the faith and realization accompanying them, their purpose which is to bring about the awareness of God cannot come about.

Complicated War Finance

There are three countries whose finances are being much complicated — Britain, Canada and United States. The problem is primarily that Britain and Canada are buying too much in United States, and added to that is the condition that Britain is buying much more from Canada than she is selling to us. Our trade is jug-handled with Britain at the moment to something like a billion dollars, and with United States we are off-side to the extent of about $400,000,000 a year.

That means we cannot secure enough American dollars to send back to that country to pay for the goods we are securing, and on the other hand it means that Britain cannot secure enough Canadian dollars to send to us in payment for her purchases here.

One report from Ottawa suggests that when the budget comes down it may be found provision is made for the further lowering of customs duties on British goods entering Canada, or the duties may be wiped out entirely "for the duration," and that may represent a long period. The reason would be to assist British manufacturers to sell more of their goods in Canada to offset the amount which Britain is spending for purchases from our country.

Not long ago the duty on British goods entering Canada was somewhat reduced, but apparently not enough to cause their merchandise to move readily and without restriction to our consumers.

It is remarkable that Britain is able to keep her export trade alive, and yet it is being done. There was a report only a few days ago of an exhibit of 2,000 samples arriving in New York for exhibition there. Most of it was ladies' wear, woollen goods for sports wear and so on. It was explained there was no idea of trying to dominate the style market, but it was merely a sincere effort to try and encourage the purchase of such goods as Britain is known to make to advantage.

Export trade is more important to Britain than most people conceive. Officials have stated openly that it is as important as munitions, because Britain has to export in order to buy and in order that her people may continue to live and have the money to keep armies in the field and furnish them with munitions and supplies.

It is actually an emergency situation with which Ottawa will have to deal and it is going to cause no surprise if the tariff barrier on British goods entering Canada is extensively reduced. In fact there are those who predict that it would be entirely right for Canada to remove duties entirely for the duration of the war.

Our monetary relationship with United States is becoming increasingly a strain on our finances. Raising $400,000,000 a year in United States dollars for war purchases in the States, for which Canadian dollars won't do, is a heavy burden and the indications are that it will increase rather than decrease. Financing a war on the basis of a triangle where money values differ is sufficient to place grey hairs in the heads and wrinkles in the brows of those who have to do it.

It Seems Rather Silly

C. R. Oumansky is the high ranking diplomat of the Soviet Embassy at Washington, and his wife is described as being young and pretty. It is common knowledge that receptions in recent times have not been a success there. Men at the Press Club receive invitations, and they know the provisions for the occasion will be ample, but they have not gone in numbers. A good many others have felt the same.

The reason is that the Russian reputation in Washington experienced a bad slump when Moscow turned against little Finland. The world was shocked and so was Washington and the Oumansky receptions in the U.S. capital bore the brunt.

But they tried it again, and the attendance was up. There seems to have been something in the air which caused people to believe that Stalin was not so friendly with the Germans and that feeling appears to have spread.

The affair at the Russian embassy was described as smart. There is reference made to the Oriental rugs and the tapestry on the walls. The representatives of nations were there, but it was not friendly. Quick action was necessary when the ranking German diplomat and his wife arrived because at that moment Oumansky was in conversation with R. G. Casey of Australia and R. M. Butler, counsellor of the British Embassy. Then when the Japanese ambassador arrived with several members of his staff the representatives of China decided they would have to call it a day and retire.

Those who had no particular irons in the world's fire found it "interesting" to watch the performance; to see people whose nations are at war one with the other coming along under the guise of official friendship. Just what it is that Russia has done to gain even partial reinstatement in the good graces of Washington has not been made clear, but from this distance it looks rather silly and perhaps stupid for diplomats who attend knowing they will have to shift quickly in order to avoid meeting those with whom they desire no association.

The Proper Action

At the Halifax shipyards 350 workers went on strike. Minister of Labor McClarty informed them their strike was illegal, and they returned to work.

That is a vital war industry. The cry goes up day and night for ships and more ships to keep up the supply in the battle of the Atlantic. Shipyards at Halifax can take in vessels up to 10,000 tons, and there is a line waiting for attention.

In such a situation we cannot see much difference between men in the shipyards going on strike and men in the army doing the same thing. Right at the moment what the men in the shipyards can do is of equal importance to anything which can be done in any other branch of the service.

As a rule we would favor the right and freedom of men going on strike if they so desired. In this particular case little is known beyond the fact that the men were asking for more money. The Minister of Labor was entirely right when he told them bluntly their strike was illegal because they had not complied with the requirements of the law.

Now that they have returned to work it will be possible to go ahead and find out what the trouble is and have it sifted. But getting those 350 men back to work was the first and most important move. Tieing up things so vessels cannot put out to sea in the days of greatest need is nothing short of criminal.

It Looks Doubtful

A story sent from Tacoma, Wash., tells that between 36 and 40 Royal Air Force pilots are in that city, and each day are spending their time at McChord Field which is nearby. There are 19 four-motored long-range bombers on hand and shortly they will leave with them en route for Britain.

Possibly we have not a clear-cut idea of what restrictions are placed on the publication of news of this sort in United States, but it does look to be about as wide open as possible.

If there are saboteurs engaged in United States, and undoubtedly there are many of them, then they do not even have to take the time out to inquire about these giant bombers. They are told openly just where they are and how they are going to be moved and it is quite plain that the time of departure will not be long delayed. If one were in the business of plotting and wrecking what more information could he desire? It is all placed there before him and at no cost and no effort.

They Still Catch Suckers

It's rather nice to feel at times that everything has not changed. We have heard people talking after they have paid a visit to their old home town, and they are inclined to lament. People they expected to see had left years ago; there were no open doors or open arms to receive them, and nothing much except strangers to gaze at them and wonder who they were and what they wanted in town.

So it was we read with peculiar feeling a small item in the old home-town paper last week that "The boys are busy these evenings catching suckers in the creek."

And that is just as it used to be more years ago than we care to think about at times. Of course it would not be lawful to take suckers today by the same method used years ago. The law protects most everything today except pedestrians and taxpayers. It has thrown its strong arm around the suckers and it is not legal to spear them.

In the village days that was the method employed. In order to do the thing properly it was necessary to learn the art from an expert, and an expert was one who happened to own a spear with a long handle. But he needed an assistant, and the duty of the assistant was to hold the torch. Before holding the torch it was necessary to know where to get one. There was but one place in the village and that was in the band room in the basement of the village hall. There were torches there to aid in the production of sweet music on the evenings when the band played out on the square. The torch enabled the bandsmen to see the notes they were supposed to be playing, and in that way it was possible to get them tooted out at something not far removed from the right moment.

It was the duty of the torch holder to know just how and where to hold the illumination so it would prove effective. In order to get the desired angle it was also necessary to get the feet wet. As the torch revealed what was going on under the surface of the water the man with the spear made his lunges and brought forth the suckers. The reward the torch-bearer received was two-fold, (1) he was gaining in knowledge which might or might not come in useful in the future, and (2) he would probably be rewarded by being allowed to carry away a couple of soft-meated and prodigiously-boned suckers.

We cannot recall ever having heard words of commendation upon arriving with wet feet and a couple of suckers. No person seemed to want the things; none offered to clean them, and never was there a suggestion that they would become part of a meal soon or even in the dim future.

But every spring they used to go and take suckers out of the creek. The names on all the stores have changed; the folk who used to live there, including the sucker catchers of yesteryear, have all departed, but they are still taking suckers out of the creek. Why the suckers were ever in that creek was always a mystery. It rushes along in spring, but in summer it is reduced to a stagnant trickle, and we used to have a theory that the sucker fish were trying to get away before the stream dried up. But somehow we read with pleasure that the old order had not entirely changed. It seemed like a bit of a thread which had been running continuously through the succeeding generations of the community. That is rather a nice way to state the custom because we never have been able to understand just why any person wanted to go wallowing about to catch a sucker.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There is one nice thing when looking at a tire which has gone flat. It seems to be that way only on one side.

Driver of a car was arrested near Glencoe, Ont., with 23 cases of beer in his car, so there wasn't much left for him to do except plead guilty. Which he did.

There is an increased demand for religious instruction in the schools, which is quite right. But how about including a little of it in the home work in which the parents might help.

Easton, Ill., has given the village governors something about which to puzzle. The people voted 11 to 109 in favor of waterworks, and then turned down the passing of a bond issue to pay for it.

The wife of the United States ambassador to London was in the city during the last German raid, and says she cannot understand how the people there keep on going as they do. Your contribution to the War Victims' Fund will help cheer them along.

Premier Bracken is going to the polls on Tuesday and he says that all candidates supporting the coalition government which he heads are agreed on the three principal planks in the platform. So it does not take a prophet to predict that Premier Bracken is sure to win.

COUSIN EZRA

¶ My Cousin Ezra has a pain, he says it's made him rather lame, it settled in his spine; and he has found it won't improve, it hurts him every time he'll move, his bones seem out of line.

¶ At other times it hits his head, can't sleep when he gets off to bed, he tosses and he moans; when he gets up in morning time, he starts anew to have his whine, by noon he fairly groans.

¶ Some days it strikes him in the legs, has no strength left within his pegs, on movement then he'll skimp; on days like that his stride is slow, and he can hardly up and go, develops quite a limp.

¶ There's no use going to doctors now, for Ezra kicks up such a row, they couldn't make him right; his case is bad and too severe, it makes him feel hog tied and queer, and doesn't quit at night.

¶ But Ezra's appetite is keen, he always dusts his plate off clean, he passes back for more; but pain comes bulging from his eyes, when he tries things like exercise, and he lets out a roar.

Talks of Guns; Admits He Is An Alleged Expert

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — A controversy's on at the war department over the best type and caliber of holster gun to provide army officers with.

Chas. P. Stewart

The doughboys ordinarily don't carry that sort of weapon. Their shooting's done from the shoulder. Officers, however, usually tote a side arm. Occasionally, in a trench fight, for instance it's useful. Naval officers' requirements don't matter so much. They do their scrapping at long range, from turrets, with cannon. An aviator, though, forced to land, and particularly a parachutist, deliberately dropped overboard into enemy territory, may find a pistol extremely handy.

One school of thought favors an old - fashioned revolver. Another school's for the up-to-date automatic.

Then there's the question of caliber. Some military men want .45's, the biggest bore in creation. Others argue that .38's are just as effective, more manageable and lighter to transport, dangling on the hip, conveniently.

The war department ought to consult an expert. For years my father was a firearms salesman. A man of peace, he never shot anybody, but he understood all sorts of guns' peculiarities and possibilities. With him as an instructor I practically cut my teeth on the barrel of a six-shooter.

Okay, if I can get the department to listen to me, an old-time revolver is more dependable than an automatic. Parenthetically I may say that newspaper references to an "automatic revolver" makes me tired. In a certain sense a revolver is automatic, in that its cylinder automatically revolves when the hammer's lifted. But when a news writer speaks of an automatic revolver that isn't what he means; he means a new-fangled automatic. When it's fired, the recoil automatically ejects the empty shell and lifts another cartridge out of a clip in the butt into barrel. No revolution is involved in the transaction. An automatic is an automatic pistol but it isn't a revolver. A revolver is a revolving pistol.

REVOLVER MORE RELIABLE

WELL, an automatic's mechanism, being more complicated than a revolver's, is more liable than a revolver's to get out of order—to jam at an inopportune moment, perhaps very embarrassingly.

We arrive now at the question of caliber.

When a guy is coming at you with murder in his eye, your first essential is to knock him cold. To accomplish that, you need impact and you get a maximum of it out of a .45, as the largest slug manufactured.

A .38 is substantial but a .45 is more so. For that matter, a .32 will perforate a man. Even a little peewee of a .22 will send a steel-jacketed ball through him and maybe puncture two or three other fellows to the rearward of him. And if the teeny-weeny little steel-jacketed pill tracks through a vital spot, the bird will die subsequently—but, before he does so, there may be an interval, during which he'll keep on coming, get to you, and, as his last act, raise Hades with some of your own vital organs.

No, what you want isn't so much penetration as impact, and bulk is what provides the latter.

IT'S TRUE that there's one objection to a .45.

A .45-caliber pistol's kick is terrific. It isn't directly backward, as a shoulder gun's kick is. In a pistol's case the recoil throws the gun muzzle upward. Unless the shooter's thoroughly experienced and has the knack of it, he'll greatly overshoot his target. And, of course, if he misses (and he can do it at very short range indeed) the impact he's counting on is no good to him.

There is (or used to be manufactured, if it isn't extinct) a .41-caliber derringer that was a delicious little thing. Some had one and some had two barrels. You could hold it in the palm of your hand or carry it in a vest pocket. And a .41 slug is sufficient to produce an impression on anybody. But the way that gun kicked was a caution! You couldn't hit anybody with it unless you had the muzzle right in contact with his stomach. If you did, though, you had him attended to.

The above may sound rather bloodthirsty. I never killed anybody. I simply am giving some hints, as an alleged expert, to the war department in the present emergency.

TRUST OUR LEADERS

THE old generals and many of the old political leaders who failed in the great test a year ago have been swept out. The Empire's navies, armies and air forces are led today by younger men, many of whom have been through an enemy blitzkrieg. They must and should be trusted. And leading them all is Winston Churchill, Britain's man of destiny. So why get in a panic, even if things seem to go wrong? The Empire's leadership is in stout hands. Let us support it with stout hearts.—Edmonton Journal.

• Italy Ready for Revolt

ITALY today is just another Nazi-occupied country, facing starvation and on the verge of complete collapse, according to Mrs. Cecil Brown, wife of the Columbia Broadcasting System's Italian commentator, who has just returned from Rome to report her first-hand uncensored observations for Collier's.

Mrs. Brown, who released her story the moment her husband was safely out of Italy, expelled for his attempts to give a true picture of the situation there, enumerates five reasons why the Italian people are ripe for revolt.

The British blockade is really working. Thousands are undernourished or starving. Fish costs $1.75 a pound, veal $1.25. The butter ration is one-fifth of a pound a month. The wheat supply will be exhausted during April and the new crop will not come in until June. The blockade also has crippled many Italian war industries.

Confidence in both Mussolini and the King has disappeared. Il Duce recently collapsed while making a speech. He is reported to sleep in a different place every night, sometimes in the armored railroad car Hitler gave him. King Victor Emmanuel spends most of his time with his stamp and and coin collections.

Anti-Fascists are increasing rapidly in numbers. Many welcome an opportunity to get into the army, feeling that this gives them the best chance to fight the Germans and to get their hands on arms and ammunition.

Increasing thousands would welcome a British rather than a German victory, although they fear that a successful British invasion might make Italy the next great battlefield. British invasion might well be the signal for a general uprising.

Popular hatred of Germany has been increased by the fact that the Nazis now literally control all of Italy through men in key positions and "Italy is really just another occupied country."

MRS. BROWN writes that there already have been incipient revolts against Mussolini both from inside the Fascist party and among anti-Fascists, and reports a well-authenticated story of a conspiracy last January among his Council of Ministers to do away with him before the Germans arrived.

"Members of the council discussed the possibilities of tossing out Mussolini," she states. "They feared the increasing German control over Italy and a plan was evolved to take over the Government. To do that Mussolini had to be put out of the way. Having decided on this step, they drew lots and the Minister of Justice, Dino Grandi, was chosen to be the trigger man.

"The council had stipulated that Marshal Granziani as head of the Italian army must be in Rome when Mussolini was killed and a new government set up. A definite time was set by the council for the assassination and Graziani notified but he didn't show up. The assassination was put off for a week, but during the delay Mussolini learned of the plot. Instantly all the ministers, including Grandi, were ordered up to the fighting fronts.

"Now there is good reason to believe that when the Germans consolidate all of Italy under their control, Mussolini will be kept on as a figurehead. He would then become the Italian Quisling—a puppet dictator."

They Came from Dummer

IF THERE are any former residents of Dummer township, Peterborough County, Ontario, in these parts, they will remember the Dewart family, and old-time Ontario Liberals are also familiar with the name. A noted religious paper editor was the Rev. Dr. E. H. Dewart of the old Christian Guardian of the former Methodist church. He wielded a powerful pen, led in many controversies and strongly influenced opinion in church and other matters. His son, the late Hartley Dewart, K.C., of Toronto, had the father's fighting qualities and when the Liberal party's fortunes in Ontario were at low ebb he became leader and the Conservatives then in power faced a strong and aggressive opposition.

A few days ago another Dewart, Rev. William Herbert Dewart, also from Dummer, died in New York. He had gained distinction in the Protestant Episcoal church and was rector emeritus of the "Old North" church in Boston where Paul Revere's warning beacon hung in revolutionary days. There is another Dewart of the same connection prominent in the U.S., W. T. Dewart, publisher of the New York Sun.

The late Boston divine, like his Toronto relative, was born on a farm in a rugged country where making a living was no easy task. There was something in the stock that stirred ambition, and under difficulties these farm boys succeeded in getting an education and gaining places of distinction. It is recalled that Rev. Dr. Dewart of Toronto was one of the foremost Protestants in Canada to support Irish Home Rule. — Lethbridge Herald.

A Bit of Nonsense

Hard Luck to the Others

Man (employed by an Aberdonian): "I have been here ten years, sir, doing three men's work for one man's money, and now I want a rise."

Employer: "I canna gie ye that, but if ye'll tell me the names of the ither twa men I'll sack 'em."

Not His Wife

Fortune Teller: "I see a vision—it is your deceased wife. She craves permission to send a message to you."

Client: "Then that's not her, guvnor. My wife never asked for no permission when she guv her messages to me!"

Give Her A Chance

It was her first day at the job, and the new maid was a bit slow in answering the bell. So the master of the house strode into the kitchen. He found her scrubbing the floor.

"You're pretty dirty," he demarked, eyeing her soiled apron.

"Yes, sir," she replied coyly; "but I'm prettier clean."

Unwelcome Guest

The Sunday School teacher read aloud the Parable of the Prodigal Son to a class of small boys.

"Now," she said, "who was the least pleased to see the prodigal son's return?"

The question rather puzzled the class, but at last a small voice replied: "Please miss, the fatted calf!"

Business As Usual

The high-speed salesman had joined the Army, gone into action, been wounded. For several days he lay delirious, but eventually he turned the corner.

On the first day of his recovery he was surprised to see all the nurses standing round his bed, offering him money.

"What's this for?" he asked.

"Why for the radio and refrigerators, you sold us while you were unconscious," they chorused.

HE WAS NO RED!

A FLIGHT of five Hurricanes is taking off, in thick weather, to go into battle. Soon after he's off the ground the Flight Commander looks round to see that his flight is all with him. The wingman on the left is not in sight and the Flight Commander wonders if he failed to get off. The missing wing-man is a Pole. He hasn't been long in the squadron. He knows what's expected of him and he's following close behind. The Flight Commander calls him on the radio telephone to know if he's up. "Red three. Red three. Are you airborne? Are you airborne?" The reply comes hot and strong. "If that a joke, I think not funny. I am Polish pilot."—London Listener.

TILL IT HURTS

BRINGING the war home to the disinterested sex, we would report that delivery of girdles, foundation garments, etc., may in future be hampered by priority orders from the Army. Pilots of dive bombers, it seems, must be well corseted to prevent injury when pulling out of a power dive. Also in this connection, a young mother reports to us that the demands of national defence have prevented her from replenishing her small daughter's supply of middy-blouse uniforms for school. The Army has ordered all the available supply of material.—New Yorker.

To The Editor

WANTS TO KNOW

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—When I drove down town Saturday to do the shopping I found at two places on Charlotte street signs had been posted saying "No Parking Here—Police Orders." One was in front of a grocery store and another an office where they have a taxi stand.

If every store in the city had similar notices out in front, just where would a shopper park? Yet it must be a fact that if these two places have authority to erect such signs then all the others are in a similar position. For my own part I doubt whether they have the authority to erect such notices. I have been paying taxes in this city for quite some years and am under the impression that I, along with the rest of the citizens, have contributed to the building of the pavement on which I am told I cannot park. If the police wanted to do something useful they would pay attention to the double parking along Charlotte street. I'd like to know why people have the right to put up those "No Parking" signs, and if they are not fakes I'd like to know on what authority they act.

Athletics Form Sound Foundation Views Ontario Athletic Head

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12 (ENS)—The value of athletics in forming a sound foundation on which to build in the future was authoritatively told members of St. John's Boys' Brigade at their second annual Father and Son banquet Friday evening. Lionel Conacher, who earned an international reputation as hockey, lacrosse and football player as well as a boxer and wrestler, was the speaker. Now a member of the Ontario Legislature, the "Big Train" came to address the Boys' Brigade at the invitation of Rev. G. N. Maxwell, chaplain and leader of the group, the only one of its kind between Montreal and Toronto.

Rev. Maxwell was chairman of the gathering which attracted more than one hundred and thirty and included in addition to the banquet the customary toasts and a miscellaneous program. The chairman proposed the toast to the King which was followed by the National Anthem and after this came the toast to the Empire proposed by Frank McKelvie and responded to by Dr. Glen Maxwell and responded to by C. W. Paliser; to the Boys' Brigade by Harold Twigg and Charles Jeffs.

The musical portion of the program opened with a sing song led by G. W. Lucy with Arnold Bates as accompanist. Other items included a piano solo by Don Bennett; male quartet by G. Lucy, H. Twigg, H. Donald, Dr. H. O. Richardson; cornet solo by Jack Gainsford, Trenton, accompanied by Leslie Harts; violin solo, Bruce Elmhirst.

H. N. Carr, M.P.P. for Northumberland and introduced the speaker who expressed the opinion that succeeding in athletics was the same as succeeding in any other field and required only determined application, hard work and ambition.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered speaker Conacher by a former leader of the boys group, Major G. A. Ironside while Mr. Maxwell thanked the other artists and ladies of the church who had prepared the banquet.

Favorites Miss Derby "Futures"

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21 — (CP). — So you would like to make a wager in the Kentucky Derby futurebook? The Derby this year will be run on May 3.

The futurebook, sometimes called the winterbook, is considered one of the things that has made the Churchill Downs classic America's premier turf event, but it has made few people rich.

Bill Morgan Wins 100 Yard Swim

Coach Gordon Minty's junior aquatic stars churned up the water of the local Y.M.C.A. natatorium in the one hundred yards free style event. The youthful swimmers showed marked improvement in the evening's race for top honors. The swimming in the heats was wide-open, but competition was keen in the semi-final and final. The swimmers to compete in the final were Bill Morgan, Don Pinch, and Jack Matthews, with the former getting the nod. The second berth was taken by Don Pinch, who was hard pressed by the third swimmer, Jack Matthews. Morgan has been swimming only a short time and has already won two handicap events. Months of hard training under the watchful eye of Gordon Minty have ironed out the rough spots in the junior club's swimmers and many of them already show promise of becoming future stars.

Complete results of the events are as follows:

First heat—1, A. Brown; 2, B. Morgan; 3, D. Plunkett.
Second heat — 1, D. Pinch; 2, J. Matthews; 3, G. Pinch.
Third heat—1, R. Seabrooke; 2, J. Thirnbeck; 3, D. Pearse.
Semi-final—First heat—1, B. Morgan; 2, J. Matthews.
Second heat — 1, R. Seabrooke; 2, D. Pinch; 3, J. Thirnbeck.
Final— 1, B. Morgan; 2, D. Pinch; 3, J. Matthews.
Time 1:42.
Medley Relay — 1, A. Brown, J. Clarke, G. Pinch, D. Plunkett; 2, D. Pinch, T. Scriver, A. Plunkett, R. Seabrooke.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Boston Red Sox, the club that few of the baseball seers named even for a first division berth, are right now the only outfit in either of the big leagues to remain undefeated. Over the week-end Joe Cronin's club won themselves two more ball games defeating the Athletics Saturday behind steady pitching by Dickman, 7 runs to 2 and taking Washington Senators into camp Sunday by a 14 to 8 score with old Mike Ryba, former International League one-man ball club, getting his first win of the campaign although he did not finish the job, the useful Mister Hash who has wound up three games already this season without losing any of them being on the hilltop in the closing moments. Roger Cramer did his best to help the Senators against his old teammates, cracking a home run with the bases loaded but even that powerful and profitable wallop failed to change the result. For the first time this season the Sox failed to come through with a home run but then they didn't need one.

For once at least the New York Yanks looked yesterday like the powerful club that used to pulverize all opposition. They massacred the Athletics to the tune of 19 to 8 and in so doing they extracted ample revenge from Chubby Dean who had tied them in knots in his previous appearance against the New Yorkers. The Yanks made 18 hits and two of them were homers by Joe Gordon and another a four-cushion wallop by Joe DiMaggio which came with all the bases densely populated. DiMag is teeing off on all the pitchers this season and has been hitting high, wide and handsome ever since the campaign began. Red Ruffing, beaten his first time out, was the winning pitcher, coming back with a win as did also Bobby Feller and Paul Derringer, two other aces who had experienced the sting of defeat on their starting assignment.

Bill Terry's New York Giants were finally stopped Sunday for the first time this season and it was their old rivals the Brooklyn Dodgers who finally did the trick. It was a close fit, at that, the Dodgers coming strong in the last few frames to finally win the argument 10 to 9, despite two home runs by the mighty atom Mel Ott. Cincinnati Reds snapped out of their losing streak over the week-end defeating Pittsburg 5 to 3 Saturday with Paul Derringer doing the gunning and coming back Sunday behind Turner's first pitching of the league season to win 7 to 3. The Detroit champs however found the travelling hard both Saturday and Sunday. They were nosed out 2 to 1 Saturday when Bobby Feller held them to six hits and Sunday Schoolboy Rowe failed to go the route and the Bengals were beaten 4 to 2. So far the big guns that opened the way last season to the pennant for the Tigers have failed to boom.

Better Cut 'Em Down, Walshe Thinks

Bill Walshe of the Kingston Whig-Standard is the latest sport writer to unlimber his type-writer and go into action against protracted playoffs. Here are his views: "Considering the talk amateur hockey would be well advised to avoid long playoffs if only to check the gossip about fixed games, big gates and manipulating by players and clubs. The fans have soured in the extended playoffs, figuring a greed for gates as the only reason for the extra games and rightly so in many cases. They will argue that strong clubs ease up to promote extra play. Personally we know that is not so. Some form reversals can be explained by a good team relaxing when not in serious danger of elimination and as a result there are upsets but we have never known of a fixed game, in fact if business was conducted as honestly as sport there would not be so many civil and police court cases."

"Kingston Combines and Owen Sound arranged a seven game series to guard against financial loss in the finals," goes on Walshe. "The heavy expense of trips from Owen Sound to Kingston made it necessary for both clubs to get at least two home gates to meet expenses. Had a three in five series been planned and one team won three straight both teams would have lost money in the finals and no fair minded fan would want men, who are in sports for the fun of the game, to dip into their own pockets to make up deficits as so often happens. Disregarding the need for extra funds to finance long trips, hotel bills, train fares, meals, etc., there is still the fact that thousands of fans think games are fixed and the long playoffs are responsible for the belief which may eventually kill all interest in playdowns."

Two important softball meetings are scheduled for tonight and a full attendance is urged at both gatherings. The annual meeting of the Church Softball League has been arranged for 7 o'clock this evening at the Y.M.C.A. and the City Softball League will convene at Duffus' Bowling Alleys at 7.30 o'clock. So far as the church organization is concerned this will be in the nature of a test meeting. If no more interest is shown than there was in hockey at the beginning of the winter, the chances are that church softball will be allowed to bog down like hockey did. It is up to the churches themselves whether or not there is a league. The outlook for the City Loop is a little obscure but it is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in organizing a good league this summer. What the softballers probably will be up against, however, is the problem of securing officers who will take a full share of the work. Both Fred Scates and Max Glover who had to carry most of the burden last season threaten to retire and if they succeed in making it stick, the loop will have a job to replace the pair.

All Right For Sydney

The military replacement rule may have been all screwy but the Sydney Millionaires are willing after Saturday night's game with Regina Rangers in Calgary, the first clash of the Allan Cup finals that the wartime regulation is 100 per cent right. Under that rule the Millionaires got hold of Bobby Walton late in the season after Niagara Falls Brights were out of the running and all Walton did for the Millionaires Saturday night was to score five goals and set up another. Sydney won the battle 8 to 6, so it is not difficult to see how valuable was the contribution made by Mister Walton to the cause. The winning goal, strange to say, was scored by Van Daele on a penalty shop, the first tally of that kind on record in a Dominion senior final. The second game of the big series will be played tonight in Regina.

Considerable enthusiasm was shown at the lacrosse meeting held at Duffus' Bowling Alleys Saturday night and while the election of officers was deferred to a later meeting the decision of the players and other enthusiasts in attendance was to go ahead with plans for the season. Some new talent was reported in town including an Orillian junior player named Hewett, no relation to Tiger of that ilk, and a Mimico performer. It was decided to hold the first practice of the season tomorrow evening at the lacrosse bowl and all players in town who are willing to go out and play for the Petes this season are invited. There is a good prospect of a lively Senior B group as the Orillia Terriers are dropping back to that division and are asking to be grouped with Brooklin, Oshawa and Peterborough.

Second Year For Winners To Take Cup

Mason's Stores won the Merchants Trophy, emblematic of the bowling championship of the Merchants League at Duffus Alleys last week when a mixed team in a 3-game playoff defeated Maher's Shoe Store by 2787 pins to 2682.

There were 10 teams competing in the league all winter, a mixed league of girls and men and competition was keen throughout. The schedule was run off in two sections, Maher's winning the honors in the first half and the Mason team finishing ahead in the second half, which resulted in the playoff.

A round robin series among the other eight teams for a consolation prize was won by the Agne-Surpass team.

In winning the Merchants Trophy this season, Mason's repeated the feat for the second year in a row. They defeated the Agnew-Surpass team in the 1939-1940 playoffs.

The presentation of the prizes and trophy will be made at the annual banquet of the Merchants Bowling League which is being held at the Kawartha Golf Club on Tuesday evening.

The following are the playoff scores:

Rangers Arrive

TORONTO, April 21.— (CP). — Winnipeg Rangers arrived here today only a dozen hours before the start of the first game in their best-of-five Memorial Cup hockey final with Montreal Royals, and Manager Scotty Oliver declared that every member of the team was "tired as the dickens" as a result of the train ride from Winnipeg.

Western Boys Favorites

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, April 21.—(CP).—The mystery letter of algebra found a prominent place in all Memorial Cup calculations to-day as Montreal Royals and Winnipeg Rangers squard off for the start of their National junior hockey final. Even to the most learned of hockey mathematicians the winner is—"X."

The best-of-five game series is due to get under way here to-night with various circumstances making it likely that the westerners will be favorites to take the opening contest.

One of the factors that makes the Rangers slight favorites to take the first game is the fact that Royals will be missing four of the men who bore the heaviest load in their triumph in the eastern final over Oshawa Generals, the Memorial Cup champions of the past two years. These men are Goalie Ross Ritchie, Defenceman Bruce Ward and Forwards Grant Morrison and Bud Farmer.

Farmer has been lost to the club for the remainder of the season, due to the fact he suffered a fractured cheek-bone about four minutes from the end of the final game with the Generals. The others are missing the opener because they are writing college examinations and were forced to remain in Montreal.

White wasn't alone in having player problems to contend with, for Coach Lawrence (Baldy) Northcott if Rangers said before leaving Winnipeg that two of his stars—Hub Macey and Bill Robinson — may miss the opening game. The two men could play if needed badly but Northcott wants them to rest because of hip injuries they suffered recently.

FOUR GAMES IN NATIONAL LEAGUE PRODUCE 62 RUNS, 100 HITS

52 Runs Scored In 3 Games AmericanLeague

By BILL BONI
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

This, marking the start of the second week of the Major League baheball season, should by rights bring pause for reflection, a check-back on the pre-season estimates and how they are holding up under the early firing.

In the light of Sunday developments, however, this corner defies anyone to come up with a reasonable, logical analysis.

In the National League there were four games. These produced 62 runs, 100 hits, 16 errors and 27 pitchers, or an average of 16 runs, 25 hits, four errors and seven pitchers per each. There were three games in the American League. These turned up 52 runs, 67 hits, 12 errors and 15 pitchers, also an average per game of far too many.

In both leagues there was only one pitcher able to go nine innings. He was the Yankees' Red Ruffing, who gave Philadelphia 10 hits but got sterling support from his mates. This support took in three homers, two by Joe Gordon and one with the bases full by Joe Dimaggio.

The score was 19-5, and the victim Chubby Dean, who had humbled the Yanks in their home opener.

Tigers Beaten

The best pitching, however, was a two-man, six-hit job by Mel Harder and Joe Heving, who heaved the Indians to a 4-2 verdict over Detroit Tigers. The other American League game was a mauling match which the Red Sox won from the Washington Senators, 14-8.

In the senior circuit things were even better, or worse. The Dodgers and Giants drew a record Polo Grounds crowd of 56,314, and every man got his money's worth, what with five homers, two by Mel Ott; nine pitchers, and the winning run scored from second by Dolph Camilli after the Giants' Babe Young had hit Alex Kampouris in the head while trying to force the Brooklyn infielder at second.

There were at least two homers in each of the other National league games. The Phils got two, but one in the 10th by Babe Dahlgren paid off for Boston Bees in a 7-5 victory; Linus Frey and Harry Craft hit for the circuit in the Reds' conquest of the Pirates, and the Chicago Cubs needed three to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-10, though it was an outfield fly that finally drove in the deciding run in the 10th inning.

Toronto Cagers Capture Titles

WINDSOR, Ont., April 21—(CP) Two more Ontario basketball crowns went to Toronto teams here Saturday night when Earl Greys captured the Intermediate O.A.B.A. "A" title and Toronto Deer Park won the Intermediate "B" group.

Earl Greys defeated Stokes Service, 39-32 to take the series in two straight. They won at Toronto last Saturday 51-29.

The local tried valiantly to make a third game necessary, but were no match for the fast-breaking Toronto quintet.

Toronto Deer Park lost their game here Saturday night, but won the total point round by one point. The visitors enjoyed a 15-point margin as result of their 49-34 win in Toronto last week when last night's contest started. It ended with the Windsor team 14 points up, one short of a tie.

The locals had a two-point lead for the series early in the second half, but the Toronto boys rallied sufficient to cut their lead to enable them to win the round.

NEW YORK, April 21—(AP). — Henry Armstrong, who made his big town debut as a band leader at a testimonial dinner last night, can use a little long green which may be just what's behind that comeback talk. Remember Tony Canzoneri, Henry.

Question is, should Billy Conn or Lou Nova get first crack at Joe Louis?....Well, the old maestro has a few words to say on the subject.. ..New York's PM quotes Louis: "I think Lou Nova deserved the June shot....He is tough and plenty big ....Billy Conn is too small....He is big enough to fight Pastor, but I might hurt him."

Coast fight clubs use a red canvas so the blood stains won't show and Illinois referees wear maroon colored shirts for the same reason.

Buffalo Bisons Break Even With Baltimore

(By the Associated Press.)

The International Baseball League standing probably won't be like today's again this season, but the lineup at the first turn of the campaign that got under way last Thursday indicates that predictions of a close race may have been well founded.

Buffalo and Baltimore, sharing the lead, have won three games and lost two each. Toronto and Syracuse are at the bottom with two victories and three losses apiece. The four other clubs are in between with .500 records.

Yesterday, Buffalo Bisons outhit the Orioles in both games of a double header, but came out with an even break as rallies in the last inning decided each contest. Buffalo scored twice off Ken Trinkle in the ninth inning to win the opener, 3-2, while Baltimore scored all its runs in the sixth and seventh to take the nightcap, 7-6.

The winning run in this game came when Earl Cook, relieving Frank Trexler with the bases full and two out, let fly a wild pitch on his first effort.

Toronto and Syracuse also split a Sunday doubleheader, Syracuse pulling out an 8-7 victory in 11 innings and Toronto winning 2-0 in six. Newark belted Rochester's Red Wings, 11-1, poling out 15 hits, including two homers, to back up the three-hit pitching of Russ Christopher. Jersey City turned back Montreal, 2-0, when 21-year-old Hal Feldman bested Max Macon in a mound duel. Feldman, tight in the pinches, stranded 11 Montreal runners.

Toronto's Walter Lafranconi turned in another of the day's fine hurling feats, blanking Syracuse with two hits in a duel with Ted Kleinhans. Syracuse blew a four-run lead in the opened when the Leafs belted out Pretzels Pezzulo and Bill Burkhart in the eighth to tie the score. The Chiefs pushed around the winning run in the 11th on two hits, the decisive one by Hasson, an error and two sacrifices.

Montreal Team Retains Title

MONTREAL, April 21 — (CP). — Montreal Olympics retained the Eastern Canadian Women's Senior basketball championship here Saturday night, defeating Toronto Dovercourts, 38-22, in the second game of the total-point series. The Olympics won the two-game series by a total score of 84-35.

Showing greater strength, both on offence and defence, than in the first game Friday night, which they dropped, 46-13, the Toronto girls pressed the Olympics closely through the first half Saturday night. The score at the midway mark was 12-10 for Montreal.

The Olympics outscored the Toronto team widely in the third quarter and the squads matched baskets in the final frame.

Martha Kent led the Olympic attack with twelve points, while Mary Manders and N. Young were the Dovercourt stars with six points each.

Toronto—M. Frankland 3, J. Connell 2, J. Smerdon 2, M. Manders 6, E. Broody 3, R. Wallace 0, E. Puddy 0, N. Young 6. Total 22.

Montreal—M. Kent 12, I. Valcamp 7, A. Mackler 6, M. Leather 1, J. O'Brien 4, G. Grant 2, C. Walker 2, L. Turnbull 4. Total 38.

Sydney Takes First Game From Rangers

By LORNE BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

REGINA, April 21.—(CP)—Sydney Millionaires have too much power for Regina Rangers—that's the concensus after watching the Eastren Canada senior hockey champions outscore Rangers 8-6 in Calgary Saturday night in the first game of the Allan Cup finals.

Both teams reached the Saskatchewan Capital today for the second game of the best-of-five series for the Canadian senior championship to be played here tonight. The toon Wednesday.

The effective ganging attacks of the all-star Maritime squad were responsible for five goals Saturday and most observers felt the dynamite in that power-play style of hockey left Rangers with little chance of regaining for the west the Allan Cup won by Kirkland Lake last year.

Saturday's game gave about 5,500 fans one of the most thrilling battles they have seen in years. A third-period penalty shot by Remi Van Daele scored the winning goal, Bobby Walton fired five goals for Sydney, and the wide-open style was hockey at its best.

Jim Henry, rookie netminder, who has been spectacular in all Regina games so far in the playoffs, was not so sensational as in previous games but he gave a sound performance and he was not to blame for either Van Daele's penalty shot goal.

No-Hit Game

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 21.—(AP).—The veteran Willis Hudlin, showing perfect control, pitched a no-hit, no-run game in the nightcap of a double-header against New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern Association Sunday to climax a double victory for Little Rock 6-5 and 4-0.

Only two New Orleans players reached first base, both on errors, in the seven-inning nightcap.

Hudlin, who pitched for Cleveland Indians of the American League more than a decade, did not walk a man and accounted for one of the Travellers' three hits with a double.

Syndicate Buys Boston Bees

BOSTON, April 21—(AP).—President Bob Quinn of Boston Bees Sunday night announced the successful completion of his five months' campaign to form a syndicate to purchase C. F. Adams' controlling interest in that National League baseball club, which represents about 73 per cent of the stock.

Quinn said that all but two of his new associates are New Englanders, the exceptions being Casey Stengel, the club's manager, and his intimate friend, May Mayer, Brooklyn pearl manufacturer.

Adams Sympathetic

The others are Francis Ouimet of Boston, former national open and amateur golf champion; Joseph Conway, president of a Boston sporting goods firm; Dr. William Wrang of Middletown, Conn.; J. W. Powdrell, Danielstown, Conn., manufacturer; Richard Hevessy, head of a Boston automobile firm; Frank McCourt of Boston, C. Joseph Maney of Somerville, Louis Perini of Framingham, and Guido Rugo of Milton. The latter four men are engaged in the contracting business.

"It looks like a splendid set-up, and I am delighted to be associated with such substantial men who have such a keen love for baseball," Quinn said. "We could have taken in many others, and probably will have at least two more in our ranks within the new few days. During all of our negotiations Mr. Adams was extremely sympathetic and displayed great patience.

"I am proud to announce that the Boston National League franchise is almost entirely New England-owned for the second time since it became a charter member of the National League back in 1876. It has not had home ownership since the presidency of Arthur S. Soden, back in 1906."

Price Not Divulged

Quinn refused to divulge the price the syndicate paid for Adams' controlling interests. In the past, however, it has frequently been mentioned that the latter's price was around $350,000.

In addiion to putting up enough funds to pay Adams in cash, Quinn said that the members of the syndicate also would provide the club with new working capital. Recently Johnny Cooney, the club's veteran player-coach, was named as one of the syndicate.

"Johnny wanted to come in with us and had his money up," Quinn explained. "We would have been glad to have him with us but for a suggestion by an outsider to the effect that an embarrassing situation could be caused by a player with a financial interest in the club.

Simpson Grads Beat Montreal In First Game

By WILF GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, April 21. — (CP).— Dreaming of the trip to Vancouver for the Canadian senior basketball championship series has been about the only pleasant thing Simpson Grads of Toronto have been able to do between their struggle to hurdle financial difficulties and keep going through the playdowns for a berth in the Dominion title series with the western champions.

Saturday night they practically placed one foot on the train as they whipped Montreal Rocklands 39-27 in the first game of their best-of-three series for the Eastern Canada crown. And unless Rocklands can come through with a surprising reversal of form Grads will be ready to put the other foot on after the second game to-night.

Grads showed great scoring punch, good passing and fast-breaking plays that baffled the Quebec champions to take a lead from the opening whistle which they never relinquished. Coach Moe Brenhouse of Rocklands was the first to admit that Grads had outplayed his club throughout and that Rocklands never had come up against a club that handled the ball so quickly.

Shag Park paced Grads' attack, scoring 12 points by sinking four field goals and four free shots. Don Bloomfield was high man for Rocklands with eight and shared the runner-up for scoring honors with Breadon and Axon who picked up the same number.

Eskimo Captives Enjoy Trip Out For Trial

MOOSONEE, Ont., April 21 — (CP)—Three Eskimos, taken into custody by Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigating a series of slayings in the lonely Belcher Islands of Hudson Bay, laughed and smoked last night under the watchful eye of police in a camp at Moose Factory, just across the Moose River from this James Bay outpost.

It was alleged sixteen persons had met death.

The Eskimos, two men and a woman, were brought down from the North Friday. They apparently enjoyed the trip by plane and appeared delighted at their first sight of forest land, for their island home is barren of vegetation. Police took them into the woods to cut brush for their tent floor during the day.

It was said here that police had no difficulty making the arrests and that the prisoners talked freely about the killings. They were said to have been touched off by difference in the religious beliefs about the second coming of Christ.

Reports from police headquarters at Ottawa said the number of dead in the religious killings was nine. Word reaching here by moccasin messenger indicated that at least fourteen were dead. Later the number was placed at sixteen.

Police officials would have nothing to say about the cause of the murders, but word reached here about the religious mania which caused the outburst of violence on the remote archipelago.

It was said the woman prisoner killed two and led a party of her tribe out into below-zero cold after they had stripped off their clothes to witness the second coming of Christ, as she is said to have told them. Word reaching here said that six of them had died of exposure.

Each of the male prisoners is said to have slain three. Seven bodies are reported to have been found so far.

The prisoners presented a jolly, harmless appearance when they were flown to Moose Factory today. The woman wore white deer and cariboo skins. All were bare-headed. The men were dressed in sea skins, parkas and skin trousers.

One of them inquired: "How many sleeps from home," and he was told he was "a hundred sleeps away." It is expected they will remain at Moose Factory until several more are brought out.

Some of the Germans who were captured submitted to their captors meekly according to the stories reaching here. Five were caught Saturday without a struggle and without a shot being fired.

Two of the five caught near here were seen running through the snow by Mrs. Hugh McDonnell, wife of the station agent, and soldiers ran out from the shelter of the station to take them into custody. Mrs. McDonnell said one was grim-looking and sullen; the other was "just a boy." They were both wet through.

Mike Kopeck, Canadian Pacific Railway section foreman, who is reported to have captured three others, had only a shovel for a weapon. He swung it and the Germans, who were bombing London only a few months ago, surrendered.

There were indications that others did not give themselves up meekly. Three were reported shot fatally. A soldier guard said that two others had stopped bullets before they were taken into custody.

Shoot On Sight

Soldiers have orders to shoot on sight if necessary. Col. H. E. Stethem, director of internment operations who was in Toronto Saturday when he was advised of the break, issued instructions to "use any force necessary" to capture the Germans.

Mrs. Dave Duncan of Schreiber, correspondent for the Port Arthur News-Chronicle, said she had heard that 11 men were captured Saturday and five more were taken Sunday. Her information was that all five of the prisoners recaptured Sunday had been wounded by gunfire. One of Saturday's group had also been wounded, she said.

Mrs. Duncan said she had learned that the Germans broke out some time after roll call at eight o'clock Friday night. They had left dummies in their beds to fool the camp guards and it was believed they escaped about midnight.

Bush Fire Burns

Hardest hit was central and southern New Jersey, where 68 homes were destroyed and property damage estimated up to $1,000,000. In Lakewood, a winter resort, 46 dwellings were razed by licking flames.

Vzevelon Glazoff, 52, died of a heart attack while trying to save his burning Lakewood home. George Knight of Centralia, W.Va., either was burned to death or killed by a falling tree as he fought flames nearby.

Other states were blackened tree stumps marked the paths of fires were Massachusetts, Vermont, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and Virginia. In West Virginia, some 150 separate blazes were reported.

Many Causes.

Sparks from picnic fires, cigarettes, and railroad locomotives were all that was needed to set the flames, authorities said, and in one case wildlife was observed spreading them.

This was in New Jersey, where Col. W. G. Schauffler reported seeing a rabbit with blazing fur and tail, dart across a highway and ignite dry underbrush on the other side.

Six hundred Fort Devons, Mass., soldiers, fighting a fire in nearby Leominster, were recalled to the army post to beat out flames near the 366th Infantry Barracks and the rifle range. Twenty thousand troops are quartered at Fort Devens.

Fourteen soldiers stationed at Fort Dix, N.J., were injured when a truck in which they were speeding to fire duty overturned.

In Maryland, two small blazes threatened for a time Sagamore Farms, home of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's thoroughbreds. They were quickly quelled, as were brush fires at Fort George, C. Meade and another that crept near Baltimore's city limits.

United States, which has meant that Ottawa must not only find the Canadian dollars but the American dollars as well.

This may be illustrated by plane orders. At the present time, Canada does not produce airplane engines and when Britain orders a craft in Canada, Ottawa must buy the engines in the United States with American dollars.

Under the Hyde Park declaration, however, Britain will obtain the engines in the United States under the Lend-Lease Act and forward them to Canada for installation in the Canadian-made frames. This will mean that a substantial drain on Canada's American dollar resources will be stopped.

The declaration contained a hint, at least, that extra factories would be built in Canada to handle American defence orders.

Just what was meant by the inclusion of the word "ships" was unknown, but it might mean the two leaders were thinking in terms of light anti-submarine and patrol craft, such as Corvettes rather than merchant ships.

HYDE PARK, N.Y., April 21.—(APP)—Here is the text of a joint statement by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada discussnig plans for effective utilization of defence production facilities of their two countries:

"Among other important matters, the President and Prime Minister discussed measures by which the most prompt and effective utilization might be made of the productive facilities of North America for the purposes both of local and hemisphere defence and of the assistance which, in addition to their own programs, both Canada and the United States are rendering to Great Britain and the other democracies.

"It was agreed as a general principle that in mobilizing the resources of this continent, each country should provide the other with the defence article which it is best able to produce, and, above all, produce quickly, and that productions programs should be co-ordinated to this end.

"While Canada has expanded its productive capacity many fold since the beginning of the war, there are still numerous defence articles which it must obtain in the United States, and purchases of this character by Canada will be even greater in the coming year than in the past.

"On the other hand, there is existing and potential capacity in Canada for the speeedy production of certain kinds of munitions, strategic materials, aluminum and ships, which are urgently needed by the United States, for its own purposes.

"While exact estimates cannot yet be made, it is hoped that during the next 12 months Canada can supply the United States with between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 worth of such defence articles. This sum is a small fraction of the total defence program of the United States, but many of the articles to be provided are of vital importance.

"In addition, it is of great importance to the economic and financial relations between the two countries that payments by the United States for these supplies will materially assist Canada in meeting part of the cost of Canadian defence purchases in the United States.

"Insofar as Canadas defence purchases in the United States consist of component parts to be used in equipment and munitions which Canada is producing for Great Britain, it was also agreed that Great Britain will obtain these parts under the lease-lend act and forward them to Canada for inclusion in the finished article.

"The technical and financial details will be worked out as soon as possible in accordance with general principles which have been agreed upon between the president and the prime minister."

British forces, as well as the Greeks, mentioned the manning of new defences, described only as a "shortened" line.

British military sources termed the situation "serious" but said the allied forces retreated in orderly fashion, maintaining an unbroken line.

Ancient Athens had seven air raid alarms during its Easter observances yesterday, but no bombs fell within the city. Dive bombers, however, struck nearby, attacking the port of Piraeus, five miles southwest of the Hellenic capital. Other waves bombed Elevsis, 10 miles west of the capital. Five of these raiders were reported shot down.

The Royal Air Force reported 10 Nazi planes down in dogfights elsewhere.

Douro Society Presents Play

DOURO, April 21 — (ENS). — St. Joseph's Dramatic Society staged their annual play to a splendid crowd on Wednesday evening. The production was the comedy drama, "I Will, I Won't," and centred around the escapades of a wealthy student at Marymount Girls' College. Failing to obtain permission for a week-end leave, the spoilt coed, Lucile O'Hara, bribed her newly-discovered cousin, Joan McNeill, to substitute for her at college. Complications rapidly arose and Lucille's room-mate and the college doctor are drawn into the tangle against their wills, causing them many headaches. The double role was well taken by Isabel Towns, a favorite with local audiences for several years. Her room-made, Lynn Tierney, was played by Carmel Leahy, who made her first appearance, and took her part exceptionally well. Joseph Moher, also a newcomer to the stage, made a splendid hit as Dr. Anthony Nagle. Wilfred Kennedy, always a favorite and usually a leading role, this year was cast in a minor role, acting the part of Mr. Howard, a lawyer. Carney Underwood, Jr., a man about town, was well taken by James Walsh. Leslie Fitzgerald, a man about school, was well acted by Gerald Walsh. Gladys Howard, a co-ed, was taken by Marie Leahy, who made her first appearance. A difficult role, that of Mrs. McNeill, the haughty grandmother of Lucille, was taken with exceptional skill by Marcelle Leahy. Dean Willis, dean of the school, was well acted by Madelyn Sullivan. A difficult part exceptionally well acted, was taken by Mary Walsh; that of Georgette, maid ordinary and diplomat extraordinary.

Specialties were a song, "The Mountains of Mourne" and encore by John Sheehan, and a vocal trio, "Killarney" and encore, by the sisters. Marcelle, Carmel and Marie. Both numbers were much enjoyed.

Sets An Example

Because of the over-accented threat of gas failed to materialize in a year and a half of war, many Britons now leave their masks at home and rarely bother about them at all. The ministry of home security recently began a drive to revive interest in anti-gas preparedness and none other than the Duke of Kent is setting the example here. He is donning his mask during an inspection.

We cannot all march into battle—but we can march into the attics, the cellars and store-away places in our homes.

There are war weapons in these places—and in your household waste, which can be turned into a valuable contribution to Canada's war production and into funds for war auxiliary services.

Many local volunteer organizations have already completed plans for a Salvage Campaign in their districts. More will follow. Quickly, we hope, all Canada will be organized to "clean out and clean up on Hitler"!

Every day of every week until this war is won, every scrap of material which can be profitably salvaged in the area in which you live must be saved, collected and turned into war production material and money.

A careful study and survey is being made throughout Canada by this Department as to the type and class of salvage which will realize the greatest return in your community. If this information is not now in the hands of your local Salvage Committee or your Municipal Council, have them communicate with the Supervisor, National Salvage Campaign, New Supreme Court Building, Ottawa.

EVERY SCRAP COUNTS

- Put Them Out Carefully
- They Will Be Collected
- They Will Be Used

The complete facilities of the Department are at the disposal of local community organizations to aid in making their Salvage Campaigns a success.

When the Campaign starts in your community, we ask that you give it your unqualified support.

Salute Is Paid To England By Rotary Club

England as the modern St. George would eventually kill the 20th century dragon of dictatorship just as St. George had slain the dragon in the old story, Rev. A. Filer, new rector of All Saints' Church declared in an earnest address at the weekly Rotary luncheon to-day as the service club paid its salute to England in connection with the celebraton of St. George's day.

Rev. Mr. Filer, who was introduced by Rotarian R. J. Goring, was born in London and in his address said that his relatives were all living there yet, including his father, who was 75 years old. "I had a letter last week," said the speaker, "and he said that he had not lost a night's sleep in spite of the air raids. Rightly or wrongly he continued to remain in bed when the air raid siren sounded."

Rev. Mr. Filer said that it was because the people of England were displaying the qualities that were symptomatic of St. George, courage and chivalry and faith, that they would eventually crush the dragon of dictatorship, despite the greed and passion displayed by the latter. At the bottom of the great courage they were displaying in the face of danger the speaker said was their belief in God.

If he had time, Mr. Filer said, he would have liked to take his hearers on a trip around England, to Exeter to the room where Drake and his companions planned to meet the enemy, to Plymouth from which the Pilgrim Fathers sailed to establish a new world, down into Devon where every turn of the road suggested some figure of historic or literal importance, to London, to St. Paul's Cathedral, to the Guild Hall, to Westminster Abbey and other famous buildings in the empire's capital.

Rotarian R. F. Downey expressed the thanks of the club to the speaker for his address and on behalf of Rotary President T. J. Carley welcomed Rev. Mr. Filer to Peterborough.

On behalf of the Ministeral Association Rev. Dr. E. W. Young spoke briefly, seeking the support of the Rotary club to a crusade against the sale and circulation of indecent literature in Canada. Rev. Dr. Young read extracts from social service organizations of various churches showing the extent to which obscene magazines, many of them of United States' origin but some printed here, were circulated in Canada and the harm such a circulation was doing. The best weapon against such magazines is an aroused public opinion," declared Dr. Young in pleading for the assistance of the Rotary club in stamping out the evil.

Harmonica Band Of Highlanders Badly In Need Of Instruments

DEBERT CAMP, N.S., April 21—(Special)—Far into advanced training for war, the Glengarry Highlanders have settled down into the routine of this huge military camp near the Atlantic ocean. Here for more than two months now, they have been fused into membership in the 3rd Division and are impatiently waiting for their next move to a theatre of war.

Many changes have taken place within the regiment since mobilization nine months ago, and training has reached an efficiency scarce dreamed of in the days of Peterborough and Kingston. Some men have been forced to drop out from reasons of health, but their number is far fewer than in many other units. New faces have appeared and are already familiar. Among the new ones to join in the officers' ranks since the regiment was stationed in Kingston are Lieut. R. P. Milligan, a former lawyer from Cornwall, Lieut. R. Baker of Cornwall and Lieut. Jack Brunette of Cornwall.

From their camp in Debert members of the regiment send an appeal to the people of Peterborough for musical instruments. It is a far throw back to the days of Peterborough, Kingston and Ottawa, when all the recreation a man wanted was his for the asking. Now, instead of being able to run downtown in the evenings for entertainment, men are forced to fall back on their own initiative and make their own fun within camp.

Realizing this fact, Lieut. Harry Willis of Peterborough, has organized a harmonica band that has already made a name for itself in the 3rd Division and beyond. Its members, more than half of whom are from Peterborough and district, practice about 10 hours each week and are constantly called upon to play at camp concerts and even in Truro. This week alone they have played at two concerts in Truro and at both were enthusiastically acclaimed, headlining the program.

First Band in Camp

The Glengarry Harmonica Band is the first in camp and one of two in all Nova Scotia. Already it boasts close to 50 members and promises to reach even greater strength. Its repertoire includes hundreds of songs and members can play for a solid hour without pause.

To start this band off the regimental canteen committee dug deep into its limited coffers to provide the required number of mouth organs. But now, because of increased numbers turning up for practice, and because the band is called upon to play so often, those first instruments must be replenished. The reeds of the original ones are gone, and their number is far from sufficient. The band now needs four Bass organs, 10 Chromatics, and 18 single reed instruments—a total of 32. The cost will be approximately $50. Each month an additional $10 will be needed to replace worn-out organs.

Canteen Funds Limited

Because the funds of the canteen are limited and must also serve for most sports equipment, this appeal is made to friends of the Regiment in Peterborough, so that these boys from home who are on active service may be able to carry on with their band.

The Peterborough Examiner has agreed to accept all contributions and to purchase the instruments, sending them direct to the regiment in whatever land it may be fighting from time to time.

The Glengarry Highlanders have achieved a camp reputation in sport since they arrived here. Their Battalion hockey team won two of three games in Truro. Truro and Halifax papers say that never has the province witnessed hockey of the calibre played this winter by army teams. Many of the players hail from Peterborough.

The officers' hockey team still stands unbeaten after four games. Among its players are Lieut. Archie Hamilton, Lieut. Athole Stewart, Lieut. Jim Gillespie, Major Herb Mason, Capt. Ted Brain, Lieut. Bob Allin, Lieut. Max Clarke, all of Peterborough.

The Battalion takes an active part in all other camp sports, including basketball, curling—Major Allan McNab is the skip—and track and field events.

After Earthquake and Eruption

Although nearly 300 miles away from the centre of the disturbance, Mexico City suffered considerable damage in the earthquake that wrecked the city of Colima. At TOP here sightseers watch a big fire that was started by an electrical short-circuit in Mexico City. BELOW, one of the big fires that overtaxed the capital's fire fighting forces. Eruption of the Colima volcano, near the city of that name, added to the terror in that area by setting fire to the forests. Half of the residents of the city of Colima were reported homeless, injured or dead.

Four Young Men Raise $252 For War Victims

To raise $252.76 from a dance at 50 cents as the price of admission, with other splendid counter attractions going on at the same time, sounds something like in the realm of high finance, but that is the splendid achievement of four young men, one local, and three from the surrounding district on Friday night when they sponsored a dance in aid of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund in the Legion Hall. This was the 4th annual affair of its kind for this quartet, composed of Robert McAdam, Stanley Jackson, George Tully and Albert McConnell.

In addition to raising such a nice amount for the fund, they will have the added satisfaction of knowing that their efforts provided the final push which enabled the 6th £500 being cabled to England. The secretary-manager of the fund, has today applied to the Foreign Exchange Control Board for permission to send this amount over, just two weeks and two days after the 5th £500 was sent.

Teachers Sponsor Dance

The teachers of South Monaghan, all belonging to the gentler sex, also sponsored a dance in Centreville Hall on Friday night, and their efforts added $28.52 to the fund. The sextet is composed of the Misses M. Staples, M. Whittington, D. Anderson, M. Winslow, A. Brackenridge and M. Van Allen. Almost all have been the means of adding previously to the fund.

S. C. Boyles of Cavan, a veteran of the last war, who also has been the means of two former contributions coming to the fund, came in on Saturday morning and asked for $5.00 worth of relief for the bomb victims of London, and his request was cheerfully complied with.

The employees of the Colonial Weaving added the substantial amount of $25.00 to Saturday's receipts and three very young ladies, Jean Roberts, Jean Collins and Shirley Roberts added their quota of $1.20 by doll dressing and rug making. Another personal contribution came in from O. F. Church.

Tonight, the Ladies' Auxiliary to the War Service Council is sponsoring a showing of the technicolor film, with sound equipment of "The Call of the Kawartha's" in the Collegiate Auditorium, with F. L. Roy who is giving his time, shooting the works, and 50 per cent of the proceeds will come to the fund. The films have been loaned by the Peterborough Tourist Bureau, and it has been shown in many large U.S. A. centres as a tourist attraction for this district.

Tuesday To Tell Extent Of Bracken Win

WINNIPEG, April 21 —(CP)—Manitoba electors will decide tomorrow the extent of support Premier John Bracken's coalition government receives in the next legislature.

The government, formed last Nov. 4 through union of Liberal-Progressive, Conservative, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and Social Credit members of the legislature, is already assured of re-election.

Mr. Bracken, premier continuously since 1922, first of Progressive, then of Liberal-Progressive administrations before forming the non-partisan governments, was returned by acclamation in The Pas constituency.

Fifteen of his coalition supporters —nine other Liberal-Progressives, five Conservatives and one Social Crediter — also were accorded acclamations when official nominations closed April 12. Only 18 opposition candidates are in the field for the remaining 39 seats and a government defeat is impossible.

Seventy-three coalition supporters ers also in the field for these seats and there are three sound money economics candidates who have expressed themselves as neither for nor against coalition.

With the question of government already decided, the election campaign has been comparatively quiet. A group of nine Social Crediters, representing the Manitoba Social Credit League, forms the strongest opposition and they have been supported in the campaign by eight New Democracy members of parliament led by John H. Blackmore, of Lethbridge, Alta., leader of the group in the House of Commons.

Miss Salome Halldorson, president of the league, was the only Social Credit member of the last legislature to oppose coalition and she seeks re-election in St. George. Three former Social Credit members supporting coalition are: S. E. Rogers, accorded an acclamation in Roblin; Hon. N. L. Turnbull, minister without portfolio, who seeks re-election in Hamiota; and Dr. S. W. Fox, standing for re-election in Gilbert Plains.

A fourth Social Crediter supporting coalition, William Lisowsky, did not stand for return in Ethelbert.

The Non-Partisan Government was supported at dissolution of the legislature by the 21 Liberal-Progressives, 14 of the 15 Conservatives, all six C.C.F. members, four of the five Social Crediters, and three of the four Independents. Four seats were vacant.

Rural polls open at eight a.m. (10 a.m. EDT), and close at seven p.m. (nine p.m. EDT), but polls in the 10-seat Winnipeg constituency and in Brandon close one hour later, at eight p.m. (10 p.m. EDT).

Marmora Holds Splendid Vimy Service

MARMORA, April 21.—(ENS). — Members of B Company of the 2nd Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, together with members of Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, assembled at the Memorial Building at 10.30 a.m. on Sunday and, led by the Bugle Band, paraded to St. Paul's Anglican church for divine service at 11 a.m., conducted by the rector, Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell.

The event combined the usual Vimy service and the Salute to Britain which is being observed throughout Canada this week. The regular morning service was followed with the singing of hymns most familiar to the military forces.

Preaching from the text, "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places," Eph. 61:12. Rural Dean Caldwell touched upon that spirit which made Vimy so memorable and referred to what St. George has stood for and the flag of St. George, too, in the annals of British history. The white background of the flag with its red symbolic of the sacrifices made, he declared, spoke to all of that purity of living which will survive, despite all else.

During the offertory, the choir sang 'Father, As We Kneel to Worship.'

Summary Day.

The vegetable summary day arranged by the North Hastings district of the Women's Institute was held in St. Andrew's church hall on Friday.

In the morning Miss Gertrude Gray of Toronto, received the reports of the local leaders on the demonstrations held by their respective branches and also judged the projects which were on exhibit in the hall.

A pot luck dinner toward which all branches had contributed was much enjoyed.

In the afternoon in the absence of the district president, Mrs. F. M. Rutherford, Mrs. H. R. Haacke presided for the program. Miss Gertrude Gray gave a short adress on the advantages to the home of a home garden and mentioned how Institues in various parts of the province had admitted the value of the holding of training schools. Mrs. Sills of Ivanhoe, gave a reading, after which George Rush vegetable specialist for the province of Ontario, gave an interesting address.

The speaker mentioned the fact that people growing their own vegetables could thereby reduce their living expenses by forty per cent. He also touched upon the treatment of vegetables against pests and the right times for planting to ensure proper growth for winter storage.

A quartette was then rendered by Mesdames F. A. Wells, L. R. Rundle, P. Fletcher and E. C. Prentice.

At the end of the session a vote of thanks to the branch was given upon motion of Mrs. Kenneth Bateman, the district secretary.

Representatives were present from the following branches: Ivanhoe, Springbrook, Rylstone Eldorado and Marmora.

Car Catches Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 — (ENS). — Bill Robertson left his car parked on Front Street on Saturday afternoon, while he went in to talk with a local car dealer. A pedestrian noticed smoke coming from under the hood of the car a few minutes later and summoned the Fire Department, which extinguished the blaze. Badly scorched paint on the hood was the only evidence of the blaze.

Rural Children To Get Trees

Distribution of trees among all the rural school children of the county will take place about May 1, William A. Anderson told the Examiner to-day.

"The exact date will depend on the weather. Some places are too wet for present delivery. Teachers and parents are requested to encourage the children and help them in the planting of these trees. One of the points that is being mentioned is that this year is the centennial of the municipal establishment of Peterborough County, and children are being asked to plant those trees in commemoration of the anniversary.

Going back to 1939 the county reforestation committee obtained three trees for each rural school child for planting around their schools. Teachers helped, and last year we had bush meetings and talks on trees, their care and planting. This year we are sending special bundles of at least ten trees to each of the school children with the idea that they be planted around their homes. There are four varieties of trees in each bundle. They are made up at Orono, standard packages, and we are taking charge of delivery about the end of the month.

"We are asking especially that parents take an interest in these packages, and encourage the young people to plant them."

Rev. H. A. Black Army Chaplain

Announcement was made from the pulpits in the three Catholic churches of the city on Sunday of three changes which are taking place in this diocese.

Rev. H. A. Black, parish priest at Wooler has entered the Canadian Chaplain Service and reports for duty in Military District No. 2 Toronto at once. He is the second priest from this diocese to don the uniform, as Rev. C. McCarney, a native of this city and brother of J. G. McCarney, Separate School Board member is now with the troops at Debert, Nova Scotia.

Rev. Leo F. Rishea of Peterborough who has been parish priest at Trout Creek for the past eight years is moving to Wooler to take Father Black's place, while Rev. H. J. Fitzgerald, who has been at the Immaculate Conception parish in Ashburnham for the last two years goes to Trout Creek as parish priest.

Father Fitzgerald will be greatly missed in the east city parish as he was the organizer of the Young People's Club, and the Badminton Club, and took an active part in both softball and baseball played by teams in the parish. Arrangements are being made to give him a send-off.

Driver Charged Drunken Driving

As Fred McGoverin, 45 Park street south, was driving east across Hunter street bridge shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday night, an automobile also travelling east at a fast rate of speed crashed into his machine from behind, damaging it considerably and then kept on without stopping after the crash.

The hit-and-run accident was reported by an eye witness to Constable C. J. McGillen who was off duty at the time but took up the hunt for the other automobile. He followed marks on the pavement for some distance and then was informed that a damaged car had turned into Euclid Avenue. Here the machine was located and soon after Francis Borrow was arrested by Constables McGillen and Naples.

This morning he faced a charge of drunken driving in police court, pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Wednesday morning. John A. Bradshaw appeared for him.

McGoverin's car had the rear left fender torn off, a wheel bent, a tire blown out and the frame bent.

The other automobile, according ot the police report, owned by Victor E. McFarlane, 360 Coxwell Ave., Toronto, who had loaned it, was very badly damaged, the front right fender being broken, the rear high fender pulled from the frame, a hub cap off, a tire torn and the frame bent.

Miss K. Menzies Passes In City

On the sixty-ninth anniversary of the opening of Knox Sunday School, of which she was the last survivor of its original members and first class, Miss Kate Menzies died at noon Sunday. She attended Knox Church for the last time only a week ago, on Easter Sunday.

Miss Menzies was in her eightieth year, and had been associated with the growth of Knox Church from its inception as a small neighborhood branch of St. Paul's Church. That first place of worship was near the corner of Aylmer and King streets, and recollections attaching to it say that it had been used as a stable and was reconditioned for the Sunday School propect.

Among others of the little group who planted that seed of Knox Church were Mrs. Robert Mulligan who died several years ago, and also the late Charlotte Dixon and her sister, Mrs. Walsh. Moving further south as Peterborough began to expand in that direction, the Sunday School was transferred to comfortable quarters in a building now used as an apartment on the north side of Dalhousie street, between Stewart and Rubidge streets. When the membership grew too large for that accommodation steps were taken to obtain a permanent property and in 1905 the old Knox Church mission on Reid street was opened, and five years later the present church was completed and dedicated at the corner of Rubidge and Wolfe streets.

In that retrospect, Miss Menzies appears as one of the founders of Knox Church, and during those sixty-nine years one of its devoted members. She was highly esteemed by the congregation.

Don't Hurry At Breakfast

It is a pity to have to hurry through breakfast. Blessed Sundays, when the family can linger over the morning meal. If we devour a meal with an eye on the clock, we shall have to pay for it afterward.

To avoid the morning rush, set the table the night before, lay out such ingredients and utensils as can be so left at hand for quick use in the morning. Use your brains and try to get things to the table with the fewest trips at breakfast time. Plan an easily prepared breakfast. One need not have fresh biscuit or muffins every day. Some housewives put the oatmeal in the fireless the night before but with quick cooking and prepared cereals that is hardly necessary. Get the family up and at the table in time that they may eat deliberately.

Another: Mrs. Sunderland Taylor, E.E. Suffolk County organizer, Women's Land Army, launched scheme for "fairy godmothers" for land girls —wives, mothers, who will act as friends, advisers, give them advice about their problems.

Hitler can't beat our factory girls. When London factory was bombed they carried on work in shelter underneath, helped to install plant while men turned shelter into new below-ground workshops, offered to work nights because of greater security.

"Marys" Continue Spitfire Fund Until June 30

Canadian women who bear that grand old name, Mary, are busily engaged in collecting for the Spitfire Fund of "Wings for Britain," and in Peterborough contributions are being sent to Mr. D. B. Falkner of the Bank of Commerce, treasurer of the local campaign.

Some years ago one "Mary" received an American five dollar gold piece. It was laid away until, anxious to help her namesakes in their drive for funds, she had it exchanged for Canadian currency, and to her delight received eight Canadian dollars for it, which was promptly turned in to the "Marys of Canada Spitfire Fund."

Another interesting contribution was received from Marie Bedore of Rimouski, Que., who sent in a cheque for $103 labelled simply "Rimouski Marys."

Five dollars was also sent to the mayor of Montreal by a little Jewish boy of thirteen as his contribution to help buy a Spitfire, and was forwarded to the Fund by Mr. Reynault. In Vancouver, Mrs. J. W. Corneti, wife of the mayor, started the ball rolling with a contribution on behalf of "Mary," her small granddaughter, the wee girl who presented Queen Elizabeth with a bouquet during the Royal visit.

"Marys" will continue their campaign until the end of June, the money collected to be turned in to the "Wings for Britain."

Writer of "God's Good Tide" To Speak In City

Professor Watson Kirkconnell of McMaster University describes the little booklet, "God's Good Tide," by Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., as "a narrative that must stir the heart in these days of world crisis." Reference to his words in connection with Miss Whitton's publication was made this morning by a Toronto newspaper columnist, and will be of interest to those who are looking forward to Miss Whitton's visit to Peterborough on Monday, May 12, when she is to address an open annual meeting of the local Children's Aid Society.

"In essence," he says, "it is a fragment of biography, a glimpse of her staunch old grandmother, Matilda Carr Whitton, who, recalling the traditions of her native Norfolk through long centuries, from William the Conqueror and Queen Elizabeth down to the time of Napoleon, analyses for her granddaughter, in the light of the past, the issues and outcome of the War of 1914-18. The grandmother died in 1918, but Miss Whitton, by a deft manipulation of incidents, reminds us again and again that the perils and disasters of the present war have all happened before—with the implication that the British, carried forward by 'God's good tide,' will once more achieve a victory over force of tyrany and destruction.

"At a time when Nazi propagandists and their dupes are seeking to interpret World Nazism as 'The wave of the Future' and to paralyse democratic resistance by this phantom of inevitability," Professor Kirkconnell continues, "it is heartening to be reassured by the solid facts of past experience that despotism has often before been shattered on the granite of the English character. A nation's vindication by a noble historic past in a great theme, and Miss Whitton has done well by it."

Both publisher's profits and royalties from this work go to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire for use in war services.

Woman Should Never Lie to Herself About Anything. Stretching Truth to Others Is Sometimes the Better Policy, but She Should Always Be Frank With Herself.

The one person to whom a woman should never lie is herself. Speaking frankly and honestly and by the book, we are bound to concede that there are many times and occasions in the life of every woman when a few tarrididdles to strangers bridge over a dangerous situation, and when telling a fib or so preserves the peace and harmony of the household. But we must also admit that admirable as truth is in the abstract, in reality it is TNT which is likely to have disastrous results when carelessly handled. So we may be sure that when a woman tells her tightwad husband that her new hat cost $5 when she paid $15 for it rather than have a fight with him over the price; or when she presses a bore to stay longer and tell more about himself instead of choking him; or when she welcomes the self-invited guest with cordiality instead of slaying her on the door-step as she would like to, her lies are accounted unto her for righteousness, and the Recording Angel drops a pitying tear upon them that blots them out. Whatever her attitude toward others, however, with herself a woman should be Veracious Jane. She should use no pretense in dealing with herself and practice no self-deception. She should look herself and her circumstances and her problems squarely in the face and say to herself: There you are my dear, so what? If she did, she would save herself a lot of trouble. Take the matter of age, for instance, about which women have told enough falsehoods to send the entire feminine sex to perdition. A woman's birthdays are a private matter between herself and the Vital Statistics Bureau, and if she chooses to remain a permanent 39 for 20 years at a stretch she has a right to do so. It is nobody's business.

But it becomes a fatal mistake when she lies to herself about her age and tries to be 39 instead of the 40 or 50 or 60 she really is. For nothing is less charming than the mature or elderly woman who tries to act girlie-girlie, who simpers and smirks and squeals with enthusiasm like a debutante, and talks about her boy friends. The soundest advice ever given women is: Be your age.

Be Truthful About Clothes

Then a woman should not lie to herself when she goes to buy her clothes. If it takes a lot of courage to face the heartbreaking and devastating truth that one's figure isn't what it used to be 20 years ago; that one's peaches and cream complexion has gone sallow; that one's golden hair is streaked with gray, and that all the snappy little numbers in the dress shops were designed for cuties who weigh about half as much as one does and are a third of one's age.

It is an awful wrench to a woman when she discovers she has to pass up plaids and has to consider lines, but she saves herself a lot of ridicule if she accepts the truth. For the only person who is fooled by the woman who dies her hair and mascaras her eyes and dresses like her granddaughter is herself. You can't make old sheep look like spring lamb.

Don't Lie About Love

But, most of all, women should never lie to themselves about love, yet they do it continually. They are so eager to be loved that they befool themselves into thinking that men are in love with them who never give them a passing thought. The world is full of old maids who have waited for years and years for the proposal that never came. They cling so desperately to love that they will not believe it dead, though they see it smouldering in its coffin.

Yet there is not a woman in the world so dumb as not to know when the man she loves has ceased to love her. He tells her in a thousand ways—by coldness, by neglect, often by flaunting the new love in her face. She knows she has lost all her allure for him, and that by no miracle can she blow the dead ashes of passion into a flame again, but she will not tell herself the truth. She will not say: It is all over and I will set about making myself a new life. She keeps on lying to herself, hypnotizing herself into believing that someday he will come back and love her as he used to do.

What a pity we women lie so often to ourselves. But, perhaps, we couldn't live if we didn't.

Fleeing Italian Troops Meet Hun Tank Fire

(By JAN YINDRICH.)

WITH THE BRITISH GARRISON BESIEGED AT TOBRUK, April 17 (Via Cairo and London, delayed).—German tanks today opened fire on about 1,000 Italian infantrymen when the Fascist troops turned and fled from an attack on this desert stronghold under a blasting of British artillery.

(Yindrich's despatch did not reveal whether the German tanks had purposely turned their guns on the Italian troops or whether the Fascisti, scattering in disorder, had been caught in the line of the German fire.)

The tank and infantry attack occurred in a lashing standstorm that reduced visibility to about twenty yards. German tanks would suddenly loom up like ghostly monsters out of the storm before the British defenders.

After a melee, a patrol of Australians with three mobile Bren gun carriers darted out in an encircling attack and seized 847 Italian prisoners including a German officer, an Italian colonel and more than 20 other officers.

The sun-bronzed defenders of Tobruk who have stood up against a battering ram of German and Italian tanks and waves of infantry assaults for six days have made this desert siege a costly one for the Axis.

In those six days of constant struggle beneath a searing African sun the British Imperial forces have destroyed 33 German and Italian tanks, some of them big monsters, taken 1,500 prisoners and piled the sands outside Tobruk's ring of defences with dead and dying German and Italian soldiers.

The Germans and Italians to-day launched their seventh big attack on Tobruk, only to be hurled back again after losing four German tanks, seven Italian infantry guns, and 847 Italian prisoners, including 26 officers.

Furthermore, at least 24 German planes have been shot out of the sky over Tobruk.

To-day's attack began about two p.m. when 12 German heavy and "cruiser" tanks broke through the wire barricades of Tobruk's outer defences from the direction of Acroma near the spot where British tanks and Australian infantry smashed through in January to seize Tobruk from Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's Italian army.

This sector has borne the brunt of most of the Axis attacks during the past six days and the Germans apaprently are trying to repeat the British tactics, believing that they can cut the semi-circular perimeter defences in two and strike through to the fortress itself.

These perimeter defences reach in a thirty-mile arc around Tobruk through the desert, covering the land side while the British Fleet keeps the Mediterranean clear on the sea side.

After breaking through the wire barricades the German tanks cruised about inside the wire, shooting at British defence posts and strong points.

Three of the German tanks were knocked out by anti-tank fire and a fourth was stopped by an Australian who crawled up to the tank's blind side, and, sticking a piece of angle-iron in the caterpillar treads, brought it to a halt.

The rest of the German tanks turned back, harried by the fire of British tanks which struck out in pursuit.

Infantry following behind the German tanks had come to within 800 yards of the outer British wire, but dispersed and withdrew when fired on by British artillery.

During the previous night about 1,000 Italian infantrmen had been seen moving into positions outside the wire in preparation for the attack.

The British went into action and threw the Italians back, whereupon the German tanks fired on the retreating Italians.

At this point the patrol of about twenty Australians with three Bren gun carriers started the encircling attack and captured the 847 prisoners.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

Yesterday.—Beatrice is determined to face Bruce Sheldrake, demand changes in store operation. But Anthony comes from his conference defeated. The merchandise manager laughed at the Big Idea. But Anthony isn't quitting. He'll get proof. And Bee realizes that she has to have proof for her changes in the store or she will be laughed at, too. For the first time she realizes the responsibility her money has brought upon her.

NO TIME FOR BLUES

CHAPTER XXII

Through the long afternoon, the enormity of her problem stayed with her. That night, as she punched her time card, one of the line of hurrying girls in dark store dresses and cheap coats, she thought, "These girls need me. I've got to help them! I've got to help Anthony. And Grandfather would want me to do something. But what? What shall I do?"

Anthony was waiting for her outside the employee's entrance. Toby Masters, who always left the store with Beatrice, cried, "You look like a man who wants to get plastered."

Toby knew something was going on, she sensed that Anthony had suffered some bitter disappointment. But she was too wise to ask.

Anthony said, violently, "If it weren't for Bee, I certainly would go out on the town tonight. I'd get high as a kite."

"And you'd have a hangover in the morning that would kill you," said Toby.

Yet his anguished eyes were so hard to bear! She remembered how she had always sought forgetfulness and surcease in the gay, crowded night clubs of this city. She thought of the hotel ball rooms, in which she had danced; the theatres in which she had sat; the music and laughter and the excitement that could drive away, for a few hours, even the deadliest boredom.

"Anthony, why don't we all celebrate tonight? We wouldn't need to get tight. But we could make whoopee! Look, let's be like that man who used to celebrate every kick as if it were a medal of honor. Let's dance and make merry and the deuce with disappointment."

Toby promptly seconded the motion. "I've been aching for a really big night for months!" She hopped up and down, squealing delightedly. "What a chance to drag out the Great Stone Face! Look, I'll tell him you're throwing the party, Anthony. Oh, I know you're broke. I'll pay your our share. But if I tell him it's your party, he can't turn me down, see? Leaving things up to him seems to have gotton nowhere, so—"

She grinned impudently, "I'm nuts about the boy. Come on, let's go home and I'll phone him and get all rigged up—"

"I've never heard of any Great Stone Face before," Beatrice said slowoly. "Who is he?"

"He's a handsome blizzard. A frozen glacier. A human adding machine. He's in the comptroller's office, my sweet. What do you think I've been doing while you and Anthony cooed over the lunch plates in the cafeteria? I've been throwing myself at his head, that's what I've been doing. He always eats in a dark corner near the kitchen, with a book on higher mathematics..I've been tossing the book under the table and offering him Toby instead, and he's been very politely and stubbornly refusing to have any.

"Toby, you shock me," Anthony said.

"Oh, he likes me, don't fret! He thinks I'm wonderful. He even admits I'm good looking. But—" the small, animated face sobered, and for a moment Toby was wistful and unsure. "He's a very careful looker-ahead, and he has a mother to support."

"I think you deserve a party," Anthony commented. "All right, we're throwing a party."

Never in her life had Beatrice known quite so impromptu a party. Anthony went home with them on the subway. Toby phoned her boy, and Vera phoned Terry. "Bring a razor for Anthony. He looks like a mattress."

Dinner was slapdash and merry. Terry arrived with the razor. "Stolen. I can't afford electric shavers."

The two men sat on the sofa and read the newspaper while they pretended not to notice as each girl trekked to and from the shower.

Beatrice was unhappy about her dress, but it was all she had, and she made it do. Toby borrowed matter-of-factly from Vera, who was rich in numbers which Jake Simon hadn't sold.

At 8 o'clock, the doorbell rang, announcing Toby's Great Stone Face. She cautioned Terry five times, between the bedroom and the door, not to "get gay" with her friend. Then she came back radiant, leading a tall bay with a thin, bony face and red hair.

"Handsome" thought Beatrice. "Toby must have it bad!"

But when Sam McArdle smiled, she understood.

"We might as well get going," Terry said, after the introductions were over. "We've got half an hour before the curtain and it's a long ride."

Back to the subway. Six laughing young people, crowding into the train. Toby hung on the arm of her cavalier with such transparent joy that Beatrice couldn't help saying to Anthony. "The tough young girl about town! Just look at her."

They ran all the way from the subway station to the theatre, but they were late. It was two flights up to their seats, and people commented audibly at their nerve in barging in after the show started. "No consideration! Where do they think they are, in the orchestra?"

During intermission, Toby and Vera hung over the rail, gazing down enviously at the brilliance of the fur capes, satin and sequined evening gowns, and diamond bracelets of the sirens in the orchestra. Beatrice sipped a warm orangeade from a paper cup contentedly, and smiled at Anthony. She knew the orchestra crowd. This was better.

It was an uproarious musical comedy, with tunes that lingered after the last curtain fell.

"And now," said Toby, "On to the Danceteria."

"The—what?"

"It's a nightclub, really,' Toby explained with dignity. "Only you tote a tray. Dinner and drinks and dancing and a swell orchestra and better than Fifty-second street any night"

The Dancenteria was a revelation. It was done in red, with a Spanish motif as eye-shocking as the zebra stripes at the night club with which Beatrice was more familiar. There were tables, all crowded, and a dance floor that was jammed although it was larger than any night club dance floor had a right to be.

The most important thing about the Danceteria was its democracy. Black ties mingled with dark blue serge, and sport dresses swayed right next to white tulle. The cheerful sound of happy voices was strangely different from the occasional feverish shrieks Beatrice remembered. There was no recurrent shrilling of "How perfectly divine!" "My dear ,can you bear it?" No one seemed to be concerned with who stopped at who's table, or who was dancing with who's wife.

No where in sight was there anything that faintly resembled the most publicized debutante of the season, or the most sought-after eligible male. No candid cameras clicked under flash bulbs. Beatrice saw no columnists sitting at reserved tables. She saw no obsequious waiters, either.

But the thing that was most striking of all was the fact that everybody here was so young and so transparently happy "Anthony, do you see any grayhaired men? Any overdressed divorcees? Any actresses, even? Actors?"

Anthony said, "I see a lot of shipping clerks. And section managers, like me."

"It's wonderful," she criew. "Anthony, it's marvelous! I'm so glad we had this party!"

She watched a girl at the next table scuffle good-naturedly with a boy over the possession of some snapshots.

She watched Vera poking Terry and whispering. "Don't spend too much." She saw Sam McArdle's red head hovering close to Toby's chestnut curls.

"I'm so happy, Anthony, I've simply got to dance. Right now!"

Allies Finding Tough Job To Retreat In Greece

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP). The fact that the British and Greek forces have withdrawn to make a new stand well south of the present battle front in Greece can cause no surprise. The announcement from British Middle East Headquarters in Cairo merely confirms what already was apparent so far as the western flank of the Allied line was concerned.

An Italian claim of two days ago that Greek armies in Albania and Northwestern Greece were in retreat and "collapsing" gave evidence of a sweeping Greek withdrawal from a dangerous trap. The whole line westward from the Kalabaka region of Greece to Southern Albania near Kimara formed a perilous salient for the Greeks holding it. They were faced by even graver perils than being encircled north of the Viosa. A German-Italian breakthrough westward from the centre in the Kalabaka region might have trapped both the Greek troops in the west and the British in the east with their backs to the sea.

Gravity Admitted.

The British announcement of another general withdrawal along the whole front might mean that the Greeks in the west have succeeded in falling back out of immediate danger. That is by no means certain as yet, however. With Rome contending that its forces are in sight if not yet in possession, of Santi Quaranta (Port Edda), last harbor on the extreme southern coastal tip of Albania, it may be that many Greek divisions south and southeast of that point are still in grave jeopardy. Athens and London make no secret of the gravity of the situation.

The withdrawal brings up anew the question of where a new stand might be made on the "shorter line of defence" mentioned in the Cairo announcement. The shortest possible line available southward of the present Allied front is at the Greek waistline from the Gulf of Atalantis to the Gulf of Artes. Thermopylae, historic battleground on the western side of the Gulf of Atalantis, is a possible eastern anchorage of a waistline defence front still covering Athens and a narrow strip of Southern Greece north of the Straits of Corinth.

A formal warning from London that if the Axis bombs either Athens or Cairo, the Royal Air Force will retaliate against Rome, further suggests hope for an Allied stand well south of the present yielding defence front. Abandoning the present line seems certain to open the great central valley lands of Greece to Axis columns. That would bring Nazi-Fascist air bases close to Athens.

Dangers In Retreat.

There are grave dangers in a deep retreat on so wide a front through those open lands to the mountainous terrain in the waistline. Once the Allies leave behind them the rugged country and narrow passes in which the fight has been raging, they would be exposed to the full impact of Nazi blitzkrieg technique.

Study of recent auto road maps of Central Greece discloses the possibilities for sudden mechanized thrusts to cut through and get behind retreating armies. Major highways traverse Greece, running north and south.

For the moment the western flank of the allied line seems to touch the sea, the Ionian, not the Adriatic, somewhere south of the Greek - Albanian border, in the vicinity of the Ionian Island of Corfu. If that is so, the Greeks have already evacuated Albania and must be trooping hastily southward all the way from the Ionian coast eastward to the British-Greek junction. Retirement from Albania does not offer them a greatly shortened front to defend nor can they hope to contract their lines substantially anywhere north of the waistline.

A difficult retirement for the British troops on the eastern flank is also in prospect. If the Allies can negotiate it, however, and reach a front from the Vonitza vicinity in the west to the Lamia region in the east, they would have only some 75 miles of mountain-bulwarked front to hold, protected by water on both flanks.

HORSES BRAVE "BLITZ"

LONDON—(CP).—There are 242 police horses regularly on duty in the British capital. Police officials say they are no more worried by guns and bombs than they are by cheering crowds or brass bands.

5 Violent Deaths Mar Weekend

TORONTO, April 21 — (CP). — Five violent deaths were reported in Ontario during the week-end. Four persons died in fatalities involving automobiles and another from suicide.

Lawrence Quennville, 2, of Mille Roches, died in Cornwall hospital on Sunday from injuries suffered when the bicycle he was riding was in collision with a car near his home.

Robert Wood, 82, died in hospital at Hamilton on Sunday from injuries received in a traffic accident on Saturday. Police said he became confused as he crossed the street, was hit by a car and thrown into the path of a car going in the opposite direction.

H. Sharpe of Deseronto was fatally injured when the car he was driving crashed into the rear of another car near Belleville.

Mrs. Annie Chtyk, 57, of Oshawa-on-the-Lake, died from fatal injuries when hit by a car police said was driven by Leo Smith of Oshawa.

Charles Westbrook, 52, was found dead in his barn at Belmont. The coroner said it was suicide and that no inquest will be held.

WHILE LONDON SLEEPS

Throughout the night, while Nazi bombers roar overhead, tin-hatted Canadian Press editors work behind blackout curtains in their Fleet Street office so Canadians may read of the latest air raid, a new British naval victory in their morning papers.

Maintaining a 24-hour service, sheltering only in the heaviest raids, they scan reports of The Associated Press, Reuters, the Press Association and government announcements to meet Canadian newspaper deadlines around the clock.

But this is only part of the work of The CP's eight-man London staff. They cover Westminster and Downing Street, report bombing raids whether they are in Liverpool, Plymouth or in London's East End, give Canadians a true picture of Britain at war. Here you meet three of them.

HAROLD FAIR,

CP Parliamentary Correspondent, crossed the Atlantic a week after war broke out to join London Bureau after experience in three Provincial Legislatures and the House of Commons at Ottawa. As CP representative at Westminster, Fair is the only Dominions newspaperman regularly reporting the British House of Commons from a Press Gallery seat.

PAT USSHER,

Member of the London staff since the Bureau's establishment in 1936, interrupted his coverage of the bomb blitz only once—to get married in a "quiet" wedding, while two bombs dropped in the neighborhood. Ussher, 32, has been with CP since 1931, was cable editor at New York before his London appointment.

FOSTER BARCLAY,

Newcomer to the London staff, who crossed to England on a troop transport last December and was greeted with the great bombing that sent fire sweeping through the City section. A native of Ottawa, Barclay, like other members of the CP staff, spends his spare time atop his apartment house ready to quench Nazi incendiaries.

Daily, Canadian Press member newspapers demonstrate the value of CP's London coverage by wide use of the bylined stories of these staff men and Ross Munro, War Correspondent with the Canadian Corps; Sam Robertson, London Superintendent; D. E. Burritt, Louis Hunter and Doug Amaron. All young Canadians, all unmarried but two, they sought their London appointments eagerly. They will be followed in time by others as eager to take their places, as well-equipped to do their jobs, so that the unequalled service Canadian Press is providing its 90 members in Canada shall continue.

You Can Get Slim Again by Low-Calory Dieting

"Time To Stop This Gaining!"

Yes, getting fatter and fatter! Last year's suits won't go on unless a lot of weigh comes off.

"But dieting takes SO much will power!" No it doesn't—not these days, with modern low-calory diets of three square meals a day with desserts!

Just see the tasty lunch we've pictured. On your diet you can eat such lunches and still lose 2 pounds a week . . . for they have few of those fat-making calories. Consomme, a delicious chicken sandwich, strawberries with cream add up to only 380.

You have only to keep away from high-calory dishes. Imagine if you ate for lunch a club sandwich, oozing fattening mayonnaise. Why, that alone amounts to 609 calories.

And of course you'd want "something else," perhaps cream of tomato soup, 269 a cup, or prune pudding, 433 a serving! You see, now, how you keep gaining? But with a calory chart you can easily avoid such disasters.

Be sylphlike again? Our 32-page booklet gives calory chart and 42 tasty reducing menus based on healthful protective foods. Has a 3-day liquid diet to start you off. Tells how to gain.

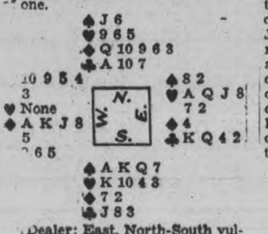
Send 15c in coins of stamps for your copy of THE NEW WAY TO A YOUTHFUL FIGURE to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough, sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

MUST LEAD A TRUMP

"WHEN IN doubt, lead trumps" was never meant to be taken seriously. Ordinarily it would be better to revise that into "When in doubt don't lead trumps," as usually a trump lead is the one thing a declarer would like the most, unless it be the dummy's suit when no other suit had been bid except that and the trumps. But there is one time when a trump lead is almost obligatory upon you. That is when the side has got together on a suit contract after each partner had shown one other suit. Then it looks very much like a cross-ruff, which can be broken up best by making the declarer use two trumps on a trick instead of one.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

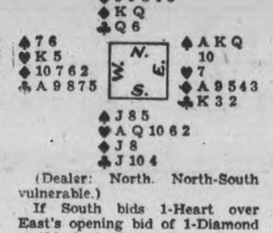
East	South	West	North
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl

That kind of bidding developed at two tables of a duplicate game. One of the 3-Spades declarers made his contract and the other was slaughtered. It all depending on the opening lead. Where the contract was made, North chose the worst lead in the deck, the dummy's suit, leading the heart 9. The A won that, West shedding a diamond, then the diamond 4 was led to the K. The diamond 8 was ruffed by the spade 2 and the heart Q led. South ducking and letting West discard a club. He covered the heart J with the K, West ruffing.

North covered the diamond J then with his Q, dummy ruffing with the 8 and South beating it with the spade Q. Much too late now came South's spade A and K, followed by the spade 7 to the 10. All that the defenders could now get was one more trick wit' the club A, so the contract was made.

In the other case North opened his spade J, which won, then sent his spade 6 to the Q, followed by the A and K. The diamond 7 caused West to try a finesse of the J, North winning with the Q and returning the heart 9 to the J, K and a ruff by West. Declarer quickly raked in his diamond A, diamond K, led a club to the K, cashed the heart A and Q, then led a heart to South's 10. The club A took the last trick, setting the contract a third trick.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Heart over East's opening bid of 1-Diamond on this deal, what is the chief purpose of his call?

Switzerland's shortage of old paper caused a scarcity of paperboard used in packing Swiss ammunition and other military requirements.

Senate Opponent Group Eases On Convoy Fight

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP).—Some Senate opponents of United States foreign policy, conceding that they might fail to enact a strict prohibition against convoys, worked out an alternative restriction today under which convoys could be ordered only with approval of Congress.

A resolution forbidding convoys is scheduled for action by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee April 30, and administration leaders say they have ample strength to shelve the measure.

Senator Charles Tobey (Rep., New Hampshire), author of the proposal, told the Senate yesterday he had information from unnamed persons that American naval vessels already were engaged in convoy work. Democratic Leader Alben Barkley (Kentucky) replied he had "unequivocal and emphatic" assurance from Navy Secretary Frank Knox and Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of Naval operations, that convoys had not been used and that no orders for them had been issued.

Senator Gerald Nye (Rep., North Dakota) was expected to introduce a new resolution requiring Congressional approval before convoys could considered as a compromist if the considere das a compromise if the Foreign Relations Committee shelves the Tobey resolution.

In another field of foreign policy, Senator Nye criticized the administration for its pledges of assistance to Yugoslavia.

"One day," he said, "this country will be held up in the light of having encouraged these little countries to stand up one ofter another and commit suicide by promising help that we couldn't possibly furnish.

"These empty promises have definitely weakened our prestige throughout the world."

Every Man In England Expects To Do His Duty

The British home guards are ready for the worst, if the worst comes. This photograph of home-guard preparedness was made in the Dover-Folkestone "danger area" where it is feared the Nazi invasion will strike first if it comes. A squad of home-guardsmen are shown drilling at street fighting. The bottles contain "Molotov cocktails"—flaming death for any enemy tank which they might spatter.

Millbrook Plans Holiday On St. George's Day

MILLBROOK, April 21—(ENS).—By proclamation of the Reeve, St. George's Day, Wednesday, April 23, is to be observed as a public holiday from 9.30 a.m. until 11.30 a.m., "A Salute to England" being the underlying idea, since St. George is the patron saint of our Motherland. Locally the ministers of the three churches, the school board, and the council have decided to celebrate the occasion by a public meeting in the Town Hall at 10 a.m., with a program in keeping with the day, and the general public urged to attend.

The local Red Cross work rooms were again a busy place at the weekly gathering, with one quilt completed and others set up for next week's work meeting, thirteen quilts in all being packed and shipped this week, including 2 from Millbrook, 5 from Baillieboro, 5 from Fallis Line and 1 from the Marsh unit.

The quota of knitting alloted to the local branch for each month, including April, May and June, is: For the navy: 4 pairs seaman's long stockings, 4 ribbed helmets, 4 turtle neck sweaters, 4 pairs of mittens and four scarves; For the army: 25 pairs socks, khaki; 15 pairs two-way mitts; 10 sleeveless sweaters.

The salvage campaign is expected to be under way shortly, and all householders are asked to save anything of value along this line, of which more definite announcement will be made next week.

Mrs. E. J. Powell entertained the junior work group for its weekly meeting, ward slippers being worked on, and the next meeting will be at Mrs. D. R. Fowler's. Ten pairs of machine-knit socks have been a gift this week to the local branch, for which grateful acknowledgement is made.

Pieces for quilt patching are still needed, and workers ready to take home clothing for sewing, as the last bulletin received urged the great need now for those rendered homeless, having lost practically everything through the bombing and other exigencies of war. Stress is also laid on the fact that, after the war, the need will be limitless, so there can be no slackening on the part of workers here.

Two grass fires have given the firemen a run in recent days, including one at Percy Handley's, where an adjacent hedge, and frame buildings, including the bungalow in which the family lives, were potential sources of added danger. The other was at the Rectory, and both were soon extinguished by the use of the chemical engine.

As an additional safety measure, the firemen burned the grass on two or more vacant lots, keeping watch until the job was completed.

Arnold Armstrong, of the Dominion Arsenal, Lindsay, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, the former's many friends being glad to know that he is somewhat improved in health, though still unable to take any active work.

Betty Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Smith, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. H. Smith, and other relatives in Toronto, for the Easter vacation week.

Sergeant Owen McCarthy, of the Midland Regiment, was home for a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. E. H. Barnes and Mr. Barnes, recently, leaving again on Monday for his place of training. Miss Kathryn McCarthy, Reg.N. of Toronto, was also home for part of the Easter holidays.

U.S.S.R. AGRICULTURAL SHOW

Among exhibits at Moscow's last agricultural show were over 500 varieties of grains and legumes, 473 of fodder crops, 167 of industrial crops and medicinal plants, 414 of potatoes and vegetables and 724 of fruits and berries.

Seed Potatoes Are Priced $1.25 to $1.75 Bag

The farm produce market is steadily expanding under the influence of the sunshine of Spring. This seasonal spread was apparent on the outdoor section Saturday. More seed potatoes and grain was offered, and the first flower plants, perennials and biennials were noticed.

Erle Tully was in with a quantity of certified seed potatoes priced as follows:—Warbas $1.75 and $1.50; Cobblers $1.50 and $1.25.

Other growers and the prices were:—Clifford Johnston, White Stars at $1.10 and 90 cents, and seed Cobblers at 75 cents.

E. Cavano of Manvers with a stock grown from certified seed, Stars, Warbas and Chippewas $1 a bag.

W. H. Lindsay, Campbellcroft, Katahdins $1. W. K. Reid of Reaboro described his seed grain as all No. 1 as follows:—Sweet Clover $3.50; Alsike $11.50; Red Clover $10.50 and Timothy $4.25.

Maple syrup offerings were light at $2.50 a gallon. James Healey of Westwood said he had sold his output. The production in his woods was less than half of last year's.

Butter was 35 cents a pound, and several protesting comments were heard about the rumors that the price for summer is going to be pegged at considerably less than was expected, as a means of forcing farmers to send their milk to the cheese factories.

"We live twenty miles from a factory," a South Monaghan woman said. "We can't think of sending milk to a factory. Once we had one a few miles from our place, but it has been closed these many years."

Her opinion was that if pegged at 30 cents for the summer the price of butter would be rather favorable.

At the noon hour the price of eggs ranged from 17 cents to 20 and 23 cents. The top grade price for the day was 23 cents.

The fresh meat dealers were still doing business, although warm weather will soon drive them from the market. At least it usually does. Allen Gill's prices were: pork 13 and 15 cents, beef 13 and 16 cents, lamb 20 to 30 cents. Ken Denoon asked 20 and 25 cents for lamb and 15 and 20 cents for veal. E. A. Hunter's prices for pork were 12 and 14 cents.

Chickens sold at 23 to 25 cents and broilers at 33 cents. Several of the last prices of butter were down to 33 and 30 cents, but the last figure did not represent any quantity of the morning's selling. One woman sold 70 pounds at 35 cents a pound.

The supply of apples is still holding up. Ben Isaac of Norham had No. 1 Spies at 55c a peck with others at 45c. Norman Moncrief's prices were: 50c and 40c the peck or $1.75 and $1.40 the bushel; Starks 35c a peck and $1 a bushel; Russets 40c and $1.40 a bushel.

Perennial flowers were 10 and 15 cents a root, and dahlias 10 cents a tuber.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage or stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Capacity Orders For US, Due In Dominion Industries Under New Pact, Says King

Premier Feels He Can Do More At Home Now Than Attending London Parley; Sees 300 Million Bigger Outlet In States

OTTAWA, April 22 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King has brought from the United States word that President Roosevelt probably will visit the capital next month and an assurance that Canadian industry can expect capacity orders under the new Canada-United States agreement for closer anti-Axis co-operation.

Mr. King returned yesterday afternoon from a visit with the President, and a few hours later summoned Ottawa correspondents to his east block office for a press conference.

His replies to questions ranged from what he termed the "Hyde Park declaration" of last Sunday to the possibility that some day Canada might help defend Greenland from the possibility of use by the enemy and the "disposition" of the Government to make it easier for Canadians to travel for pleasure in the United States if it can be arranged without hindering the war effort.

He said he felt he could do more at present to further the war effort by staying in Canada rather than going to the United Kingdom and described London reports that the British Government was anxious for the Dominions' Prime Ministers to meet in Britain as "pure speculation" which "does not express the official point of view in London."

No Definite Date Set

Mr. King said that when he extended an invitation to Mr. Roosevelt to visit Ottawa, the president replied that he had made up his mind to come, but did not want to fix a definite date at the moment.

"I told the president it would be good if he could be here while parliament is in session and that early in May would be a suitable time," Mr. King said. "He hopes to come about May 10 or 15 but that, of course, is subject to possible change.

He was not in a position to give details of how the new economic arrangement would work out, but Munitions Minister Howe would make a statement soon after the House of Commons resumes sittings Monday.

Mr. King said the agreement would make easier Finance Minister Ilsley's task of budgetting for Canada's war expenditures. It was in-

Italians Pull Up For Stand About Dessie

CAIRO, Egypt, April 22.(—AP)—Italian forces have turned and are giving battle to British Imperial forces at Dessie, in Ethiopia 175 miles northeast of Addis Ababa.

Despite the Italian stand, British Middle East headquarters said the South African column advancing on the Ethiopian capital from this sector occupied an important position covering the approach to Dessie after inflicting serious losses on the Fascists.

The advance of another northern column on this East African front was reported hampered by extensive road demolitions.

In Southern Ethiopia it was announced that 17 Italian officers and 549 men had been taken prisoner and that "operations are proceeding satisfactorily."

On the North African front the British headquarters said briefly that "our patrols again have been active" in the Salum sector, just across the Egyptian border from Libya, and at Tobruk, 80 miles west of the frontier.

BELFAST, April 22—(CP) — About 500 persons were killed, 420 seriously injured and 1,142 slightly injured in last Tuesday night's mass German raid on Belfast and other regions of Northern Ireland, it was announced today in the House of Commons.

The Minister of Home Security for Northern Ireland said the death roll may go higher since bodies still are being recovered.

FDR Puts Finger On Strikers To Produce Coal

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP).—Southern coal operators, acting at the request of the White House, agreed today to return to New York and reopen negotiations with the United Mine Workers for a contract which would permit resumption of coal production in the Appalachian area bituminous mines.

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP). —President Roosevelt put the miners and mine operators of the United States soft coal industry on notice today to re-open the mines "immediately" because "the public interest demands it and the public interest is paramount."

The President pointed out that coal supplies are dwindling for vital defence industries, and said it is "imperative" there be no shortage of fuel to keep defence production rolling.

Mr. Roosevelt issued his personal summons for re-opening of the idle mines in a statement last night. The White House call brought no immediate reaction from officials of the Miners' Union or representatives of mine operators.

Pymouth Air Barrage Seen 40 Miles

Casualties Run High As Huns Hit City In 3 Waves

LONDON, April 22—(CP).—Nazi planes strafed the south coast seaport of Plymouth for hours last night and struck again at England today through a thick mist over the Strait of Dover.

London had a noon-hour alarm. The all-clear sounded a short time later, without any reports of bombings. It was learned that a formation of German planes had been seen southwest of the capital.

One Nazi bomber was shot into the English Channel by a Royal Air Force fighter pilot.

The British Air Ministry said bombers attacked dockside buildings at the German-held French port of Le Havre at Dusk yesterday. One enemy fighter was destroyed near the French coast.

In the attack last night on Plymouth, Nazi raiders swept through an anti-aircraft barrage so intense it could be seen 40 miles away, and dumped loads of fire and explosive bombs. Casualties were feared heavy.

The government said the fires were under control before dawn, and its reports indicated that "although the raid was severe, neither damage nor casualties were as serious as in previous attacks on this area."

During the night, Royal Air Force fighters crossed the Channel to stalk German aircraft over their bases in occupied France and reported shooting down a four-engined bomber.

(Berlin claimed hundreds of German bombers carried out night-long attacks on war-important objectives

NEW YORK, April 22 — (AP). — The Berlin radio station DJB went off the air about 9.40 a.m., E.D.T., today suggesting to the National Broadcasting Company here that Berlin feared the broadcast was giving aerial guidance to the Royal Air Force. RAF Keeps It Hot For Axis In All Libya

CAIRO, Egypt, April 22.—(AP)—Heavy British air raids on Tripoli, capital of Libya, and on German-occupied airdromes in Northern Greece were reported today by the Royal Air Force's Middle East command. The period covered was the night of April 20-21.

The communique also said heavy damage and a number of casualties were inflicted yesterday on Axis forces in Libya when airdromes at Derna and Ain El Gazala and concentrations at Bardia and Fort Capuzzo were raided.

As for the raid on Tripoli, the communique said about 10 tons of bombs were dropped from low attitude and "hits were observed on harbor and military buildings.

The communique added that "many large fires were started by the bombing and the fires were again bombed to prevent them from being extinguished by the enemy."

On the same night, April 20-21, the R.A.F. executed "heavy and continuous attacks on enemy-occupied airdromes in Northern Greece," the communique went on, acknowledging 'some damage" to R.A.F. airdromes in Axis attacks yesterday. Malta, British island base in the Mediterranean, was raided but, the communique said, with only three civilian casualties.

THE WAR TO-DAY

By GUY RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sentiment in favor of a sterner attitude toward key neutrals whose government pursue a policy of dubious "collaboration" with Britain's enemies is rising in both the British Empire and the United States.

Vichy France, Spain, and the Soviet Union are three countries to which British and American policy has paid court over long periods. And for all these conciliatory efforts no tangible advantages have been gained.

Now the British press is demanding that Vichy be told to stop supplying Germany with war materials and take steps to halt Nazi activity in the French possessions of North and West Africa, the alternative to be a policy of aloofness, with no concessions toward mitigating Vichy's admittedly difficult situation.

British firmness may well be too late, however, for the policy of collaboration launched by Pierre Laval seems to be gaining strength, with the return to Vichy of Laval himself a possibility. Reports are current that unoccupied France will allow German troops to cross its territory into Spain for an attack on Gibraltar.

To Spain both Britain and the United States have made repeated concessions in food supplies and loans. Yet the pro-Nazi policy of Foreign Minister Serrano Suner has gained ground, Germany has been allowed to penetrate Tangier, and now that things are going badly in the Eastern Mediterranean

ATHENS, April 22 — (AP), — British and Greek forces fell back to new defence positions in the Lokris Mountains, some 100 miles north-west of Athens to-day, and indicated they might make a stand against the Germans at or near Thermopylae Pass, where Spartan King Leonidas put up a heroic defence before the Persian Legions of Xerxes in 480 B.C.

The British command announced that Imperial Forces had occupied the shortened line south of Lamia, a town on the lower side of the Othrys Mountains and on the northern edge of a narrow plain.

Thermopylae Pass threads through the Lokris Mountains, whose forbidding peaks rise to the south and command the jagged Greek coast. The Pass, a few yards wide in Leonidas' time, now ranges in width from 1½ to 3 miles. Literally Thermopylae means "The Hot Gates."

Some strategists hold that it is the only route through which an army can invade lower Greece.

The Allies reached the new positions with their lines intact despite repeated Nazi lunges and heavy Stuka assaults.

The British Air Command said the total of German planes shot down over the Athens area on Sunday was 22, as against seven for the R.A.F.

"Outnumbered during a series of heavy attacks on Greek and British airdromes, ports and troops, Hurricanes drove the luftwaffe back time and again," the communique said.

"Many dive bombers and fighters of the German air force preferred machine-gunning the civilians in the streets and the Greek villages to facing up to R.A.F. fighters."

One Downs Three.

One Hurricane pilot was credited with downing three Germans single-handedly and several others two apiece.

A Free French pilot, the R.A.F. Command said, "put up the first score for the Free French in Greece." Later, it added, this pilot himself was shot down, but parachuted to safety.

One Hurricane pilot, who was said to have downed 14 German planes, found himself alone above six German Messerschmitts, pounced on them and knocked two out of the air, the communique related.

The British Air Command, which announced esterday that 14 German planes had been downed in the Sunday fighting over Athens, said their own losses were seven planes, as originally reported.

Athenians awoke this morning to the sound of screaming air raid sirens, anti-aircraft fire and the crunch of bombs in the distance as a swarm of 80 dive bombers pounced repeatedly on nearby targets.

Clouds of dust and smoke rose from the ancient Attic hills back of the capital, where bombs were dropped. The air immediately over the city was filled with bursting anti-aircraft shells aimed at the high-flying Nazis.

Residents emerged somberly into the bright sunshine, having spent the night at home as the result of a strictly-enforced 9 o'clock curfew.

On the war front, bitter fighting was in progress along the length of the newly-established Allied line.

Churchill Is Silent On Greek Outlook "Others To Think Of"

LONDON, April 22—(CP Cable). —Silent on the progress of the critical military operations in Greece and North Africa, Prime Minister Winston Churchill had good news and bad for the House of Commons today.

He declined to discuss the military position in Greece where "operations of many kinds are going on and we have others to think of besides ourselves." Nor would he say what was going on in Libya generally.

But cheers greeted his announcement that the Mediterranean fleet had bombarded Tripoli for 42 minutes at dawn Monday, inflicting heavy damage in the harbor. He added that Fleet Air Arm planes shot down four or five Nazi troop-carrying planes.

Earlier the Admiralty announced that heavy units of the British fleet pounded the Western Libyan port of Tripoli with 15-inch shells in a 40-minute bombardment yesterday.

It said six transport or supply ships in the harbor were seen to be hit, and added that other hits were observed on the quay, the naval headquarters, power station, and a military stores depot. The railway station was reported set afire.

En route to Tripoli, naval aircraft intercepted five German troop-carrying planes and shot down four in flames.

The British fleet was not seriously molested and no ships were lost.

Besides six transports or supply ships shelled at Tripoli, the Admiralty said a destroyer was seen to be hit.

Opposition from coastal batteries, the Admiralty declared, proved "ineffective."

GEN. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told the senate defence investigating committee today that the United States war department had "gotten over the hump" after two years of difficulties in assembling a fighting force and "a tremendous army is developing."

Gen. Marshall said he was highly pleased with the organization which had been developed.

"The army has the highest morale that I have ever seen," he declared.

LumbermenGive Nazi-Hunters Wild Goose Hunt

HERON BAY, Ont., April 22 (CP) —A search party which had cut through the snowy bushland west of the Pic river in hot pursuit of four of the six German war prisoners still at large overtook the men whose tracks they had been following today—and found them to be four lumberjacks travelling into a lumber camp to look for work.

The great manhunt for the four believed to have crossed the Pic on crudely built rafts yesterday switched once again after the lumberjacks had identified themselves to the police who found their tracks on the east side of the river, then followed over the deep snow and through the heavy bush.

The search, going on steadily since discovery of the break of 28 Germans was not abandoned altogether east of the Pic but the main body of guards, police and trappers was brought back to the west side, where all six now are believed to be hiding.

At the camp this morning, Major C. B. Lindsey, guard commander and acting camp commandant, said the searchers also had abandoned the idea that the other two prisoners were in the Coldwell-Schreiber area west of the camp.

The six men now are between the west bank of the Pic and Coldwell.

Plan Staff Buildings For 90 Single Men, Family Homes Later

OTTAWA, April 22 —(CP)—All houses erected by the Wartime Housing Limited will be temporary structures, designed for liquidation after the war, Joseph M. Pigott of Hamilton told the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities at the opening of its fourth annual conference today.

The conference opened under the chairmanship of Mayor Adhemar Raynault of Montreal.

Mayor Fred Conboy of Toronto presented the treasurer's report.

An invitation to all Canadian mayors to attend the second Inter-American conference of municipalities at Santiago, Chile, opening Sept. 15, was read by Mayor Lewis.

Mr. Pigott, president of Wartime Housing, Ltd., said:

"The company will build only where there is a definite and acute shortage of housing due the employment of additional numbers of people on munitions and defence projects."

Also it would build only where private capital was not available or was unable to build because of the temporary character of the project.

The houses would be built at the lowest possible cost consistent with health safeguards and proper insulation against cold.

They would be designed to provide the greatest possible salvage value after the war and to this end they would probably be demountable and made of sections bolted together.

"We intend to standardize on two or three types of houses," he said. "There will probably be two plans for a two-bedroom house and one plan for a four-bedroom house.

"There will also be standard staff houses for 90 unattached men."

Tenders for construction would be accepted and it was hoped the large general contractors would take an interest and make the services of their organizations available.

In order to get required results mass production methods would be

Portland First to Feel Blitz

Weymouth Got It Too Same Day As Goering Took Drubbing

By H. M. PETERS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer,)

LONDON, April 22 —(CP)—The first English towns to be bombed in the daylight German aerial assault last August were Portland and Weymouth, the best-selling booklet "The Battle of Britain" relates.

In the first stage of the aerial assault, which began Aug. 8 and continued until Oct. 31 when the Nazis, after suffering huge losses, gave up daylight attacks to concentrate upon the safer but less effective night raiding, the target was shipping, coastal towns and fighter airdromes.

"The enemy sent over massed formations of bombers escorted by similar formations of single and twin-engined fighters," the booklet says. The fighter escorts flew in large, unwield formations, from 5,000 to 10,000 feet above the bombers, where the protection they afforded was not very effective.

"Using these tactical formations the enemy made 26 attacks during this first stage. He began by renewing his assaults on our shipping (which had been going on intermittently throughout most of July.)

"It may well be that this was still regarded as the most vulnerable form of target and the easiest to attack, for not only are slow-moving ships difficult to defend, but casualties among the pilots of the defence are always higher when the action is fought over water. He may also have wished to test the strength of our general defences.

"At any rate on Aug. 8 two convoys were fiercely attacked, one of them twice. Sixty enemy aircraft in the morning and more than 100 soon after midday, deployed on a front of over 20 miles, tried to sink or disperse a convoy off the Isle of Wight. They succeeded in sinking two ships.

"In the afternoon at 4.15 more than 130 appeared over another convoy off Bournemouth. This they were able to disperse but they lost

Blitz Toll Below Peace Loss

Fewer Cars, Better Diet, More Caution Tell In U.K.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)— An American Red Cross official declared today that the loss of life in blitz-bombed England actually is less than in peace time.

James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, undertook to explain the paradox at the national convention of the organization here.

"This situation can partially be accounted for," he said, "by the fact that during the past year more English people have been trained in first aid, accident prevention, nutrition, personal and household hygiene, sanitary precautions and health preservation than in any time in England's history.

Greek Troops Escape Trap In West

Rearguards Save Day; Piraeas Bombed In Day-Long Attack

ATHENS, April 22—(AP).—Greek and British troops dug in today on a short, new defence line which they reported reaching without a break in their front, despite Nazi attacks across the Plain of Thessaly and heavy assault by dive bombers.

"Location of the new line was not disclosed, but it seemed likely to be based on a defence of the Othrys Mountains, jutting up at Lamia south of the Thessaly Plain, and of the rugged passes of the Pindus range west to the coastal lowlands of the Ionian Sea."

Fierce-fought delaying action by British and Greek rearguard forces was credited with holding back the onrush of Axis forces while the new line was manned, preventing any break-through and with saving defence forces from being outflanked.

An Associated Presss correspondent with the British forces on the eastern wing of the line said in a dispatch last night the withdrawal had been necessitated by three Nazi penetration of the old defences—through Grevena Pass, south of Servia, and along the coast east of Mt. Olympus—which sent Nazi armored divisions streaming southward onto the plains past Trikkala and Larisa.

The Greek withdrawal farther west, carried out to maintain contact, was reported completed by a high command communique early today which said "the withdrawal" movement of our troops to new positions of resistance has been fully successful."

A Greek spokesman indicated the new line already had withstood attack by advance columns.

Rearguards Key to Escape

(Another Associated Press correspondent, who reached neutral Turkey last night after crossing the Aegean Sea from Greece, reported from Cesme that unless the Germans were held off by a stiff rearguard fight there seemed small chance for British Scottish Australian and New Zealand regiments to escape from the Greek peninsula.

(He declared the British whose force he placed at 50,000 to 80,000, were fighting a slow retreat toward the southernmost embarkation point of Greece. The Greek army, the dispatch added, is covering the employed. If 300 or 400 houses were to be built the whole project would be handled by one organization, not by a number of different contractors each building a few houses.

When the necessity of a building project was decided on and work approved by the Dominion Government, the company would consult the council of the municipality involved. A local board of public-spirited citizens would be set up to advise on the selection of sites and other matters.

The company wanted to feel its ways carefully. The first step would be the erection of staff houses for single men and only when the necessity was clear would family houses be built.

Use Government Property First.

If government property was available it would be used. If not the company would try to get city property and if this was not possible would seek vacant land around the industry in which the men were to be employed. If this were not possible land would be purchased.

The company would keep out of the way of builders of permanent houses and would not compete with them.

While the government paid no taxes it was prepared to pay for services rendered and the company would make a reasonable allowance to municipalities for expenditures made by them in providing services to housing projects.

In fixing rents regard would be had for local rent structures. It was not intended to use housing projects as a bonus to workers in war industries by making rents low.

The rent would be fixed at a level which would retire the initial cost in 10 years, allowing for a reasonable salvage value at the end of that period. This would probably be about 1 1-3 per cent. of the cost per month. The cost of the two-bedroom house would be about $1,500 to $1,600, and the cost of the four-bedroom house about $1,900.

Strategic Isle Lost

Mr. Churchill spoke gravely when he said he thought it "not unlikely" that the Germans had occupied Samothrake Island near the Dardanelles, gateway to the Black Sea. Samothrake is a Greek Island lying about 50 miles northwest of the Dardanelles.

The island, which figured frequently in ancient history, is 18½ miles long and 8½ miles wide, with a total area of 66 square miles and a population of about 4,000.

He declared Britain's "difficult" operations in Greece have "been of the most complicated character and carried out with extraordinary skill but even the government have not received from day to day full information from the commanders engaged; that has not been any hindrance to the course of the operation."

Asking "forebearance" as "on so many difficult and anxious occasions" in the past, Mr. Churchill promised "once the situation reaches a momentary or temporary arrest, a full statement" will be made.

He said the government was "very accurately informed about what is going on in Libya" but "I do not think that any statement on Libya would be appropriate at the present time."

A member who shouted "Greece is much more important" was drowned out by shouts of "nonsense" from others.

Mr. Churchill also refused a statement on Foreign Secretary Eden's recent diplomatic tour in the Middle East as not "to the public interest" at present.

Going Easy In Spain

Questioned about relations with Spain where an anti-British tone was noted in the press and where the Axis countries were reported preparing for new moves, Mr. Churchill refused to discuss the £2,000,000 Spanish loan recently granted by Britain.

"We do not wish to do anything which would give any excuse for a breach at the present time between us and the Spanish government and we certainly consider that the starving condition of the people of Spain fully justifies the assistance being given by Great Britain and by the United States if they should choose so to act," Mr. Churchill said.

the old hostility of the Franco press towards the democracies has been renewed.

As to Russia, the United States is taking the lead in cooling off. This came as a result of the Russo-Japanese neutrality pact, which Washington regarded as unfriendly to its efforts for peace in the Pacific. Now many newspapers are urging that more restrictions be placed on Soviet purchases of machinery and other badly needed equipment that Russia is unable to manufacture herself.

The general position of those favoring a strong policy toward so-called neutrals which play the Nazi game is that British and American efforts to win understanding and support by treating them with consideration have been rebuffed, causing the Allied war effort greater damage than their undisguised hostilities would have created.

fairly heavily in doing so."

On August 11 the German air forced bombed Portland and Weymouth as well as convoys in the Thames estuary and off Harwich. In these attacks the enemy relied greatly on dive bombers, which proved no match for R.A.F. Hurricanes. Nevertheless some damage was done in Portland and Weymouth.

"This may have encouraged him, for on August 12, early in the morning, he launched about 200 aircraft in 11 waves against Dover. Shortly before noon 150 more of the enemy attacked Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight. By this time German losses were already very considerable, for 182 aircraft had been destroyed."

Portsmouth was attacked again on August 13 and 15, one one occasion between 300 and 400 aircraft being employed.

Finds Britain Has Fighters

"The enemy was by now beginning to realize that our fighter force was considerably stronger than he had imagined. It was evidently time to take drastic action. Our fighters must be put out of commission. Therefore, while still maintaining his attacks on coastal town ,he sent large forces to deal with fighter airdromes in the south and southeast of England; Dover, Deal, Hawkinge, Martlesham, Lympne, Middle Wallop, Kenley and Biggin Hill were heavily attacked, some of them many times. A number of the enemy penetrated as far as Croydon.

"In the 10 days since the opening of the attack on Aug. 8 Goering had now lost 697 aircraft. Our own losses during the same period were not light, for we lost 153. Sixty pilots were safe though some of them were wounded.

"The pace was too hot to last. Goering called halt and gave his Luftwaffe a rest which lasted for five days."

"Generally the enemy attacks were countered by using about half the available squadrons to deal with the enemy fighters and the rest to attack the enemy bombers which flew normally at 11,000 to 15,000 feet, descending frequently to 7,000 or 8,000 feet to drop their bombs...

"The success of our fighter tactics at this stage can be gauged by a comparison between our losses and those of the enemy. The ratio was about seven to one and might have been even more striking if so much of the fighting had not taken place over the sea."

search east of the Pic, officials in charge of the search, led personally by Col. Hubert Stethem, director of internment operations, pressed an investigation of mysterious signalling from a fire warden's tower at dawn today. The tower is about a mile from this village where the Pic enters into Lake Superior.

A patrol was sent to the tower at daybreak and reported seeing fresh tracks leading to and from the tower. The signals were seen by two sentries and the crew of a train arriving here from Schreiber.

The lumbermen told police they had made the rafts found on the Pic's east bank. They had come all the way from Port Arthur, hitting the river a few miles above the spot they crossed.

A big Grumann amphibian plane from Port Arthur landed at the Ontario Lumber Company dock near here today. It was ordered by Col. Stethem, primarily for use in keeping check of the three policemen who were fighting their way through the bush on the west side of the Pic.

Twenty of the 28 who escaped have been returned to custody. Two died from gunshot wounds received when they resisted capture and two of those in custory were wounded. Their condition was reported improved today.

The six prisoners still at large are believed to be equipped with knives and compasses.

The statement, directed to the Appalachian coal producers and the Congress of Industrial Organizations' United Mine Workers, urged both parties to "put the interest of their fellow countrymen above any other interest and immediately begin making arrangements looking toward the re-opening of the mines."

Mr. Roosevelt, aware that the union had agreed on a new two-year wage agreement with the northern Appalachian producers but not the southern operators, suggested two lines of action:

"1. The miners and operators already in agreement resume coal production under the terms of that agreement.

"2. The operators and miners who have not yet reached an agreement, enter into wage negotiations and at the same time re-open the mines, the agreement ultimately reached to be made retroactive to the date of resuming work."

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, April 23

A day of astrological "mixed influences" may be read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects, with some very auspicious conditions offset by sudden upsets, changes and much indecision. It may be difficult to come to definite conclusions as the mind is not only erratic but confused. With much restrain and forethought it may be possible to choose the gainful situation, particularly in all pertaining to public, group or social welfare. Be alert to deception.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year in which their own vigilance, sagacity and acumen may be responsible for eluding danger and loss through duplicity, treachery and possible sharp practice. The situation may be beset by confusion, while the mentality moves in impetuous or erratic grooves. But public work of any nature should flourish, especially in matters concerning social welfare or humanitarian movements.

A child born on this day should have many original views and talents, while having some confused or eccentric ideas or emotional impulses. Its signal success will be made in public or community work, as its gifts are for social uplift or service. It may have much personal charm and influence.

6 Nazis Trailed To District About Heron Bay

HERON BAY, Ont., April 22 (CP) —Soldiers stalking the snow-laden bushland in search of six German prisoners still at large after a break from a northwestern Ontario internment camp, concentrated their hunt today in an area 20 miles north of this Lake Superior village.

Already 20 of the 28 non-commissioned officers of the German air force who tunnelled their way out of prison early Saturday have been returned to custody. Two more died of gunshot wounds as they were resisting arrest.

The remaining Germans are believed to be travelling in two groups. Guards say that the approximate location of the larger group of four is known. The other two are also believed to be in the same area but their tracks have not been seen for hours.

The larger group is believed to be supplied with wire, nails, at least one axe, knives and compasses—all materials which helped them in their journey by raft across the brimming Pic River, a few miles north of here.

One raft was floated to the mouth of the Pic, less than a mile from Heron Bay, and three others are reported to have been found upriver. They are small affairs made of pulpwood logs about eight feet long and lashed together with hay-wire and a few nails. The logs were trimmed with an axe.

Most Have Compasses

The knives and compasses seem to be standard equipment with the Germans who escaped, according to men who have made some of the captures. The knives were fashioned from table knives stolen from the

Legion Favors Conscription

OTTAWA, April 22 —(CP)—Conscription of Canadian manpower is "desirable and imperative," said a resolution passed last night at the annual meeting of Ottawa branch of the Canadian Legion. The resolution will be sent to the Dominion Government.

Douglas Thompson, who introduced the resolution, said: "It behooves Prime Minister Mackenzie King to listen to the voice of public opinion and to change his declared stand on the question. From the day that Mr. King said he would never be responsible for a conscription measure there have been stupendous changes and it now behooves him to keep up with them."

Elmer Weedmark, another member, said the necessity for conscription had not been proven.

Tanker Ablaze

CLEVELAND, April 22 (AP) — Fire today threatened the tanker Transiter, laden with 14,000 barrels of gasoline, but the flames were brought under control and the motor vessel headed for Port Stanley, Ont., under tow of the steamship City of Toronto.

The Transiter, which left Cleveland last night with a crew of 16, reported the fire at a point 25 miles south of Port Burwell, Ont., as she headed for Port Colborne, Ont. The coast guard withdrew lifeboats it had dispatched to the scene after the City of Toronto reported the tanker in no danger and under tow.

COBOURG PARKS COMMITTEE ASKS PERMISSION TO BORROW $2,500

No Appeal Filed In Park Case Council Learns

COBOURG, April 22 (ENS) — Cobourg Council held the second April meeting of its twice monthly gathering here in the town hall last night. Accounts were first read and then passed to the various committees for acceptance.

Communications were many. A letter from the Business Men's Association was read regarding the market meat sale. It was received and filed.

Want Street Lamp

From the citizens of Bogot street a communication was read in regard to placing a light at the foot of this street. This was referred to the committee with power to act.

A letter from a local garage regarding the placing of a sign was read. Reeve Dodge explained that this sign would be on the owners own property and was outside council's jurisdiction.

Mrs. H. Denton of the Cobourg Hospital Auxiliary wrote asking tag day be granted the Auxiliary in the summer. Council granted the request and specified July 19th as the day.

A letter from A. A. Martin, secretary of Schools' Association was received and filed. It conveyed thanks to council for a recent grant.

A letter from the Parks Commission was read.

Will Borrow Money

The Parks Board asked that the recent arbitration proceedings setting $2,500.00 as the valuation of the property of John Lavis be accepted. The Parks Board would on the authority of the council arrange to borrow the money and agree to repay over a period of years without debentures.

The Board stated that it had been informed by its solicitor that so far no notice of appeal had been entered. J. H. LaJoy, as secretary, signed the letter. It was referred to the finance committee in order that it might investigate and report back to the whole council probably at the next meeting.

Dust Problem

The council then went into a committee of the whole to hear Mr. Clarke of the B.A. on the asphalt dust layer put on by his company.

Mr. Carveth, reeve of Newcastle, who was on hand to listen in on the dust layer discussion.

The council heard Mr. Clarke and referred the matter to the streets committee.

Reeve Carveth thanked the council for their permission in letting him hear Mr. Clarke.

The council moved to borrow by means of a by-law the sum of $89,000.00 from the Bank of Toronto in order to meet current expenditures for the year.

Under the new business council discussed insurance accidents and light on Burnham street as well as the cinder path on the same street. The conditions will be looked after council decided.

The council also will ask the C.N.R. and Mr. Fraser the Federal member to endeavor to have the fast train stop in Cobourg on Friday's and Saturday's in order that Cobourg boys in the C.A.S.F. on week-end leave may leave the train here instead of going on to Port Hope before getting off. It was a hardship on the men in khaki the council felt.

Council will discuss insurance more thoroughly Tuesday, April 22 at a special meeting it was decided before adjournment.

Hundreds of spring vacationists in this resort town were reported to be evacuating the area by train, bus and auto. The Paul Kinball hospital in South Lakewood, a three-storey structure, was saved from destruction by the combined efforts of the fire-fighters, volunteers and doctors and nurses.

Town Clerk Is Appoined To Do Purchasing

PORT HOPE, April 22 — (ENS).—The town clerk will be the central purchasing agency for all municipal purchasing, the council decided by a 5-3 verdict on a resolution to that effect last night.

Deputy-reeve J. L. Moncrief, Reeve J. A. Box and Councillor Burley opposed the resolution. The deputy reeve is chairman of the Street and Bridge committee, which is the largest purchasing committee, and opposed the bill as involving too much running about by the town foreman. Under the plan which has been advocated for years and only passed last night, the chairman or a member of a committee may make purchases on a signed order, through the clerk. The forms would have to come to the chairman and then go to the clerk who in turn will order the goods. The purpose of the resolution was to place a check on purchases charged to the town. In the past, the Finance committee chairman claimed bills were submitted late, with the result that the outstanding accounts were never definitely known.

No Foremen Buying

The resolution prohibits the foreman making purchases for his work.

As the largest purchasing committee it was felt that application of the resolution would work the greatest hardship on the Street and Bridge committee. However, councillors felt the smooth working of the resolution was a matter of educating those concerned.

The resolution was felt to be a good thing for all committees.

Councillor W. N. Moore, chairman of the finance committee, who has advocated the move for three years believed it would eventually aid in decreasing the tax rate. He introduced the resolution, following a meeting of the Street and Bridge committee and the Finance committee, which were the two bodies mainly interested in it. Deputy reeve Moncrief said he had not agreed on the resolution as it was presented at council, and outlined his objections.

Councillor Burley thought the foreman should have the same purchasing power as the committee chairman. The latter were limited to purchases not exceeding $25.

Councillor H. Brownlee did not consider councillors should have the power to make any purchases. Under the resolution no councillor can now make purchases in the town's name. Councillor P. Martin felt the foreman should be able to decide the day's needs ahead of time and avoid loss of time in going for requisitions.

The committee collects the boxes each Monday morning, and on a previous collection day discovered a box had been stolen from a hotel.

Entrance was gained through a south window which was smashed.

A small quautity of cigarettes was also taken. Night Constable C. Weatherup was called to investigate the breakin.

Retaliation In Bombing

Probably it is difficult for Canadians to understand how the people in London feel about bombing. On a recent day when the Germans had been over London heavily the night before there were many signs written next day on walls in London: "Bomb Berlin Tonight." And Berlin was bombed, but we do not believe the attack was compared to the one delivered on London. Back came the Germans to hit London harder than ever.

We notice where two Canadian papers have been considering this form of warfare, or rather the business of retaliatory bombing, for that is what it actually is. The St. Thomas Times-Journal doubts whether it is good policy, and the Kingston Whig-Standard shares the same doubt and admits to possessing a larger one of its own.

The Kingston paper doubts whether the British have a policy which includes retaliation; doubts whether the R.A.F. is much good at this sort of business, and gives substantial reason for such belief. The accepted policy of the R. A. F. has been always to make attacks on military objectives; that is, on munition dumps, oil storage facilities, on railways, docks, and all such places, the destruction or damage of which would interfere with the movement or the equipping of the enemy.

The R.A.F. have not had experience in the sort of bombing which the Germans have been doing over Britain—bombing for the sake of producing terror; striking right and left regardless of what was hit; just plain smashing and killing regardless of military objectives. That is the sort of bombing which is actually meant when one speaks of retaliation.

The Whig-Standard holds that until Britain is prepared to go in for that kind of bombing it is useless to go on a retaliatory trip against Berlin, for the R.A.F. will not inflict such damage as the German Luftwaffe will inflict on British cities. It is reasoned it all comes down to this: "Retaliation is worse than useless unless it is more impressive than the original event to which it is a reply."

The St. Thomas Times-Journal reasons that the heavy raid on London was a reprisal for the raid on Berlin in which the German State Opera House was destroyed, and the T.J. is inclined to figure it out by the hard and fast rules of arithmetic. In these hit-back raids the Germans, because they have a greater number of bombers, and because they have a shorter distance to travel, can inflict more damage on Britain than the R.A.F. can inflict on Berlin. When the R.A.F. is strong enough to out-terrorize the Nazis, and when it has brought itself to the point where it is going in for that sort of bombing, then proceed with such bombing. Meantime to engage in it is to receive more damage in return than it can presently inflict.

It is difficult at this distance to try and correctly understand the situation in Britain, and we have no way of knowing to what extent the desires and the feelings and the tempers of the people influence the actions of the R.A.F. But it is difficult to try and get away from the hard way of reckoning which shows that under present distribution of air strength, Britain gets more than it gives out when it comes to the business of retaliation in bombing.

It Looks Right

Details are lacking yet, but it would appear that when Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt worked out a scheme to in some way co-ordinate the war efforts of the two countries they were at a task which needed doing.

Paying for everything we need and must have in United States with our discounted dollars is not good business, and it would not be tolerated outside of a war emergency.

But paying for United States goods with Canadian goods or materials is another matter. In a way it is like reverting to the old system of barter.

Undoubtedly there are services and materials in United States without which we cannot get along, and it is also a fact that Canada has materials and facilities which are much wanted in United States.

When the two countries are working toward the same purpose there is no competition to be considered. As far as this country is concerned there appear to be two advantages, (1) the cutting down on the amount of exchange we have to pay, and (2) the speeding up of the war effort both in United States and Canada.

Escaping In a Bad Spot

When 28 German prisoners manage to dig or tunnel their way out of an internment camp in Ontario on one try we submit that the escape business is getting a bit thick. And that belief will persist regardless of the number who will be captured and returned.

The exact location of this camp has not been announced, but people know in a general way about the district in which it is located because the names Schreiber, Jack Fish, etc., are named in the dispatches. It is related that shortly after the time of the escape there was a cold wind and snow and a temperature which looked as though it would go near zero. A good many people on their way to and from the West have looked out of the train windows when going through that country and have come to the conclusion that it is barren and possibly it has also occurred to them that it would be the ideal spot in which to become lost. Rocks, scrub poplar, little ponds passing as lakes, and all for the most part open and exposed to wind, storm, sun, rain, snow or anything else which might be ordered for the day or night. We do not believe the Germans knew what they were up to when they ventured out into that country. It is so big and so barren and so void of anything which will sustain life that it would, if left alone, quietly fold up the prisoners in its own relentless way.

For those who made the attempt and were recaptured there is no sympathy. Some of them must have been in there about ten times longer than they expected to stay when they arrived. The weeks and the months are long to these swashbuckers, and they boasted much months ago they would soon be at liberty and in control of Canada.

According to international law it is not an overly serious offence for a prisoner of war to escape. If recaptured he can be given 28 days of close confinement and nothing more. But when 28 of them managed to crawl out or walk out and do so in honor of Hitler's 52nd birthday it means they were sharper than those who are placed in charge of them. The German soldier does not understand kindness or being treated decently. He always interprets it as a form of cowardice or cringing. They are not entitled to what we might call hospitality in our country, and our system is due for some sharp overhauling.

A Strike In a Village

The otherwise quiet little village of Tavistock which somehow straddles the boundary lines of Perth and Oxford counties has made a bid for notice by having a strike. There is a box-making factory there and it has generally managed to keep going, giving employment to sixty or seventy people.

Some years ago there was a strike there and it was settled by giving single men from 16 to 18 cents per hour, and married men 20 to 33 cents per hour. The working day is 10 hours for five days a week and five hours on Saturday, making 55 hours. Recently the plant has been working six hours a week overtime, but no overtime rates paid.

Those wages seem low even for Tavistock, and of course it raises a very old question about wages of that sort coming into competition with wages paid in other and larger centres. A firm in such a place as Tavistock would be competing for business with plants elsewhere which paid higher wages, and the advantage would seem to rest very much with the lower-wage mill in the smaller centre. To what extent that can be overcome by zoning is a problem which has never been entirely settled. The furniture industry of Western Ontario has had to deal with that same situation for years. They have made progress but there are loose corners which have never been made tight.

The Farmer's Share

There are clever and discerning people abroad in the land at present, and as evidence we submit the work of the student who was writing an essay on "Cows."

Leaving out a good deal of the preliminary wordage we come to that place where it says: "The most important part of a cow is the receptacle in which the milk is stored. This is called the udder. "By a clever arrangement it is divided into four compartments each with a separate tap.

"By this means the milk is divided at the source so that one part goes to the landlord, one to the mortgage company, one to the Government, and one to the farmer."

Perhaps They Are

There was a little pictorial work in the London Free Press following the Western Ontario Drama Festival at Sarnia. Picture was two columns wide, and at the top was the wording: "Ever the Best of Friends." And that of course sounded right enough in this much-disturbed age.

There were two people shaking hands, Major Andrew Cory of Windsor and Miss Nella Jefferis of Toronto, who had been one of the adjudicators at the festival.

In the course of her remarks regarding a play written by Major Cory she had said: "I see no reason for this play having been written."

Now people who go in for writing plays are apt to be rather temperamental. Writing a play is quite different to chopping a stick of wood or hilling up potatoes, and quite separate and apart from such a job as milking a cow. People put a great deal of themselves and their high hopes into a play, and it would take a fine constitution to listen to those words: "I see no reason for this play having been written," and then to admit they were steeped in justice and founded in deep truth.

Perhaps as the heading suggests they are "Ever the best of friends," but there is nothing in the picture to indicate it. The Major does not look happy; rather a bit distant, and there is no joy pencilled upon the face of the lady who delivered those precise and pointed words.

NOTE AND COMMENT

And now comes the season when the young folk take to the roads on roller skates, and do so at night. They find the roads better than the sidewalks, and the risk they are taking is more than it is worth.

Miss Eliza Barnard of Burlington, Vermont, will have cause to remember April of 1941 as the most joyous of her life. It was in this month she recovered her sight, something which she had lost when three months of age.

The idea "travel on credit" is reported to be gaining in favor in United States for airways, trains and water traffic. We were brought up to believe if a person travelled that way too much he'd sooner or later find himself seated with the bailiff.

Civic officials in Reno have repealed orders regarding the equipment which street cars must carry. Not that street cars can run as they wish, but merely because Reno has not had street cars for ten years.

There is one farmer just a few miles from Peterborough who has 200 acres and 14 milking cows, and he has no one to help him. And any working day of the week he can see men from the surrounding district driving into Peterborough in the morning to work in our factories. When he reads addresses and appeals for the keeping up of farm production he may be pardoned for wondering how it is going to be done.

The Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-Upon-Avon has not closed. Far from it. The little folder recently arrived looks much the same as those issued in other years, and under the direction of S. Iden Payne, it is the program for the first ten weeks. The only change is contained in a notice under "Police Order," which says "Under no circumstances can any person be admitted to performances at the Theatre unless they have their gas mask."

PROBLEMS

¶ I have the latest sort of news, and what's the proper thing in shoes, it's in a little book; and there are pictures in it too, that show the cuts and shades all new, 'twas well worth while to look.

¶ And there was reading matter there, authority was in its air, it's what the experts said; it told me how the shoes were made, where stitches went and how they stayed, gave pictures of the thread.

¶ A man should have at least four pair, 'twas always well to have a spare, saved money in the end; he'd always be sure shod as well, and step forth looking rather swell, and not much stuff to mend.

¶ A man should match his shoes and clothes, then folk will spot him as he goes, they'll hail him with delight; they will remark as he goes by, there is the neat and well-dressed guy, with everything just right.

¶ I gazed at pages full of shoes, and noted all their shades and hues, as worn by careful men; but having four pairs, even more, would be for me a nasty chore, I could not pay for them.

¶ And I have other problems too, when I go forth and buy a shoe, of corns I've many a one; I like to slit my shoes for ease, would be obliged if that book please—would tell me how it's done.

CAP and BELLS . .

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

LAST Sunday was Hitler's birthday, and as a present to their Fuehrer a number of young Nazis (variously numbered as 30 and 28) made a sensational break from a prison camp in Ontario. Tomorrow is St. George's Day, and quite possibly some English prisoners of war may attempt a similar patriotic demonstration. At the time of writing this, of course, it is impossible to say what St. George's Day may bring forth. Not, let us hope, the withdrawal of British forces from Greece, which the best-informed British newspapers regard as inevitable, sooner or later. It would be wretchedly bad luck to have to perform our second evacuation of this war on a day sacred to the memory of England's soldier saint.

C & B

Who was St. George? No one is quite sure, but he was chosen to be the patron saint of England during the time of the first Norman kings. It was in the reign of Edward III that the order of knighthood which bears the name of this saint was instituted, many years before similar orders were founded in other countries. And as for his personal history, we have the best account of him in that curious repository of medieval lore, the Golden Legend.

C & B

According to this source St. George arrived one day at a city in Lybia called Sylene. Near this city was a stagnant lake or pool in which dwelt a fierce and venomous dragon, which held the whole countryside in terror. Upon one occasion the inhabitants of the city had attempted to kill him, but they were so horrified by his appearance that they had fled before him and he had pursued them destroying many merely by the pestilence of his breath. From that time forward they were obliged to pacify him with two sheep every day until almost all the flocks were gone, and then they resorted to the horrible expedient of giving the dragon children, instead. The sacrifice was chosen by lot, and one day the lot fell to the only daughter of the king of that region.

C & B

The king was plunged in grief, and offered the citizens great sums of silver and gold to spare his daughter, but the people (who appear to have been staunch democrats) refused, though they granted the princess a respite of eight days. When that time was gone the king dressed his daughter as though she were a bride, and led her to where the dragon was. St. George, who had seen all this, rode to the princess where she stood alone, and swore to her that he would save her; she doubted him and urged him to hasten away and save himself, but he would not do so. As she pleaded the dragon appeared; it rushed at the pair, but St. George was mounted on a horse and he charged at the monster and transfixed it with his spear; he then called to the princess to take off her girdle and to bind the dragon with it. This she did, and the saint and the princess led the dragon into the town; the old chronicle says "the dragon followed as it had been a meke beest and debonayre."

C & B

THE RESULT of this miraculous deliverance was not, as you might expect, that St. George married the princess; for some reason saints never appear to get married. But he did ask the king and all his subjects to become Christians, and 15,000 of them were baptized; they raised a church on the spot where the dragon was slain and dedicated it to Saint George. Another account of the life of this saint says that his mother was a native of Palestine, and that her son became a soldier and was shown great favor by the Roman emperor Diocletian. When Diocletian waged wars against the Christians, however, George protested, was thrown into prison and was later beheaded.

Tomorrow is also celebrated as the anniversary of the death of the greatest of all English poets, William Shakespeare. Although it is not definitely known it is generally believed that Shakespeare was born on April 23 as well. When he died he was 52 years old, the age which Adolph Hitler attained to on Sunday last. There is a legend that Shakespeare died as the result of a drinking bout, which seems not unlikely when we consider the habits of poets in general. In any case, it was a genial death, for he died entertaining his friends in the retirement for which he worked so long. Whatever the moralists may say (and they are always able to say plenty) a man who dies drunk is more likely to die happy than one who dies of ingrowing rectitude.... It is also worth noting that on the same day in the same year (1616) died Miguel Cervantes de Saavedra, the great Spanish author and dramatist and creator of the immortal Don Quixote.

A DISTINCTION

LAST NIGHT two young officers of a British warship were at the Stork Club. They couldn't have been more than 21. And as they sat there, the waiter whispered: "When Beaverbrook was here last, he sat at this very table." Both young men arose and bowed.—Leonard Lyons in New York Post.

• Owe Lives to the British

AN American correspondent in Ethiopia writes about a trip made by British bombers when word came that natives were ready to take vengeance on Italian residents in a captured town. The story:

Still the dark bombers beat onward. And then one gives a shout as the real objective is sighted, far away.

The British bombers were flying empty in order to make room for Italian refugees. Eventually the bombers circled low around the town which was their destination and then touched down one after another by superb flying on the open, bumpy hillside. Two British pilots entered the town while the rest guarded their machines.

These two adventurers found smashed windows, burned outbuildings and a roaring mob of black Shoas equipped with shields and spears and curved swords as well as slings. With these slings they were throwing clubs. With match-lock elephant guns loaded with quarter-pound bullets they were trying to storm the stone bank building where Italian farmers and their families had taken refuge.

When the Shoas saw the British uniforms they put the pilots shoulder high and chaired them in indescribabled in to a priest in scarlet skins who was directing the attack. There was a long dialect argument. The officers of the air force demanded the Italians be handed over as prisoners, but the priest, mad with drugs, kept screaming that the men must be blood sacrifices and the women and children slaves.

Finally the Britishess won a sullen agreement from the priest but the mob was inflamed and very furious. A ring-leader yelled that the British pilots were in reality disguised Italian fliers. They could not believe that they were actually Royal Air Force men. The Britishers yelled to the Italians, "Come out quick for your lives!" The bank door opened and scared farmers and officials, sobbing and terrified women and children emerged. The Englishmen ordered a quick march to the aircraft and the pilots followed in the rear. The Ethiopian mob surged along, screeching at the others. They looted the bank and set it afire. Stones were slung at the Italians. One cut the face of an Englishman.

The bombers were crammed in as if with shoehorns, children in the bomb compartment and grownups in piles anywhere. As the British pilots climbed in, a volley of stones slung from slings hits the sides of the bombers. The engines were running all ready for flight. The bulky British figures in flying leather looked anxiously from their machines and then down went the signal and the planes were racing across the hillside like prehistoric birds, lifting steadily. One of the machines was barely a few feet off the ground when the match-lock elephant guns fired. They missed their target.

The mob scattered and then made a determined rush at the last of the machines. They were too late. The aircraft made height and turned homeward, followed by scattered shots. They reached the base safely, and Italian colonists were saved from a dreadful massacre.

• For the Glory of Hitler!

Robert J. Casey cables the Chicago Daily News from Cairo.

MILITARY analysts returning from the unstable battlefields are saying, for the first time and with some reason maybe, that the cross-Africa drive has spent its force.

There would be something heartening also—if the eternal optimists of the British Army needed any heartening—in the appearance, condition and morale of German prisoners now dribbling back through the lines. They seem to demonstrate that no matter how you train a superman to sit in a Turkish bath, so that one day he will be able to drive a hot tank for the glory of Hitler in the overheated desert, he will still have a sort of effeminate tendency to drink water.

Whether these reports of the mechanical acclimatization of Hitler's African expedition are true, they have been widely circulated. So it comes as something of a shock to see how a desiccated superman looks after two days in the artificial fever of tanks, without a drink.

If these shocked, exhausted "Heinies" are any sample of the troops still manoeuvring through the roaring dust, out there, Der Fuehrer's grand hegira is nearer its finish.

To look at them, one would believe that they had not been fed for days. They had drunk thick, rusty water out of radiators till the radiators ran dry. Their motors quit and British patrols came and took them without a shot.

"It's the dust," said one who was more or less quoted by all the rest, "and heat and dryness, but also the dust—you can't see anything."

A Bit of Nonsense

Dusty Work

Mistress: "Look here, Mary. This chair is covered with dust!"

Mary. "Yes, ma'am. I reckon nobody has sat in it lately."

Inclusive

"Pardon me, sir," said the waiter, taking up the money, "but this includes nothing for the waiter."

"I didn't eat one, did I?" said the professor, glancing up from his book.

What's the Use?

Mrs. Society: "Priscilla, you seem to have dropped your painting, your singing, and your piano practice. In fact, you don't seem to trouble over anything."

Priscilla: "Yes, Ma. What's the use of it all, now I'm engaged?"

Doing Fine

"How be Daisy doin' now she's married?" asked Mrs. Giles.

"She's doin' graand," replied Mrs. Hobson. "She's got the putliest li'l cottage with a garden an' that, some real mahogany furniture, two pigs an' some fowls, an' the parson's washing to do once a week reg'lar. On'y thing is she can't abide her man. But there! There's allus summat."

A Simple One

Two very modern young men managed, by some error, to get into a local concert. They stood it for some time, then one remarked:

"Do you know much about music?"

"Oh, just a bit!" replied the other.

"Then can you tell me what that chap's playing?"

"Rather! A violin, old man."

HOME GUARD STORY

MAJOR-GENERAL J. H. BEITH, in an address on "The Army of Today" at the Royal Empire Society, told the following story: Not long ago a brigadier happened to pass a Home Guard sentry post in London. He recognized the sentry—his own solicitor, who turned out the guard. They were all elderly, and most of them wore a good many service ribbons. He asked one man, "What were you before you joined the Home Guard?" "A rear-admiral, Sir." He passed to the next. "And what were you?" "A major-general, Sir." He moved somewhat hurried to the third man. "You are wearing some decorations that I don't seem to recognize at all. Foreign, I suppose?" "I was an ambassador, Sir." After that the brigadier dismissed the guard.—London Times.

New Zealanders Slaughter Huns In Boats

ATHENS, April 22—(BUP). — An amazing tale of the slaughter of Germans in a Greek mountain pass was told Sunday by a young New Zealand officer, just back wounded from the Mount Olympus sector. He related that his small unit of machine-gunners and anti-tank gunners repulsed waves of attacks by German shock troops, who used rubber boats and parachutists.

"We thought we had an easy post, defending a pass flanked by mountains through which a river skirted a small road," the New Zealander said. "But the Germans sent armored cars against us and we thought nothing of it until the dawn of the next day, when they launched an attack with rubber boats which we could see only dimly in the half-light.

"We sank one boat after another, although the German armored cars were laying down a barrage of covering fire.

"After two hours the river was teeming with sunken boats and men were swimming and clutching half-sunken craft some of which went down with dead and wounded aboard.

"After hurling a barrage of grenades we wiped them out and continued to hold our position. I was hit by a grenade splinter in the hand, cutting a tendon so I can't fire a gun. I told the boys I'd hurry back."

The young officer, who hails from Auckland, said he was amazed at "the absolute disregard of the Germans for their losses."

"My men got sick of the killing. . . It was mass slaughter," he said. "We mowed down those boats as fast as they came with eight men aboard each one."

Unable to cross the River Gorg, the Germans then attacked from the west with parachute troops wearing heavy grey jackets and each man carrying a tommy gun of "terrific fire power," the officer continued.

"Our position appeared to be in danger until my captain drew a bead on the leader with an anti-tank machine gun. He was a six-footer and he got it square in the chest, dropping down behind a rock. The others fled."

St. Paul's Hit Again But Dome Still Stands

Bombs from a Nazi plane first found St. Paul's Cathedral last October, when the altar was damaged. During the "heaviest yet" raid on London last week, bombs hit the north transept, creating the wreckage shown here. But despite the fact that the great dome of St. Paul's is one of the distinctive points of the London skyline, the main part of the great cathedral stands undamaged.

Suspect Greeks Trapped West Of The Pindus Mts.

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.)

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)— The possibility that disaster will overtake Greek armies west of the Pindus mountains fully justifies the foreboding in the British press that the hour for withdrawal from Greece may be close, if it has not already struck.

It is reported that the Allies are backing up on the eastern flank for a stand on a forty-mile front "between the Gulf of Corinth and the Aegean port of Lamia." That line would keep open, behind the British troops to the southeast, the narrow peninsula on which Athens stands. The peninsula is water-guarded almost completely.

Yet British withdrawal to such a front would mean complete separation of Allied forces in the west and in the east. If it is the position at which the Allied retreat is aimed, it means that the possible 75-mile "waist-line" front across Southern Greece from the Gulf of Lamia in the east to the Gulf of Artes in the west cannot be reached by Greek forces falling back west of the Pindus range.

Menace Deadly in West

Claims from Berlin that the Nazis have captured Metsovon Pass signify deadly menace for Greek forces holding the west flank. That mile-high east-west corridor through the northern extremity of the Pindus Range offers the Germans a good road westward to Janina, even to the Ionian coast south of the Greek-Albanian frontier.

The main line of Greek retreat southward from all the region west of the Pindus Mountains is down the Janina-Arta highway, one of the two important north-south roads spanning Greece. It is along that road, south of Janina, that Rome claims tell of constant Axis air strafing.

That is not the only threat. German capture of Karditsa, east of the Pindus Range and well south of Tricala, is confirmed. The Tricala-Karditsa road runs on southwestward to a junction with the main Janina-Arta-Nafpactos highway at Agrinion. Should the German push southward from Karditsa reach Agrinion, the possible Lamia-Artes Allied defense line would be breached before it could be set up. All Greek forces north to the Albanian border and west of the Pindus Range would be in a trap with their backs to the Ionian Sea, cut off from their British-Greek comrades to the east.

Must Retreat Swiftly

Even as it is, with German forces holding Metsovon Pass, there seems no way for the Greeks to escape the closing Nazi Fascist trap unless they retreat to the south swiftly. Rome claims a considerable segment of the Greek army in the extreme northwest separately trapped above crossings of the Viosa River; but that probably is a minor action compared to the threat of German advances westward via Metsovon and via Karditsa far to the south.

The Pindus Range still offers some protection to the Greek retreat in the west. Could the Nazi southward drive from Karditsa be held up long enough in the centre of the line, the Greeks might reach the mountains and defensible ground spanning Southern Greece eastward at the Artes-Lamia Gulf waistline but as this is written there seems small hope of that.

If the Allied retreat on the eastern flank is to the Lamia-Gulf of Corinth line mentioned in despatches, it can only be a prelude to attempted British-Greek evacuation by sea, or to a retirement across the Corinth Isthmus into the Peloponesus.

Simpson Grads Qualify For Title Round

TORONTO, April 22.—(CP).—Officials of Simpson Grads of Toronto to-day made an eleventh hour attempt to find some means that would enable one of their key players to make the trip to Vancouver for the Dominion senior basketball championship with the western title-holders, Vancouver Thunderbirds of the University of British Columbia.

Grads qualified for the Canadian title series here last night, whipping Montreal Rocklands 46-37 to win the Eastern Canada crown in straight games. Grads won the first game of the best-of-three series here Saturday night 39-27.

Grads will leave to-morrow night for the west and, unless last-minute arrangements can be made so that Harold Axon can take his examinations after the final series, they will be forced to leave the University of Toronto student behind.

Axon has been one of the leading stars in Grads' march to the eastern title. Along with Bill Breadon and Shag Park.

Last night Grads were stopped only for the first 10 minutes in which Rocklands outplayed them, coming from behind three times to tie the score. However, the Toronto team broke loose with a brilliant shooting display after the midway mark of the first half to run up a lead that the Quebec champions were unable to overcome.

Don Bloomfield of the Montrealers shared the scoring laurels with Breadon with 12 points each.

Mixed Doubles Crown Won By Hubby, Wife

TORONTO, April 22. — A husband and wife partnership paid dividends last night at the C.B.A. tournament as Olive Gard Miller and Ab Miller walked off with the first C.B.A. mixed doubles crown. Rangers won the mixed team title with a score of 3,647.

Toppling the timber for a sensational count of 1,701, the bowling Millers set a mark that will be hard to surpass in future tournaments. The steady Ab pounded out 321-297-292 for a triple of 910, while partner Ollie showed her championship qualities as she reeled off 227-252-312 for 791. The 1,701 count exceeds the present high in the men's doubles by 34 pins.

Rangers, with their three men and two girls bowling well together, trundled steadily to just nose out King Edward Hotel for the mixed-team honors by 22 pins. George Ivals, 31; Eddie Blackwell, 301; and Doc Howe, 780, were the male standouts, Mabel Avery 652, and Ev Thompson 603, clicking nicely for the women's side.

The inaugural of mixed night found thirty-three teams and 123 sets of doubles competing, a gratifying turnout which exceeded all expectations of C.B.A. officials and made sure of a repeat performance next year.

Bowling Tournament Takes In District 15

OTTAWA, April 22—(CP).—Harris Jessiman, chairman last year of the Governor-General's bowling tournament, said today he will invite teams from Districts 15 of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association to compete in the tournament this season.

Previously only Ottawa, or District 16 clubs, and teams from Kingston and Montreal had competed for the trophy, donated by Lord Willingdon in 1929.

District 15 comprises Kingston, Belleville, Brighton, Campbellford, Deseronto, Hastings, Havelock, Norwood, Madoc, Stirling, Tweed and Warkworth.

A District meeting will be held here early in May to line up the program for the season. Chairman E. D. Berry will propose entering a district team in the Ontario-United States international bowling match to be held at Kitchener, Ont., this summer.

Len Agnew Is Elected 1941 President

Seven churches were represented at the annual meeting of the Church Softball League in the Y.M.C.A. last night and the interest and enthusiasm shown augur well for a successful season, in spite of the fact that at least one division is not likely to operate.

The churches with representatives present at the gathering were George Street, Knox, St. James, Murray Street, Mark Street, All Saints, and St. John's.

The prospects are that the league will have very healthy bantam and juvenile divisions, with five clubs already entered in the former. The doubtful section is the junior, and with Knox Church as the only organization seeking an entry into that division the prospects are not very bright. Three clubs have tentatively entered the senior division. At least four are desired.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. president—Rev. T. H. Floyd, president of the Ministerial Association.

President—Len Agnew.

Vice-president—Ted Chambers.

Secretary—Reg. Kingdon.

Assistant secretary—Bill Gardner.

Treasurer—J. Burnham.

There will be another meeting on Monday, May 5, and all entries are expected to be in by that time.

There is a possibility that the Church Softball League may enter a juvenile team in the O.A.S.A. and that is a matter that will be discussed at greater length, probably at the next meeting.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

We attended a meeting of the membership committee last evening and while there were a goodly crowd out and many of the rinks were completed, there is still a lot of work to be done before Wednesday, May 6.

This committee, under the leadership of J. T. Braund is doing good work and will do all they can to help any who ask for information regarding players, etc., but it makes the job most difficult when there are skips who want to bowl and intend to bowl, who will not do anything to help themselves. They want to sit back and wait and wait and wait.

There are many bowlers who are available and are willing to play if only the skip will take a little time off and go and interview them.

Remember the schedule books will be out on May 24 and we, for one, don't want to see anyone left out. We don't want to see any rink with only three players; we want a full quota.

Now, skips, put a little pep into this organization and help to carry the burden. It's not fair to ask a few to do all the work, all the time.

We don't like doing this, but it seems it has to be done. We promise we won't do it again, providing the skips do their part.

Just as a reminder: The annual meeting of the Central Ontario Association meets in our clubhouse at 8 p.m. this evening. All bowlers are welcome.

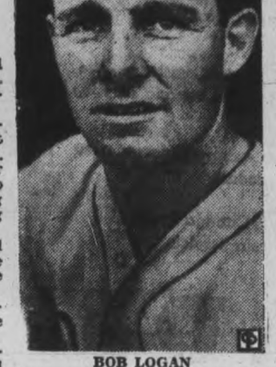
Meet Mr. Logan



BOB LOGAN

Veteran of the minor leagues, Bob Logan, southpaw pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, is expected to stay in big time company this year. Logan, who has worn the livery of both the Dodgers and Cubs in the National league and the Detroit Tigers in the American, has spent most of his minor league life with Indianapolis, where he won 18 games last season.

Logan broke into pro baseball with Fairburg in the Nebraska State league in 1930 and then went to Oklahoma city, then Knoxville and finally Indianapolis.

The southpaw is 31 years old, stands an inch under six feet, and weighs 178 pounds.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Those larruping Yanks were at it again yesterday. After piling up 19 runs against the Athletics Sunday they came right back with another 14-run barrage, winning 14 to 4 and with that crushing defeat wiped out the sting of the double trimming handed them by the same club last week. Ross was the victim of this vicious attack and the Yanks soon drove him to cover. Their assault included Joe DiMaggio's fourth home run of the season and Joe Gordon's third circuit wallop. The A's only made one more hit than they did errors, having four misplays as against five hits collected off the delivery of Atley Donald. In the other American League game of the day the Boston Red Sox suffered their first loss of the season and now there is not an undefeated club in either circuit.

* * * * * *

For once they were unable to produce that powerful last-minute surge that has swept them through to a bunch of victories already this season. They went down 6 to 5 at the hands of the Washington Senators with Sundra, former Yank pitcher on the mound for the winners. Wilson started on the hilltop for the Boston club and stayed long enough to get credit for the loss. The Senators outhit the Red Sox 12 to 11 and once more the Boston lack of effective pitching was evident. Joe Cronin has trotted out most of his string by this time and it does not look as if his throwing staff is yet strong enough to make the Sox dangerous contenders for the pennant, although their powerful attack entitles them to a lot of respect. If he can round four fairly effective starting pitchers out of the present lot on the payroll Mister Cronin may make a lot of trouble for all and sundry but there is a big "if" there. Anyway his club is still leading the loop after a week's battling.

* * * * * *

In the National loop these surprising Giants of Bill Terry's bounced back after having been stopped by the Brooklyn Dodgers and once more took a fall out of the neighboring club 7 to 8, earning their win at the expense of Highbe who cost the Dodgers a decidedly healthy gob of jack and has already been beaten twice this season. The veteran Bump Hadley got credit for the victory, although he was missing at the end of the pastime. Mel Ott, a great little hitter if there ever was one, cracked out his fourth homer of the season, thus keeping neck and neck with his fellow townsman Mister Joe DiMaggio. Wes Ferrell, for years an American Leaguer did a swell job of pitching for Boston Bees to handcuff the Phillies with five well dispersed hits and one run while the Bees managed to put together eight runs on 14 hits. Other games were rained out.

Softball Begins To Take Form

Softball locally took a few steps along the trail last night when the Church Softball League held its first meeting of 1941 and discussed plans for the coming campaign. The City League gathering deferred the election of officers to another meeting to be held a week from tonight. Russ Jones was up from Hastings for the get-together and reported that Hastings was definitely "in" and word was received from Omemee that the boys up there would probably be in line. The Immaculate Conception team is a sure fire entry and it is expected that the Quakers and Westclox teams will be in there punching when the time comes although there was nothing definite from either club last night. A feature of the meeting was a talk by Dave Leether, member of the O.A.S.A. executive who outlined the Ontario Association's plan to raise funds to provide sport equipment for Canadian soldiers and said that it was expected that all leagues affiliated with the O.A.S.A. would co-operate.

* * * * * *

The Church League which will be headed this year by Len Agnew as president got down to business last night, elected officers and talked over plans for the season. Seven churches were represented and it was clear that no difficulty will be experienced in filling the bantam and juvenile divisions although the junior seems to be out definitely and the senior is none too robust at present. The uncertaintly as to military training and war work is interfering with the older series. However the youngsters are enthusiastic and the younger series promise to produce a lot of keen battles. An interesting suggestion was that the Church League enter the juvenile series of the O.A.S.A. and that may be a development of the season.

Ken Colling dishes out some Belleville softball dope as follows: "The early spring this year has set the softball addicts all agog and preparing for an advanced opening. However, they should not become too optimistic., as Victoria Day is still more than a month in the offing. The new playing rules in the men's series is being accepted more amicably, after the moguls studied the situation from all angles. Lengthening the baselines and pitcher's distance will doubtless open the game up and prove a mutual benefit for all concerned, more particularly the infielders, who will now have a fighting chance fielding hard-hit infield line drives. Local experts seem to think the new pitching distance will be of material assistance to Con Harris, whose previously high pitches will now soom over the plate in the strike zone. With Johnnie Bawden it may be a little different, as Bawden always gauged the distance, trying to pitch to the opposing batter's weaknesses. However, along this line time only will tell and the result will be keenly awaited by the game's clientele."

Winnipeg Wins First

Winnipeg Rangers, coached by Baldy Northcott and most of them wearing a property tag of the New York Rangers grabbed off the first game in the Memorial Cup finals last night, defeating Montreal Royals 4 to 2. The result, however, throws only a dim light on the ultimate outcome of the series for the Royals were minus the services of four regulars. Three of them, the sensational goalie Ritchie, defence man Ward and Morrison of the first string forwards will be back on the job tomorrow night when the second game of the series will be played in Montreal. After that battle is over it should be possible to get a better line on the respective strength of the two clubs. Montreal, even without the regulars gave the Rangers a tough fight last night and the issue was not decided until well into the last period.

* * * * * *

We don't know whether we should congratulate Shag Park and his Simpson Grads upon their feat in capturing the Eastern Canada senior basketball championship in straight games or not. The Toronto cagers came through with a 46-37 win over Montreal last night to take the Eastern title and that in itself is a matter for Grad rejoicing. But the win throws the Park-sparked quintette into the finals against the Vancouver Thunderbirds which sounds bad enough in itself but is a lot worse when it is realized that the finals take place on the coast. It looks as if the Toronto boys will have to dig out the last family plate to finance the trip to Vancouver. However that happy family playing under the Grad name will probably make the grade even if some of them have to ride the bumpers on a trans-Canada airliner.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Indianapolis and Kansas City teams clicked off seven double plays in one game yesterday. Boy, that's massed production....It looks as if the good luck charm possessed by Dick Kowcinak and Johnny McCreedy will carry Sydney Millionaires through to the Allan Cup. They won the second game from Regina Rangers last night 8 to 3 and the mug is already pointed for another trip to the Maritimes....Carragher scored both Royal goals against Winnipeg last night. A very expert performer is Mister Carragher....At least the International League is close. After a week only a game separates the cellar club from the top outfit....Knotty Lee was a visitor here the other day and rumor has it that Mister Lee would like to start in business here if he could locate what he wants.

Once Men's Own Kentucky Derby Ladies' Too, Now

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21 (AP) —Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, whose Gallahadion surprised the turf world and Bimelech, the favorite, in last year's Kentucky Derby (remember?), is one of a dozen women who may have a starter in this year's Derby renewal. This year the great Churchill Downs fixture will be run May 3. It's the 67th.

Mrs. Mars, owner of Milky Way Farm in Tennessee, has nominated Supreme Ideal and Man About Town to try to follow Gallahadion's footsteps to Derby glory and gold.

Should the Chicago sportswoman again have a champion, she would be the first woman owner to win the famed race twice in a row. Only Col. E. R. Bradley, whose horses have won more Derbies than any other owner, has clicked twice straight.

Until 1904, the Derby had been strictly "man's" possession. Then, on the 41st running of America's No. 1 turf event, came a tradition-shattering happening.

A colt whose owner was a woman and whose breeder also was a woman won the Churchill Downs classic. That was the year Elwood, 15-1 shot, owned by Mrs. C. E. Durnell, came home first. Mrs. J. B. Prather was the breeder.

Women Winners

In the 36 Derby renewals since 1904 five women have owned winners and three have been listed as breeders of Derby champions. No woman so far has trained a Derby winner, but at least one—Mary Hirsch—has tried.

Two of the champions owned by women established Derby records. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand ran the fastest time for the mile and a quarter—2:01 4-5—in 1931, and Mrs. Mars' Gallahadion was the first to win a $75,000 added Derby. (The stake had been $50,000 added for the three prior runnings.)

Other women owning Derby winners are Mrs. R. M. Hoots (Black Gold in 1924), Mrs. J. D. Hertz (Reigh Count in 1928) and Mrs. Dodge Sloane (Cavalcade in 1934).

Four owners of Derby winners of the past decade nominated horses for this year's event and two are women. They are Mrs. Mars and Mrs. Whitney. William Woodward, New York banker, and Herbert Woolf, Kansas City clothier, round out the quartet.

Whether any of their thoroughbreds get to the post on May 3 remains to be determined.

Mrs. Whitney, a New Yorker who owns a beautiful horse farm in the Bluegrass, has a trio of candidates —Swing and Sway, The Rhymer (he finished third in the Flamingo Stakes) and Monday Lunch.

Other women who possibly may have a starter when the field sets off on its momentous gallop late on a Saturday afternoon in May, with their nominees:

Mrs. S. T. Baxter (Isalot), Vera S. Bragg (Roman Governor), Ruth W. Collins (Olena), Mrs. Parker Corning (Attention), Mrs. J. L. Furr (Don Orlan), Mrs. Walter M. Jefords (Sailer King), Mrs. E. Graham Lewis (Magnificent), Mrs. Pelletert (Bull Reigh) and Mrs. F. J. Navin (Quintilla).

The 12th woman nominator is Mrs. H. C. Phipps, who is given more than an outside chance in the early size-up of owning a Derby king. Her Bold Irishman is one of the top-ranking prospects. She also nominated Irish Day.

One Filly's First

In 1915 a filly—Regret—won the Derby. She was the first of her sex to turn the trick and so far the only one, although several top-notch misses have tried.

With the failure of fillies to repeat Regret's performance, the passing years have seen fewer fillies nominated. Five were named this year, two less than last. The starting fields have been made up of strictly colts or geldings for several years and it seems unlikely a miss will start this year since none of the five nominated fillies are outstanding. The last filly to run in a Derby was Gold Seeker in 1936, she finished ninth.

RANGERS FLOOR THE ROYALS 4 TO 2 IN MEMORIAL CUP OPENER

Queen of Newark Whips Wings Badly By 8-1

TORONTO, April 12.— (CP). — One plausible explanation for the tight race in the International League — four clubs tied for first place with three victories and two losses and the other four tied for the cellar—is the good pitching.

Of the 40 starting pitchers in 20 games, 16 have gone the full route; three have turned in shutouts.

Perhaps the outstanding feat was a two-hitter which Dick Fowler, Toronto rookie, chalked up against Baltimore a few days ago. The youngster had a no-hit game in hand up to the last inning.

Another rookie, Mel Queen of Newark, wasn't far behind yesterday when he pitched the Bears to a four-hit, 8-1 triumph over Rochester Red Wings. Queen held the Wings hitless the first five innings and had a two-hit shutout going into the ninth.

Montreal and Jersey City, played yesterday's only other game and the Royals called up Wes Flowers and Pep Rambert for a 7-3 victory over the Little Giants.

Baltimore Orioles Capture International League Opener From Leafs

Eddie Morgan, centrefielder of the Toronto Leafs, hits a high foul in the first inning of the Orioles-Leafs game in Baltimore, which officially inaugurated the 58th season of the International League. Catcher Howell, of the Orioles, and the umpire follow the flight of the ball. Orioles took the opener with a 4-2 victory over the Toronto team.

Yankees Whip Athletics In 14-4 Spree

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

This is going to be another "comeback year" for a lot of old gaffers who were shown little respect for age or service in the big leagues last season

The only pitcher in the big show who has scored two victories in the first week of the season is Wesley Ferrell, 33-year-old righthander who was counted out of the American League more than a year ago and couldn't make the grade in the National last season.

Boston Bees signed him up during the winter and he looks as though he will stick around awhile, if only to pitch against the Phillies. He received credit for a victory over them last Thursday by pitching three shutout innings in relief.

Yesterday he went the route against the tail-enders allowing but five hits in an 8-1 triumph. Joe Marty, first batter of the game, hit a home run for the lone tally by Philadelphia.

Mel Ott, who has spent exactly half of his 32 years playing with New York Giants, was supposedly tottering on aging legs last summer. His eyes were going bad, too, some folks said, and he tried wearing spectacles at the plate.

But he has hit four home runs—tying with Joe DiMaggio and Bob Doerr for the major league lead—and has sparked his Giants to six victories in seven games to keep them at the top of the National League heap.

His fourth homer came during yesterday's 7-5 triumph over Brooklyn Dodgers before a big Monday turnout of 17,910 at the Polo grounds.

Mel Harder, Lefty Gomez are among the other veterans who previously had shown signs of making comeback this season.

The rush of Boston Red Sox was finally stopped at Washington yesterday by the lowly Senators, who burst out with four runs in the seventh inning and staggered to a 6-5 victory. Cecil Travis accounted for four hits—two doubles and two singles. The Sox had won five straight previously.

New York Yankees made hash out of Philadelphia Athletics again with a 17-hit bombardment that brought a 14-4 victory.

Sydney Swamps Regina 8-3 In Second Tilt

REGINA, Auril 22 — (CP). — Few hockey fans had doubts to-day about Sydney Millionaires duplicating the record of last ear's Kirkland Lake Blue Devils with a three-straight victory in the Allan Cup finals.

Millionaires, an all-star aggregation of fast-skating opportunists, overwhelmed the young Regina Rangers 8-3 here last night and dulled the hopes of those who still liked Rangers after Sydney's 8-6 win in the first game at Calgary on Saturday.

The third game of the best-of-five series will be played at Saskatoon to-morrow and the Eastern Canada champions are odds-on favorites to repeat and take the Dominion senior championship with three straight wins like Kirkland Lake did against Calgary Stampeders last year.

Last night the crowd of close to 7,000 saw both teams play cautiously in the first period and Rangers held Sydney to one goal. After the Western champions muffed numerous scoring chances in the second and were only down 2-1, they opened up in the third only to have Millionaires swamp them.

Steve Latoski, Johnny McCreedy, and Grant Hall, all former Winnipeg players, each got two goals for the winners.

Other Sydney goal snipers were George Snell, like Hall a graduate from the University of Manitoba team, and Bobby Walton.

Garth Bush, Stan Blandon, and Johnny Kennedy scored for Regina.

3rd Canto Tallies Give Win To Winnipeger

TORONTO, April 22 — (CP). — Winnipeg Rangers feel that they won't need a road map to find their way along the Memorial Cup road, although they are ready to concede that from now on the journey is apt to become a lot bumpier.

Rangers covered the first stage of the trip here last night by defeating Montreal Royals 4-2 before 4,500 fans in the opening game of their best-of-five game series for the national Junior hockey title. Second game will be played in Montreal Thursday night and the third contest is scheduled for Toronto ice Saturday night.

The Winnipegers showed good all-round strength as they came from behind twice to defeat the Montrealers. Each team scored twice in the opening period, with Royals getting the jump each time, and then Rangers came through with a pair of tallies in the final session.

Two of the Winnipeg goals went to Sam Fabro, who insisted after the game that he isn't supposed to be a goal-getter but merely a back-checker, while the others were scored by Bill Robinson and Les Hickey. Both Royals' counters went to Bobby Carragher, who played such a prominent part when the Montrealers defeated Oshawa Generals for the Eastern title.

After the game players of both teams said that the contest had been a bruising affair. Coach Larry (Baldy) Northcott of Rangers said that Royals were a "headier" club than the teams which Rangers eliminated in winning the Western title.

Northcott said that Royals probably would be tougher in the second game when they will be reinforced by the return of three players—Goalie Ross Ritchie, Defenceman Bruce Ward and Forward Grant Morrison—who missed the opening encounter because they had to write college examinations in Montreal.

Coach Lorne White of Royals wasn't too worried about the loss. "We should be able to even it up in the second game with Ritchie, Morrison and Ward back in the line-up and I'm confident that we'll go ahead in the third game," he said.

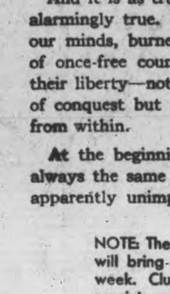
Why All The Fuss?

A Message from
The Newspaper Publishers Committee
HON. W. A. BUCHANAN, CHAIRMAN



"I READ your advertisements, I agree with everything they say," a newspaper subscriber told me, "but, short of losing the war, are our liberties really in danger? Is there actually any threat to the freedom of the press?"

Well, the answer is a paradox: Liberty is only in danger if you think it isn't!

Consider what John Curran wrote one hundred and fifty years ago:

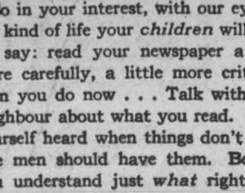
"The condition upon which God hath given Liberty to man is eternal vigilance; which condition if he break, servitude is at once the consequence of his crime and the punishment of his guilt."

And it is as true today . . . bitterly, alarmingly true. The proof is fresh in our minds, burned in with the names of once-free countries which first lost their liberty—not through the violence of conquest but gradually, insiduously from within.

At the beginning the pattern seems always the same . . . a series of little, apparently unimportant infringements.

Pressure brought to bear on a free press to be . . . not quite so free. Restrictions which people were asked to accept simply as "temporary measures."

Do not mistake me. I am not referring to the necessary discipline a free people imposes on itself in time of war. It is necessary today that we do not do and do not say some things that we claim the right to do and say in time of peace.



But in wartime as in peacetime we all must be eternally vigilant against limitations on the things we should say, the facts we should know!

And nowhere is your vigilance more needed than in protecting the Freedom of the Press.

Not, we know you understand, not because it is our business, but because it is your liberty that is at stake.

Very likely you already agree. But you can do more. Begin to be an active guardian of liberty. If you ever feel that we are not giving you all the news—all the news, that is, which is not subject to necessary wartime control—shout about it! Phone the publisher, write the Editor!

The Press is free now. You can keep it free just by refusing to tolerate it any other way!

So in your interest, with our eyes on the kind of life your children will lead, we say: read your newspaper a little more carefully, a little more critically than you do now . . . Talk with your neighbour about what you read. Make yourself heard when things don't go as free men should have them. Be sure you understand just what rights you are ever asked to give away, and to whom.

Above all, push complacency aside. If we fail, it is your responsibility!

NOTE: The Newspaper Publishers Committee, speaking through its chairman, will bring you one of these institutional advertisements in this space each week. Clubs, patriotic societies, business firms or individuals who would like reprints may have them by writing to the Business Office of this newspaper.

Life Story Is Told Of Chinese Leader

FOWLER'S CORNERS, April 22. —(ENS)—Speaking on the life of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek of China, Mrs. William Steinkrauss of Lily Lake, gave a most interesting talk to member of the Ladies' Aid Society of Lakevale Presbyterian Church, at the regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. Robert McAdam.

Mrs. McAdam conducted the devotional period when Mrs. J. M. Young read the scripture with a commentary and Mrs. G. Tully led in prayer. It was decided to hand over $25 to the church treasurer. Mrs. H. Archer extended and invitation to the ladies to meet at her home in June, the May meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. M. Deyell.

Popular Speaker

Mrs. Steinkrauss is a very popular and ardent church worker and as she spoke without the use of notes, her address was intensely interesting. Mrs. Steinkrauss said in part:

"One of the most important things done by Madame Kai-Shek, wife of the Generalissimo, was the writing of the book, "Our China," which is full of the work missionaries can do in China and its surrounding countries. Born in 1898 at Shanghai, China, she is one of the greatest women celebrities in the world. The youngest of a family of six children, she was educated in America where her father before her was educated in American universities. Her father then known as "Charles Jones" was very clever and one day the idea came to him 'Would it not be a great thing to revolutionize China and make it like America.' That aid came true to some extent.

"Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek when a child had great military tendencies and was educated at a military college in Japan, where he spent six years. So when he became leader of the Chinese army he was well equipped to fight the Japanese, knowing their ideas and tactics. While in Japan he learned to hate the Japanese. Generalissimo Chiang was a very determined man who never knew defeat He just change his tactics and plan of his desire.

"Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, one of the most beautiful women in China, was educated in the United States, spending two years there. She returned to China with the idea of making China a Christianized republic and she was filled with that desire, of a government for the people, by the people. For generations before her, Madame Chiang's people were Christians. After knowing her for three years, Generalissimo Chiang decided to ask her mother for Madame's hand in marriage. Her reply was that he must first become a Christian. He must take the little Bible which Madame Soong offered and read it conscientiously every day, and this he did. Six months later he returned and Madame Soong noticed a remarkable change in the man's character. She allowed her daughter to marry him before he was baptized in one of the great Christian churches in China.

Their marriage took place in 1928 and from then on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his wife have worked together and they were successful in establishing an aeronautical service for China, of which Madame Chiang is general.

A very warm vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mrs. McAdam. The meeting closed with a pot luck supper.

tended to introduce the budget in parliament early next week.

The two main points of the agreement were that each country would manufacture and produce what it could handle best, and that component parts of equipment being manufactured in Canada for Britain would be provided by the United States under the lease-lend bill.

He estimated Canada would likely sell possibly $300,000,000 more defence essentials to the United States each year, and thus make that much more American exchange available for Canadian war purchases in the United States.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the arrangement will call for full production, but always provided there are no unfair demands for payments for goods or services," Mr. King said.

"That is one thing that must be kept in mind. I do not think Canadian industries or workers would attempt to take advantage of the situation.

U.S. Needs Many Things

The United States would require ships, aluminum, guns, ammunition, explosives and miscellaneous supplies from Canada, perhaps not only for use of its own defence forces but also for other countries which the United States might wish to help under the lend-lease legislation.

Under the new arrangement, engines for airplanes being manufactured in Canada would be supplied by the United States under the lease-lend bill, relieving Canada of the necessity of providing American dollars to pay for them. The same system would apply to all component parts which Canada had to buy in the United States. But Mr. King emphasized that operation of the lease-lend bill applies only to what Canada is doing for the United Kingdom.

"We have asked nothing for Canada under that legislation," he said.

Present foreign exchange restrictions prevented Canadians obtaining American dollars for pleasure travel, and the situation, "if it can, ought to be bettered," Mr. King said.

"If it can be done without making our war effort more difficult, the administration would be disposed to it," he added.

While in Washington, he had made "pretty full representations" in regard to the United States law requiring Canadians to have passports and visas for entering that country, but he did not indicate whether there was any likelihood that the regulations, in effect since last July, would be altered.

The British government did not consider an assembly of Empire Prime Ministers was necessary or advisable at this time, Mr. King said. For himself, he would not wish to make an important decision on the conduct of the war without consulting his cabinet colleagues and this was much more expedient when he was in Ottawa. Speedy communication facilities made it possible to keep other Empire governments informed of what was done here.

The Prime Minister said the Government is satisfied that Canada is getting all the men needed for the armed forces under the system of voluntary enlistments.

"Are you satisfied that we are getting all the men we need under the voluntary system?" Mr. King was asked at a press conference.

"We are," was his terse reply. He did not elaborate, and made no reference to conscription.

Prospects of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway and Power agreement between Canada and the United States coming before parliament for ratification at the present session are somewhat uncertain, the Prime Minister said.

"I made some inquiries in Washington last weeek but did not get anything very definite," he said, in reference to prospective congressional action on the agreement.

It will not come before the Canadian parliament until it has been ratified by Congress and it is not yet before that body in a formal resolution.

Canadian Troops In England Study How To Combat Blitz Tactics

Specially selected officers from all Canadian units in England are touring the eastern command in "The Danger Zone" and preparing plans for operation of a counter-offensive against the Nazis if the Nazis ever succeed in getting a foothold on English soil. The officers split up into small groups each touring a section of the zone, and meeting at end of the day's tour to discuss ways and means of blitz busting. This group at a cross roads is probably planning something nasty for the Nazis.

Both Allied forces reported undergoing heavy and repeated attacks from the air, while other Axis bombers ranged south of the fighting front and struck again at communities neath Athens.

Piraeus, port of Athens, was said to have been attacked many times yesterday. Last night a curfew was imposed in Athens, requiring all persons to be off streets from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m., except by special permit.

In Mesolongion harbor, a communique said, German aircraft sank the hospital ship Hesperos, with doctors and nurses among the casualties, and started a fire aboard the hospital ship Hellenis, carrying wounded. Two persons were reported burned to death.

Leaving Via Lamia

LONDON, April 22.—(CP)—An authoritative source reported today that British forces in Greece have been withdrawing through Lamia, but declined to say where they were or to comment on the question "what of the future?"

(The Germans claimed today their forces had occupied Lamia, near the Greek east coast 100 miles northwest of Athens. The British spokesman's statement did not make clear whether British forces were withdrawn by sea or land.)

The spokesman said the Greeks facing the Italians and Germans in Western Greece, however, were having a harder time than British troops because of rougher terrain and poor communications.

German forces facing the British in the east contain "elements" of three divisions, he said, but declined to estimate their total strength in this sector.

prison camp commissary, and the compasses were home-made.

A soldier guardedly displayed one of the prison-made compasses while journeying by way freight from one patrol point to another yesterday. He took it from a prisoner he captured Sunday.

The compass was whittled from soft wood, with a cellophane cover which could slide on and off. Compass points were marked on white paper stuck on the bottom of the box. The needle was made of the blue metal of a razor blade.

Although there was no definite manner of testing its accuracy at the time, the needle flickered like any other compass and was at least approximately correct.

Across from the station at Heron Bay is the hotel where three men gave themselves up to the hotelkeeper, Albert Heinmetz, near midnight Sunday night. Heinmetz said they asked first for policemen, then for soldiers.

Had Plenty Of Food.

They were not hungry for they had plenty of food in their homemade knapsacks. Apparently they had been unable to break through the ring of searchers around the area, and they surrendered rather than risk the rigors of another night in the snow and the cold.

All trains through this area are searched, with soldiers lining the coaches with rifles at the ready. Every flagstop has its garrison of men who patrol the area in the periods immediately before and after the arrival of a train. Few, if any, of the searchers have been in bed since they began their vigil early Saturday morning.

The patrols are maintained rigidly throughout the night but it is believed that none of the escaped men have been able to travel in the dark. Last night was clear, but there was no light save that of the flickering flashlight of a soldier on patrol.

Early today there had been no word from the prison camp where two of the recaptured prisoners are being treated for the wounds they suffered while resisting capture on Sunday. The date of the funeral of the other two who were shot fatally has not been announced but it is believed that it will be today.

A special burial ground will be marked out near the site of the internment camp from which they escaped.

Tweed-Yarker Line Doomed

OTTAWA, April 22.—(CP)—Application by Canadian National Railways to abandon operation of the Tweed subdivision between Yarker and Tweed, Ont., was granted in a judgment of the Board of Transport commissioners made public last night. The section under consideration is 33.94 miles long.

The Board's judgment said there "is not now sufficient traffic...to warrant continuance of the service in face of the operating losses to the railway."

The railway's application was heard at Napanee, Ont., Oct. 24, 1940.

Residents of the area served by the line made "strong objections" to the proposed abandonment, the judgment said, but existence of nearby railway facilities and roads "make the sustained losses to the railway outweigh the loss and inconvenience to the public consequent upon abandonment."

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotarians Visit Belleville Club

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22. —(ENS)—Rotarians here cancelled their regular meeting on Monday in order to pay a visit to Belleville where they were guests at that club's luncheon. Here they heard Leslie McFarlane, eminent Canadian short story writer and author from Whitby who gave an interesting talk on his chosen field. Nearly thirty members of the local club were on hand for the luncheon and H. N. Carr, M.P.P., moved the vote of thanks to the speaker.

Before the war Britain produced 105,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year from coal.

Cheese Factory Is Burned At Wallbridge

TWEED, April 22—(ENS).—Fire originating in the insulation of the curing room from a stove which had been lighted to take away dampness, completely gutted Sidney Town Hall cheese factory at Wallbridge over the week-end. Only the concrete walls of what was the district's oldest cheese factory remain standing, with loss estimated as exceeding $5,000, partially covered by insurance.

According to Wilfred Johnston, cheesemaker at the factory, the fire originated in the ceiling of the curing room and apparently had been smouldering for a considerable time before being discovered. Insulation used in the curing room was composed of shavings and this is thought to have ignited from the chimney or from the stove pipes.

The make for the day was almost completed and when taking the butter out of the churn he had sent his worker, Glenn Hancock, to the house, only to have him come running back to say smoke was issuing from the ventilators in the factory roof.

Catching up a pail of water, Johnston immediately climbed into the attic of the factory but as the room was filled with smoke and no flames being visible at the time, it was impossible to determine where the seat of the fire was.

While in Hamilton the Campbellford ladies will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert 'Doc' Turley.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

WHEN BOMBS BURST...

—in Britain, when they blast Germany's invasion ports and hammer at Berlin, The Canadian Press brings the story to its member newspaper readers through an eight-man staff living and working in the heart of war-torn London.

Through their personal experiences, through the eyes of returning R.A.F. bomber pilots, and with the aid of reports of The CP's great ally, The Associated Press, these young Canadians paint for their countrymen a daily picture of the havoc that war is bringing to Europe and the heroism of a nation "on guard and in the line."

Bombed from their homes and their office, they have carried on a service since the war's start that was not halted even when The CP London office was destroyed by fire last Dec. 29. Here you meet three of them.

D. E. BURRITT,
Who heard bombs thud and Nazi planes roar overhead as he lay helpless in a London hospital. Recovered, he was bounced out of bed a few days later when bombs damaged his London apartment. A veteran at 33, Burritt has been with CP 17 years, has worked in half a dozen Canadian cities.

LOUIS V. HUNTER,
recently returned to London after spending two weeks aboard a Canadian destroyer to write of the part Canadian sailors are playing in the Battle of the Atlantic. Hunter, 27, has had several narrow escapes in bombing raids, one when he was caught in the third-floor CP office as bombs straddled the building.

DOUGLAS AMARON,
Who will move into action as an additional War Correspondent with the Canadian Corps should Hitler invade England. Amaron, 26, arrived in England as the Nazi bombing attacks were beginning last summer, has visited several hard-hit British cities to survey the damage and cable factual reports.

These and five other Canadians — Sam Robertson, Harold Fair, Pat Ussher, Ross Munro and Foster Barclay — combine their efforts to bring CP member newspapers in Canada a vivid, accurate report of life in Britain today. A direct London-New York leased cable speeds their spot news stories to Canadian newspapers in a matter of minutes; trans-Atlantic airplanes bring their background articles to complete the most comprehensive coverage of Britain ever provided by a Canadian news service.

C.G.E. Club Gives 7th Donation Splendid Start

With the sixth £500 safely tucked away in the bank awaiting permission from the Foreign Exchange Control Board to send it to England, an excellent start was made on the seventh £500 through the efforts of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club who Monday afternoon turned over the gross proceeds of the two nights' variety entertainment held in the Collegiate Auditorium last Thursday and Friday nights. Their cheque for $372 was personally presented to the secretary-manager of the fund by the president of the Association, F. N. Robinson at a meeting of the executive and appears in today's list of acknowledgment. The employees of the Canadian General Electric have been consistently good supporters of the Fund.

Individual contributions were received from Miss E. Collins, Harry Tinney and John Barnes, but probably the most outstanding one was received in a letter just signed a working woman. We pay high tribute to this one for the letter reads thus, "Enclosed you will find five dollars, being my little towards your splendid fund. It am sorry its not more, I am only a working woman earning a very small wage. I've been going to give, but it was so small I felt shy. So now its better I'm sending it on. I am in my 68th year, so please sign me as "Working Woman."

Chenhall, A.R.C.O. The program will open with selection from the Cantata, "St. George for England" and will include selections from the Rose group. The scene from an Old English Opera ballad, "No Song, No Supper" will provide a humorous touch, and choruses have been printed for the audience to afford opportunity for all joining in. The program will conclude with the singing of the Dutch National Anthem in its native tongue by W. E. A. Beyaert, a native Hollander residing in this city and a translation of its appears on the program. The entire net proceeds will come to the Fund, so this previous effort is doubly worth your patronage.

Trinity Club Presents Play In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, April 22 (ENS)—"Here Comes Patricia," a three-act comedy presented by Trinity Club, Peterborough, on Monday evening in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield, sponsored by the local Red Cross society, brought forth a capacity audience which was kept going with the witty Patricia's many clever schemes to keep on the right side of everyone concerned, and still carry her purpose through.

All parts were well taken, with two former Lakefield girls, Mrs. Ronald Kemp and Miss Phyllis Webster, playing two of the leading roles.

Those taking part were: Mrs. Carrol, a pleasant motherly old widow, Viola Sexsmith Elsie Crowder, a pretty young neighbor, Audrey Garside; Mrs. Smith-Porter, the town aristocracy, Phyllis Webster; Angelina Knoop, another young neighbor, not so pretty, Iris Whalon; Minnie Knoop, Angelina's cousin, Mary Thompson; Jimmy Clark, a newcomer to Fern Lawn, Dick Clayton, Elbert Hastings, a much abused member of the governor's staff, Ralph Hannbridge; Patricia Grayson, the daughter of the governor, Isabelle Kemp; Adam Wade, Jimmy's peppery boss, Jim Betts; Tim Hopper, the own's bad example, Burt McFadden; Bud Flannigan, a young man, evidently Irish, Bill Petrie.

Between acts Miss Cora Charlton accompanied by Mary McKercher, contributed several vocal numbers and encores, including "The piper from over the way," "Come to the Fair," "A Birthday," "Buckingham Palace," and "Coming thro' the Rye".

Mrs. W. Gillman, convener of the sewing, reported the number of articles completed this year were 531 garments and three cartons of good used clothing, containing 169 articles of clothing. Sixty-four quilts were also included.

Mrs. S. Grylls, the yarn convener, gave her report as follows: 167 pair sox, 45 sweaters, 40 pair seamen's sox, 65 scarves, 23 helmets, and 62 pair mitts and gloves. Of all articles sent since the work started, the local the branch has not so far had one article returned as imperfect.

Each convener made an appeal for more workers.

C. S. Tanner, reeve, was chairman for the evening, the proceeds of which were nearly sixty dollars.

March Peak Is Increased By 1,600 H.P.

Peterborough is now using 1,600 horsepower of electricity more than a year ago, R. L. Dobbin, manager, told the Utilities Commission Monday.

The March peak was 11,000 h.p. as compared with 9,416 h.p. a year ago. "Kilowatt hours delivered from the sub-station increased 6 per cent over last year.

There are now 1,867 electric flat rate heaters connected to the city's electrical system with a total capacity of 926.95 kw. or 1,242.56 h.p. Thirteen flat rate water heaters were installed last month, also six range services. Since May, 1936, we have installed 667."

Pumpage of water at the filtration plant was 82,846,000 gallons last month as compared with 73,343,000 gallons in March 1940.

"The increased pumpage is no doubt largely due to increased industrial use, and also to some domestic consumers running the water continuously to prevent freezing of pipes."

For the fourth consecutive month there has been an increase in the amount of gas sent out from the plant. The increase is from all classes of consumers, Mr. Dobbin reported.

British Fire Fighters' Tag Day Is Planned

Peterborough citizens will have an opportunity on Saturday of this week to do something for the brave fire fighters who are playing so galland a part in helping to cut down destruction in Britain, the men who day after day and night after night are minimizing the dire results of Hitler's incendiary bombs.

Fire Chief George Gimblett applied to the board of police commissioners at Monday's meeting for permission to hold a tag day on Saturday in aid of the British Fire Fighters' Relief and the commission granted the request on motion of Magistrate E. A. Gee and Judge S. L. Smoke.

Gallow Gang Face Burglary Count In Brantford

Jail officials here breathed considerably easier Monday night as the result of the removal from the county institution of Louis Gallow and William Bradd, two of the four convicted safe-crackers.

The two were taken to Brantford by police from that city to face a similar charge in the Telephone City.

Lawrence Burns and Thomas Nicholls who have been confined in the Cobourg jail since the attempted jail-break here will also be tried in Brantford, it is understood.

Ever since an attempt was made on April 3 to get out of the local jail, special night guards have been on duty watching Gallow and Bradd.

Wanted For Robbery

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 22 — (CP)—Louis Gallow and William Bradd, two of four men recently sentenced at Peterborough on charges of safe cracking and jail breaking, were brought to Brantford Monday by Detective George Kerr and Charles Kellas to face charges of breaking and entering the premises of John McHutchion, Ltd., in January.

Today Detectives Kerr and Kellas went to Cobourg to bring back Thomas Nichols and William Burns, also sentenced at Peterborough and who will appear in court here in connection with the bakery robbery. John Fairchild, Toronto, is being held on bail on similar charges.

All five will appear before Magistrate R. J. Gillen Wednesday morning.

Gallow and Bradd were arrested on warrants at Peterborough by the Brantford detectives. Both were involved in a jailbreak attempt at Peterborough and were brought here handcuffed and locked in leg irons.

A Busy Woman

LONDON, April 22.—(CP)—Hon. Mrs. Jack Crawshay, daughter of Lord Tyrell of Avon and chairman of "Refugees of England," is one of the busiest women in London.

When France fell she returned to England and assumed chairmanship of "Refugees of England," a committee formed in July, 1940, as the English clearing house for the International Commission for War Refugees in Great Britain.

"Our aim is to give help at once where it is wanted," said Mrs. Crawshay, who spends her days in a small house in Woburn Square.

FIREMEN ASK HIGHER PAY

Because of increased difficulties in living conditions in Shanghai, Chinese fire fighters have asked for higher pay.

84 Alarms Answered During April

With a total of 84 alarms this month to date, the Peterborough Fire Department was within three of an all-time city record, a check-up by Fire Chief George Gimblett revealed today.

The eighty-fourth fire damaged the walls at the home of John Wyllie, Armour Road, yesterday, after spreading from a defective chimney. "It might have been a serious fire," said Chief Gimblett, stating that it had penetrated deeply into the walls. "We were called just in time." Firemen extinguished the flames with chemicals.

Only in April, 1937, when the brigade was called out 87 times has the present record been exceeded. Most of the calls have been for chimney and grass fires and the loss has been less than $1500. "We have had a very busy month, though, getting around to all these calls," Chief Gimblett said, remarking that there hardly has been a dull moment around the fire hall.

REGRETS FROM 1897.

BOZEAT, England—(CP). — R. Bayne of this Northants village donated his old age pension to the Ministry of Aircraft Production, saying he refused Winston Churchill a drink of water on the North-West frontier of India in 1897.

Air Raid Lectures For Fire Chiefs

Air Raid Precaution lectures will be a feature of the Dominion Fire Chiefs' convention which is to be held in this city on August 26, 27, 28 and 29 next, Fire Chief George Gimblett, Dominion president, disclosed today.

"It has been considered advisable that every fire department has A.R.P. training, and the convention presents a fine opportunity for all the chiefs to get instruction," Chief Gimblett said, explaining that arrangements were being made to bring traine dexperts. "We have not completed all the details yet, but there will definitely be lectures."

Besides a hundred and fifty chiefs, five hundred other visitors are also expected here during the occasion, Chief Gimblett estimated, explaining that associate chiefs and their wives were also being invited. "We expect nearly twice as many as were here last time," he said, in reference to the 1933 convention.

RE-ELECTED A BENCHER

F. D. Kerr, K.C., of the Peterborough law firm of Peck, Kerr, McElderry and Borbridge, was among thirty members re-elected benchers by the Upper Canada Law Society at Toronto today. Mr. Kerr was first elected in 1931 and re-elected in 1936.

NEW YORK, April 21 —(AP)—Signing its first contract with the American Newspaper Guild, the New York Times approved today an agreement to increase the wages of 347 commercial department employees by $82,000 annually.

The contract, covering 617 employees, does not provide for a Guild shop.

Wage increases, under a plan for automatic raises, will eventually reach $104,000 annually. Other provisions include the five-day 40-hour week, payment upon discharge of two weeks' pay for every year of service, job guarantees for employees drafted and payment to any dependents of draftees of half the difference between the Times salary and a conscript's wage up to $100 a month.

Car Rolls Over On Flier

GANANOQUE, Ont., April 22.—(CP)—A member of the Royal Canadian Air Force identified as John A. Chapin of Brantford, suffered severe head lacerations and his car was completely demolished in an accident three miles east of here late Monday night. The car appears to have turned over several times and when discovered by a transport driver was right side up in the middle of the highway. The victim was thrown clear and was found lying on the highway in a pool of blood. He was removed to Kingston General Hospital.

A. I. Roschin claims to have reached an altitude of five and one-quarter miles in a balloon over Russia recently.

Salvage Collection Is Scheduled To Commence On Thursday

Collection of salvage in Peterborough will commence on Thursday, Mrs. Mildred E. Kearns, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Civic War Service Council announced this morning.

Collections will be made in all sections north of Charlotte street, including the whole of East City on Thursday and in the districts south of Charlotte street on Friday and the same schedule will be followed on Thursday and Friday of each week until May 30.

Householders are asked to cut out this notice and keep it so that they will have a constant reminder of the campaign.

Mrs. Kearns announces also that everything in the line of salvage will be collected here except bones and bottles. Rags, old clothing, sweaters, wool socks, metal scrap of all kinds, including garden and other tools, disused rollers, lawn mowers, fire irons, fenders, railings, and chains, ornaments, pots and pans and any other metals are all wanted. Rust does not matter. Aluminum pots, pictures frames, hangers or any other article of aluminum can be used. Silver paper, tin foils, tooth paste containers and the brass ends of light bulbs are all useful.

So too are newspapers, magazines, letters, cardboard and cartons. Paper should be clean and dry, tied into a parcel with the smaller pieces inside and cartons should be flattened. Only cellophane, greaseproof, tarred and carbon papers are not wanted. Magazines, if kept neat and clean, will be distributed as reading matter to military camps, hospitals and ships.

Collect all these articles and put them outside on Thursday or Friday as the case may be and the collectors will see that they are picked up.

Remember your household waste is part of the country's war material and it must be salvaged to help win the war. To waste essential materials in wartime would be criminal. With your help there will be no waste.

This salvage campaign is sponsored by the Federal Government as part of Canada's great war effort.

It has four objectives:

(1) To rescue from dump heaps, back sheds, attics, dust bins and basements, certain kinds of materials that are required in war industries.

(2) To give every Canadian on the home front a chance to fight Hitler by helping to collect salvage and prevent waste.

(3) To develop a spirit of national thrift.

(4) To raise monies for war purposes by the sale of these materials to the salvage trade.

DOROTHY DIX

SECOND MARRIAGE CARRIES NO HAPPINESS GUARANTEE

Most Women Find They Have to Chart Another Course When They Are Nearing the Forty Mark.

DEAR MISS DIX—Will you please tell me how I can get something out of life again? I am a widow 38 years old, good-looking, quiet and refined. Have never smoked nor drank. Go to church and Sunday School. My husband has been dead four years and I am very lonesome and miss having a home and a husband to look after and cook for. I would like to marry again, but do not seem to attract men. It seems that the best part of my life has gone, but I would like to make something out of the remainder of it. How can I?

BROKENHEARTED.

ANSWER—The best part of every woman's life is gone when she is 38, and this is especially the case when she has a good husband and lost him. Nothing can bring back her girlhood and the gay heart of youth. Never again can she know the thrill of first love, nor the joy and excitement she experienced in setting up her first home. Life doesn't repeat itself. It goes on, but it is never the same and it is folly to expect it. At 38 you must face the fact that your chances of marrying are far less than they were at 18, so you can't count on getting a husband. The marrying men are young men. There are plenty of them, but by the time men get in your age class—which would put them in the forties or fifties—they have been pretty well picked over and led to the altar, and there are not many eligible ones left. Mostly they are widowers who are enjoying liberty, and who have no notion of slipping their necks in the noose again, or case-hardened old bachelors, who are marriage proof.

Of course, there are exceptions to all rules and, perhaps, Mr. Right may come your way and see what a nice wife you would make and bear you off to a happy home. But, again, he may pass by on the other street and never even notice that you are sitting there on the anxious seat, with your fingers crossed for luck.

Must Try New Course

So my advice to you is to waste no more time in wishful thinking about matrimony, but to make yourself an interesting and happy life, with or without a man in it, a chance may decree.

You can do it if you will, because the world is so full of a number of things besides husband that women should be as happy as queens if they would only content themselves with single blessedness, which, believe me, is not to be despised.

For marriage carries no guarantee of hapiness with it, nor is every husband a prize package. According to statistics, one marriage out of every six is such a purgatory that the wife breaks out of it at any cost.

And there are millions of other women who have husbands who are

Mrs. Peacock To Address Mass Meeting of Women

Mrs. Col. G. W. Peacock, who is in charge of Red Shield Women's Auxiliary work in Canada, will bring first hand information of what clothing and supplies are most needed at the moment in Great Britain when she speaks Thursday evening at a mass meeting of women in the Salvation Army Temple. Col. Peacock, who spent some time overseas investigating the needs of folk left homeless and destitute by bombs, returned to Toronto a week or so ago, and it is this information his wife will pas on when she addresses the women of Peterborough. Although Mrs. Peacock's visit has been arranged by the local branch of Red Shield, every woman or women's group in the city interested in war work is urged to attend.

Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, Honorary president of Apsley branch of Red Cross, will preside, and the speaker will be thanked by Mrs. J. K. Hughes. Mrs. J. T. Braund will present the scripture reading, and a brief musical program, arranged by Songster Leader Ben Smith, will feature numbers by the Marimbaphone group. Tea is to be served after the meeting.

DO YOU KNOW . . .

One-half pound coffee and four quarts of boiling water will make enough of the beverage to serve 16 people.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Toby refuses to let Anthony mope in defeat. They plan a party, discover that Toby is much in love with a clerk in the comptroller's office. They go to a show, sit in the balcony, then to a dance hall. Bee is delighted with the sincerity and fun. She begs Anthony to dance.

CHAPTER XXIII

THE orchestra was a famous "Big Name" band, and when you danced to their music, you understood exactly why. Beatrice had danced until she was breathless. She had danced with Anthony, of course. But she had danced with Terry, too, and with Sam McArdle, and with a dark-eyed lad who had come whooping to their table when he glimpsed Vera.

"Our production assistant, at Simon's," Vera explained.

"She means goat and burden bearer," said the boy. "May I bring my girl over?"

He brought her over. She was a stenographer and pretty. She danced with Anthony, and Beatrice danced with her boy-friend. But they went back where they belonged afterward, and Beatrice remembered the night she had taken Clarence away from Mimi Frothingham and felt a new and puzzling shame.

Toby devoured sandwiches and Terry kept going back to bring more drinks. Anthony held Beatrice's hand, under the table, every chance he got, and plied her with food.

Vera teased Sam McArdle. "So you work with figures. How strange. So do I. My own figure. Hey, hey, wait a minute, don't blush! I was only trying to be cute!"

Once Anthony clutched Beatrice and whispered, "There goes a Budge Fashion or I'm blind."

"With the wrong accessories," said Beatrice.

But that was bad, because it made him remember.

THERE was no terrace to which they could wander, but they managed to be satisfyingly alone in that crowded, noisy place just the same. Vera and Terry went back for more food, and Toby dragged Sam McArdle off into a corner.

"You really like this?" Anthony asked. "I keep thinking you ought to be in Twenty-One. Or El Morocco. Or the Rainbow Room. Not that they'd let me in."

"Of course they'd let you in! Don't be silly! You'd be an ornament."

"You're so beautiful, Bee. I like the way your nose turns up. And your mouth's so tender."

"Just made for kisses, I suppose," she jeered. "Go ahead, if you want to."

"I always want to."

"Especially on sidewalks, and in a crowd, and just anywhere like that, where it's so suitable."

"Then you should stop looking so lovely! Oh, Bee, every time I look at you, you've grown more beautiful." He stooped and kissed her forehead, tenderly. "That's my mark. You belong to me."

"I feel it burning," she whispered. "Like a star on my forehead."

A girl passing by glanced at them quizzically. "Ain't love grand," she murmured to the man behind her.

Defiantly Anthony kissed Beatrice again.

"I ought to die of shame," she thought. "But I love him so. I want to shout it from the rooftops. I love him. He's mine.

Where was the controlled, poised Beatrice now? Where was the self assured, queenly girl who could sail into the most exclusive night club and make the headwaiter quail? Where was the girl who had wanted Clarence as she might want a new toy?

"Bee, will you mind waiting? It may be a year—it may be two years, or three . . ." Now Anthony was gloomy. "You'll get tired. You'll meet someone else. Oh, darling, I couldn't bear it if that happened! Look here, promise me you'll never look at another man."

"Build a fence around me," she teased. "Put blinders on me."

"Don't," he groaned. "I love you so, and when will we be able to get married? We'll be old and gray before Huntington's pays me enough!"

She smiled secretly. "Here come Toby and her Sam. Look cheerful!"

AT 1.30, Vera announced reluctantly that she had to leave. "Us professional beauties," she said, lifting her chin and looking down her nose, "must make such sacrifices for our art!"

Toby said, "I don't want to go home. Sam, it's been such a swell party! I hate for it to end."

"We'll have other parties," he said quietly. And somehow, Beatrice realized, it had all been settled. Right there.

Anthony held her coat as if it were the mink he'd never seen. A thought struck her, and she clapped her hand to her mouth. Why, she'd forgotten all about it! She'd left it there in the parcel locker and they must have cleaned that out weeks ago!

"What hit you?" Anthony asked. "Remember something?"

"Yes. I—I think I left something in the lounge." She scurried off and came right back. That coat bore a label. But perhaps someone had appropriated it. She hoped someone had.

TERRY insisted on singing in the subway. The other passengers didn't mind, so Terry warbled in a pretty fair tenor.

Anthony and Beatrice sat close together, without talking. Her eyes were heavy. She tried to keep her head from sliding down to his shoulder and finally gave it up. The subway was so broadminded! And she was so tired!

Anthony's gentle shaking awakened her. "We're almost there, Bee. Wake up!"

She stirred sleepily, and struggled to open her eyes. Then suddenly she was blinking in the light, and across the aisle, something was vaguely familiar. A man, reading a tabloid. She frowned. She was still sleepy.

Anthony rose, and helped her to her feet. All at once, she looked again. The tabloid! Why, that was her own picture, staring her in the face!

"For heaven's sake!" cried Toby Masters, shrilly. "Look at that!"

With The Boy Scouts

Attention, St. Andrew's Scouts

All members of the troop are requested to meet at the Sunday School on Tuesday, at 5.30 sharp, where cars will be waiting to take them to Oshawa. Scouter Ingham is visiting his old troop, and Mrs. Crowe. Messrs. Beaton-Airth and English are providing cars to transport the troop down and back.

Scoutcraft Show.

We are pleased to report that the craft show was most successful and entries were complimented on by our many visitors. Many unlisted items were entered. Woven string bells, bent glass work, collection of interesting fossils gathered from the stone quarry at Lakefield, Sixer boxes by the St. Luke's group and many other items.

The Art showing is improving each year, with Bob Wood of St. James' heading the scouts in pencil sketches. Rover Scout Ron Gynane had four oil paintings and one water color on display, attracting lots of attention. Also a knot board by Captain Tivy of the Barrie Building was a centre of interest. Paintings by Cub Borland of St. John's were outstanding, as also was a cushion by one of the St. John's cubs.

Model airplanes were among the outstanding features.

A full detailed report will be in next week's paper. We wish to thank Mr. C. Cummer of the Bank of Montreal and Mr. Stan. Harris of Harris and Boddy, the sign shop, for their co-operation in making the affair a success.

Any article not picked up by 6 p.m. Monday will be taken to the home of Mrs. G. E. Groombridge, 296 Rogers street, where the boys can call to claim same.

Patrol Leaders' Conference

Friday last brought to a close the most successful patrol leaders' conference held in this district.

The opening night was on Tuesday at the Sacred Heart. A short talk given by Commissioner J. T. Hornsby. The following subjects were given: Patrol Spirit and Meetings, by Scouter Nokes; Patrol Instruction by Scouter Rose; Patrol Organization, by Scouter Watkins.

Thursday night the subjects were Signalling by Scouter Rose; Patrol and the Troop by Scouter Hendren; Heights and Measurement by S.M. Leggitt; Court of Honor (demonstration) by A.S.M. Brown. The session being held at All Saints'.

Friday night the meeting started at St. Luke's with two subjects, Mapping, by Scouter Watkins, and Patrol Week-end Camp" by Scouter Nokes.

Field Secretary E. Jones of Toronto was present for the final evening. The meeting adjourned to the association headquarters where a real discussion took place, with Mr. Jones conducting. Scouter Peter Dominik led all games for all meetings.

Boys Go Camping

During the past week five members of St. John's troop went camping: Scouts G. Grierson and F. Blackburn and Patrol Leaders G. Green, G. Best and L. G. Groombridge. The boys took turns in cooking. Wednesday morning flag break and prayers were led by G. Best. Practise of tree felling was made on a dead pine. Tracking practise was done by two groups laying the trail and following up alternately. Jim Hooper arrived in camp before dinner and stayed till after supper. Stalking was the main afternoon exercise. Several visitors attended camp Wednesday evening, among them being Peter Dominik, Ken Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Best, Frank Pammett staying for the camp fire and led in the sing-song.

Thursday, after tracking and stalking, games were played; the camp grounds were cleared. Mr. Best came out and took the boys back to town. The patrol leaders made all arrangements for the camp and thank Mr. Best for his kindness in providing the transportation of equipment; the boys cycling out and back.

Attention, Scouters

A meeting of all scouters is called for tonight at 8 p.m. It is the regular scouters' meeting, with Commissioner Hornsby calling for special attendance.

Sacred Heart

The Sacred Heart had the pleasure of being host for the first session of the patrol leaders' training course. The troop meeting was held outdoors, signalling being the main item of instruction. A short hike followed, picking out items that would be useful in the event of war or air raid work. On returning to headquarters the boys listed what they considered the most essential points for shelters. The evening closed with weiners and buns, thanks to the Mother's Auxiliary.

A salvage campaign was conducted during the week, and all boys are requested to bring in their supplies to the club house this week.

Owing to other activities the meeting will be held on Wednesday of this week.

Those boys who have some tests to pass for second class will meet the scouter at the headquarters on Tuesday to try same.

St. John's Cubs

The pack met in the jungle for a general program last Friday. Games played included a train relay, circle, bag relay and exchange.

The pack then visited the cub and scoutcraft show for the remainder of the evening.

There will be a pack bicycle hike next Saturday afternoon if the weather is suitable. Details will be given at our next meeting.

All cubs are reminded to bring in their progress charts next Friday if they have not done so.

The pack and leaders wish good hunting to Kim (Max Coones) who has moved to London, Ontario. Akela Frank Pammett presented Kim with a small gift from the subs in appreciation of his good services as a pack leader.

Mrs. Kelsey visited the pack.

Murray Street Cubs

The pack held its usual weekly meeting Thursday. Akela was absent through illness, but Baloo and Bagheera carried on nobly and well.

Three chums from the 12th Pack were visitors. The pack played a game of British Bulldog and then got down to work on hobby show crafts.

Sunday the pack attended church in the morning, commemorating Boy Scout and St. George's Day. There was a good turnout of cubs and all three leaders were present.

Deanna Durbin Becomes A Bride

In one of Hollywood's biggest weddings Deanna Durbin, 19-year-old singing star, and Vaughan Paul, 25, associate producer, both of Universal Studio, were married in the Wilshire Methodist Episcopal Church before more than 900 guests, mostly studio attaches. The couple are shown immediately following the rites as they left the church to attend a reception at the Beverly-Wilshire hotel for a taste of wedding cake.

Dorothy Dix

drunkards and philanderers and ne'er-do-wells whom they have to support, who never mention their husbands when they thank God for their blessings.

So why not give up the husband chase and devote your energies to the pursuit of happiness instead of a man? First of all, buy some new clothes. Nothing cheers a woman up and puts pep in her and gives her a fresh outlook on life as much as a smart outfit. Then change your mode of life. Get out of your rut and go somewhere where it will be different, where you will meet new people and do new things.

There Is Joy In a Job

Above all, get busy, so you will have something to think about besides yourself. Get a job if you can. If you have had no experience in any kind of work outside of the home, go to some vocational school, get yourself tested out for your aptitude, then study it. Make yourself so proficient in it that you can command a good salary. You will find doing all of that plenty exciting.

And, if you are rich and do not need to work, join some of the philanthrophies and work with them helping others. You will never dare to pity yourself again when you see the real troubles that so many unfortunates are up against. There is no need for any woman to complain that she is lonesome and that she doesn't know how to make a full life for herself in these days.

People Will Always Gossip

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a married woman past 50 and work for a widower a few years older than I am. He always takes me to and from work and out to lunch about three times a week, and sometimes we stop on the way home for dinner and a show. Recently he has been very attentive to a young widow very much younger than he, and I don't like her one bit. She is out to get him. I have seen him out at lunch with her on the days he usually takes me. My husband does not object to the attentions this man shows for there is absolutely nothing between us but a very warm friendship. He is so lonely and seems to enjoy my company. So for that reason I encourage him to take me with him. Do you think the public would gossip about people of our ages?

ANXIOUS SECRETARY.

ANSWER—Of course, they will, and are. There is no age limit on gossip. No married woman, not even if she is as old as the Witch of Endor, can run around with her employer without being talked about. In fact, for Grandma to turn skittish and begin stepping out adds just a special flavor to the tale and makes the scandalmongers all the more eager to pass it along.

But, dear lady, be honest with yourself. You are falling in love with your boss, or else you wouldn't be so green-eyed about that young widow, and you wouldn't care whether he took her out to lunch or not.

Cut it out. These belated romances always end in a mess. Buy your own lunches and leave him to the other lady. It isn't part of your duty to take care of him. The Bible enjoins us to comfort the widow, but it doesn't say a word about it being anybody's duty to comfort a widower.

Best To Quit Seeing Girls

Dear Miss Dix—We are young men at Cornell and have been dating two girls from a large, nearby, co-educational university. We have lost interest in these girls and would like you to tell us how to drop them tactfully.

THE "BUDS" THAT DON'T WANT TO BUD.

ANSWER—Well, Buddy, you know the old saying that absence of body is better than presence of mind in time of danger. That goes double for girls. The most diplomatic way of standing up a girl is to just fade gently out of the picture. Quit going to see her. Have dates when she invites you to go places with her. Don't answer telephone calls or make them. And for heaven's sake, don't WRITE.

After all, a girl can't make a boy drag her around with him unless he wants to do it. Boys always make the first move, you know.

Axis Chiefs Drafting New Map Of The Balkans

(By ROBERT H. BEST.)

VIENNA, April 22 (via Berlin).—Axis military and political leaders are drafting a new map of the blitzkrieg-swept Balkans at a conference in or near Vienna and will announce the new boundaries soon, perhaps within ten days, it was understood last night.

The new map, involving Yugoslavia and Greece and the satellite Axis nations bordering upon them, is being drawn by German and Italian leaders in consultation with representatives from Bulgaria, Hungary and the new "Free Croat" State of Northern Yugoslavia.

Mapmaker No. 1 is Adolf Hitler, who is understood to have sketched the broad lines of the new Balkans in a conference "somewhere in the southeast" with King Boris of Bulgaria, whose visit to the Reichsfuehrer was revealed by the Germans Monday.

New Frontiers

The new map is believed to give Bulgaria and Hungary the Greek and Yugoslav territories already occupied by Bulgarian and Hungarian troops, the Bulgarians the portions of Macedonia which they once owned around Zaribrod, Pirot and Skoplje, and the Hungarians the Banat region north of Belgrade above the Danube.

Bulgaria and Italy, it was said, are expected to obtain enough of Serbian Yugoslavia to give them a common frontier along the Vardar River near Skoplje.

Italy also is expected to get a part of the Dalmatian coast, including the former principality of Montenegro and perhaps a part of Slovenia unless that portion of Slovenia which is not annexed by Germany herself becomes a protectorate similar to Slovakia and Bohemia-Moravia.

The frontiers of the new "Free States" of Croatia around Zagreb, just south of the German and Hungarian borders, were said to be causing trouble, partly because of economic troubles and partly because of Italy's reported desire for a large slice of Yugoslav territory along the Dalmatian coast.

Recognize Croat State

Both Germany and Italy have formally recognized the new Croat State set up Zegreb, and Hitler has named Major-Gen. Siegfried Kasche of the S.A. Storm Troops as his first minister to the Zagreb Croat Government.

Serbia will be what is left of Yugoslavia after the division among Germany and Italy and their Axis supporters, but the manner in which the Serb areas will be administered has not been revealed.

Some German quarters believed that a "rump Serbia" might be set up, much like the present "rump Poland" and it was stated that the Serbs, because they have been the bitterest of all the Yugoslavs in their opposition to Germany, will have "nothing to say about their fate."

Symbols Simple to Learn

She's never caught in a rut—the worker who increases her value from year to year. If you seem to be standing still in business, think—perhaps you should learn something more, shorthand, perhaps!

You can teach yourself short-hand and it's a wanted skill which is bound to add to your business value.

Hard to learn shorthand by yourself? No, the Pitman system is simple. You write by sound, not by spelling, and there aren't many sounds. For each you learn an easily written symbol—"M" an arch "A" a dot, "K" a dash.

To write "make" you'd join the "M" arch to the "K" dash, putting the "A" dot under the arch. You don't write "E" because you don't hear it in the word "make."

But now shorthand becomes even simpler! To help you keep up with your boss' dictation there are "short forms" for long words. "Representative" (thirteen sounds!) is like an upside-down V with a hook.

Our 32-page booklet gives 18 easy, step-by-step lessons for home study in Pitman shorthand. Has exercises, short forms to help you acquire accuracy and speed. It is an excellent foundation for a business college course.

Send 10c in coins or stamps for your copy of SELF-INSTRUCTION IN SHORTHAND to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

LEAD DIRECTING BIDS

ONE DEVICE developed in the days of auction bridge is still of value in contract, sometimes of more value than in the older game. That is the lead-directing bid. Usually it comes after your partner has passed, thereby indicating a possible lack of important defensive strength, and the intervening opponent had then bid a minor suit. With the likelihood of a No Trump game in the offing, your suit bid may scare them away from one they could make if some other suit than yours got led. If they do go ahead and chance it, your partner should usually minimize their chances by leading your suit.

What a difference in result there was at two duplicate tables where that bidding was done. In one case North was frightened out of leading his partner's suit, explaining later that he thought West must have it securely stopped, and therefore the best thing was to lead the second suit bid by dummy, so as to knock out any side entries for the first. He used this reasoning to prescribe a lead of the spade 2. The A won it, the diamond A was laid down and then a small diamond for North to win. Now, too late, the latter led his heart 4 to the A, and West then won the heart Q with his K. Blithely running off tricks then, he totaled four in diamonds, four in spades, one in hearts and two in clubs, making his contract plus two overtricks.

At the other table, North led his heart 4 to the A, and the Q knocked out the K. West proceeded to run a total of eight tricks, but as soon as he then lost one, the defenders finished with hearts, setting him one, solely because North obeyed the lead-directing bid.

Stanwood Quilters.

Mrs. Robert Lisle was hostess for the April meeting of the Stanwood Sewing Circle held at her home on Thursday afternoon. The largely attended meeting was presided over by Mrs. John Lain. Following the secretary's report given by Mrs. E. Rowe, a brief report of the sewing and quilting for the Red Cross was given in addition one quilt was donated to the local Salvation Army.

Plans for a forthcoming amateur night to be held in the Orange Hall were discussed by the members. During the afternoon each lady made a block for a quilt which they handed in at the close of the meeting. The next regular meeting of the Circle will be held at the home of Mrs. William Madill.

Struck by Car.

Four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Rowe received severe bruises and head injury on Thursday when he was struck by an automobile as he ran across the highway on Centre Street in front of G. Bailey's residence. The car was driven by Bernard Coveney, who with his mother and sister were coming north on Centre Street when, according to the police, the little boy ran out directly in front of the car, with the right front fender catching him and throwing him some ten feet. The driver, trying to miss the child, swerved his car into a four-foot stump, then crashed into a nearby pole which topples over, only just missing several children who had been playing on the street.

The occupants of the car were uninjured. On examining the little boy he was found to have a large bump on the side of his head and several bruises, but it was reported that the injuries were not of a serious nature.

Coal Shortage Due

OGDENSBURG, N.Y., April 22.—(AP)—A possible coal shortage here was feared today with receipt of a ruling from Admiral E. S. Lands, chairman of the United States Maritime Commission, that no boats of British or Canadian registry may be used to transport coal from lake ports to Ogdensburg.

The ruling followed an appeal by the George Hall Transportation Corporation for permission to use British or Canadian ships to relieve the threatened shortage in shipping.

Men Train To Be Of Greater Use In The Mechanized Service

Here are seen men selected from the Active Army undergoing their instruction in some of the finer work of tradesmen. These pictures were taken at the Central Technical School Toronto, but similar classes are to be observed in many of the technical schools in Canada. These men are working on radio and construction on "fine instruments." The soldier, UPPER RIGHT, is operating a precision drill. Below him is a bench class in radio work. Others are to be observed at work on jewelers' lathes constructing an air speed indicator from specifications written on a blackboard.

Varied Crafts Offer Courses To Members Of Canadian Army

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Military Correspondent.)

TORONTO, April 22 — (CP).— In the same classrooms where reinforcements for the Dominion's industrial front line are gaining skill and knowledge a reserve force of trade specialists is being developed to meet future needs of Canada's expanding active army.

In common with many other centres in Canada facilities in Toronto's vocational and technical institutions are being utilized to build up from material within the ranks of the army this potential force of workmen skilled in the various trades.

Many of the men have been "combed out" of their units to undergo refresher courses in trades and crafts they followed in peacetime. Others are starting from scratch. And while the most acute demand is for recruits to enter the general field of mechanics, the soldier-pupil has the privilege of learning almost any trade that may appeal to him.

With the prevailing shortage of available skilled or semi-skilled tradesmen, the choice is virtually unlimited. In the Toronto schools alone the following courses are available: carpentry, blacksmithing, plumbing, tinsmithing, fine instrument making, wireless, draughtsmanship, motor mechanics, coppersmithing, welding, artificers and the various branches of the electrical and machinist trades. These and other courses are conducted in similar schools throughout the Dominion.

Train At Night.

As priority is given at present to civilians being trained for vital war industries, the soldier classes are almost exclusively confined to night shifts. Most of the courses begin around 11 p.m. and keep the school plants humming until 7 a.m.

By lectures, instructional films, diagrams and practical demonstrations the students are first taught the rudiments of their new trades. From this introductory phase they pass on to the more simple practical work, are instructed in the proper handling of tools, care of lathes and other machinery, elementary assembly and repair.

The men, with all the modern facilities and latest training equipment at their disposal, are next given tests in creative work and gradually projects are introduced similar to those tradesmen may encounter on active service, calling for skill and resourcefulness.

In the fine instruments class being conducted at Central Technical School, a select group has already reached the intermediate stage of making delicate aviation instruments. The men, however, can apply their skill to any other instrument field. Some of the pupils have turned out parts for air-speed indicators, altimeters, compasses, range-finders and sighting devices for field guns.

Not one man in the class had any previous knowledge of thih intricate craft but all displayed a keen desire to go on. This spirit was exemplified in Gdsmn. E. Riddell of Montreal, who said he was so interested in his new-found work that he regretted the passing of time in the class-room.

12 Weeks' Courses

This phase of their tuition extends over a period of 12 weeks with a more advanced course to come at the army trade school to be opened in Hamilton early in May. On graduation some of the men may be sent back to their own units or other branches of the service to do specialized work. A few who show outstanding aptitude will be sent to plant schools to gain further knowledge of the art and ultimately be assigned to unit sor schools as instructors.

In another section of the school weird squeals and noises issued from a class-room where a small group of youngsters in shirt-sleeves huddled about benches littered with electrical equipment, radio tubes, wires and strange gadgets. It was the wireless class in the midst of its tuning and coding tests.

Out of this class will come the experts of the future for the signal sections, armored vehicles and some for air co-operation work. The course takes the student through the problems of theory down to the practical, utilitarian work of receiving and transmitting sets.

Intensive and Thorough

Among the soldiers taking this course is Gdsmn. R. J. Walsh of Charlot, N.B., who was engaged in the fisheries business before the war. As a hobby he operated an amateur radio station.

"The course we are getting here is so intensive and thorough that I doubt if we could get more in two years of apprenticeship," Walsh declared. There was much to learn, but the task of the class was made easy, he said, as all the essential facilities for training were available while the standard of instruction was high.

The classes are studded with men adjusting themselves not only to army life but to new occupations. Among them is Pte. V. J. Byington of Kenora, Ont., who formerly prospected in the northwest. With Pte. J. M. Fitzherbert of Perth, N.B., former farmer, he is learning to become a blacksmith.

L.-Cpl. J. K. Hossack, employed in an Ottawa porcelain-enamel factory in peacetime, is being transformed into an electrician. With him are Pte. Rene Larochelle who worked in a Montreal clothing plant and Gnr. C. D. Culter, erstwhile Montreal milkman.

All take the attitude: "If I can be of greater use to the army in some other trade we'll gladly try it."

Marmora Group Hears Fine Trinidad Talk

MARMORA, April 22—(ENS). — The April meeting of St. Andrew's Missionary Society was held on Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage. There was a good attendance of members and a number of the C.G.I.T. were also present. The president, Mrs. W. P. Fletcher, conducted the opening and business periods.

The theme for the worship service for April was "Following the Way of Love to Victory." Mrs. Percy Fletcher read the Bible passage. The missionary program told in an interesting way the story of Oliver Jackson, B.D., O.B.E., devoted missionary of the church in Newfoundland.

Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Beazer of Roslin were present. The latter delighted the gathering with her talk on Trinidad. She was born on the Island of Grenada close to Trinidad where her father operated a large nutmeg estate or plantation. Her girlhood was spent in the West Indies and her education was completed in Canada. Various exhibits which she had brought added to the interest of her talk. Rev. F. C. Beazer also gave a talk on some of his experiences before and since his ordination as an Anglican clergyman. After a hearty vote of thanks had been extended both speakers, refreshments were served

Mr. Emerson McCormack underwent an operation for appendicitis in Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday.

Mr. W. J. Mills and son, William, of Toronto, are spending a couple of days at their cottage at Crowe Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Haacke and son, Ewart, spent Easter in Toronto with their daughter, Mrs. William Kerr and Mr. Kerr.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hamilton and little daughter are visiting relatives at Hanover and other points in Western Ontario.

Messrs. Harry Gawley and Frank Morrison of Niagara Falls, Ont., are visiting relatives in the Malone district.

Feels Like Different Person Since Syntona Built Her Up

Suffered Constantly With Sour, Upset Stomach, Dizzy Spells and Headaches. Had Rheumatic Pains in Back and Joints. Nerves Were Bad and She Couldn't Sleep.

MRS. IDA WADDELL

"I am simply delighted with the way Syntona has helped me, and I will be glad to have others know about it," said Mrs. Ida Waddell, 446 Paling Avenue North, Hamilton, in a recent statement.

"Almost as long as I can remember, I was troubled with indigestion and constipation, and I didn't think anything would help my stomach any more. Food I ate just seemed to settle into a solid mass in my stomach. There it would ferment and cause bloat and belching of scalding sour liquids. My appetite was so poor that I didn't care for food at all and at night I often felt lucky if I got more than an hour's sleep. I felt so weakened from loss of sleep that I just dreaded the thought of all the work I had to do. Then, I began to have frequent headaches and dizzy spells and pains set into my back and joints.

"After trying various medicines with little or no results, I began taking Syntona and I could tell it was helping me in less than a week. It relieved me of all that stomach misery and my nerves became relaxed so I could sleep better. My bowels are regular now and I have more energy. In the short time I have been taking Syntona, the stiffness and pains in my joints have been reduced and the headaches and dizzy spells have left me."

The reason such good results are produced by a medicine that is compounded to act on the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels at the same time is simply this: The organs of assimilation and elimination are so closely related that when one becomes ailing, it so often affects one or more of the others. Food that should supply energy and resistance only ferments in the stomach. Soured particles and waste matter are absorbed into the bloodstream and soon the whole system is rundown.

1000 Tons Shells Rip Tripoli Apart

By LARRY ALLEN
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

WITH THE BRITISH BATTLE FLEET BOMBARDING TRIPOLI, Libya, Monday, April 21 — (AP). — The red hot guns of Britain's Mediterranean Battle Fleet set Tripoli Harbor aflame to-day in what officers said was the biggest and most spectacular bombardment of naval history.

They pumped more than 1,000 tons of high explosives into the Barbary Coast base of the Germans and Italians.

Fifteen-inch, six-inch, and 4.5-inch projectiles from the battleships rumbled over the high-bastioned Morrish walls of Mussolini's last big African stronghold, starting great fires, crushing enemy striking bases like egg shells and terrorizing the population.

The guns' scorching firing continued steadily for 42 minutes from 5 a.m., repeatedly scoring direct hits.

I was aboard the most powerful battleship of the Fleet, close to the streaks of flame from her powerful guns. They turned blackness into light and the one-ton shells rumbled through the night with a noise like a rushing train.

Shells ripped into the heart of each of the designated targets. Six Axis ships, including several warships, were hit and severely damaged—possibly sunk.

Tripoli's railroad station, freight yards and power plant burst into a mass of flames as armor-piercing shells crashed into underground oil deposits.

As sheets of fire spurted high into the sky, salvoes crashed into the Axis naval headquarters buildings, destroying them as though they had been made of cardboard.

The surprise bombardment of Mussolini's heaviest fortified African possession once the base of Tropili pirates and now the jumping-off place of Hitler's tanks thrusting against Egypt, opened a few minutes after a wave of bombers handed Tripoli one of the severest bombings of the war.

Point Blank Range.

Huge, darkened British battleships, cruisers and destroyers, faintly silhouetted in the moonlight, splashed quietly through a calm sea, manoeuvring around a network of mines, until they came within point-blank range of Tripoli harbor.

I stood on a battleship signal deck and then an emergency conning tower for fully 90 minutes before the shelling started and watched Tripoli's heavy anti-aircraft guns spurt flame, trying to hit bombing planes.

Splinters of fire seared into the sky. I saw thousands of tracer "flaming onions" slither snakelike into darkness from defence bases. Red, blue, green and white bursts

Main Body Of Greeks Still Beside British, Says London

CAIRO, April 23—(CP-Reuters).—It was reliably reported tonight that temporary easing of German pressure in Greece has enabled the British forces to consolidate their new positions.

LONDON, April 23 (CP)—Authoritative sources said today that positions of British and Greek troops in Greece still are intact, but acknowledged that some Greek forces in the centre of the line are cut off from supply bases.

The forces so left, this source said, were cut off by German troops who crossed the main communication line and they probably were unable to withdraw farther as an organized body.

The main body of the Greek army is established in new positions and fighting bravely beside the British troops, authoritative sources said, adding that this fact was considered "encouraging."

Alfred Duff Cooper, minister of information, in replying to complaints that German reports of the withdrawal of imperial troops from Greece had remained uncontradicted for six hours, told the House of Commons he was unaware the reports had received widespread credence.

The reports were "rapidly disproved by the fighting which followed," he said. "It would be a mistake to issue official denials on every false report in circulation. If we did so, the lack of a denial would be taken as confirmation of the report."

Through, Says Berlin

BERLIN, April 23 —(AP)—Nazi spokesmen claimed today the German army had defeated "the British rear guard" at Thermopylae and claimed 250,000 Greeks had surrendered to the Axis forces in the Epirus sector.

The Nazi spokesman claimed German armored units have passed through the gateway of Thermopylae and "are relentlessly pursuing the retreating British in the direction of Athens."

Less expansive communique of the German high command, however, said simply that moves in Greece were "proceeding according to plan" and that "forces advancing by way of Lamia, further south, compelled English rear guards to fight at historic Thermopylae Pass."

Capitulation Made Without First Consulting Athens

ATHENS, April 23—(AP).—King George of Greece abandoned Athens with his government today in an attempt to continue the fight from Crete after his army of Epirus, holding the left flank of the Allied defence line, capitulated under the hammering of German - Italian forces.

The capitulation, which the King said was negotiated without his knowledge, rendered precarious the position of the remainder of the Greek army and of British troops last reported battling Nazi divisions seeking to force a way through historic Thermopylae Pass on the eastern end of the Hellenic front.

The fate of the British was uncertain, but it appeared they faced the alternatives of abandoning Greece altogether or undertaking an equally hazardous retreat through Athens to the Peloponnesus.

Despite the desperate outlook, King George announced it was his intention to carry on the struggle "with all remaining forces with a view to securing the supreme national interests."

It was not immediately clear here how many of Greece's fighting men (estimated by some sources at about 600,000 at the start of the war) had surrendered.

It was the army of Epirus, however, which scored the great successes against the Italians after they invaded Greece last October 28, driving them back into Albania and later sweeping up the Albanian coast for more than 50 miles.

Finally Cornered

During the past week, however, this army has been falling back under a flanking German thrust from the north. It appeared the army finally had been hemmed in between the revitalized Italian forces and a Nazi column stabbing southwest-

Hun Baron, Escaped Prisoner Jumps $15,000 Bail In U.S.; States Bars Haven In Future

Attorney-General Orders Borders Blocked As Von Werra Flees For Peru
Ottawa Sees Action Aid In Future Escapes

WASHINGTON, April 23—(CP).—The United States border was closed today to prisoners of war who escape from Canadian custody and attempt to seek haven in a neutral country.

Attorney-General Robert Jackson announced last night that the United States will permit no more prisoners of war or internees from Canada to enter the country as a result of Baron Franz von Werra, German aviator and escaped prisoner, jumping bail and fleeing to Peru. He issued orders that such persons be turned back at the border with "any force reasonably necessary."

Von Werra, 26-year-old Swiss-born Nazi flier, was arrested at Ogdensburg, N.Y., January 25, after escaping from a train taking prisoners of war to internment camp. He reached the American side of the border by crossing the St. Lawrence River in sub-zero weather and was picked up by a motorist and turned over to immigration officers.

Charged with illegal entry, Von Werra had been out on bail of $15,000 put up by the German Consulate in New York, $10,000 to cover a deportation proceeding and $5,000 to cover a misdemeanor charge in connection with illegal entry. It was believed likely the bail money would be forfeited to the United States treasury.

Boasted He'd Get Home

Von Werra, who once boasted "I will find my way back to Germany as I found my way out of prison camps three times," apparently left the United States April 8. It was reported he had accompanied a German consular officer to the southern part of the United States on a "vacation," during which he left the country on a Swiss passport.

(While the means of Von Werra's transportation to Peru was not mentioned in Jackson's announcement, Col. Hubert Sethem, director of internment operations in Canada, said at Heron Bay, Ont., last night that British and Canadian authorities would be prepared "to send a destroyer" after the fleeing Nazi.

(Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Canadian interment authorities expressed appreciation of the United States decision to tighten the treatment accorded escaped prisoners of war who reach the United States. These officials saw the new regulations sim-

Bound In Honor To Aid Greece States Menzies

LONDON, April 23.—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister R. G. Menzies told the Australian people in a broadcast today that "to desert the Greeks just as the Germans were about to attack them would have been one of the infamies of history."

The broadcast was along the lines of a statement issued by Mr. Menzies in London last night.

Explaining why the decision was taken to send a force to Greece, the Australian Prime Minister said that "after anxious consideration...We all came to the conclusion that though assisting Greece with soldiers was a hazardous undertaking it was one which had some real prospects of military success."

"Who could contemplate," he went on, "that the great British Empire should encourage and cheer the Greeks in their resistance to Italian aggression and then leave them with a shrug of the shoulders when the German aggressor came along.

"The truth is that if we had refused to go to Greece we would have been legitimately subject to a storm of criticism all over the world and would have lost some of our own self-respect."

Mr. Menzies declared that "the stark brutal truth is that we cannot win the war without losses and by the last analysis the only means of winning is killing Germans."

He added that the Germans have vast forces but have many thousands fewer troops, many scores fewer tanks and planes than when the

No Kid Gloves

LONDON, April 23—(CP).—Foreign Secretary Eden told parliament today King Peter of Yugoslavia and his government have "established themselves in the Middle East" and will continue the struggle as Britain's ally.

Mr. Eden said the Yugoslavs could count on "the fullest possible measure of help" from Britain whose firm intention is "fully to maintain the independence of Yugoslavia."

The Foreign Secretary said "kid glove" tactics henceforth would not be used wherever Britain has "power and authority to take action."

Asked about "increasing permeation of Germans to Iraq"—where Britain landed troops last week to protect oil fields—Mr. Eden replied he was "well aware of the potential menace of our interests."

Malaya Guns Run Scharnhorst Mate Into Brest

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 23—(CP)—The British battleship Malaya engaged the two German battle cruisers Gneisenau and Scharnhorst in the Atlantic some time ago, Petty Officer Ted Hannall of the Malaya said here today.

Hannall, who is on a visit to Fort Erie disclosed Sunday that the battleship chased the two Nazi craft into the French harbor of Brest, where they have been under bombardment by the R.A.F.

He elaborated on the action today but did not say where or when it took place. He said the heavy guns of the Malaya outfired those of the two German ships.

"We were stripped for action because we had received orders to get the Germans or else," he said. "Britain can spare only so many of its capital ships for work like this and we were ready to go.

"I'm not going to say what happened in that brush, but the fact remains the Germans are both in Brest harbor right now. Whether aerial bombs will bring 'em down or not I also do not know because a battle cruiser can stand a lot of pounding. I know the Malaya has."

Massing Torpedo Boats In Rumania, Bulgaria Hint Turkey Next Goal

NEW YORK, April 23.—(CP).—Martin Agronsky, National Broadcasting Company correspondent in Turkey reported last night in a broadcast from Ankara that the Nazis are assembling invasion barges at Bulgarian Black Sea ports with a view to an ultimate attack on Turkey

Torpedo boats are being assembled at the Rumanian port of Constanza, he said.

"The Germans are thus within striking distance of Turkey's eastern and western coast," the correspondent said.

He said the Nazis are increasing their concentrations in South Central Bulgaria from which they would launch their main central attack on Turkey's defences in Thrace.

Agronsky said that the Nazis plan to attack Turkey on completion of their campaign in Greece.

Republican Wins Democrat Fort

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 23.—(AP).—Republican John C. Butler, 52-year old grain elevator electrical chief, has broken the Democratic party's 23-year hold on the 42nd New York District's congressional seat.

Victor in a special election yesterday, Butler succeeds the late Pius L. Schwert in a House of Representatives term ending Dec. 31, 1942.

Defeated in 1938 by Schwert, Butler yesterday won by 1,357 votes over the representative's widow, Mrs. Hattie E. Schwert, Democratic and American Labor Party nominee. Butler's total was 15,110.

Edmund P. Radwan, "New Deal Party," received 7,782 votes, and Lloyd E. Kinsey, Progressive, 728.

The Republican National committee chairman, Rep. Joe Martin (Rep.-Massachusetts), said in Washington Butler's victory "is most significant" in that "it is the same trend which has been in evidence in St. Louis, New York City, Illinois and other mid-western States."

JACKSONVILLE, N.C., April 23—(AP).—A furniture mover transported a family from Goldsboro to Jacksonville, about 70 miles away. Upon arrival argument arose over the cost. The mover finally sold his debtor a farm near Goldsboro and moved him back as part of the deal.

The Aussies Fight On

Sydney, April 23 (AP)

CROWDS cheered Army Minister Percy Spender here today when in the course of a recruiting speech he declared that the Australian troops in Greece had refused to allow the Germans to break their line.

He said the Australian leader in Greece, Maj.-Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, would emerge from the current battle as one of Australia's greatest commanders.

The army minister said he had received word from Sir Thomas that new positions had been taken safely, that the battle still was raging, that there had been losses but that casualties had been lighter than might have been feared.

The enemy had been "savagely mauled" in a way he would remember for a long time, Mr. Spender said. Whatever the outcome of the battle of Greece, the Australian troops would continue the fight.

Canadian-Built Warships Sought By U.S.

WASHINGTON, April 23 (CP)—Navy Secretary Knox said today the United States Navy is negotiating with Canada for construction in Canada of a number of warships, probably of the new British Corvette type, such as are used for convoy escort work.

He made the statement at a press conference.

Secetary Knox said that about 20 fast navavl motor torpedo boats are ready for delivery to Great Britain as a part of the lease-lend program, and possibly are on the way now.

Knox said the boats, capable of speeds of more than a mile a minute, were to be shipped across, rather than undertaking the trans-Atlantic trip under their own power.

The Navy had 28 available, Knox said, and Britain was being supplied from these. Other "Mosquito" craft mostly of a type 70 feet long and able to speed 70 or more miles an hour are under construction.

Many Run Gauntlet Alone

To questions about American aid to Britain and the Battle of the Atlantic, Knox said he understood that the larger and faster cargo ships had been seeking independently to run the gauntlet of Nazi U-boats and bombers for some time.

Knox said the United States, like "every nation in the world," suffered from a shortage of anti-aircraft guns but that mass production was starting on shorter range weapons. He called the American Navy's new five-inch anti-aircraft gun the "best in the world."

OTTAWA—(CP).—The possibility the United States was ready to operate with Canada in convoying supplies to Britain as far as 900 miles out on the Atlantic was seen today in remarks of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York to a St. George's Day luncheon gathering. The Mayor of New York, chairman of the United States second of the Canada-United States Joint Defence Board, told his listeners the United States and Canada were prepared to defend not only the coast line of North America but the seas three hours' travel by airplane.

Raiders Surprise Bardia

Britons Wreck Bridge, Coast Guns, Fire Stores—60 Missing

LONDON, April 23—(CP).—The Ministry of Information announced today that a raiding party landed near Bardia, Libya, Saturday night, destroyed an important bridge, fired an Axis stores dump and put four coast defence guns out of commission.

(The Italians claimed early this week that German and Italian troops had frustrated an attempted landing by British forces on the Libyan coast, capturing a number of prisoners.)

Bardia, not far from the Egyptian border, is about 75 miles east of Tobruk, where a British garrison has been reported holding off repeated German-Italian attacks.

The "major part" of the British raiding party returned to its base, the Ministry of Information said, but it acknowledged that approximately 60 men were missing.

The announcement said:—

"The true story of the British landing at Bardia can now be told. On the night of April 20, a British force with special demolition materials was landed near the town.

"They had a definite plan to carry out: to destroy an important bridge, a dump of stores and to do the maximum amount of damage possible to the coastal defence guns.

"The bridge was blown up. The dump consisted of stores particularly valuable to the enemy and was left burning fiercely, and four coast defence guns were rendered useless.

"The Italians claimed to have captured the whole of the raiding party. This statement is untrue. The major part of the raiding party embarked safely and returned to their base, but about 60 of its members failed to re-embark and their capture has been claimed by the enemy."

Chief damage at the embassy in Grosvenor Square was in the offices of Minister W. Averill Harriman where glass was showered acros the room.

Goering's Try To Wipe Out R.A.F. Dromes In 13 Days Failed

By H. M. PETERS
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 23 —(CP)—The second phase of the German aerial attack on Britain in daylight during the 84 days between Aug. 8 and Oct. 31, 1940, began Aug. 24 and ended Sept. 5. During those intensive 13 days the enemy delivered some 35 major attacks with the intention of putting out of action inland fighting airdromes and aircraft factories.

"He did not, however, disdain purely residential districts in Kent, the Thames Estuary and Essex," the booklet, "The Battle of Britain," says. "These could in no case be described as of military importance."

The attacks on London itself were to come later.

Between the first phase—attacks on shipping, coastal ports and coastal airdromes—and the second there was interval of five days during which the Germans staged widespread reconnaissance flights, operations which cost them 39 aircraft.

"The main attack now was delivered on a wider front. Enemy tactics were also changed. The number of escorting fighters was increased and the size of bomber formations reduced. The covering fighter screen flew at very great heights. Enemy bomber formations were also protected by a box of fighters.

"This type of formation succeeded on several occasions in breaking through the forward screens of our fighter forces by sheer weight of numbers and in attaining their objectives even after numerous casualties had been inflicted. On other occasions smallish formations of enemy long-range bombers deliberately left their fighter escort as soon as it had joined battle and proceeded toward south or southwest London unaccompanied. They suffered heavy casualties when engaged by our rear rank of fighters."

Vichy Hoists Out 20 Agitators From Paris

VICHY, April 23—(AP).—Intensified police vigilance in Vichy was relaxed today after 20 agitators of the national popular group, who had entered from the occupied zone, were rounded up and expelled.

The police had taken added precautions since Sunday night, when the group arrived from Paris vowing vengeance for the disappearance from that city of Jean Fontennoy, a friend of former Vice-Premier Pier. Laval. They charged Fontennoy had been slain.

Although authorities have not established whether Fontennoy is dead or in hiding, his friends began agitating against the government.

Police watched them closely.

Hail Of Bombs All Sizes Shatters Port

Raiders Thunder Over Despite Terrific Anti-Aircraft Fire

PLYMOUTH, England, April 23. —(CP)—The Nazi Air Force smashed at Plymouth during the night with a major raid for the second successive night, piling on death and destruction in an already hard-hit city.

The violent assault left many fires blazing and caused considerable damage.

The attacking planes, driving through a thunderous anti-aircraft barrage, were over the coastal area until nearly dawn. The assault started slowly, developed into a shattering hail of incendiaries and high explosives, then died away.

After a lull, the bombers and escorting fighters returned again in waves. Although the attack was severe, the government said it did not match in intensity previous raids on this area.

At the height of the attack, the bombed area seemed a lurid wall of flames and smoke.

Parachute flares were used at first to light targets. After them, the Nazis poured bombs of all sizes. Homes, business buildings, churches, hospitals and theatres were hit.

With bombs exploding about them, rescue crews worked hour after hour to release persons trapped in public shelters.

By daybreak, emergency feeding centres were being set up for the homeless, and special convoys of food and supplies began to pour in as the townspeople went grimly about the task of restoring conditions to normalcy.

Even as this work went on, German planes were reported in the vicinity of two South Wales towns during the morning.

Ambassador John G. Winant and Mrs. Winant saw the pictures on the walls of their apartment dance when a bomb ripped through a three-storey building near the embassy.

Two members of the embassy service staff were hurled from the front steps into the foyer by the force of this blast, but picked themselves up unhurt.

Most members of the embassy staff were away when the bomb hit. They returned to find the windows of their offices gone and books and papers scattered on the floor.

This most recent shaking-up was not the embassys closest call, however, for once before a bomb hit a building only two doors away.

Incendiary bombs fell on the roof of Overseas House and an adjoining building. Fire broke out in the top part of the Original House, formerly Rutland House, and the top floor was destroyed. Reception rooms and the drawing room on the lower floors were damaged by smoke and water.

The newer wings, where public functions are held and where a majority of the bedrooms are located, were undamaged. The day after the raid, while firemen still played water on the smouldering embers, a luncheon was held in the adjoining wing.

On Aug. 30 and 31 the assault was switched to inland fighter airdromes.

"Eight hundred aircraft were used in a most determined effort to destroy or temporarily put out of use the airdromes at Kenley, North Weald, Hornchurch, Debden, Lympne, Detling, Duxford, Northolt and Biggin Hill.

Attacks Thick and Fast.

"There were three heavy attacks on Sept. 1, five on Sept. 2, one on Sept. 3 and two on Sept. 4 and 5. These were the last of the 35 main attacks delivered in this phase. They cost the Germans 562 aircraft known to have been destroyed. Our own losses were 219 aircraft, but 132 of our pilots were saved.

"The heavy task of the defence can be realized by the fact that in this first two phases of this great battle from Aug. 8 to Sept. 5 inclusive, no fewer than 4,523 fighter patrols of varying strength in aircraft were flown in daylight, an average of 156 a day."

Summing up the results of these two phases:

"What did the enemy succeed in accomplishing in just under a month of heavy fighting which he flung in squadron after squadron of his Luftwaffe without regard to the cost?

"His object, be it remembered, was to 'ground' the fighters of the Royal Air Force and to destroy so large a number of pilots and aircraft as to put it, temporarily at least, out of action...

Failed In Their Objective

"Though they (the enemy) had done damage to airdromes both near the coast and inland, and thus put the fighting efficiency of the fighter squadrons to considerable strain, they failed entirely to put them out of action. By Sept. 6 the Germans either believed that they had achieved success and that it only remained for them to bomb a defenceless London until it surrendered or, following their pre-arranged plan, they automatically switched their attack against the capital because the moment had come to do so.

"It may be that Goering had made up his mind to attack targets more easily reached than were our fighter airdromes. It may be that he was merely working to a time-table. It may be that he thought that our fighter defence was sufficiently weakened...The facts are that on Sept. 7 Goering switched his attack away from fighter airdromes on to industrial and other targets, and he began making London his main objective."

"In the Middle East, where so many things now look dark, we are determined to hold our own and may well win a notable victory, but the greater our difficulties the more imperative it is that we should stand firm and that we should be united, resolute and energetic. We may leave to lesser people the follies of recrimination and division while the battle rages."

SYDNEY, Australia, April 23. —(CP Cable.)—Though Labor members attending to-day's meeting of the War Advisory Council sought and obtained from Arthur Fadden, Acting Prime Minister, fullest information concerning the dispatch of the Australian Imperial Force to Greece the meeting was not in any way acrimonious.

The labor representatives, who have been critical of the government's action in not informing them in advance, declined, in the absence of their leader, John Curtin, to comment on suggestions that the Council should be given executive powers or that a National government should be formed. The Council meets again to-morrow.

The Sydney Morning Herald said editorially to-day the Commonwealth government's decision to call a special session of parliament to review the nation's part in the war, was a wise move in view of current developments.

The Melbourne Sun-News Pictorial said that whatever views might be held on the wisdom of a campaign which split the Australian forces in the Near East between Libya and Greece, the public will resent any attempt to exploit a perilious situation for political purposes.

Drunken Driver Pleads Guilty

A car parked on Aylmer street near the corner of Murray street was struck by another automobile shortly after 11 o'lock last night and the driver of the second machine failed to remain at the scene of the accident.

Constable Leo Muraphy investigated the affair and obtained the number of the alleged hit-and-run car.

Just as he arrived back at the police station to check on the license number he had received, two young men were reporting a driver they had seen on the Lakefield Road in an apparently drunken condition and it was discovered that the number of the car corresponded to that of the automobile that had figured in the Aylmer street accident.

Consable Murphy and Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure investigated and as a result Walter McNachtan was placed under arrest and this morning in police court pleaded guilty to charges of hit-and-run driving and drunken driving.

He was remanded until to-morrow for sentence, to give Magistrate Langley a chance to hear some evidence in his case.

THE WAR TO-DAY

By GUY RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The difficulties of the British and Imperial Army struggling to hold back the crushing weight of the German advance in eastern Greece were increased today by the surrender of the Greek army in the northwestern sector of the front.

It was a bitter blow to this gallant force, the army of Epirus, to have to lay down its arms to the Italians, whom it had chased from Greece into Albania in shameful rout in the months of hard winter campaigning.

What effect its surrender, made by its commander on his own authority without consulting the Greek government, will have on the remainder of the Greek forces still fighting and on the British army fighting in the vicinity of the Pass of Thermopylae was not immediately apparent.

London expressed no surprise when news of the development was received and no indication was given as to what extent the left flank of the forces still fighting has been placed in peril.

King George of Greece announced the capitulation of the army in Epirus in a proclamation to his people. The official statement spoke of an armistice, but it is unlikely that the Axis authorities accepted anything less than capitulation.

King George announced that he is moving his government from Athens to the island of Crete, some 150 miles to the south. This island, of strategic importance in the battle of the Mediterranean, has been available to the British navy, army and air force since the Greek-Italian war began late last year.

Since then it has undoubtedly been well fortified and will remain in Allied hands. Excellent naval facilities are available at Suda Bay and the R.A.F., it is taken for granted, has improved the island's airport facilities and constructed new landing fields. Anti-aircraft artillery and coastal defences will have been taken care of by the British army units landed a few days after the Italian began hostilities six months ago.

The secure position of the island will enable the Greek government to carry on in Greek territory and among Greek people should the tide of German arms force an evacuation of Allied troops from the mainland.

of Greece that the Greek army of Epirus had capitulated, said today that "we cannot exclude the possibility that parts of their (Greek) forces have found further hostility impossible."

The spokesmen added that the Greeks had been conducting "heroic resistance against greatly superior enemy forces for many months."

Studying Terms

BERLIN, April 23 (AP)—German spokesmen claimed today that the German, Italian and Greek commands at present are deliberating on conditions of the Greek Epirus army's capitulation.

(Surrender of the Epirus army was announced by King George of Greece who said it was done without his knowledge.)

Smash at Bengazi

CAIRO, Egypt, April 23—(AP).—Raids on the now Axis-held Libyan cities of Bengasi and Barce were reported today by the Royal Air Force Middle East Command. Four Axis planes were shot down over British-held Tobruk.

The communique, covering action of the past 24 hours, said also that British fighters carried out "successful" patrols over Greece while ground defences shot down four German dive bombers and a Dornier.

No information was available concerning the military situation on the Libyan-Egyptian border, where the German-Italian westward drive apparently is stalled. Yesterday's general headquarters communique reported only patrol activity in the sector.

Australian troops captured 447 Italians in successful raids from Tobruk, Libya, the British General Headquarters for the Middle East announced today.

Many Huns Downed.

The Nazi raid on besieged Tobruk was carried out by a large force, the communique said, but the "greatly outnumbered" R.A.F. fighters quickly shot down a JU-87, two ME-109s and a G-50 and badly damaged several others. It was confirmed that in a German raid on the some city last Saturday four attacking planes were destroyed by ground fire.

British fighters and bombers made attacks on mechanized forces throughout yesterday, the report said, machine-gunning troop-filled trucks with "heavy casualties and much confusion to the enemy."

In an early morning raid on Bengasi British bombs scored direct hits on two harbor moles and a ship, the communique said, but clouds obscured the effects of the attack on Barce.

Only superficial damage was done to civilian property in Malta by Monday night's raid, the report said, and British fighters shot down one ME-109.

Two British planes were missing from all these operations, with the pilot of one safe.

Breaks With Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 23—(AP).—Greece formally broke off diplomatic relations with Bulgaria today following the occupation of Thrace by Bulgarian troops. A note announcing the break was handed to Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff.

ATHENS, Greece, April 23—(AP).—Addressing the nation today as he and other members of the government prepared to follow King George to Crete, Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos called Italy a "cowardly colleague" of Germany and told the Greeks to "be sure that soon a brilliant national day will break."

"In this so hard but so great moment," his proclamation said in part, "...I feel obliged to say that I am really proud of this national political unity, which...manifests the steadfast will of all of us not to surrender to the invader."

Raiders Bombed Again

LONDON, April 23—(CP).—Royal Air Force planes last night again bombed the naval base at Brest, where the 26,000-ton Nazi battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst are still sheltering, the Air Ministry said today.

Bombs fell "in the target area" an announcement said.

The Ministry did not lay claim directly, however, to hits on the two warships. Aircraft of both the Bomber and Coastal Commands participated in the attack, which was made in two separate waves.

During daylight yesterday, the Ministry declared, R.A.F. bombers damaged a heavily-loaded 2,100-ton supply ship and a minesweeper off the Norwegian coast.

Loss of one aircraft in the day and night offensive operations was acknowledged.

of bullets merged into a scene reminiscent of a Christmas tree.

I saw scores of heavy and high explosive bombs crash along Tripoli's harborline. Fires mushroomed. Some defence batteries which for a time seemed to-fire from their circular positions ceased. The darkness was splashed with great blobs of ruddy light from explosion of the British missiles.

German and Italian anti-aircraft guns failed to hit the British planes.

More high explosive bombs plunged down and then British planes doused Tripoli with thousands of incendiary bombs and flew away.

Fire Bombs Light Scene for Fleet.

The incendiaries provided just what the battle fleet needed in the way of illumination. The fires, along with long-burning flares, brightly outlined the important targets.

Flashes from shore batteries had ceased, except for two guns, by the time the battle fleet moved into broadside position.

The battleship commander told me at that time, "We shall open fire any moment."

Suddenly, a mighty flash of yellow flame flooded from the nearby flagship's 15-inch guns. Then a full salvo from the long, gray barrels of the lesser guns. Their targets were the Spanish forts, barracks and warehouses of Tripoli.

I braced myself, adjusted my steel helmet, jammed wads of cotton in my ears and fastened my lifebelt.

In a few seconds, the guns of this battleship roared.

Yellowish flames from the four 15-inch forward guns swept back through the narrow observation slits of the conning tower.

The huge battleship shuddered. Burst of fire made the conning tower as light as day and then everything went black before my eyes. The darkness cleared with a few seconds, just in time for me to catch the flashes of the 4.5-inch guns. At 5.42 o'clock the fleet was done with Tripoli for the present at least.

Coalition Group Return 37; Hold Manitoba

WINNIPEG, April 23.— (CP). — Thirty-seven supporters of Manitoba's coalition government had been elected to-day to sit in the 55-seat legislature. Only two Opposition candidates had been elected and two others were leading in the fight for the 16 seats still undecided.

As in the last House, Liberal-Progressives were certain of the strongest representation with 21 candidates elected on the basis of unofficial returns from yesterday's voting and six leading in their individual contests.

Conservative supporters of the non-partisan administration formed last Nov. 4 by Premier John Bracken had won 10 seats and were leading for three others. Coalition Independents had won four seats and coalition Social Crediters two.

The only Opposition members-elect when counting was suspended last night with results far from complete were D. A. Best, Conservative who won Assiniboia from James Aiken, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of the last Legislature, and L. St. George Stubbs, Independent who was re-elected in Winnipeg.

Of major importance in the election were the losses suffered by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, which supported coalition, and the indicated defeat of all nine candidates of the Manitoba Social Credit League, which opposed the Administration.

The C.C.F. had won no seats early today and were leading for only two seats. In the last election in 1936, Liberal-Progressives won 23 seats, Conservatives 16, C.C.F. 7, Social Credit 5; Independents, 3, and Communists, 1.

Donegal War Workers Hold Bingo Party

DONEGAL, April 23—(ENS). — Members of the Donegal War Workers' Group held a bingo party at the school on Friday night. About seventy-five took part in the games. Prizes, including canned goods, maple syrup, fruit and vegetables, flour, cookies, glassware, sauce pans, towels and pot holders, and soap flakes, were donated by the women of the community. A special prize, a cushion, made by Mrs. Matt Stevenson, was won by Mrs. Stanley McMillan of Norwood.

The bingo was in charge of David Starke and Wilfred Buck. After the games, lunch was served.

The sum of $21.65 was received, and after expenses were paid, $20 was sent to the War Victims' Fund.

Also, the women met this week at the home of Mrs. W. G. Barrie and quilted two quilts pieced by the children of the Donegal School and put together by Mrs. George Humphries and Mrs. Arthur McKay.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL SETS TAX RATE SAME AS LAST YEAR

Relief Costs Decline; Schools Are Up

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23. — (ENS).—This town's tax rate will remain unchanged from last year it was revealed at a special meeting of the town council called for the purpose of setting the 1941 budget. This year ratepayers will pay 47.5 mills less the Government subsidy of one mill, making the 46.5 figure unchanged from the preceding year.

Chairman of the Finance committee C. H. Calver presented the complete budget to council, disclosing practically no basic changes with the exception of a slight shading of relief costs. Provision was made for slight increases in estimates for Public and High schools, $920.00, and for a new filing safe for the town offices to cost $500.00. To offset this council is budgeting for an increase of $2,000 from the Water and Light Commission which has raised its grant from $8,000 to $10,000 for the current year. Despite this the council will still have to spend frugally to balance their budget by the year's end since the last debenture payment on the Sebastopol street sewer, $4,500, must be paid out of current revenues. A bright spot in the budget was a final payment of $878.18 for water and light debenture.

Following are the estimated receipts tabled by Finance Chairman Calver: Balance from 1940, $2,647.96; tax arrears $6,000; tax sale, $500; dog tags, $400; grant, W. & L. Comm., $10,000; fines, $75; Seymour High school debenture, $455.00; water and light debenture, $878.18; miscellaneous, $50; sales of property, $500; Board of Health, $300; county roads rebate, $1,953.42; county re bridge light, $50; licenses, $1,000; rents, $700; Hydro grant, $900; direct relief, $500; ratepayers share of local improvement, $3,600; 1941 taxes, $66,897.54. Expenditures totalling $97,388, were estimated as follows: Industrial committee, $200; direct relief, $1,000; office, $450; rents, $225; salaries, $4,000; printing, $225; interest $200; legal, $200; roads and bridges, $4,800; relief, $700; hospitalization, $600; High school, $7,544; Public schools, $12,144; Separate school, $1,600; fire protection, $2,650; county rate, $8,300; street lights, $4,500; town property, $400; miscellaneous, $800; public library, $1,600; grants, $310; Board of Health, $700; police, $2,600; garbage collection, $750; election, $115; debentures, $30,550; discounts, $700; street oil, $2,500; tax sale, $75; taxes not collected, $6,200; insurance, $700.

Following discussion of the auditor's report it was authorized that it should be printed in the Campbellford Herald. Tax Collector J. C. Birmingham turned over his roll to council, pointing out that collections were up $1,000 over the preceding year.

The Council and Water and Light commission will share equally in the $75 cost of an advertisement in the Peterborough Examiner's 'Mail-It-Away' edition and the two bodies will cooperate in setting up a suitable ad.

Scenes In Canada's Greatest Manhunt For Escaped Nazi Prisoners

Lakeshore Ball Loop's Fate Is In Balance

PORT HOPE, April 23—(ENS)—Fate of the Intermediate Lakeshore Baseball League depends on the outcome of an organization meeting which has been called for Friday evening in Port Hope at the St. Lawrence Hotel. The second meeting of the year to organize the league will decide whether organized baseball is to continue in this section of the province as the Lakeshore League is the last organized loop in the district. Present indications that there will be a schedule of at least three teams are no brighter than they were earlier in the Spring and unless there is a good representation Friday evening, the league appears headed for oblivion.

The trend of baseball in the past few years is a source of regret to fans. The brand of ball has been on a par with other intermediate leagues and support has been fair, especially in Port Hope. However, with Cobourg and Bowmanville reporting difficulty in raising players and Port Hope in the same condition, the opinion has been voiced that the league may not operate this year.

Lions And Rotarians Assist In Port Hope Salvage Drive

PORT HOPE, April 23.—(ENS)—Aided by a number of trucks and willing workers, members of the Port Hope Lions and Rotary clubs conducted collections at many homes in the national salvage campaign. The two service clubs jointly operated the drive from which the proceeds are expected to be donated to a war victims' fund. The trucks and workmen were on the job this morning and continued this afternoon although it is a half-holiday for merchants.

Large quantities of metal, bottles, bags and other materials were retrieved from cellars, storerooms and barns, all of which will contribute to the relief of Hitler's victims when it has been sorted and sold.

Tony Gikoff, popular Mill street refreshment stand proprietor donated a large quantity of metal and storage space to the drive.

St. George's Observance

St. George's Day will be observed in Port Hope this afternoon when Public School children will attend a program at the Capitol Theatre and in the evening at a public community service in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the Port Hope Ministerial Society. Mayor Sherman Gifford has issued a proclamation urging all citizens to attend the service this evening.

Returned men will parade to the service headed by the Port Hope Citizens Band.

Plan Tax Sale

Hope Township and Port Hope councils are preparing to hold a tax sale it is learned. The list of properties in Port Hope is not large while in the township the treasurer has been authorized to prepare a list of properties for sale for unpaid taxes.

Illustrated Lecture

An illustrated lecture on "Birds of Our Country," was thoroughly enjoyed by an audience at the United Church Tuesday night. Beautiful colored slides illustrated the lecture which was given by the Rev. R. R. Elliott of Welcome.

The lecture was sponsored by the W.A. of the church. The Rev. Mr. Gordon was chairman for the evening.

Before the lecture, Miss Roberta Low delighted the audience with a solo, and Miss Joan Warburton and Mr. D. Millson rendered a piano duet.

Presentations Made At Cobourg Hospital

COBOURG, April 23.—(ENS)—A very pleasant event took place at the Ontario Hospital, Cobourg, last Friday when Dr. Kidd, on behalf of the staff of the hospital presented Miss Covert, assistant superintendent, with a gold initialed dresser set and Miss Cation a glass sandwich plate.

Miss Covert is leaving the hospital soon for Winnipeg where she will take a course in X-ray work and Miss Cation leaves shortly to be married. Both have been popular with the staff and patients and the presentations were an expression of appreciation for their faithful service.

The nurses of the hospital also gave Miss Covert and Miss Cation a farewell party at the home of Miss Shier when a very pleasant social time was enjoyed in cards and other games. A very delicious lunch was served by Miss Turner, Miss Black, Miss Lindsay and Miss Shier.

COBOURG, April 23.—(ENS). — Harry Hayward, one of Cobourg's young athletes, called at home Monday night to say good-bye to his many friends here.

Harry is a member of the Canadian Navy, having recently joined and he has received orders to report at an eastern coast port, where he will presumably join an active unit.

Fire Destroys House Of Hope Councillor

PORT HOPE, April 23 (ENS) — Fanned by a strong west breeze, fire quickly consumed the brick residence of W. Lord, Hope township councillor, residing at Garden Hill. Mrs. Lord discovered the fire from an upstairs window after it had gained a hold on the roof shingles. With conditions favorable to the fire, neighbors were unable to save the building despite application of chemicals and water from the well and a nearby stream. The result was the house was quickly razed. Members of the family saved only a little clothing and neighbors succeeded in removing the furniture from the ground floor. There is some insurance.

The fire attracted a large number of residents from the neighborhood who quickly rendered all possible assistance. The shifting of the wind saved the barn from destruction at the moment it was feared doomed. The furniture was stored in a near-home.

Cobourg Council Considers Insurance

COBOURG, April 23.—(ENS). — The town council held a special meeting to consider municipal insurance Tuesday night in the council chamber.

All members of the council were present.

The council through a spokesman, announced that the meeting would be in committee of the whole with the press barred.

Remanded For Week

COBOURG, April 23—(ENS). — Police court here Tuesday was taken up with the case of William Hammond of Colborne, who was charged under the Veterinary Act.

He was alleged to have acted without the proper licence and without being registered under the act.

The charge was laid by the Veterinary Association. Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell remanded the accused for one week.

"Our Bank of Toronto Savings Account certainly was a wise move—let's go over our budget and see if we can't increase our weekly saving. We want to be able to do our bit when the Government makes its next War loan."

"You're right—we've practically refurnished our home, and have been able to save the interest on my insurance by paying the premium in full. What's more, we had the money saved, before we spent it!"

Mr. King Talked Plainly

When Prime Minister King returned from Washington he held a conference with the press at Ottawa, and at the meeting there was a freedom of utterance which was encouraging. It seemed to indicate that Mr. King was recognizing the papers and making use of their facilities to say things which needed saying.

For instance there has been something close to insistence that he (Mr. King) should proceed at once to London to join a conference of Prime Ministers, and it has been made to appear that his presence there was much desired. Mr. King said that was not the official attitude of London, but "pure speculation." His feeling was he could do more to further the war effort by remaining just where he is. When he speaks of the "official attitude" of London Mr. King was undoubtedly making his statement with authority as he is more closely in touch with London than any individual in the Dominion.

There was one other matter which appears to have been bothering a good many writers and speakers, and that had to do with the placing of Canadian troops. There have been claims launched that the place for Canadian troops is in the Balkans or in Africa where there is action, and need for men. Mr. King made it clear enough that the disposition of our overseas forces was something over which the British War Office exercised control, and it was not within the power of the Canadian government to map out any policies for such placement or movement. If Canadian soldiers are in England—and they are—then it is because the British authorities desire to have them there for reasons of their own which are undoubtedly good and sufficient. That point, we think, could well have been cleared up before. If Mr. King continues to talk candidly to the newspapers he will find his position clearly and fairly interpreted and the people will have a more adequate understanding of why this or that are being done.

Driving It Home

Howard Coonley, chairman of the Board of the National Association of Manufacturers of New York, came to Toronto to give an address at the convention of the Industrial Accidents Prevention Association. It may be such conventions have been held for so long a time that we have lost interest; perhaps it gets down to a sort of routine in which the general public considers it is not much interested.

We can read of statistics which tell about the number of hours lost and the sums paid to those who are injured, and we do not get aroused. But when we read of strikes during war time we are interested at once. More than that we are aroused and alarmed and possibly indignant. We say at once these men ought to be working; by quitting they are holding up the war effort; we call upon governments to do something at once.

This Mr. Coonley stated the case in such a way that it was bound to arrest attention. He admitted United States production men were disturbed by strikes, then added: "But serious as this is, nearly four times as many man-hours are lost annually through industrial accidents as by strikes."

That makes it look different. The man who goes on strike is fit and ready to go to work when a strike is over. The man who has met with an accident may at times take weeks to recover.

So we have had the seriousness of industrial accidents placed before us in a way which strikes home. They cost us in man-hours four times as much as strikes, although strikes alarm us much more than accidents.

She Chose The Better Way

There has been much spoken and written in recent days about a Salute to Britain, and the idea is sound enough to stand up in its own strength. It has found expression in messages from this country to Britain, and other messages have been sent between organizations in United States and Canada.

Always there is some incident which seems to epitomize the spirit of such a moment rather than the letter. It came this time in a communication forwarded to the British War Victims Fund in Peterborough by a woman 68 years of age and she asked to be known only as a "Working Woman." She explained she had wanted to do something about it before but what she had seemed to be so little that she hesitated to send it along. For that reason she nursed along her own little fund until it grew to be $5. Then she turned it into one bill and sent it along.

To our way of thinking there was much in that form of a Salute to Britain. There was strong desire, planning and saving and the self-denial which made it possible. Also there was that strong feeling within which told this woman all the time that she should be doing more. She had not only sentiment but the desire to make that sentiment effective and to actually put her helping hand on some sore spot in the Old Land. It was indeed a great gift. Great too because it was narrowed down to doing something intensely and entirely practical.

There is something here of which we too often lose sight in our war-time excitement. If one were to stand up for 20 minutes before a gathering and spend his time denouncing and damning Hitler he probably would gather to himself quite a degree of applause when he concluded. But to what effect? Hitler would never hear it and he is a good 4,000 miles away. But this working woman selected the better, the quieter and the more effective way of "doing something about it." A fund is truly blessed when it touches into action such feelings.

50 Years And 96 Pages

On April 21 the St. Catharines Standard was 50 years old and 96 pages in extent. W. B. Burgoyne founded that paper in 1891, and on his death in 1921 it passed to his son, Major H. B. Burgoyne, and the third generation of the same family is now represented on the paper by W. B. C. Burgoyne.

St. Catharines is a delightful city, a large place and busy, but it had hardly reached its majority when the late W. B. Burgoyne began publishing the Standard. There were other papers in the field, but the Standard alone survived. The reason was that it was given a good start by a good and a great man, one who loved his city and wished it well, somewhat of a visionist and a planner. His idea was that St. Catharines should be substantially wholesome and beautiful.

A personal recollection will be pardoned to explain this. We recall going with W. B. Burgoyne to a rose garden in one of the public parks of the city, and it was then in all its beauty of full bloom. It had been Mr. Burgoyne's own contribution to the city. He explained too many good gardens were hidden from public view; they had fences or hedges and so were enjoyed by only a few people. "I think it better to place this garden out where all the people can enjoy it." There were seats where folk could sit down and admire the place. The suggestion was made that people might be inclined to take away the roses and the answer was simply: "I don't think they will do much of that, and even if they do take some away, what of it?"

The Standard has grown and developed since then. It serves its own splendid city and a large district around it, and is regarded as a strong and reliable newspaper. Its editorial opinions are well expressed and outspoken and it enjoys that most valuable asset, the goodwill of its readers. Our heartiest congratulations to the Standard and its publisher, Major Burgoyne.

A Letter Of 1879

If one were writing a letter to a newly-wed couple today, what would be in that letter? Certainly congratulations and hopes for good health and happiness. Possibly there might be something telling the young folk to beware of wooden money. But how many such letters would so impress those who received them that they would put them away and preserve them?

The Examiner considers it a privilege to publish such a letter which was written in the year 1879 on the 12th of November on the occasion of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Routley. Mr. Routley died less than a year ago, but Mrs. Routley is still residing at the family home in Peterborough. The letter was found in some of Mr. Routley's effects and we asked for and received permission to make use of it. The letter:

Oswego, November 12, 1879.

To Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Routley:

My dear young friends, — Accept my best wishes for your welfare. May the smile of God rest upon your union.

Be watchful. Be prayerful. Find your greatest happiness in this life in helping one another to be more and more like Christ. Bear one another's burdens and fulfil the law of Christ. Have the fullest sympathy with one another; for you are not now two persons, but one. You have only one interest. Have only one aim. Serve God in serving one another. Have no secrets, but be thoroughly one.

You will perhaps require the most grace and patience during the first year of your married life. Most people find it so. Many kind words, kind looks, kind deeds and plenty of them make your home life a preparation for the better home Jesus has gone to prepare.

Pray to God and read His word together every day. Take advice from His word, and become so well acquainted with it that it will be very easy to recall to your memory what that word says on any particular point. Let business, home, pleasure, everything, be conducted on Scriptural principles.

Expediences are straws. Scripture principles are rocks. Keep your own counsels, and tell your troubles to one another and to the Lord. God is your father. Trust Him for everything. Tell Him everything calculated to make you irritable. You will soon find out what it is.

In patience possess your souls. We all join in love to you both.

Your affectionately,
GEORGE GRAFFSEY.

There is small need for comment on such a letter, but it does suggest the question as to whether as a people we possess the deep and abiding outlook which suggested that letter, and the full-orbed Christian experience which would make its writing possible? Or is it not a fact that somewhere along the road between the present and 1879 we have dropped something which is of great worth?

NOTE AND COMMENT

A bit of news says that the recruiting offices are filled. But it comes from Australia.

A place may be some distance away, but when the tax rate starts going down people become interested in it.

The poor people of Brussels can now look at the shop windows in their district which, like their stomachs, are also empty.

In the sports news of the day there was record of a game which gave New York 19, and Philadelphia 5. It was listed under the heading of baseball.

Cow at Elkhart, Ind., ate an electric light bulb that was in its stall. Now the farmer has to get not only a new light but a new cow.

The New York Times says Canada would have little trouble borrowing money in United States, but like other borrowings the trouble might come in paying it back.

Report from Ottawa says the income tax returns are away up for the year. The men who have been paying them know that well enough without being reminded of it from Ottawa.

One speaker in Australia criticized the larger papers for the exaggerated amount of space they were devoting to sport while the empire is fighting for its life. And actually it doesn't make sense.

Seems strange, but it is a fact that a travelling show is now advertising for men to go along and put up tents and do all such work. And it always used to be that the show people had so many followers from every town and city that they grew to be a nuisance.

T. R. Fowler of Colorado Springs, who is 84, had 12 children, and that number has grown to 52 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren, and Mr. Fowler claims that is a record or some such thing. It would seem that way particularly around Christmas.

London, Ont., has an $850,000 extension to Victoria Hospital, but the Hospital Trust has had its estimates cut $10,000, and no provision for $50,000 needed to furnish the new building. Of course they have a university in London, and perhaps some smart person there can figure that one out.

GAY DAYS

¶ When I was young and gay I dressed, so I could mingle with the best, and nothing else would do; and ere my raiment showed its wear, I had to lay it by with care, because I grew and grew.

¶ The coat with tails that was my pride, I had to lay the thing aside, some moth balls too I found; I'd like to wear it now and then, and mingle with the well-dressed men, but it won't go around.

¶ And fancy vests appealed to me, and when a brighter vest I'd see, I'd get one brighter still; I mind they were considered then, the proper thing for well-dressed men, they gave me quite a thrill.

¶ And neckties that I wore were large, they bulged out like a well-filled barge, nor were they small or flat; they swelled up like a layer cake, and they have taken them to make, large sections for a mat.

¶ The bands on straw hats that I wore, would make a barber pole look sore, of pink and blue and green; and when I dolled myself like that, I felt distinguished in my hat, the gayest ever seen.

¶ I sort this stuff out now and then, like other vain and foolish men, it looks like foolish stuff; or else the men today are tame, and look and dress too much the same—and not near gay enough.

Interpret This Pact Any Way You May Desire

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Interpretations of the new Russian-Japanese neutrality pact are as numerous as interpreters are, and the interpreters' number runs into something well-nigh astronomical. No two of 'em agree.

Chas. P. Stewart

One version is that dicker doesn't mean much of anything. The Japs and the Russians simply agree mutually that, if either of 'em is attacked, the other will remain neutral; it doesn't promise any help. Pooh! What does that signify? According to this account, Yosuke Matsuoka's rating in Tokyo is pretty low. He's been foreign minister there for quite a while and hasn't framed up a single international deal that's been worth a cent to the Japs.

Now he has been visiting Berlin and Rome. Nippon's nominal Axis partners, and failed to squeeze anything useful out of either Herr Hitler or Signor Mussolini. So, homeward bound via Moscow, he absolutely had to take back with him some sort of a document that he can claim as a real (but actually phony) accomplishment, worth the price of his trip. Accordingly, Commissar Vyacheslav Molotoff at Moscow, perhaps with a certain sympathy with Yosuke, as a fellow foreign minister, made an empty bargain with him, to exhibit as a genuine prize. But shucks! It's mere neutrality. That's that interpretation.

Another one is that Minister Matsuoka scored a distinct point by obtaining Russia's pledge not to jump on the Japs from behind, as the latter undertake Singapore, Malayan and Dutch East Indian grabs. Also maybe the Japs think Comrade Stalin will stop shipping anti-Jap supplies into China overland.

CAN STILL SUPPLY CHINA

HOWEVER, Russia didn't agree to stop supplying the Chinese. All Moscow said was that the Soviets would stay neutral if the Japs were attacked. True, the Japs do argue that they were attacked by China, but it will take a lot more interpretation to prove that China notoriously attacked the Japs in the same way that the Finns attacked Russia. Only, the Russians aren't likely to interpret the Chinese attack on the Japs as they interpreted the Finns' attack on them.

No interpreter surmises that Russia wants Japan in southeastern Asia, but plenty of 'em surmise that the Russians would like to see the Japs try it, because they reckon that that would be calculated to involve Japan in war with the United States. Then would be Russia's chance to gobble everything in sight in Japanized northern Asia. Oh, yes, the Soviets say they'd stay neutral. But would they? Nobody interprets the Russians and Japs as being true friends.

One interpretation is that Japan's anxious to have Russia act as mediator between Tokyo and Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese government. The theory is that the Japs are so nearly exhausted that they'd willingly recognize Chiang as main boss of China, if he'd do it on terms that wouldn't be too humiliating to 'em, but they need an intermediator to propose it to him.

But the interpretation is that that scheme wouldn't work. In the first place, Chiang wouldn't acquiesce. In the second place, the Russians wouldn't want him to; their notion's to have China absorb Japan and then to communize China, which Chiang would object to, too. He isn't a Communist.

Russo-German relations are interpreted into the situation.

Some interpreters say Herr Hitler doesn't get anything out of the Jap-Russian pact. Some say he's pleased on the ground that he thinks it will promote Jap expansion in the western Pacific, tending to embroil the Mikado with Uncle Sam, thus keeping our fleet and supplies out of the Atlantic ocean.

Others interpret to the purport that Commissar Stalin is trying to hook up with Tokyo because he's fearfully afraid of Germany and is doing his darndest to crack up the Nazi-Fascist-Jap Axis, regardless of his loose deal with Hitler and Mussolini.

ON HIS OWN TERMS

IT'S FAIRLY well established that Herr Hitler seeks a large territorial bite out of southwestern Russia, for the sake of its agricultural resources and its oil, and he wants this stuff on his own terms; not as dished out to him under conditions fixed by the Soviet outfit.

And, as Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles has remarked, all the world knows how Adolf confiscates what he wants, whether from communistic possessors or from democracies or from anybody else.

Interpreters suggest that Communists may not enjoy being dispossessed in this fashion any more than the democracies do.

Is Russia, then, hunching away from the Axis?

Well there are enough interpretations. Take your choice.

Letters To The Editor

ABOUT PARKING

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In Mondays paper there appeared an article under the heading "Wants to Know." Regarding parking signs on the street is front of places of business, the party mentions a taxi office on Charlotte. If Mr. Shopper would use his head a little, he would realize that the taxi owner needs a place in front of his stand. That is his living, that is why he is paying a business tax and taxi license. Mr. Shopper should not need a "No Parking" sign to keep him out of that spot.

Mr. Allen opened a parking lot over on George street to accommodate all those people who are looking for a place to park, and his charge is very small; he also pays a business tax to operate that lot, and then Mr. Shopper comes along and writes to the paper that he cannot find a place to park. Possibly it was not in that particular section he wanted to shop anyway, but seeing the signs he found he could spare a few moments to write about it and then as an afterthought mentioned the double parking.

If Mr. Shopper had to try and operate a taxi around on Saturday night he would find out the taximan had a lot more to worry about than parking, such as people window shopping from their cars going along the street, and holding other people up who are trying to make their living out of these cars. Mr. Taxi Man struggled along through depression and paid taxes as well as Mr. Shopper, so in all I don't think Mr. Shopper has much to complain about. In fact the next time he is looking for a place to park I am sure Paddy Allen would be glad to oblige him, and would not kick about it either.

ANOTHER TAXI MAN.

Peterborough, April 21.

• Should We Spare Rome?

BRITAIN has warned Germany and Italy that if Athens or Cairo are bombed the British Air Force will retaliate on Rome. That warning would hardly have halted Hitler if he intended to raid either of the cities, but it should force the Italians to put what pressure they can on their co-conspirator to save their capital.

Why should we not bomb Rome? There is the presence of the Vatican, of course, which is not a belligerent and whose destruction would be a calamity for the whole of the civilized world; but Rome itself is not more sacred to Italians than London is to Englishmen. No one would like to see the art treasures of the Italian capital destroyed, but neither would we care to see St. Paul's, the parish church of the Empire, or Westminster Abbey, the Imperial shrine, destroyed. These are not the repository of beauty comparable to the paintings of Michelangelo, but they are the resting place of England's greatest dead—Nelson and Wellington, her poets and painters and the statesmen who have made the Empire great.

They are the repository of England's glory, and we cherish these things as much, if not more, than Italians honor their past. If Rome holds a longer place in man's history, to London civilization owes no less. Political institutions and law developed in Rome, but the former found their fruition in freedom under the law because of the genius of that people represented in the London Parliament which Hitler's airmen have tried so hard to destroy.

We are not a vindictive people, nor are we of the breed of Alaric who sacked Rome in wanton pleasure. Alaric is Hitler's antecedent, not ours; and Hitler is the Italian accomplice. Why should we spare Rome? Mussolini has already lost this war; we intend to win it—not for the mere sake of winning, but so that the genius of men may flower in freedom and in peace.—Montreal Star.

• The Flaw that Was Hidden

A STEEL AXLE came new from the shop and presently found its way into the truck of a railroad freight car. Month after month, for tens of thousands of miles, the axle carried its part of the burden. It stood up under rigid regular inspections—perfect, so far as the eye could tell.

Then one day the axle broke, notes the Ottawa Journal, snapped through near the centre. It was on a freight car 38th in line from the locomotive, and the cars behind it left the rails, spread over the right-of-way, crashed into a passenger train on the other track, damaged the station at Inkerman, caused three deaths. Railroad mechanics, searching into the cause, found a flaw in the metal of the severed axle. It might have occurred in the foundry, in the pouring, but concealed in the heart of that iron bar was a spot of weakness certain sooner or later to cause trouble. Eventually the metal parted under constant strain—but not until then, with the damage done, was the fatal fragility shown up.

The rarity of such accidents, accidents which come from faulty materials or workmanship, is the thing which must strike us, with motor vehicles as with trains. Automobiles smash one another, run into ditches, collide with trees and poles and buildings, but almost invariably the fault is in the human factor, not the metal or the machine. Sound workmanship and careful inspection allow an incredibly small margin for human error.

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE

WE KNOW that these strikes and controversies (in the United States) are the result of irresponsible labor leadership, and of racketeering practices by men who must be dealt with harshly and promptly. We are convinced that the honest laboring men of this country realize that their lives and their freedom are at stake, and that they will work if given a chance. But they are helplessly entangled in a maze of dishonest and unpatriotic leadership.

They must be assisted by men who are honest and strong. The one man who can help the most is President Roosevelt. He has been labor's friend and he has its confidence. — San Francisco Argonaut.

ONE WOMAN'S ANSWER

AN automobile containing two high-ranking German officers stopped near the town of Fornebu. One of the officers asked a Norwegian woman passing by if she could tell them the way to the airport.

"May I reply in English?" she asked in turn.

At this the German growled with obvious displeasure but finally agreed to receive information in that language.

Whereupon the Norwegian woman gave her answer: "I don't know."—News of Norway.

RURAL TEACHERS

RURAL school trustees sometimes forget that it takes both time and money to become a teacher....

At the salaries that are now being paid it is difficult to see how ambitious young men and women can be attracted to the job of teaching in our rural areas. The most that can be expected is that they will take such jobs merely as stop-gaps while looking all the time for something better.

Certainly few male teachers could hope to get married and support a wife and family on the present scale of remuneration.—Winnipeg Tribune.

World's Largest Bomber Gets Final Inspection

Shown here prior to its final inspection and ground check, the Douglas B-19, "Guardian of a Hemisphere," poses for one of its first pictures outdoors. Its mighty wings, designed by the U.S. Army Air Corps to span two continents, measure 212 feet from tip to tip. Four powerful Wright Duplex-Cyclone motors, totalling 8,000 horsepower, will drive this formidable eagle through the skies at a speed in excess of 200 miles per hour. Note the comparison between the giant and a DC-3 plane, a standard ship used by most air lines.

Muskie Spearer For Over 40 Years Pays $14.00 Fine In Police Court At Lindsay

LINDSAY, April 23.—"I have been fishing on the waters for forty years and the game wardens never caught me, and I would not be here today if I had seen the warden first," said Mickey Dewell, who was charged before Magistrate Gee on the charge of catching lunge out of season by Game Warden Hogson.

"I think we ought to tack on a little more for the offences during that period of years," remarked Magistrate Gee.

"Make it as light as you can," remarked Dewell, who hails from Fenelon township. "I had to borrow the money to pay a fine, and I may never be able to pay it back. I wanted them to appoint me a fish overseer at one time, but they wouldn't do it. I know every illegal fisherman on the waters," said the accused.

"Well, I think we will have to make it $14.25 this time, with a $50.00 fine for the second offence," said Magistrate Gee.

"I had spotted two fine fish in the waters," remarked Dewell, "and was all set to spear the smaller one when the inspector popped up," he said.

Two men have since been caught catching lunge on the lower stretch of the Scugog by the overseers. They are residents of Lindsay, and will be asked to explain things in court. The Fenelon Falls' Anglers' Association is giving a reward of $10.00 for information leading to the apprehension of anyone illegally taking game fish.

Rev. W. W. Higgs, pastor of the United church at Manilla for the past three years, dropped dead in his bedroom as he was about to retire, on Monday night. His passing came as a great shock to the community, as on Monday afternoon he had been making pastoral calls and visiting sick members of his congregation. The late Mr. Higgs was former pastor of Beachburg United church in Renfrew county, and also at Port Perry. His funeral will be held on Thursday at Manilla.

The Lindsay Rotary club at its luncheon on Monday presented the president of the Victoria county branch of the Red Cross Association with a cheque for $2,700, the proceeds of the sale of tickets on the cow "Daisy," which was raffled here a few weeks ago.

2 Too-Many Wives

Minneapolis, April 23 (AP)

RAYMOND HARMON, 33, a painter and paperhanger with three wives, was sentenced today to serve two consecutive one to five-year terms in prison.

The case came to light after he was arrested on suspicion of burglary, and exclaimed to police who asked about his irregular hours: "You'd keep irregular hours, too, if you had three wives."

Real 'Cough Up' Due To Face U.S. Taxpayers

WASHINGTON, April 23—(AP)—Thousands of United States taxpayers—little and big men alike—will have to pay two or three times their present income tax, informed sources predicted today, if Congress adopts the Treasury program for raising $3,500,000,000 in New Federal revenue.

The program, authoritative reports said, carried the following major provisions:

Individual incomes—An increase of the present 4.4 per cent. basic tax rate to 6.6 per cent. Also elimination of the existing 10 per cent. earned income credit deducation. Personal exemption rates would remain unchanged.

Income surtaxes—Steep increases. Whereas surtaxes are now imposed on taxable incomes in excess of $4,000, they would begin with those over $2,000. Present surtaxes range from 4 to 75 per cent. and are levied in addition to the basic 4.4 per cent. "normal" rate.

Corporate incomes—An increase from the present 24 per cent. to 30 per cent.

Travel—A tax of about 10 per cent. on railroad, plane, bus and other transportation tickets.

Chequest—A two cent tax on each cheque drawn.

Gasoline—One cent more, making the Federal tax 2½ cents a gallon.

Cigarettes—Eight cents tax on a pack of 20, a 1½ cent boost.

Other items—Increases in beer, wine, whisky and automobile purchase taxes. New levies on candy, chewing gum, soft drinks.

Federal securities—A plan to reach with taxation all or part of the income from the billions of dollars invested in hitherto tax exempt government bonds.

French Official Under Guard; Two Missing

VICHY, April 23.—Special police today guarded prominent officials in both Nazi-held and unoccupied France, presumably including Pierre Laval, after the disappearance and feared assassination of two leaders of the pro-Nazi party of Popular Assembly in Paris.

The swarthy Laval was said to fear assassination, and, because of this, refuses to leave Paris for Vichy, where, he contends, his murder was plotted last December at the time of his ouster as French Vice-Premier.

The eight-day-old disappearance in Paris of Jean Fontenoy, a leader of the Popular Assembly Party and Nazi-approved propagandist, was confirmed by officials yesterday.

It also was revealed that another of the Popular Assembly Party and Nazi-approved propagandist, was confirmed by officials yesterday.

It also was revealed that another of the pro-Nazi leaders in Paris favoring "collaboration" between the Vichy Government and Germany is missing and he, too, is believed to have been assassinated.

The identity of the second missing French pro-Nazi leader was not disclosed, but it was pointed out that the two men may be the first victims of political assassinations in France since the German-French armistice was signed last summer.

At the time of the armistice Count Theirry de Ludre, pro-German, former diplomat, was slain on a road near Montregis while transferring to a French concentration camp.

Some quarters contended that the slaying of Ludre is "indirectly connected" with the disappearance of Fontenoy and the other champion of collaboration.

Members of Fontenoy's entourage tried yesterday to discredit the theory of assassination by announcing that he had twice attempted to commit suicide.

More Army Service?

Washington, April 22 (AP)

ACTING CHAIRMAN Robert Reynolds (Dem-North Carolina) of the senate military committee said today he had heard unofficially that the United States army might seek legislation to extend the training of men drafted into the army beyond the basic one-year period.

Two other committee members told of similar reports, involving both selective service recruits and National Guardsmen.

Senator Tom Connally (Dem-Texas), told reporters that a group of National Guardsmen had told him they might be held in army camps for more than a year. He said he had no official information on the subject.

Senator Edwin Johnson (Dem-Colorado) said he had heard reports emanating from army officers that congress would be asked to declare a full state of emergency, under which men in training would be retained until congress declared the emergency ended.

No Happiness in the Home When Mother Is Sick

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties.

She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as when she went to bed.

Women suffering in this way may find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a remedy with which to help recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and assist them back to health—happiness again.

That "TIRED-ALL-THE-TIME" Feeling

May be caused by FAULTY KIDNEYS

When you feel jumpy, "on edge",—when everything seems to bother you,—when you can't sleep at night or relax during the day,—when you feel exhausted and "all in",—that's the time to check up on the condition of your kidneys.

Instead of filtering impurities out of the blood, (which is their normal duty), faulty kidneys permit poisonous wastes and excess acids to accumulate in the system. Backache, headache, sleeplessness, irritability, may often follow.

Help your kidneys to keep these trouble-making poisonous wastes and excess acids out of your system by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, a favourite kidney remedy for more than half a century.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are easy to take, easy to carry, and, because they contain no harmful or habit-forming drugs, may be used with safety.

TWENTY PLAYERS TURN OUT FOR THE FIRST LACROSSE PRACTICE

Base-Theft Is Nipped In Nick Of Time

Phil Rizzuto, star rookie of the New York Yankees, matched his speed on the base-path against the throwing arm of Catcher Hayes of the Philadelphia A's—and lost. He tried to steal second. The story of his failure is told in this series of pictures. As the curtain goes up we see Rizzuto burning up the track en route to the bag. The ball, hurled by Hayes, is winging through the air bound for the same place. Brancato, A's shortstop, reaches for the speeding leather. He gathers it in. And even as he spins around with the ball, Phil slams into his slide, and comes into the bag kicking up a cloud of dust, but just an inch or so short of the sack Brancato puts the ball on him and the umpire shouts "Out!" This play was a real thriller for the mammoth opening-day crowd which was on hand to see the Yankees bow to the A's 3 to 1 in their home-town opener.

F. H. Dearborn Is New President Of Lawn Bowlers

By a tie vote the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association, at its annual meeting last night, rejected a proposal to join up with the Provincial Association District No. 14, and to do away with the Central Ontario Association.

Although this same question was brought up at the annual meeting of April 20, 1939, and was supposed to have been settled for all time to come, yet for some unknown reason its was once again injected into the meeting with the above result.

With delegates from Cannington, Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope, Oshawa, Whitby and Peterborough, the annual meeting of 1941 will go down in bowling history as one of the most outstanding in the life of the association.

President Cooke, in his opening address, gave an elaborate review of the season's work and advised all to carry on friendly games and also to carry on tournaments. He spoke of attendance at tournaments and appealed to all clubs to try and adopt some system whereby it would become a standard system.

The secretary-treasurer's report, given by W. Livingstone, was favorably received.

At an early date the clubs will get together and draw up dates for tournaments for the coming season.

The following officers were elected: President, F. H. Dearborn, Peterborough; Hon. President, H. Rosevear, Port Hope; E. Goodman, Oshawa; W. Cooke, Cannington; Vice-President, W. Oke, Port Hope; Secretary-Treasurer, H. R. Martin, Peterborough. Executive Committee—J. Mix, Cannington; W. Lindsay, Cobourg; M. Wickett, Port Hope; H. Freeman, Peterborough.

Castilloux, Hurst Even, 10 Rounds

MONTREAL April 23.— (CP). — Bushy-haired Harry Hurst, who talked himself into a shot at Dave Castilloux's Canadian lightweight title, was assured to-day of another chance after his courageous battle in earning a 10-round draw with the ring-wise Castilloux.

No match in experience for the 23-year-old champion, Hurst offset the edge with an aggressive display that kept the crowd of about 7,000 in an uproar.

Holding a one-pound advantage over his 134-pound opponent, Hurst bored in from start to finish. Although on the defensive, Castilloux built up a point-lead on his flicking jabs and heady fighting, however, and it took a wild 10th round, which saw both battlers slug it out toe to toe, to draw Hurst even.

It was the first defence of his title for Castilloux since getting it when Maxie Berger moved to a heavier division.

The draw was a moral victory for Hurst, less than a year ago a sparring partner of the champion. Since branching out on his own, he piled up a string of impressive knockouts in the United States and returned to his home town, Montreal, to force the fight by challenging Castilloux.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

It was a bad day all round for the so-called class clubs of the American League yesterday, Cleveland, New York, Detroit and Boston all taking it on the chin. That is the kind of thing that makes for big gates and if the underdogs continue to upset the outfits that were called to monopolize the top berths the loop will be interesting hunting ground for the income tax department this season. The Athletics after being kicked around for two days by the Yanks turned on the McCarthyites yesterday and beat them 6 to 5, the New Yorkers blowing a 5 to 0 lead. The pitcher who beat them was none other than Lester McCrabb who didn't go so hot for the Toronto Leafs last season. But then who could. McCrabb threw home run balls to Dickey, Heinrich and Keller, but only allowed six hits altogether. Chandler started for New York but Murphy got the loss.

* * * * * *

Once again Buck Newsom failed to come through for Detroit and the champs were stymied 6 to 3 by the Chicago White Sox with Bill Dietrich only allowing two hits in hanging up his second win of the season. York's homer with two on in the ninth robbed the Chicago hurler of a shutout. Boston's artillery department again proved inadequate and the Washington Senators cuffed the Cronin ites around to the tune of 12 to 5. Eldon Auker registering his second win of the young campaign held Cleveland Indians under control and St. Louis won 6 to 3 at the expense of Al Milnar who thus sustained his first loss. Auker had previously trimmed Detroit and looks to be in for a fine season. A feature of the season so far in the American loop has been the good showing of both the Browns and the Athletics. In spite of being walloped badly in two games, Connie Mack's outfit have so far broke even with the Yanks in six fixtures.

* * * * * *

The National League produced the best-played and the best-pitched game of the day and possibly of the season in the battle between the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs. The world champs won 1 to 0 behind fine pitching by Johnny Vandermeer who held the Chicago club to four hits. The veteran Bill Lee did almost as well in the Cubs' cause, yielding only five safe blows to the Reds. Brooklyn struck back at the Giants, getting steady throwing from Casey to win 7 to 4. Camilli hit his third circuit clout of the season with two on and the blow just represents the Dodgers' winning margin. Like the American League race so far there have been a number of surprises in the National race and if the upsets continue there should be plenty of money in the jackpot this season.

Lacrosse Enthusiasm Stirs

With word having been received from Don Crowe that he will be returning home from Toronto in a few days and with Norman Hewitt, junior star from Orillia, having located in the city, Vert Reynolds and his lacrosse associates appear to have reason for increased enthusiasm over the prospects of the Peterborough club in the forthcoming O.L.A. crown. Club officials fully appreciate, of course, that they will be facing stronger opposition than a year ago, with Oshawa bringing in new talent and Orillia a possible new entrant into the Senior "B" group, but are satisfied that they will be able to make things interesting for any of their rivals.

* * * * * *

Peterborough fans generally will welcome the return of Crowe, who was always a favorite when playing with the local club. The addition of Hewitt should also prove valuable, if records mean anything at all. Last year the 18-year-old redhead, a brother of Jack Hewitt, who has just signed with the Mimico Mountaineers, rated fourth among the scorers of the crack Orillia junior champions. With his brother, he was one of five juniors who was selected to take part in a number of games with the Orillia seniors and it is on record that he scored a goal and recorded two assists for the Terriers in a game against St. Catharines, Mann Cup winners. While predictions before the deadline date for residence qualification, April 30, would be foolish, there is no question, but that the outlook for lacrosse in Peterborough has been definitely improved during the past few days. The club held its first drill last night and the annual executive meeting has been set for Thursday, after which officials have intimated the club may be in position to announce some surprises in the way of new players.

To Enforce Rules

One of the quaint things about the recent C.H.A. gathering was the announcement that henceforth the rules in regard to high-sticking and boarding are to be enforced rigidly. The intimation was a tacit official admission that there has been a deplorable laxity in that respect which of course every fan knows. When the amateur body adopted the pro attitude in regard to playoffs and bigger gate receipts the referees apparently got the impression that the professional interpretation of the playing rules was also in order. Anyway there has been more high-sticking and slamming men into the boards in amateur hockey this past season than ever before and this was particularly noticeable in junior ranks. Now the amateur authorities have at long last awakened to a realization of the fact that to allow that kind of thing to prevail was bound to hurt the game, just as rough play almost killed lacrosse. It is bad enough when the pros and seniors toss each other round like the wrestling birds but when you have to train the kids for that brand of hockey it is certainly time to call a halt.

The Simpson Grads are on their way to Vancouver to meet the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds in the Dominion basketball finals and judging from the stories coming out from the west Shag Park and his pals might have done well to take their bicycles with them. The floor on which the finals are to be staged is about the biggest basketball cushion in the Dominion. It is 94 by 50 feet and that will provide plenty of room for Mister Park and other fast-moving Grads to do their stuff. Incidentally the finalists will use the fan-shaped backboards for the first time. They were designed to give spectators at the end of the courts a better view of the game and are not expected to cramp the style of the players.

Pitch-Tippers Stir Feller

CLEVELAND, April 23.—(AP). — Bob Feller warned American League pitch-stealers to-day to stop calling his throws or half their clubs "will be in the hospital."

The 22-year old strikeout king made it plain he wouldn't toss any "bean balls"—but that the result might be serious if the opposing batter were looking for a curve and got a blazing fast fall which didn't "break" when it reached his head.

Rapid Robert's thoughts were focused particularly on the third base coaching boxes occupied by those astute baseball observers, Coach Mule Haas of Chicago and Manager Del Baker of Detroit. Haas told the White Sox what to expect when they beat Feller on opening day, 4 to 3, and Baker called them for the Tigers last season.

Warning Haas and Baker not to do it again, Feller declared "my pitches are my bread and butter and nobody's going to steal them. If they try, the batters may be picking baseballs out of their ears. If they are looking for a curve and accidentally get a fast one it wouldn't surprise me any."

Outlook For Peterboro' Team Much Brighter

Twenty candidates for positions turned out with the Peterborough Senior "B" O.L.A. lacrosse club at the first practice held at the city lacrosse bowl last night when the players were put through an hour's workout by Manager Vert Reynolds.

While fancy stick-handling by Harold "Dutch" Pammett and Peter Cassidy and an aggressive display by Bob "Red" Creighton were features, the general all-around skill shown by Louis Vitarelli 17-year-old youngster, also drew main attention of railbirds. Better known as a hockey player, Vitarelli showed by his catching, shooting and general play-making that he also has much promise in the national game.

While Creighton is usually seen guarding the goal posts, he played out last night and displayed speed and stamina which enabled him to outrank many of the younger players. Manager Reynolds confided afterward that he was considering moving Creighton out permanently, as a move to speed up the attack, providing he can locate another goal-tender. He has Jack Lebarr, a one-time star, in mind as one prospect.

Also attracting considerable attention at the drill were three hockey juniors, Ronnie Horton, Russell Scriver and "Red" Eason. All displayed stick-handling skill. Gratton Curtin was the mainstay of the defence forces in action. Two other forwards who showed exceptional ability were Barney Dundas and Dave Martin.

Bus Whitton, "Tiger" Hewitt and Rowan Chute were absentees who are expected out to the second drill on Thursday night. It is also probable that Norman Hewitt, newcomer from Orillia, who last year helped the junior Terriers win the O.L.A. laurels, will be out. Hewitt also played several games with the Orillia seniors and is said to be a standout sharpshooter. Manager Reynolds has also been informed that Don Crowe, former local star, may return home from Toronto in time to qualify to play here this season.

"The outlook now is much better than a week ago," said Reynolds, discussing the team's prospects today. He said an executive meeting has been called for after the practice on Thursday night to complete organization of the club. Nelson King, 1940 president, has asked to be relieved of office after many years of energetic activity, and other new officers are also to be elected.

The team expects to be grouped with the same teams as last year which include Brooklin, Oshawa and East York, Reynolds said.

Newark Bears Drop Wings Into The Cellar

ROCHESTER, April 23.—(CP)—The champion Rochester Red Wings are in a strange place today—the International baseball league cellar.

The dropped their third straight contest yesterday to Newark Bears, 10-2, getting six hits off Hank Borowy. The six hits represent the most safe blows they have had in the four games they have lost.

Victory kept the Bears in a tie for first place with Buffalo as the Bisons defeated Baltimore Orioles, 8-6. Jersey City Giants turned back Montreal Royals 6-3 in the only other game. Cold weather caused postponement of a Toronto-Syracuse match.

The Bisons unleashed a 17-hit attack against four Baltimore hurlers to give Freddy Hutchinson his second victory of the campaign.

Although outhit, 14-12, Jersey City bunched blows effectively in the first eight innings to score all its runs.

Hugh East, Jersey City starter, gave up all of Montreal's hits before he was lifted in favor of Roy Henshaw, who stopped a Royal rally that netted two runs in the eighth.

Casey Subdues Giants 7-4; Senators Win

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The plight of Detroit Tigers is something to ponder on these days.

The champions of the American League are in the cellar with a record of only one victory in five games and with more grief lying in wait for the day that Hank Greenberg is inducted into the army.

Fighting spirit as much as any other single factorc arried Detroit to a championship last year, but its morale apparently is gone. The team performed miserably in the grapefruit grind, and this same sluggishness has carried over into the regular season. The Tigers' pitching has been good, but their famed hitting has been a myth and their fielding frightful.

Yesterday Bill Dietrich of Chicago White Sox almost pitched a no-hitter against them. The bespectacled righthander who pranced into baseball's select society with a no-hitter against the Browns in 1937, didn't give a safety until he had one out in the ninth. Then came an error, a single by Greenberg and a homer by Rudy York. The no-hitter was gone, but the game still went to Chicago 6-3. Detroit's porous old infield had made three errors to help the Sox score six runs on eight hits.

Cubs Smothered 1-0

John Vander Meer gave Chicago fans a glimpse of his 1938 double no-hit form with a four-hit, 12-strikeout performance that bested Bill Lee and smothered the Cubs 1-0.

Hugh Casey subdued New York Giants for the second time in three days to give Brooklyn Dodgers a 7-4 victory. He allowed only seven hits and three errors figured in all the Giants scoring.

Boston Red Sox held on to the American League lead although beaten for the second straight day by Washington Senators 12-5. The Red Sox really came apart at the seams, making five errors.

Les McCrabb held New York Yankees to six safeties, three of them homers, while Philadelphia Athletics nudged out a 6-5 decision.

Elden Auker's crafty eight-hit hurling gave St. Louis Browns a 6-3 victory over Cleveland Indians; the Phillies snapped a six-game losing streak with two runs in the 14th inning to beat Boston Bees 6-4 and St. Louis Cardinals edged past Pittsburg Pirates 9-8 with two runs in the 12th after Pittsburg had scored once.

Regina Rangers Out To Win 3rd

SASKATOON, April 23—(CP). — The Allan Cup finals may end tonight with Sydney Millionaires taking the Canadian Senior hockey championship in three straight games, but you can never tell with a fighting young club like Regina Rangers.

Sydney won the first game 8-6 and the second 8-3.

Both teams arrived in Saskatoon yesterday from Regina and rested for the third game.

Two players on the Regina team are handicapped by injuries, but Coach Metcalfe plans to use them tonight. Centre Scotty Cameron suffered a charley horse in the first game and Defenceman Sandy Sandelack is away below his usual effectiveness because of a severe shoulder injury suffered in the Western finals.

Dick Kowcinack, centre of one Sydney forward line, played only part of the two previous games because his left arm weakened because of fracture near the wrist suffered 10 weeks ago. Dick found a cast saved his arm in the second game, and he may be able to play throughout the third.

Province Upheld On Suspending Of Car Licenses

OTTAWA, April 23—(CP).—Provincial authority over suspension of automobile driving licences was sustained by the Supreme Court of Canada in allowing a Prince Edward Island appeal yesterday.

In 1939 Michael Egan was convicted under the Criminal Code of Canada for drunken driving, and under the Prince Edward Island Highway Traffic Act his driving license was cancelled for 12 months. Six months later Egan applied for a licence and his application was refused, by virture of the Provincial provisions.

Appeal was then made to a county court judge who ordered the provincial secretary to issue a licence. Appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island, and Mr. Justice Arsenault ruled that the Criminal Code had invaded the Provincial field and that the provision of the Provincial Act on cancellation of a licence on conviction for drunken driving had become ultra vires.

Mr. Justice Arsenault also held there was no appeal from the county court judge's decision.

Hon. Thane Campbell, Prince Edward Island Premier and Attorney General, appeared as counsel for the Province before the Supreme Court of Canada, being joined by Clifford R. Magone who intervened on behalf of the Attorney-General of Ontario for that province.

The Supreme Court of Canada granted the appeal and the order of the county court judge that the licence be granted was set aside.

WEDDING PARTY ESCAPED

Because of a political dispute three gunmen fired seven shots at Loo-ting, a former newspaper reporter, and his bride just before the wedding banquet, in Shanghai, China, but all the shots went wild and the would-be assassins escaped.

British Battle

ward to Ioannina from Metsovo in an encircling movement.

(The Germans have claimed the capture of Ioannina.)

The island of Crete, designated by King George as the new seat of government, is 75 miles off the southeastern tip of Greece and about 250 miles north of the Libyan coast, where Axis armies are now engaged in a drive aimed at the Suez Canal.

British forces established bases on Crete shortly after the beginning of the Greek-Italian war.

The Germans apparently were timing a new onslaught against the re-established Allied right wing in the Lokris mountains with an all-out attempt to isolate Greece from overseas contacts by pounding ports and showering bombs on every type of shipping off the coast.

Athens alone had seven alarms in the 24 hours up to midnight last night; anti-aircraft fire and bomb explosions could be heard from the outskirts. Eighty dive bombers were seen in a single raid near the ancient capital.

The German fliers came in waves, met by British and Greek planes outnumbered eight or more to one, in their attacks on the big port of Piraeus, the coastal cities of Megara and Elevis, and the Attika district, all around Athens.

Corinth and the islands of Crete, Corfu and Cephalonia also were bombed, and the high command early today declared:—

"Enemy air action continues intensely, but the enemy suffered considerable losses from the air force and anti-aircraft artillery."

Fierce Battles Raging

Of the land fighting, the high command said, "the withdrawal of our lines has been completed without any serious hindrance."

The fighting, now within 100 miles of Athens, was described as fierce.

(The present defence stand apparently was hinged at Thermopylae on the east, extending along the northern rise of the Lokris range and across the tapering peninsula to the vicinity of Arta, south of Ioannina which the Nazis reported taking yesterday.

(Dispatches from an Associated Press correspondent on the Thermopylae front said last night that the British, by rear-guard fighting, had withdrawn to the new mountain line without loss of the bulk of their equipment.

(He said that Lamia, just north of Thermopylae, had been bombed to ruins as was Larisa.

(German military spokesmen claimed last night their forces had pushed through Lamia to within sight of Thermopylae.)

(From the correspondent on this front came word, too, that Hitler was believed to have had his birthday celebration last Sunday at captured Salonika. German accounts of the celebration said he was at his railroad car headquarters on the Balkan front, but did not mention whether this actually was inside Greece.)

(Dispatches received yesterday from Daniel De Luce, another Associated Press correspondent who crossed the Aegean Sea in a fishing boat from Greece to Turkey, said the German legation in Athens had served as a clearing house for information to Nazis about British forces sent to Greece.

(These forces, De Luce said, were estimated unofficially at 50,000 to 80,000 men, mostly Australians, with hundreds of tanks, Bren-gun carriers and trucks.

(He reported the German military attache at Athens had been discovered circulating through British Expeditionary Force encampments in civilian clothes.)

Fight On The King Appeals

King George made his fateful announcement in a lengthy proclamation in which he appealed to the Greek people to keep up their courage "even during this painful moment of our histories."

"The right of our struggle and God will help us to secure by all means a final victory in spite of the trials, pains and dangers which we shall go through," he added.

"Remain faithful to the idea of a united and undivided free country, intensify your will, oppose Greek pride to enemy force and enemy temptations. Have courage—good days will come again. Long live the nation!"

The King's statement in full said:

"The hard destinies of war compel us to get away from Athens together with the Crown Prince and lawful government of the country and to transfer the capital of the country to Crete, whence we shall be able to continue the fight which is the will of the nation and the duty of safeguarding the independence and integrity imposed upon us and undertaken after unprovoked aggressions of which we have been the object by two empires.

"Our will, the will of the government and of the Greek people having been manifested in various ways so far mean resistance to the end on the part of Greek troops, which, despite the unequal fight, particularly after the German invasion, have stubornly fought beside the English allies who rushed help to us and are still fighting on Greek territory for the sake of the right cause.

Glorious Pages In History

"Our troops, exhausted from the hard and victorious war which they had been waging for six months against a much stronger enemy and having written the most glorious pages of our military history, continued the fight against the Germans with inconceivable heroism.

"We do not yet know in what conditions exactly our army of Epirus has been found and signed an armistice with the enemy without our knowing it.

"This act in no way binds the free will of the nation, the king and the government, which consists of a continuation of the struggle with all remaining forces with a view to securing the supreme national interests.

"Being compelled to proceed to Crete, I do it only in order that freely and from Greek territory we may be able to continue to fight against the invaders until the final victory which will crown full the great sacrifices of the nation.

"Do not lose your courage, Greeks, even during this painful moment of our history. We shall always be among you.

"The right of our struggle and God will help us to secure by all means final victory in spite of the trials, pains and dangers which we shall go through in the meantime.

"Remain faithful to the idea of a united and undivided, free country, intensify your will, oppose Greek pride to enemy force and enemy temptations. Have courage — good days will come again. Long live the nation."

"What's New, Mr. Prime Minister?"

Ostensibly in high spirit after his visit to Hyde Park and his conference with President F. D. Roosevelt, Prime Minister Mackenzie King arrived back in Ottawa. He is shown here surrounded by newspapermen. The Prime Minister did not issue any official statement upon arriving but was heard to say cryptically that his trip had been "better than a holiday."

plifying the situation from the Canadian point of view.)

When Von Werra jumped his bail Jackson and the state department were considering his case to decide whether he should be deported or detained here for the duration of the war. An immigration inspector had recommended that he be deported to Canada "if practicable," and otherwise sent to Germany, but only after he had been tried for ilegal entry. Von Werra had appealed to the immigration board of review which heard his case Feb. 27.

"He invoked certain principles of international law and certain international policy considerations were involved," Jackson said in instructions to all immigration officers, United States attorneys and marshals.

In Care of German Consul.

"While the matter was in course of consideration by this department and by the Department of State Von Werra was released in care of the German consul at New York on deposit of $10.000 bond.

"Von Werra now has taken flight in violation of the terms of his release. Such conduct constitutes a flagrant abuse of neutral hospitality which had been invoked on his behalf.

"The policy of this department in enforcement of our laws must take account of what appears to be a deliberate and not isolated instance of abusing the privileges and liberties of this country."

The Attorney-Geleral issued these instructions:

1. Any escaping prisoner of war shall be turned back at the United States borders and shall not be received into the United States. Any force reasonably necessary to protect our border against such intrusion is authorized and directed.

"2. Any such escaped prisoner of war entering the United States shall be apprehended and held for instruction from this office.

"3. In no case shall the immigration authorities extend or United States attorneys acquiesce in the release of such an escaping prisoner of the war in the custody of consular officers.

"4. In fixing the amount of bond and any recommendation of the amount of bail to courts, amount fixed shall be determined in the light of this incident."

The order to close the border was considered here to be significant in view of last week's break of war prisoners from an internment camp in a northwestern Ontario and the big manhunt now under way for the six still remaining at large.

Boon to Canada

The order should be of great value to Canadian authorities in preventing escapes because the incentive of comparatively easy access to the United States, and perhaps freedom or return to Germany, now has disappeared.

Last month, Bernhart Gohoke and Heinz Rottman, two German prisoners of war, escaped from Fort Henry, near Kingston, Ont., and reached the United States border. Their application for admission to the country was refused and they were turned over to Canadian authorities. Their case differed from that of Von Werra's in that they had not actually effected an entry.

It was thought possible that Von Werra might be able to make his way back to Germany by air as the Italian-operated air line Lati, running from Rio de Janeiro to Rome, has been operating planes at intervals during the last year. These planes fly up the coast to Recife or Natal, then over Fernando de Noronha, 300 miles out in the Atlantic, to the Portugese Capé Verdi Islands, then to Seville and Rome.

Furthermore, until recently, Germany's line, Deutsche Lufthansa, ran an air service from Lima, Peru, across South America to Rio de Janeiro by way of La Paz, Bolivia. However, Peru recently seized the Junkers planes of the Lufthansa Line, stopping service between Lima and La Paz. Connections still are possible from La Paz into Rio.

Coalition Group

had been ensured when official nominations closed April 12, with 16 coalition members of the last house re-elected by acclamation.

Among these were Mr. Bracken, Premier continuously since 1922, who held The Pas, and five of his cabinet ministers, including Works Minister Errick Willis, Manitoba Conservative leader.

Five other members of the cabinet were re-elected yesterday, and the only minister whose seat remained in doubt was Labor Minister S. J. Farmer, C.C.F. leader in the 20th Assembly. Mr. Farmer, a member since 1922, placed 10th in the 10-member Winnipeg constituency on the basis of the first count.

Winnipeg voting was by the proportional representation system and of the 27 candidates for the 10 city seats two were elected on first count.

Hon. J. S. McDiarmid, Liberal-Progressive Minister of Mines and Natural Resources, headed the city polls with 6,915 to easily pass the unofficial quota of 5,280 required for election. Stubbs' total of 5,709 was far below his tremendous first-count vote of 24,805 in 1936.

Perhaps because interest waned when return of the government was ensured prior to voting day or perhaps because rain and snow made weather miserable for the electors, the vote was light. In Winnipeg only 58,067 ballots were recorded compared to 78,161 in 1936. In many of the rural ridings, too, the vote was proportionately light.

Nevertheless, it is expected several days will elapse before returns are complete. In 1936, 17 counts were necessary in Winnipeg to decide all 10 members and with six more candidates this time, even more counts may be required. The second count will be made today and others will proceed as rapidly as possible.

In rural ridings, all single-member, the single transferable vote is used in counting ballots where three or four candidates run. In 1936 the count in rural ridings was completed in six days.

Cabinet members returned by acclamation were Mr. Bracken, Mr. Willis, Municipal Commissioner William Morton, Agriculture Minister D. L. Campbell, Education Minister Ivan Schultz and Hon. A. R. Welch, minister without portfolio.

Re-elected yesterday were Provincial Treasurer Stuart Garson, Liberal - Progressive, in Fairford, where he received an acclamation in 1936; Health Minister James McLenaghen, Conservative, in Kildonan-St. Andrews; and two ministers without portfolio, Hon. N. L. Turnbull, Social Credit, in Hamiota, and Hon. Sauveur Marcoux, Liberal-Progressive, in La Verandrye.

Miss Salome Halldorson, president of the Manitoba Social Credit League, and only woman member of the last legislature, was defeated in her stand for re-election in St. George, Miss Halldorson, a Winnipeg school teacher, was one of the three opposition members at dissolution of the 20th assembly. She lost to Skuli Sigfusson, coalition Liberal-Progressive, 1,489 to 808 with 20 of the 26 polls reported.

Other representatives of the league, which charged that coalition is "the negation of democracy," were defeated in Carillon, La Verandrye and Fairford, all by Liberal-Progressives.

It appeared doubtful any women would be elected. Miss Halldorson was the only woman contesting a rural seat and three running in Winnipeg were trailing far behind.

The C.C.F. lost Assiniboia to an opposition Conservative, and St. Clements to N. J. Stryck, coalition Liebral-Progressive who ousted Herbert Sulkers.

Three other members of the last House failed to retain their seats: J. S. Lamont, Liberal-Progressive, who lost Iberville to Arthur Boivin, Coalition Independent; H. H. Wright, Liberal-Progressive who was beaten in Emerson by J. R. Solomon, Coalition Independent; and John Lawrie, Coalition Conservative beaten in Norfolk by John Muirhead, Liberal-Progressive. Wright was elected in 1936 as an independent but ran this time as a follower of Premier Bracken.

Groups supporting coalition campaigned on four major issues: implementation of the Sirois report on Dominion-Provincial relations; a maximum war effort; a higher basic price for wheat; and planning for post-war rehabilitation. Those opposing the government did so chiefly on grounds coalition was contrary to democracy in that it subordinated individual criticism.

Members of the armed forces located within the province were given a vote for candidates in their home constituencies. The vote of soldiers, sailors, and airmen was taken last week.

C.P.R. CHANGES

The Sunday afternoon train will leave at 5.45 o'clock instead of 4.30. On eastbound trains the changes are 11.40 a.m. instead of 11.45; and the midnight arrives at 1.25 instead of 1.30; and the local leaves Toronto at 5.30 p.m., instead of 5.15 p.m.

STILL GOING STRONG

Easter examinations and the approach of good weather has not interfered with the selling campaign by the students at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School. This morning the weekly report for sale of War Savings Stamps were announced, and revealed that the students had hit the ball again to the tune of $600.00. This is almost treble the original weekly objective of $250.00.

As a part of its boys' safety program, the Y.M.C.A. will conduct a learn-to-swim campaign, beginning May 12th, Allan Clarke, physical director, announced today. REGISTRATION OF 400.

With 60 more enrolled at new classes just beginning, the war emergency courses conducted at the Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training School under the direction of F. E. The courses give a practical knowledge of machine operating.

CUTTING THE GRASS

The rapid growth of lawns has prompted some church caretakers to get busy with the lawn mower, and this morning Richard Ford, sexton at St. John's Church, was hard at work. Open Up Homes For Overflow Citizens Urged

"Peterborough people could save the Canadian Government a large sum of money if people who have spare rooms in their houses, or who could otherwise provide some emergency accommodation, were really patriotic enough to do so."

That is the statement of a citizen in a comment on the recent meeting of builders and others at the city hall to consider ways of avoiding the proposed building of prefabricated houses here for war-time workers.

"Suppose they build 100 of these houses, and that is a number mentioned by Mayor Hamilton, and the cost is said to be around $1,500. The total expenditure by the Government would be $150,000, If the number increases to 200 houses, then the outlay would be $300,000. And that money has to be paid by the people. The Government is simply spending the people's money. That is all any government can do. There is no magic about it.

Be No Choice in Germany

If we were living in Germany or Russia, we would have no choice. Some official of the dictatorship would come along to your house and tell you how many people would have to be accommodated. I have read authentic reports from Russia that a year ago they were living five people to a room.

Our cousins in England are crowded together in shelters, huddled in underground railway stations, the tubes, and everyone of us is living in the same comfort to which we have always been accustomed. In fact I'd bet there are more good mattresses in Peterborough right now than there were a year ago.

There isn't any doubt about it, and the pitiable and brutal fact about it that British money has been helping to buy those mattresses and new furniture and all the rest of our business as usual.

English people sleeping in subways, and Peterborough folks behind that British protection, sleeping peacefully in their beds.

Remain Selfish

And just because everybody is going to continue selfishly to enjoy their comfort and ease the Government is going to spend $150,000 or $300,000 right here in Peterborough while the community as a whole is trying to gather dollars in hundreds to help British War Victims.

Look, there are enough rooms around Peterborough to absorb all the incoming workers if the people here were as patriotic as they say they are, the kind of patriotism that demands action and some sacrifice, not much at that.

To prevent the needless expenditure of whatever money these houses are going to cost there should be an organized effort to appeal to our people to make room in their homes, to take in people who will pay for their sleeping quarters, to make it a matter of pride to be helping the cause of our race and Empire to that extent.

A Patriotic Duty

This would not be simply a matter of "taking in boarders," it would be a patriotic duty, co-operating with the Government and the State, and saving something like $300,000 or thereabouts.

Why blame the government for the expenditure of money if we are not willing to put ourselves out to that extent. Every house that would co-operate with the country in this practical way should be decorated with a distinctive flag. All this could be done, and incidentally there are a lot of attractive big homes in Peterborough, spacious, and their very size makes them stand out in this community which is racking its collective mind for some solution of the approaching housing problem.

Hundreds of cottages at Chemong on both sides of the lake, others down the river and along Rice Lake, —comfort and pleasure as usual— but on the other hand new taxes and the expenditure of $300,000 for temporary houses.

I believe in the democratic way, but there are times like these when we should all recognize its limits. All I have to say is this, if we have to depend on the Dominion government building temporary war time houses in Peterborough, that work of construction is going to appear to me as being evidence that this community was too considerate of its personal comforts and wonted pleasures to "put itself out" to the extent that the government might be told that emergency buildings were not required in this city."

Another citizen on this same subject said:—"Some of our people took in children and others from the Old Land. Quite a number expressed a wish to provide homes for other refugees, but the plan of transportation was abandoned. What is the difference between opening your home for war workers, who are going to pay for the accommodation, and inviting the government to send you a couple of refugees. I don't see any difference. And if one, why not the other."

$14,000 Mark Is Passed By War Fund

They say lightning never strikes twice in the same spot, but Lady Luck evidently does. The draw on the Queen's Bouquet set of 97 pieces of china donated by the Routley China tore was made Tuesday afternoon by W. C. Hughes, the genial manager of Graftons Ltd., and resulted in ticket No. 60 being declared the winner. This ticket was held by Miss E. Heigh, an employee of the Western Clock Co., Limited, who lives at 474 Patterson street. It will be remembered that the draw for the canoe resulted in an employee of the same firm being the winner. Routley China Store is celebrating its diamond jubilee the last three days of this week, and is giving another set of china away for this occasion, and to avoid confliction, the draw on this set was made at this time. The net proceeds amount to $114.18 and are included in today's receipts. Credit for the sale of tickets goes to Routley China Store, the Thumbs-Up Girls under Miss E. Rennie, employees of C.G.E., employees of Outboard Marine and Mfg. Co., Ltd., and the Examiner Office. The draw for the handmade lace table cloth donated by Mrs. Mary Thackeray of Stewart street and sponsored by the Order of the Eastern Star, under the convenership of Mrs. L. H. Deyman, will be made next Monday night. Mr. W. J. Donnelly is sponsoring a draw on two Dalmation 3-weeks-old pure breds, donated by himself, and tickets on these may be secured at 390 Aylmer street. City Property Deals Being Rumored

Rumors of property deals and prospective construction have been sprouting under the stimulant influence of Spring.

The Tamblyn Drug Company is reported to be interested in the Biltmore restaurant, and Louis Yeotes confirmed the news this morning that the company's enquiry seems to be quite definite, and may develop into a transaction in the near future.

In the drug store category it is also reported that the property opposite the Standard Medical Clinic, at the northeast corner of Charlotte and Reid streets, is going to be converted into a store and apartments.

Gordon Whiteside has taken over the Porter S. White grocery store on Charlotte street, and another of the grocery chains is rumored to be looking for premises for their business, possibly even to the extent of building, according to their plans.

The land which used to be part of the old Barnardo Home property, at Barnardo and Conger streets in the north end is said to have been purchased from a Toronto trust company, to be subdivided into building lost.

Persistent rumors still attack to the transfer of ownership of the property north of the old Grand Opera House. Another account intimates that a theatre chain is going to renovate the Grand, and even if that were true it still leaves the adjoining land to the north, a recent realty deal, without definite information about the purpose of its changing of ownership.

Spoon Feeding Of New Employees Tends To Discourage Initiative

Spoon feeding of new employees was rapped as something that discourages initiative and self-reliance by H. A. Cranfield, employment manager of the C.G.E., addressing the Industrial Accident Prevention Convention in Toronto this week. Mr. Cranfield spoke on the "Training of the New Employee in War Time" and gave a picture of the work that is going on in the big plant of the Canadian General Electric Company in this city. His talk also stressed the importance of giving a new man or woman time to get acquainted with his or her surroundings before deluging the new worker with a mass of information that would only tend to add to their bewilderment.

Check Applications

With the new four months' training program now in operation, all applications must be carefully checked for ages. It will become more difficult for young men of the ages 19, 20, and 21, to obtain employment. Due to the war work in so many industries the racial origin of applicants must be carefully checked.

So that you may decide whether or not what I have to say will apply in your plant, I give you the following information. Our payroll at present is approximately 3,000 and we are engaging new employees as fast as our employment facilities will permit.

In the instruction and training of the new employee I never forget the story of Thomas A. Edison, who at the crucial moment in his life trusted his first light blub to a messenger boy who tripped and broke the light. It will be remembered that Edison, when the second light was made, insisted that the same messenger serve the task in which he had previously failed. Think of the many instances in our life where we had been reminded of the importance of having confidence in ourselves and also the importance of installing confidence in others.

At the present time there are many elaborate systems set up for the instruction of the new employee, Mr. Cranfield said. "Personally, I am opposed to spoon feeding new or old employees. I am in favor of providing facilities where the employee may obtain education or experience in the particular line in which he is interested. The employee, however, should make some effort to derive the benefits from the set up. How many men in this room were spoon fed into their present positions. Very few, if any. Then why should we attempt to force education or training on those who will not or cannot absorb such information. Granted we should do all in our power to provide facilities where this education and experience may be obtained such as evening classes, part payment of correspondence courses, loans to those who desire to attend university, and many other schemes sponsored by many firms.

"Most of us have good examples right in our own homes. A piano is purchased and the son or daughter given music lessons when they have no musical talent, but for years we persevere and force them to take the lessons. Then we finally decide we have wasted our time, and money. That same child, however, may grow up to be a wonderful nurse, secretary, foreman or even a manager or president of an industry. My contention is if you have what it takes, you will find the way. Our job is to provide the ways and means so it is possible for those who are really in earnest to obtain the education or the required experience.

"This can readily be arranged through, and with the co-operation of the schools. It is possible in the present set-up to learn drafting and blueprint reading, machine operating, woodworking, motor mechanics, chemistry, welding, electricity and many other lines in our vocational classes. Granted the schools do not send us finished journeymen, but they do eliminate most of the misfits.

Training Courses

"The Canadian General Electric Company operate training courses for trades and professions such as electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, drafting, tool design, tool making, machinist, machine repair, maintenance, steam engineering, pattern making, armature winding, porcelain and textolite moulding, brass and alloy moulding, steam-fitting, electricians, welding, steel plate fitting, etc.

"The practical instruction is given during regular working hours, but the theoretical training is obtained at our local vocational school. Certain incentives are offered for those who obtain the required rating, not only in the school, but in the plant. This training is done in evening classes.

"A new employee entering our plant with our present set-up is told very little the first day. They are usually nervous and bewildered, or at least a stranger in a strange land. Then why load him up with a mountain of information of which he will remember about 10 per cent. "We have planned our introduction and instruction of the new worker to feature Safety First on the worker's entrance to our plant.

"When the new employee is engaged he is given an identification badge with a printed sheet which he may read at home. He is merely told that the button or badge must be worn when entering the works and at all times within the plant. He is then given his clock number.

Meets Safety Engineer.

"Next we introduce the new worker to our Safety Engineer, who gives him a copy of our General Safety Rule Book. He is then told of the general hazards to be found in the particular department in which he is to work. The Safety Engineer then personally conducts the new employee to his department and introduces him to the foreman. The foreman points out any local hazards, if any, in connection with the particular operation he is to perform.

"In this way we feel Safety will be uppermost in the employee's mind, rather than vacations with pay, group insurance, piecework prices, benefit society, social and athletic activities, preferred stock or what have you.

"Within the next two days the employee is called to the employment office and instructed in the other benefits and advantages we have to offer."

New Agreement Is Lauded By G. K. Fraser

"It will take time for all of us to entirely comprehend its full value and significance," Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., told a gathering of Peterborough veterans Tuesday night in an address in which he lauded Prime Minister King's statesmanship in achieving the new agreement with President Roosevelt.

"The British Empire has great resources and this agreement adds immeasurably to them," Mr. Fraser said, as he reviewed some of the war commodities made available. Pointing out that Canada's resources were already playing an important part, Mr. Fraser was applauded as he emphasized that "everything is being done to bring Canada's war assistance to a peak as soon as possible."

Mr. Fraser made his remarks in responding to a toast to the Dominion proposed by Capt. Fred Hills. The occasion was the annual "Red Patch" re-union of veterans of the First Division of the Great War, and Alan Wade, president, was in the chair. Other toasts were those to the King, proposed by the president; to the Division, proposed by William Nichand of Belleville, and responded to by Ernie Abraham, and to Fallen Comrades, proposed by Fire Chief George Gimblett. Following the latter, the veterans stood in silent tribute as Bugler Cecil Gallagher rendered the Last Post.

Musical entertainment included vocal solos by Walter Farr and Robert Hendry, accompanied by John King. A movie reel, reviewing military history of Italy since their capture of Ethiopia, provided by Mr. Fraser, which created much amusement, showed Mussolini boasting of Fascists' armed might after the Italian capture of Ethiopia from ill-armed bare-footed native warriors in 1935. The film went on to trace the history of Fascist militarism down to the return of Haile Selassie to his African kingdom after numerically superior Italian forces were routed by the British. Appreciation to Mr. Fraser was expressed on behalf of the gathering by Mr. Wade.

Nearly two hundred veterans sat down to the banquet, described by Mr. Wade as one of the most successful in years.

Given Ten Days Stealing Dishes

Edward Lynch pleaded guilty in police court this morning to stealing a box of dishes to the value of under $25, although he told Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., that the whole thing was a mistake.

"I had some things stored at the same place," he said "and I got the wrong box by mistake."

"You pleaded guilty," remarked the magistrate, "and then you tell me things that show you were not guilty."

"Well, I had the things all right and they didn't belong to me," replied the accused.

Lynch had already been in custody for some time and the magistrate sentenced him to ten days in jail to date back to April 17, which means he will get his liberty in a day or two.

Toss German Guns On To The Scrap Heap Suggests President Of Canadian Legion

"Toss the German guns on to the scrap heap," said Chief Gimblett, president of the Canadian Legion, in a suggestion to the City Council through The Examiner.

"That is the best use we can make of them. The community is starting a salvage campaign to gather up all kinds of metals that are going to be sold for war purposes, and the council might as well set the example by getting rid of those German guns so they can be melted down for munitions."

Chief Gimblett said the Legion declared its approval of this disposal of the guns that were once prized as trophies of the last war.

Local Soldiers Win Praise Of Brigadier

Brigadier F. L. Armstrong, O.B.E., officer commanding M.D. 3, addressed the Prince of Wales Rangers at battalion parade at the Armories Tuesday night.

After reviewing the soldiers, Brigadier Armstrong congratulated Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., the officer commanding, and officers, N.C.O.'s and men on their high state of efficiency and reminded them that they have a duty to maintain this standing in order to keep themselves in readiness for mobilization when it comes. He explained he did not mean to suggest mobilization was coming next week or the week after, but only to point out that it might come at any time.

Three Weeks' Camp.

After announcing that the unit would be going into camp for three weeks this coming summer in any event, the brigadier appealed to the personnel to continue volunteering for active service enlistments and maintain the quota set for the regiment.

Announcement was made by Major G. R. Melton, adjutant, that the Prince of Wales Regiment would hold its first church parade of the season on Sunday morning, when the battalion will attend divine service at St. John's Anglican Church. The men have been instructed to fall in at the Armories at 10.15. Roman Catholic members will attend St. Peter's Cathedral.

The 4th Field Battery will also attend this garrison parade.

Employment Bureau Places 200 Monthly

With seven more men placed on Tuesday afternoon and four this morning, the Peterborough Employment Bureau has located jobs for a total of 191 this month to date, it was disclosed by William Mellis, bureau superintendent.

While the industrial demand has been heaviest for skilled help, a high percentage of ordinary labor was placed, Mr. Mellis said. Twenty of the 191 were women.

"We have placed over 200 persons a month in jobs this year," Mr. Mellis said.

Cocoanut trees in Ceylon now cover more than 1,100,000 acres.

Salvage Drive Now Depends Upon Citizens

In connection with the beginning of the salvage drive in Peterborough tomorrow, householders are reminded that the hours of collection will be 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The collection on Thursday will include the whole of East City and all that portion of the rest of the city north of Charlotte street. On Friday collections will be made in the district south of Charlotte street. This schedule will be followed each week until the end of May.

Inspector James F. Reid reported today that trucks were available for tomorrow's collection. Salvage articles too heavy to be moved outside by the householder may be reported to Inspector Reid or to Mrs. Kearns, telephone 3024, or Mrs. A. Heckman, telephone 3748 and the salvage will be called for.

Clean Out Cellars

Housewives are asked not to be content to put out merely the waste for the week. Clear out your attic, cellar, summer kitchen. Get into those cupboards. Give all useful material which you do not require. To the men the request is to clear out the workshop and garage and to get rid of those worn out garden tools and also the old clothes you are never going to need.

There is also an appeal to farmers to gather up broken machinery and tools and bring that scrap into town to be turned into the salvage drive.

To everybody the committee points out that it is the cumulative result that counts in this campaign. Don't say "My little bit won't count." That's what Hitler would like you to say. The small parcels of stuff you collect in your home may seem of small account to you, but you must realize how your bit will be multiplied if the two million homes in Canada contribute a like amount. Your salvage material is actually wartime treasure and your effort is worthwhile. You would not throw away a bullet, a bomber part, or a soldiers blanket—those are just the things your waste material provides. Go to it.

GOGGLES AT NIGHT

LONDON—(CP).—Britain's night fighter pilots wear green goggles for some time before doing patrol to accustom their eyes to darkness. Some have become so keen they are receptive to illumination invisible to ordinary sight.

Girls' Groups Volunteer For Tagging To Aid British Firemen's Fund

Seventy-five girls will act as taggers for the British Fire Fighters' relief drive which is to be held under the auspices of the Peterborough Fire Brigade on Saturday, it was stated today by Chief George Gimblett, chairman, who announced arrangements for the campaign have been completed.

Members of the Girl Guides, Salvation Army and Trinity church youth groups and St. Peter's schools have volunteered for the tagging, Chief Gimblett said, explaining the local drive was a part of a national effort among Canadian firemen to help British comrades who have suffered from German bombing.

In addition to the taggers, contributions will also be received at the city fire hall. Besides Chief Gimblett, the committee in charge includes Verge Carr, vice-chairman; A. Mason, secretary; Deputy Chief George Smith, Capt. William Jones and Capt. Archie McDonald.

Says Yanks To Fight

NEW YORK, April 23 (CP)—Col. J. A. Baer, chief of staff of the Second United States Corps area, said in a safety convention speech yesterday that American soldiers will fight in this war. He added that he did not know where they would fight.

Yield Of Lambs Much Better

This years yield of lambs is better than average in Victoria county, according to the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

"Many men could be placed, both experienced and unexperienced. A considerable number of the farmers have given up trying to secure help," the Victoria report adds.

Summaries from other counties in the district are as follows:—

Durham—Between 30 and 40 head of pure bred Holstein cattle were sold to American buyers during the past week. Many of the higher fields have been sown during the week. There has been a keen demand for seed grain during the past ten days, especially for Nobarb barley and Erban, Cartier and Vanguard oats.

Hastings—The make of syrup was only ½ to 2-3 that of last year. The Belleville Holstein sale was held on April 17th; 17 females averaged $135, with a top of $230. 11 bulls averaged $70 with a top of $95. Fall wheat and new seedlings look very promising.

Northumberland—Some work has been done on the land and a small amount of seeding has been completed. Fall wheat appears promising and most of the new seeding is very satisfactory. Many roads have been badly heaved.

Ontario—Winter wheat and clovers appear to have come through the winter in excellent condition. Some grain has been sown on well drained soil. The condition of roads is worse than for many years.

Peterborough—Most of the cheese factories are going to open May 1st. This is about two weeks earlier than usual. New seeding this spring looks exceptionally well. Some spring work and seeding has been done. The roads are unusually bad.

Prince Edward—Six cars of livestock were shipped out last week. Work is general on the high land, some grain has been sown.

York—A little seeding has been done in the south end of the county. Fall wheat has come through exceptionally well. Most of the clover and alfalfa seems to have wintered fairly well. The maple syrup season was very disappointing.

Slum Areas In Cities Improving

A description of conditions in the slum areas of the larger cities that gave a keener insight into improvements now being made, was given by Miss Myrtle Sargent at the April meeting of the Living Link Mission Circle, held in the ladies' parlor of Trinity Church.

The president, Miss Kay Elliott, was in the chair, later turning the meeting over to Miss Helen Heffernan. The study book was taken by Miss Olga Middleton, and an interesting item on Christian Stewardship was given by Miss Dorothy Davern. A social hour was enjoyed after the meeting.

Mark Street Y.P.U. Has Parents' Night

A patriotic theme in three parts, with Mr. Lloyd Rowland outlining the "history of Canada"; Mr. Robt. Healy the "resources of Canada"; and Mr. Fred Parsons the "Government of Canada," was the highlight of a Parents' Night program of Mark Street Y.P.U. Hymns, and a piano solo by Miss Elva Throop, were chosen to fit in with the main theme, and a "Canada Quiz" was held, with ladies competing against the men, the ladies scoring 23 to 21.

Community singing opened the meeting. A report on the Young People's Convention held in St. James' Church on Friday, April 18, was presented by Miss Elva Throop. Mr. Leonard Bennewith was in the chair for the patriotic program, which opened with the hymn, "Land of our Birth." Mr. Robt. Clarke read the scripture lesson, and Rev. E. W. Rowland led in prayer. Two solos, "My Ain Wee House" and "The Friar of Order Grey" were given by Mr. John Fowler.

AN ORIENTAL NOTE

By ALICE ALDEN

WHETHER you want to be as simple as a field flower or as exotic as a Hindu princess, you'll find the right clothes for your mood this Spring. The collections are comprehensible, ranging as they do from soft tulle "first dance" evening dresses to exotic and bizarre creations. Jenkins does exotic things well, as is shown by the above. The skirt is in green and copper shot taffeta with an Oriental drape. The bodice is in fine emerald green wool jersey with a gold cord sash and tassels.

Good-will Is Vital To Salvage Campaign Success

A thriving business can be built up through the good-will of the people, but if the personnel is not adequate to handle the public demands, the business consequenty suffers. That is why good-will in the case of the salvage campaign which opens tomorrow (Thursday) under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Civic War Service Council, and sponsored by the Federal Government, is so vital. While the Auxiliary no doubt has the backing of all patriotic and clear-thinking citizens of the city and district, all the good will in the world will not load trucks, bale papers, ship them, or do the office work entailed in this strictly business enterprise of the Auxiliary—and this requires workers.

The success or failure of the venture rests upon the citizens of Peterborough, and not upon the women who arep lanning to give of their time and energy to carry it out.

A few suggestions, which if acted upon, should make life very much more pleasant for those engaged in the salvage project, might concern the question of broken glass thrown in with paper, which is dangerous to those handling the waste. Then there is the matter of orange peel and garbage which has been dropped in baskets of paper, adding an unpleasant angle to the collection work. Paper containers into which sweepings and other rubbish have been thrown should not be used for the storing of paper, as the value of the salvage is considerably lessened in this way, not to mention the nuisance caused by the accumulated dirt.

Housewives in particular are urged to remember that household waste is part of the country's war material and it must be salvaged to help win the war. Everything in the line of salvage is to be collected, with the exception of bones and bottles.

Collections are to be made in all sections north of Charlotte street, including the whole of East City on Thursday and in the districts south of Charlotte street on Friday, the same schedule to be followed on Thursday and Friday of each week until May 30.

Citizens must remember that it is the work of organizations like this which builds up the stalwart third line of defence, and is most worthy of their whole-hearted support.

C.W.L. Honors Miss Hurley, Retiring Head

Miss Lilian Hurley, president, was in the chair for the annual meeting of St. Peter's Subdivision of the Catholic Women's League on Tuesday evening, which was held in the Stone School, Rubidge and Hunter Streets, and opened with prayer.

The recording secretary, Miss Mary Clancy, gave a very comprehensive report of the activities of the subdivision during the past year. After the report of the corresponding secretary, Miss Teresa McNamara, the report of the 1st vice-president, Miss Nora Shevlin, was read, showing a membership of 313.

Miss Agnes Grant, the 2nd vice-president, read her report. The lectures during the year were given by Rev. Dr. Grant, Mr. William Fox, Miss Margaret McDonald, public health nurse; Miss Davis, dietician from the Departmet of Fisheries, and Rev. Father Greenan. An article on lay retreats was read by Miss Grant, which was most instructive.

The report of the 3rd vice-president, Mrs. F. J. Lynch, on extensive social service work done, was enlightening, work done in the city and bales of used clothing sent to the missions in the diocese. She also reported on war work done through the Rec. Cross.

The treasurer, Miss Theresa Hurley, reported receipts totalling $679.68, with disbursements of $662.37. Contributions had been made to the War Fund of the National Council, $313.00, National and Diocesan taxes, $77.60, Sisters of Service, National Scholarship and Scholarships to St. Peter's School and St. Mary's Convent. The British War Victims' Fund and drumhead service $10.00 each, and a blanket was sent overseas; $62.67 was spent on Christmas baskets.

Mrs. George Lynch told of the amount of knitting done for the Red Cross and the men on active service, and Mrs. J. Roach, social convener, reported on social activities.

Miss E. Dainnard spoke on church extension auxiliary and the coming drive for members.

There were four study groups during the year under the leadership of Mrs. J. F. O'Brien, Mrs. F. J. Overend, Mrs. T. J. Carroll and Mrs. E. Foley.

In recognition of two years of stimulating leadership as president of the Catholic Women's League, an address was read to Miss Hurley by Miss E. Dainnard, and the presentation made of a cameo brooch. Miss Hurley thanked the executive and members for their kindness and co-operation during her term of office.

Mrs. F. J. Hickey, chairman of the nominating committee, brought in the following names for the offices for 1941-42:

President, Mrs. F. J. Lynch; 1st Vice-President, Miss Agnes Grant; 2nd Vice-President, Miss Marita Collins; 3rd Vice-President, Mrs. J. Roach; Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. H. Spicer; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Mary Clancy; Treasurer, Miss Teresa McNamara.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

To Raise $50,000 For Churches Of Great Britain

A salute to Britain service will be held in St. Andrew's United Church next Sunday morning. The music and the service will have special reference to the Festival of St. George, and to the present struggle that Britain is waging on the continent of Europe and elsewhere. A special offering is to be taken for the "Aid to British Churches Fund."

The United Church of Canada is raising the sum of $50,000 to help the churches of Britain at this critical time. More than 600 churches and mission halls in Great Britain have been destroyed or damaged by enemy action. In London alone more than 100 churches are damaged, with 20 or 30 completely destroyed. Church members have been killed, wounded or evacuated. Congregations have been broken up. The Church in Scotland, through its huts and mobile canteens, is carrying on an urgent ministry to Britishers and Canadians in Britain and the Far East. The Methodist Church alone has 500 minister serving as chaplains. The Congregational Union of England and Wales has set up a war emergency fund and is rendering great service in the bombed areas.

These British churches need the immediate help of the people of the United Church of Canada. They need money for more huts and mobile canteens; more cups of tea on cold, wet nights; more mobile movies and recreation vans, and more of everything that makes for Christian service.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, April 24.

A rather active and eventful state of affairs may be presaged from the ruling astral influences. There is prospect of the spirits being pitched to high tempo with the energies and impulses generous, expansive, and probably prone to extravagances and long chances. With initiative and enterprise together with the emotions under control and turned in the direction of creative and productive chanels there might be promise of laying some very profitable and enduring foundations. Enthusiasm and optimism may lead to constructive achievements if wisely regulated, but beware false promises and safeguard the assets.

If It Is Your Birthday,

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of expansion and definite achievements, with initiative and enthusiasm under high stimuli for putting over ambitious projects. Both old and new interests should thrive, although an inclination toward extravagance, gambling, high pressure and personal indulgence might militate against the most constructive results. Regulation of the impulses and emotions might bring surer returns and more enduring profits.

A child born on this day should be resourceful, enterprising, enthusiastic, and impulsive, ambitious and audacious. It should be be a steady worker, however, and should render good account of its creative abilities, if the gaming instinct is subdued.

DO YOU KNOW . . .

Crushed rock salt swept over the carpet once a month brightens the colors and keeps the carpet absolutely moth proof.

Keep your neck well fed with nourishing cream and slap under the chin every night even if you're only thirty—to avoid double chin.

When re-enamelling the fireplace or bath, work with your tin of enamel in hot water. This is more satisfactory than thinning with turpentine. The enamel is much easier to apply, and there is an absence of streaks.

WE . . . NOTICED

. . . That strawberries are among the fruit motifs in prints. Cherries too are seen and in the floral patterns are quantities of roses.

. . . The soft, natural shoulder, the tiny waistline, the middy fashion, bright colors, the elaborate use of lace, of buttons and bows—these are among the season's style trends.

. . . That bags, belts and gloves in hand-painted, transparent plastic are being shown in smart New York shops.

FASHIONS

With softer, more feminine styles taking their rightful place in fashion this Spring, you'll want to include this dress in your wardrobe. Designed with the more mature figure in mind, this charming frock has soft detail in the bodice and sleeves. The heart shaped neckline and gored skirt make you look slimmer and younger because they are flattering to a larger figure. A flower print in soft colors that harmonize with your coat and new accessories is a wise choice for all season wear.

Style No. 2877 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Rawdon Couple 52 Years Wed

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23 — (ENS)—With no particular celebration, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore M. Reid quietly marked their fifty-second wedding anniversary at their Rawdon township home Tuesday. Though they received many messages of congratulation the couple, who have lived in Rawdon for more than 60 years, went about their usual tasks in the place they first made their home following their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Reid were married in the Hearst homestead by the late Rev. T. H. MacDonald of Rawdon.

Mr. Reid is now 74 and he was born in West Huntingdon and has farmed all of his life. Mr. Reid recalls his first car, a model T Ford which he purchased some 30 years ago and declares the model which he drives today has no more than enough snap to suit him.

Mrs. Reid, whose maiden name was Eleanor Hearst, is now 71 but would pass for a woman 15 years younger. She still takes an active interest in all community work and occasionally finds time to visit her four daughters, Mrs. Arthur Burkitt, Bonar Law; Mrs. Lewis Green, Marmora; Mrs. Harry Grills, Seymour East and Mrs. Hugh Collins, Peterborough. In addition to these, 17 grand children and four great grand children are living to add their best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Reid.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: The dance hall is a new thrill for Bee. She is so much in love with Anthony, and she knows he loves her. Sam and Toby seem to have settled their difficulties, too. En route home, on the subway, Bee sees a headline: HEIRESS BELIEVED KIDNAPED!

MASQUERADE MUST END

CHAPTES XXIV

KIDNAPED! The paper said that Beatrice Davenport had been kidnaped. It was incredible, fantastic, so ridiculous that Beatrice wanted to scream.

She wasn't kidnaped. How in the world had that story gotten started? Her head hummed.

She was supposed to be in South America. Of course, she'd never so much as booked her passage on a liner. But even if someone, somehow, had run across that damaging fact—did that make her kidnaped?

Then, like a blow, she remembered. Clarence was the one who thought of kidnapings!

Oh, the fool, the blundering idiot! This story must have come from him. She'd disappeared—he couldn't find her—Weeming said she'd gone to South America and Clarence, shocked because their marriage was only a week away, must have tried to find out where in South America . . .

The thoughts flitted through her head so swiftly that only now was the train stopping at the station. The doors opened. She looked at Toby, her head bent to take in more of that tabloid story. "Come on, Toby!" Sam pulled at her.

"Oh, quick, buy me a paper! The Duchess has been kidnaped. Hallelujah!"

Stiffly, Beatrice walked out of the train beside Anthony. Toby had seen that picture. Didn't she recognize it?

Now they were on the platform. Anthony was looking straight ahead, his jaw a hard line, a little bunch of muscles twitching at the corner of his mouth. Beatrice felt her insides growing cold—dissolving with a little horrid sensation that was like nausea. "Anthony—?"

He didn't answer.

OH, he had seen! He knew! But he still had said nothing, while the others chattered. Her mouth was dry. She wanted to ask him and couldn't.

On the stairs to the street she stumbled. Anthony caught her. His smile was tender.

No! He didn't know. He couldn't! Not and smile like that.

Dimly, as from a long way off, Toby's voice came to her. "They must be holding her for ransom. Boy! Wait until this news hits the store! The girls will be dancing in the aisles! They'll run up a flag on that roof where they were too tight to fix a sun deck for us worn-out, overworked slaves."

"Imagine it," Vera murmured. "You'd think, with all her millions, she'd have sense enough to have a bodyguard."

"The paper didn't say positively she'd been kidnaped," Sam pointed out. "It said 'believed' kidnaped."

"I hate that dame!" That was Toby's voice. "Ever since that $50,000 debut I've hated her. We slave in the store, while she runs around spending millions. But she's not having any wonderful time now, I hope. I hope they're keeping her in a cave. A nice damp cave some place where she can find out what it feels like to do without—"

"Toby! Stop gloating! It's ghastly!" That was Vera, tolerant as always, and a little amused.

They were on the sidewalk. The corner candy store was closed. "No boys with extras. It's a disgrace! I want a paper right now."

BEATRICE walked beside Anthony, the blood hammering at her temples, her knees weak. Couldn't they see on her face what this meant to her? If only they'd look at her, get it over with!

"I think it's barbarous," Sam McArdle said. "Kidnaping a girl! Men who would do that should be executed. Why, it's—it's—"

"All right, kidnaping is terrible," Toby admitted. "But, Sam, this is the Duchess. You work for her as well as we do. Doesn't she deserve it?"

"She's the kind who'll fall in love with one of the gangsters," Terry said. "Wouldn't that be a laugh? Anything for a thrill, with those girls!"

"I hope she gets a good, hard jolt. I hope every one of the gangsters holding her looks like a guerrilla, I hope—"

Beatrice found her voice. "Toby why do you hate her so?" To her own ears, she sounded shrill and brittle. But she couldn't stop. "What has she ever done to you, besides having been born the granddaughter of Michael Huntington?"

"What has she ever done for me?" retorted Toby. "A girl who has the power of life or death over so many thousand employes might take an interest once in a while! Just because she is a girl, she ought to make things easier for all the girls who work for her. The millions of little petty cheapnesses that Huntington's gets away with! Like not giving Getz a pension.

"Why, if I owned Huntington's I'd make it a model store. If I got millions out of it, the way she does, I'd be generous enough to share some of it with the poor, unlucky dopes who have to work there.

"Do you know, some firms divide part of the profits at Christmas. Everybody gets a bonus, according to how long they've been there. What do we get at Huntington's? A lot of extra work!"

They had reached their apartment house. Sam McArdle said, soothingly, "No place to get a paper, Toby. Forget it. They'll probably find her visiting a friend somewhere. I suppose her guardian got excited when he learned she wasn't home . . ."

Anthony looked startled. "That's right. Her guardian. You handle a lot of stuff about her in the comptroller's office, don't you?"

It struck Beatrice then that Anthony hadn't said much up to now. What did he look so startled about?

SHE fought for self-control. She must act perfectly natural. Without a paper, tonight was a reprieve. In the morning, when they looked at that picture in the tabloid more closely—and the other pictures later editions would surely contain—

At the door, the men said good night. Anthony drew her a little away from the others and pulled her into his arms. With his arms around her, Beatrice faced the bleak knowledge that tomorrow it would be over. Tomorrow he might hate her.

She wanted to push at him, to say, "Listen, Anthony. Beatrice Davenport hasn't been kidnaped. I'm Beatrice Davenport."

But she wanted to put off telling him, too. "I love him so much. It will hurt him so terribly . . ."

"Darling," said Anthony. "You're shaking."

"What's a girl supposed to do in your arms, Anthony?" she forced herself to say, lightly. She freed herself, smiled at him.

"Good night." She added, with a catch in her throat, "Good night, darling."

Plainville Group Honors Miss Gordon

PLAINVILLE, April 23—(ENS)—Miss Lena Gordon, who left this community a few months ago to take a position in Hamilton, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon, who have in the meantime moved to Coldsprings.

Miss Gordon was a visitor at the Plainville Sunday School on Sunday, where she was presented with a hymnary from her friends here. Miss Ruth Lander read an address and Miss Grace Dines made the presentation. Miss Gordon made a very gracious reply. She has spent all her life here, and her services in the choir are greatly missed as she is a very talented soloist, and was always willing to help in any way.

Mr. and Mrs. Knox of Toronto were Sunday visitors of the latter's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. McKinlay.

Mrs. M. F. Ames, Mrs. W. Herriott, Mrs. John Linton and Mrs. Frank Westington attended the Cobourg Presbytery convention held in Port Hope on Thursday, as delegates from Plainville.

Troops In Greece Stir Flurry In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, April 23 — (CP Cable)—Political observers expressed the opinion yesterday that the grave position of the Australian Imperial force in Greece may lead to a federal political crisis within a fortnight.

Some back bench Labor members of the House of Representatives are itching to defeat the Menzies government as a result of the admission of Arthur Fadden, acting prime minister, that the war cabinet did not consult the advisory council, on which Labor is represented, before consenting to dispatch of the A.I.F. to Greece.

The prime minister, R. G. Menzies is in London for consultations with the United Kingdom government. Excluding the Speaker, the government has a majority of only one in the House.

John Curtin, the Federal Labor leader, is maintaining silence. Mr. Fadden has agreed to summon the federal parliament as early as possible, probably for the week after next, to give the fullest publishable information on the war situation.

Government circles express the opinion that the cabinet has a strong case in defence of its action.

Want National Regime

Mr. Fadden offered to do his utmost to make possible a national all-party administration and said he would spare no effort in that connection if Prime Minister Menzies authorized him to negotiate to that end.

Significantly, a leading opposition member Evatt, admits that in view of the gravity of the situation Labor must reconsider its earlier opposition to joining an all-party government. It is believed that the more responsible leaders of the Labor party agree with that view.

The press throughout Australia and an overwhelming majority of members of the government parties have never ceased since last year's indecisive election to advocate a National Government.

The government's action in sending troops to Greece without consulting the advisory war council has been consistently attacked.

Expect 100 Girls

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., April 22 — (CP)—More than 100 teen-aged girls are expected to register today for the three-day "girls conference" here under the direction of Miss Lucille Bridges, director of home economics at the Kemptville Agricultural School, and Miss Florence P. Eadie, of the Women's Institute branch of the department of Agriculture, Toronto.

The conference proper gets underway tomorrow with the underlying theme of the part rural girls can play to further Canada's war effort. Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Agricultural Minister, will address a luncheon meeting Friday. Miss Gladys Arnold, of The Canadian Press staff, Ottawa, will speak Thursday on "The Girl's International viewpoint."

Harwood Man Dies

New Blows To Greeks

Washington, April 23 (AP)

AMERICAN Red Cross officials said last night a Greek freighter carrying $120,000 of medical and relief supplies to the Balkans had been lost.

The freighter Grigorios disappeared in the South Atlantic about three weeks ago, they said.

Another Greek ship which also sailed from a United States port, the freighter Kansandra Louloudis, carrying $1,170,000 of supplies, has not been heard from for several weeks, but when she last reported said that matters were going "Nicely," the officials added.

U.S. Observer Killed

Washington, April 23 (AP)

COL. GERALD BROWER, a United States military air observer, has been killed in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, the war department said today, "in an airplane accident."

Col. Brower, attached as an observer to the Royal Air Force in the Middle East. A cablegram received today from the legation in Cairo said Col. Brower was killed Sunday at El Obeid, 250 miles southwest of Khartoum.

Although Col. Brower was the first United States observer killed while attached to foreign fighting forces, Cap. Robert M. Losey, assistant military air attache in the Scandinavian countries, was killed in Norway on April 21, 1940, during a German air attack.

Pin Fabric To Sofa For Fit

Good-by, old-furniture blues! Make a slip cover like this for your worn sofa — using a colorful flower-splashed chintz — and the whole room has a bright, new look!

Making a cover is easy the pin-on way. No pattern needed! Simply lay fabric on sofa and cut to fit.

Here's how. Remove the cushions; then place a length of fabric over a section of the inside-back and seat and tuck in 4 inches between. If your fabric has a definite pattern, centre it as in our pictured cover. Pin down along top and sides and next cut around the pins, leaving 1½ inches for seams.

Repeat for the other two sections and, in the same way, fit fabric to the arm sections, back and cushions. Next pin piece to piece, remove pinned-up cover and baste. One fitting to see how it looks—and you sew it up, smartly finishing seams with binding or welting.

Then last, but not least, you add the charming ruffled flounce! Gather a length of fabric about twice the distance around sofa.

Our 32-page booklet tells in detail with step-by-step diagrams how to cover chairs sofas and auto seats the pin-on way. Describes making of French, welted and bound seams. Box pleats, swag flounces; suggests fabrics, colors.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO MAKE SLIP COVERS to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

REVERSE OF A REDOUBLE

PROPER use of a redouble over the opponent's informatory or takeout double is to show general high card strength and indicate to your partner the probability that your side may punish a bid by the other side. Misuse of it, to indicate a fine fit with your partner's suit and the likelihood of his being able to make his contract easily is seldom profitable. With such a holding, it is usually better to jump his bid, even to a level higher than he is likely to be able to play successfully, in order to erect a barrier against stronger opponents' bidding.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	Dbl
Rdbl	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥
4 ♦	4 ♥

South in this case had a complete misunderstanding of the purpose of a redouble in such a situation. His using it enabled West to get into the bidding cheaply, with the result that the opponents reached their game contract in hearts. They made it easily, following a lead of the diamond A and a switch to clubs, the declarer losing only one trick in each of those suits, plus one in spades, a club being discarded on a spade.

South's correct action over East's double was a bid of either 3-Diamonds or 4-Diamonds, the latter being what many experts would have used, to make sure they shut out the opposition. If that had been done, West would have found it very foolhardy to overcall and should have doubled. The contract could have been set a couple of tricks, with the defenders taking two in hearts, two in spades and one in clubs. That would have given East and West a score of only 300 points, instead of a game worth 620 if we rate a vulnerable game as worth 500, as in duplicate.

School Bombed

BOSTON, April 23—(AP).—An explosion attributed by police to a home-made bomb damaged the Dorchester-Mattapan ebrew school and startled hundreds of nearby residents from their sleep early today. Nobody was killed in the blast, which occurred an hour after 300 members of the Roxbury Mutual Aid Society left the building.

Honduras opened several new roads in the last year.

Mobile Medicine Necessity In Modern War

OTTAWA, April 23 (AP)—Mobile medicine is necessary in mobile warfare and men of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps have to adjust their activities to the new tactics developed by armies on wheels.

At the Army Medical training centre at Lansdowne Park here, officers and men in training for overseas service spend a good part of their time studying tactics with a view to knowing how to be on the job to care for the wounded when casualties occur.

The center trains all reinforcements for medical units overseas, Doctors who are commissioned officers, non-commissioned officers and men who must be experts in first aid.

The course for non-commissioned officers and men lasts 12 weeks and the course for officers six weeks.

Officers are physicians before they receive commissions and their training is directed toward giving them a knowledge of military organization and the special problems of the army. The doctors learn to drill, study military law, organization and administration and above all tactics and map-reading. They must be able to interpret a plan of operations so that when the troops they are assigned to are moved the medical personnel can be placed where it can be of greatest service.

The centre, under the command of Lt.-Col. H. Buck of St. Thomas, Ont., has a strength of more than 300. Of these about 100 are instructors and administrative officers.

Attached to it are vehicles and drivers from the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. The drivers receive instruction in the training centre in some of the general subjects taught to Medical Corps personnel.

The Lion Roars

One of the coastal defence guns on the east coast of England is shown at full recoil as it blasts off a live shell during firing practice. The gun, a 9.2 Howitzer, tosses a shell weighing 350 pounds. Britain has a girdle of these around her coast to augment the big 14 and 16-inch long range rifles of the main batteries.

Canada-United States Deal Boon For The United Kingdom

LONDON, April 23 — (CP Cable). —The Daily Telegraph in an editorial today said aid for Britain will be speeded up and its volume multiplied as a result of the plan to mobilize North American resources devised by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

"Its scope is great and the material gain in armaments and shipping will be immense, but no less important is the political and moral effect of complete co-operation of the Dominion and the United States',' the paper said.

"By deed and word it is declared that the United States will co-operate in every department of armament production with Canada for the defence of Britain and it needs equally co-operation from Canada for American defence security. The great Republic and the British Commonwealth of Nations are proclaimed inter-dependent."

The Times said the plan should ease strain upon the exchange between the Canadian and the United States dollar, and added, "It establishes a new link between the British Empire and the United States over the Canadian bridge, the value of which is becoming ever more apparent."

"Canada's Growing War Effort" was the subject of a front page story in The Financial News. All phases of the Dominion's war activity were reviewed in a two-column article.

NEW YORK, April 22 — (CP). — A "new order" in international co-operation is taking form in the Western Hemisphere, the New York Herald Tribune said to-day in commenting editorially upon Sunday's announcement that Prime Minister King of Canada and President Roosevelt have agreed to merge their countries' efforts in the battle of production.

"The arrangement seems so sensible and simple that one is likely to miss its significance," said the Herald Tribune.

"But think back only a year or so to the stiff stratification of nationalities which was the order over here as well as abroad....Now we join with Canada for the co-ordination of our war economy with hers. The Hemisphere draws together....

"It seems to us a wholly logical evolution of the President's foreign policy and as brilliant as it is acceptable. May we compliment both him and Prime Minister Mackenzie King on its accomplishment?".

The Times saw the most immediate effect of the understanding as relieving the severe strain upon Canada's dollar resources but, taking a longer view, said it constitutes a move toward co-ordination of American defence and aid to Britain "along continental lines."

The Sun yesterday saw the announcement as an arrangement "for the immediate defence of the Dominion and for future defence of the United States and added:

"South of the border it may be regarded as a pooling of assets for defence; north of the border it is more likely to be regarded as pooling of assets for conduct of the war. In any case, the international emenities are outwardly preserved while the common purposes of the two nations are advanced.

"The world will not, of course, overlook the fact that this striking proof of American interest in Canada's welfare comes at a moment when a little encouragement is needed by the British Commonwealth of Nations."

Obituary

JOHN GANNON.

ENNISMORE, April 23 (ENS)—The funeral of the late John Cannon was held on Wednesday morning, the cortege leaving his late residence at 9 o'clock and proceeding to St. Martin's Church where the funeral mass was celebrated by the Rev. V. J. Gillogly, who also officiated at the graveside prayers in St. Martin's Cemetery, where interment took place.

Pall-bearers, all close neighbors, were Vincent Murphy, John Davis, William D. Cavanagh, Eugene Murphy, Jr., James Holland, and John E. O'Donoghue.

The late Mr. Gannon, who passed away at the advanced age of 90 years, was a member of a pioneer family of Ennismore, the son of the late John Gannon and Mary Shields both of whom were born in Ireland. He was born in that venerable old home at Gannon's Narrows, a landmark in the history of Ennismore, having been in the earlier days the site of a trading post with the Indians. Having spent his entire life in this community the late Mr. Gannon could recall many incidents relative to the advancement and growth of Ennismore.

He was a member of a long-lived family, his mother having died in her 104th year. The only surviving member of the family is a sister Annie, who is in her 93rd year and who resides at the original home at the Narrows with her nephew, Stephen Gannon.

A member of St. Martin's Church the late Mr. Gannon was possessed of the true Irish faith which was impressed upon the family by their parents. Living at perhaps the greatest distance from the church of any of its parishioners they drove with their children to mass Sunday after Sunday, using a team and carriage.

On last February 19 Mr. and Mrs. Gannon quietly celebrated the 57th anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Gannon, who was formerly Maria Perdue, survives her husband along with five sons, Stephen, Thomas, Edward and Norman of Ennismore and Michael of Peterborough, also four daughters, Sister Mary of the Rosary of the Sisters of St. Joseph, Campbell's Bay, Quebec, Mrs Thompson of New Jersey, Mrs Noonan of Ottawa, Mrs. Alvin Franks of Emily. Two daughters, Catherine and Irene, predeceased their father.

The many spiritual offerings and messages of sympathy which were received b the bereaved family, bore testimony of the respect and esteem which the late Mr. Gannon commanded.

U.S. Fires Sweep 100,000 Acres

NEW YORK, April 23 — (CP). — More than 100,000 acres of woodlands in 13 states were blackened wastes today and fires still burned through parched forests.

The Massachusetts executive council closed the state's forests after some 30 major blazes destroyed much timberland and consumed 450 seaside homes at Marshfield.

Parts of New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut were also ravaged.

Scattered sections of South and Central New Jersey were licked by swiftly-moving fires that burned 42,500 acres in that state and caused property damage of more than $1,000,000.

Pillars of fire threatened the United States naval air station at Lakehurst and the borough of that name, but were repulsed.

Nearly 100 blazes were reported in New York and Pennsylvania.

To the south, 12,000 acres of Maryland still smoldered, and small new blazes sprang up throughout the state.

A third of West Virginia's more than 150 conflagrations were being fought by 3,000 men, and State Forester Dan B. Griffin predicted the worst was yet to come.

Atlantic county in New Jersey fought its worst forest fire in 15 years. After a 12-hour battle, wardens reported late last night the blaze was under control along a seven-mile front, and that the only danger was near Belconville, where flames so reddened the night skies they were visible in Atlantic City, 20 miles away.

Guard Against Sluggish System

These times make bigger demands on workers. Many find the going hard ... tire easily. Often the cause is just internal sluggishness, so common because modern diets are apt to lack proper bulk.

Help Keep the System Normal This Natural, Pleasant Way

Constipation due to lack of bulk should yield to Post's Bran Flakes eaten regularly. They provide enough natural bulk in the form of bran to keep food wastes moving promptly.

So to help prevent sluggishness, eat Post's Bran Flakes every day. There's a real treat for you in their appetizingly different, nut-like flavour. It's simply delicious. If the trouble still persists, it's time to see a physician.

Berlin Demands Dardanelles Asks Immediate Reply Foreign Diplomats Report

Moscow Proposing Joint Control Of Straits Meets Rejection From Germany Menacing Attitude To Russia Brews

LONDON, April 24—(CP).—The Daily Herald quoted foreign diplomatic circles today as saying Germany has demanded from Turkey complete military control of the Bosporus and Dardanelles in exchange for a portion of Grecian Thrace.

The paper said Turkey was reported being pressed for an immediate reply, adding:

"According to the London report, the Soviet Government was informed of the German demand and it proposed to Berlin that Germany and Russia should share control of the Straits.

"This proposal was at once rejected by the Germans. If this report, of which no confirmation can as yet be obtained, is true, it would account for the hurried German landings on the Greek islands of Samothrake and Lemnos off the mouth of the Dardanelles. It also would account for the rather menacing attitude of the Nazis toward the Soviet Union at the moment."

Plots in Narvik

STOCKHOLM, April 24—German authorities at the Norwegian port of Narvick have arrested a number of persons after discovery of a plot to blow up the Nazi munitions depot there, press reports from Oslo said last night.

The German occupation authorities recently have been arresting suspected Norwegian saboteurs throughout Norway, accusing them of disrupting communications lines and other facilities, and have levied collective reprisal fines against several cities.

Thefts of weapons from German arsenals at Narvik also were reported and inhabitants of the city have been forbidden to leave their homes between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. Emergency regulations have been put into effect by the Germans in other Northern Norwegian districts.

Seaway Finding Congress Enemies Tough

WASHINGTON, April 24—(CP).—The St. Lawrence Waterways Agreement with Canada is meeting more Congressional opposition than President Roosevelt and his administration expected when they signed it in Ottawa, March 19.

In fact, it is having such a tough time that many observers here give it no better than a 50-50 chance of being ratified by Congress and some put the odds on rejection.

So far, President Roosevelt has not sent the agreement to Congress or taken any step towar dratification, but there has been plenty of action behind the scenes. Those who believe the agreement will pass Congress suggest that one of the biggest factors in the fight will be the personal influence of the President and his long-held determination to develop the power and navigation facilities of the St. Lawrence River.

At present there is a move in Congressional circles to link the St. Lawrence scheme to two other projects, the Florida Ship Canal and the Tombigbee-Tennessee Waterway, and perhaps a Columbia River power and navigation plan.

An Expensive Hookup

If these projects were linked with the St. Lawrence agreement, Congress might be asked to ratify an omnibus development scheme involving perhaps $1,000,000,000. This might run the cost so high, especially in view of the $39,000,000,000 appropriated for defence and to be

LONDON, April 24—(CP). — The United States Embassy announced today that a large shipment of supplies from the United States, including two trucks for military attaches, had been lost through war action in the Atlantic.

Canada's Plane Orders In '41 Run 100 Million

TORONTO, April 24 — (CP). — Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, said in an interview on his arrival here today that Canada's total airplane orders for 1941 will be in the neighborhood of $100,000,000. "New plants are opening up and production is increasing steadily," he said. "We're doing all right now."

The plane program includes orders for at least $50,000,000 to Canadian plants within the next few weeks, he said. Long-range bombers would cost about $30,000,000.

"We have managed to iron out a lot of transportation difficulties, and within the next few months our plants will be turning out immense quantities of war supplies," he said.

"Even now they are turning out thousands of tons of supplies and the pace is increasing steadily."

Mr. Howe came here to address a luncheon meeting of the Empire Club. He stated: "There has been a lot of work, a lot of detail involved in getting our machinery rolling, but we are beginning to see results now, and a few more months will show just what has been and is being done."

War Debate Stalled By Churchill

Asks Commons Wait Until Greek Situation Clears

LONDON, April 24 — (CP. — For the second time in three days Prime Minister Churchill asked Parliament to-day to postpone a debate on the war, but hinted he might make a broadcast on the Greek campaign in the meantime.

The Prime iMnister volunteered the remark that he was aware the House expected a debate on the war and said it would be held "at the earliest moment compatible with the public interest and at the earliest moment which enables the Government to give a full and reasonable account of what has taken place."

He warned that a "serious responsibility rests on the Government in taking any course or making any statement which might prejudice the success of the British, Australian, New Zealand and Greek soldiers who at this time are in close contact with the enemy."

He gave the broadcast hint in replying to a member who cited the broadcast to Australia two days ago by Prime Minister R. G. Menzies of Australia.

Mr. Churchill said: "I have been thinking whether I might not make some statement of a general character, but I have been very anxious to make sure whether, if I did so, I should not be treating the House with any disrespect when I suggested a debate on the matter should be postponed until a later occa-

See Turkey Next Reds To Aid Them

WINDSOR, Ont., April 24 (CP)—A picture of "a very oily nature" this is how Lord Marley, deputy speaker of the British House of Lords, described the European war scent in an interview here today.

Lord Marley briefly reviewed the latest moves in the war and said, "If Greece is conquered, Turkey will be next, and Russia's position won't be very comfortable."

The need of oil, he said, would force Germany's hand with regard to Turkey. "Turkey is the line of approaches to the Iran and Iraq oil fields," he said. "And Russia? Her oil fields in the regions of the Black Sea and the Caspian Sea will be menaced likewise."

We know Germany needs oil from reports made by American aeroplane designers who have studied captured German planes sent to America, he added.

Switching to the Russo-Japanese pact he said that "the Dutch East Indies represents to Japan what Russia and Turkey represent to Germany.

He predicted Russian help for Turkey should Germany move against that country. "Perhaps not active military help, but on a plane with that being given England by the United States."

Hard On Hoboes

HERON BAY, Ont., April 24—(CP).—Life is complicated for the hoboes who ride the rods in this area these days, for the district is being scoured for six missing German prisoners of war. All freight trains are searched and when a policeman appears alongside an unsealed car, if there is anyone inside he comes out with his registration card in hand, if possible. Men have been climbing from trains at every stop, anxious to report to soldiers who have been stationed along the tracks.

Night Air Crash Kills 2, Third Crawls For Aid

MOUNT FOREST, Ont., April 24 (CP)—Two English airmen were killed and two others seriously injured when their training plane from the Port Albert Air School early today collided in heavy clouds with a clump of trees on a hill near this town, north of Guelph.

Those killed were Pilot Officers Hughes and Ransom (initials unavailable), of London. The injured were AC. William Goodman, with severe cuts and shock, and AC. Clifford Clark, who received a fractured leg.

All four had come to Canada from England several months ago under the Commonwealth Air Training plan.

Alex Graham, whose farm is near the scene of the crash, was aroused by Goodman, the only member of the plane crew who was able to go for assistance after the crash.

"Goodman told me they were flying in clouds of fog," said the farmer, "and when they tried to come out of it they hit a clump of trees on a hill. The plane is smashed into shavings.

"We thought we heard the noise of a crash about half past one this morning, then shortly after five o'clock one of the men came to our place for help.

Tried to Save Pals

"He said they had crashed shortly after one o'clock while doing night manoeuvres." Apparently neither of the two dead were instantly killed, for Goodman told the farmer they had tried to work on the two most seriously hurt for some time. Later he became unconscious and when he recovered he found two of his companions dead and the other with a broken leg.

Goodman crawled to the farmer's place partly on his hands and knees, covering a quarter-mile in the darkness, before locating the farmhouse.

One of the survivors said the night flying operations had been called off yesterday afternoon but as the weather cleared the orders came through for regular night operations.

The plane that crashed left the Port Albert Training Centre near London after midnight. Apparently the fliers ran into a low ceiling and were flying low to avoid dense clouds. The machine crashed without any warning about 1.30 a.m. EDT into a steep and wooded hill. The rising ground is part of the Niagara Escarpment which in parts rises to 1,625 feet.

LONDON, April 24 — (CP). — The 26,000-ton German battleship Scharnhorst is believed to have been put out of commission for some months and her mate, the Gnisenau, also has been damaged in recent British raids on Brest, the Press Association said to-day.

"There is reason to believe that during intensive Royal Air Force raids on Brest, both the Scharnhorst, which is in drydock, and the Gnisenau were hit by bombs," the news agency said.

"Damage to the bow of the Scharnhorst is believed to have been such as to put her out of commission for some months. The Gnisenau is understood to have been hit amidships in an earlier raid.

"Such damage would thus account for the continued presence of both vessels at Brest and no doubt those directing the bombing attacks against them have been kept informed of their condition as a result of daring aerial reconnaissance and photography."

The Air Ministry announced R.A.F. bombers scored direct hits in a daylight raid yesterday on an important power station at Ibbenburen in north-west Germany.

"A violent explosion was started in the main building of the plant," the ministry reported.

Some Broken Glass

Ibbenburen is a Prussian city in Westphalia, 14 miles west of Osnabruck. It long has been known as an industrial centre turning out leather, glass and other products.

Bombing Ruins

Plymouth, April 24 (CP)

FOR the third consecutive night the German air force concentrated its attack on this English seaport last night and early today and loosed hundreds of fire and high explosive bombs on already badly-damaged buildings and dwellings.

The raid, during which two Nazi bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft fire, caused at least 12 deaths. Eight bodies were taken from a garden shelter which was hurled intact to the roof of a house. Four others were killed in a surface shelter.

(Nazi spokesmen in Berlin said Portsmouth also was attacked.)

Air raid workers said the attack was "a flat failure." They added that most of the bombs fell on ruins of previously bombed buildings.

6,000 Rome Casualties In Final Push On Greeks Athens Denies Any Fascists Reached Greek Soil Before Army Bowed

BERLIN, April 24—(AP).—The German High Command claimed today only that its forces had "succeeded in breaking into Thermopylae positions" in the thrust toward Athens 100 miles south of the Storied Pass where Leonidas and his Spar-

British rearguard units held the pass, the high command said, calling the terrain there "especially favorable" — presumably for the defence.

Unrepeated was the claim to a break-through there such as was reported yesterday by Berlin sources.

(Nazi spokesmen yesterday said British forces holding the pass had been annihilated and German armored units were moving toward Athens).

Thirty British tanks were destroyed between Larls and Lamia before the pass was approached, the high command communique claimed.

Dessie Line Is Sprung.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 24—(AP). — British Middle East Headquarters said to-day that British troops in Greece "yesterday were in contact with the enemy, but no important engagements took place."

(German sources had reported British rearguards were defeated in fierce fighting at Thermopylae Pass.)

The communique said vigorous patrol activity continued in North Africa around Tobruk, Libyan port 80 miles west of the Egyptian border and at Salum, just over the frontier in Egypt where the Axis drive toward Suez has been stalled for two weeks.

In East Africa, the High Command asserted that, despite Fascist demolition of communications, Imperial troops have forced the forward Italian defences of Dessie, 175 miles north-east of Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital.

6,000 in Final Push

ROME, April 24—(AP). — The Italian High Command said to-day that Fascist forces lost 6,000 dead and wounded, including 400 officers, in the final offensive against the Greeks on the Albanian front.

Stefani, Italian propaganda and news agency, estimated that 300,000 Italians and 400,000 Greeks fought along a 150-mile front in the 10-day "Battle of Epirus" which began Easter Sunday. The agency claimed that before the Greek left wing capitulated Italian troops had penetrated much as 50 miles into Greece.

(The Greek High Command said the Italians had not set foot on Greek soil up to the time of the capitulation which they attributed to collapse of the Yugoslav army and subsequent exposure of their northern flank to the Germans.)

AN unidentified woman and a traffic patrolman were shot, a robber killed himself in a series of quick-breaking events following a holdup today at the New York Athletic Club at 59th Street and 7th Avenue.

Three bandits had quietly staged a holdup in an upper floor of the club and were attempting a getaway when the shooting started. The woman first was shot, and then the robbers jumped into a stolen car. On East 53rd Street they collided with a limousine.

Two of the bandits fled on foot and engaged in a running gun battle in which Patrolman George Shuck was shot. The third bandit, apparently caught in the wreckage of the accident, shot himself.

1st Detroit Tank Delivered

900 Men Busy In Plant That Will Turn Out 14 Monsters Daily

DETROIT, April 24—(AP). — A formidable-appearing mobile land fortress, first of a steady stream of such units soon to be rolling out of the Chrysler Tank Arsenal near here, was delivered today to the United States army.

Presented by the Chrysler Dealers' National Defence Committee, the newest weapon of the United States fighting forces, classified by the army as the M-3 Tank, was accepted by Major General Charles M. Wesson, Chief of Ordnance for the army.

The tank's armament and its striking power were demonstrated in a series of manoeuvres at the arsenal proving grounds before a group of army officers, state and federal officials and newsmen.

The tank, weighing 28 tons and driven by a 400-horsepower aviation engine, can travel at more than 25 miles an hour and has a cruising range of 100 miles without refueling. Its armament includes a full-sized 75-millimeter field artillery canon, a 37-millimeter cannon for anti-tank and anti-aircraft use, and a number of machine guns both in fixed positions and in a motor-driven revolving turret.

The new Tank Arsenal, built at a cost of $20,000,000 is expected to be ready for mass production of the new fighting units late this summer. At present about 900 men are engaged in implementing preparations for turning out 14 of the new weapons each day with three shifts of workers. Approximately 10,000 men are expected to be employed in the arsenal before the end of the summer.

Other vessels of the class are the Duke of York, the Jellicoe and the Beatty. The cost of each is approximately $28,000,000.

Extra Billion In War Plants

Double U.S. Factories—Equip 2 Million Army—More Bombers

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP). —A vast new program of defence plant construction and expansion to cost approximately $1,500,000,000 has been drafted by the United States War Department, it was learned to-day, and is expected to reach the stage of contract negotiations in two weeks.

Almost doubling the $1,750,000,000 of defence plant construction already under contract, the new program is designed to:

1. Increase defence producton capacity to the point where it will supply full combat equipment for an army of 2,000,000 men, plus so-called "critical" or basic items for a force twice that size. Previous plans were based on furnishing full equipment for 1,400,000 men, plus "critical" items for 2,000,000.

2. Substantially boost the capacity for turning out munitions needed by Britain, particularly long-range bombers. Experts say Britain must have such planes in great numbers if she is eventually to start widespread offensive warfare against Germany.

The new program was understood to be awaiting approval by the office of Production Management and, after that, by the President.

In authoritative quarters it was reported to call for construction of upwards of 30 ordnance factories; expansion of at least three existing bombers engine plans and dozens of other type of defence factories, construction of two new bomber fuselage frame factories, and the acquisition of two new bomber engine "capacities." The latter term would cover either new plants or the conversion to engine manufacture of plants which now produce some other type of equipment.

The program would be financed partially by funds recently allocated by President Roosevelt from the $7,000,000,000 Lease-Lend appropriation and partially by construction and expansion funds given to the

LONDON, April 24 (CP)—An Admiralty communique said today that a fresh report of the Monday naval shelling of the Libyan port of Tripoli, the Axis major North African base, "indicated the bombardment was even more successful than was at first thought."

Seven ships, including a destroyer, were hit and three of these were sunk, the Admiralty account said, in this assault which naval officers have described as the heaviest of its sort in naval history.

"Three transports lying in the naval basin were hit and set seriously on fire," the communique added. "One of these was actually seen to sink.

Athens Heads Stick To City As Army Battles Grimly North Of Thermopylae Area

Greek High Command Issues Few Reports As To State Of Allied War Front And Capital Carries On Normal Duties

ATHENS, April 24—(AP).—Waves of German dive bombers are concentrating a fierce assault on Greece's major ports and hammering relentlessly at Greek-British troops fighting an uneven battle against Nazi mechanized units thundering on Athens from the north.

Though meagre reports from the battlefront were ominous, there was no indication of a mass exodus from this capital, already abandoned by the Government for the Island of Crete.

Clouds of smoke rolled across the city yesterday as the Germans pounded the nearby port of Piraeus with high explosives and sirens sounded alarm after alarm. No bombs fell in Athens itself.

(The British have announced that should Axis warplanes bomb Athens and the ancient ruins on the Acropolis they would attack Rome and make the Italian capital a target until the end of the war).

In London an authoritative source said today that British forces in Greece are still holding defensive positions in the Thermopylae area.

He said that reports the British flank had been turned were without basis and asserted it was "very doubtful" the Germans had taken the Island of Lemnos.

In commenting on the Greek surrender on the northwest front, he made a point of the fact that the Greek High Command announced the Epirus army surrendered to the Germans—without mentioning the Italians.

Athens Carries On

For the most part Athenians ignored the repeated air alarms and the local government, still in residence, continued to carry out its normal functions.

How long the Greek forces, depleted by surrender of the army of Epirus, could hold the Axis forces away from Athens with the aid of their British allies was doubtful, and the Greek High Command said nothing to relieve the uncertainty of the civilian population.

The Athens daily war bulletin was devoted entirely to a resume of events leading up to the capitulation of Greek forces on the Epirus front.

The chain of events, the High Command said, was started by the "unexpected dislocation of the Yugoslav front" which exposed the flank of Greek forces in Albania and necessitated a "vast and hasty withdrawal."

This withdrawal, it was said, was impeded by the swift advance of German armored units from Bitolj.

spent over a period of years, that, as one Congressman expressed it "The whole thing would be beaten."

Most of the opposition to the St. Lawrence Development comes from power interests in the East, who fear competition; railroads, who fear a loss in freight tonnage; the North Atlantic ports, who fear a loss of business to lake ports, not only in shipping but in ship-building and the Mississippi Valley States who have had a dream for years of an inland waterway from Chicago to New Orleans through the diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

Meanwhile, those favoring the agreement have not been asleep and are confident it will pass through Congress. They place major emphasis on both the power and navigation aspects of the scheme in bolstering Western Hemisphere defences although the economic benefits also are stressed.

"A fourth ship in the naval basin appears to have been laden with ammunition, for when it was hit by a 15-inch shell the ship exploded.

"One supply ship moored off Spanish Quay was hit by 15-inch shells and sank almost immediately.

"One supply ship lying outside the harbor off Karamanti Mole was hit and set on fire and a destroyer at Karamanti Mole was heavily hit.

"Clouds of smoke were seen to be coming from at least three other ships in the harbor but it was not possible to establish whether this was due to damage or in an attempt to create a smokescreen. It is considered certain that other damage was done to shipping."

The Admiralty said that "no damage or casualties were caused to our naval units by the retaliation of eiemy shore batteries or by enemy aircraft during the approach or when our ships were returning to their base. No enemy naval units were encountered."

Before and after the raid, the Admiralty said, British naval planes shot down eight — possibly nine— Axis planes and damaged a 10th. Included were four troop-carrying planes.

The Admiralty added that harbor facilities also were seriously damaged, salvoes of 15-inch shells sending smoke billowing skyward from warehouses, offices and railroad buildings.

The main quay for unloading supplies intended for Axis forces in North Africa, "could be seen to be continuously hit for 10 minutes by medium-calibre shells."

The governor's office and naval headquarters were among buildings repeatedly hit. Military buildings were "demolished."

"A large fire and explosion was caused in the main fuel depot south of Karamanti mole, and many of the surrounding buildings set on fire."

Authorities said emphasis is being placed on "heavy airplanes of the bomber type" and that this is because "the only offensive air weapon is the heavy bomber."

Previously it had been reported that Britain was seeking large numbers of the big two and four-motored planes to step up her bombing thrusts at Germany and Nazi-occupied Europe.

The speed with which the program for increasing airplane facilities can be carried out will be determined largely, it was said, by the supplies of aluminum, magnesium, certain special steels and machine tools.

The Royal Navy entered the war with 15 capital ships but one battleship, the Royal Oak, was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine at Scapa Flow Oct. 14, 1939.

Press Writes Balkans Off As Loss

Call For Accounting, Critics Raise Spectre Of 'Too Late'

LONDON, April 24. — (CP) — Frankly writing off the diplomatic and military campaign in the Balkans as a defeat, Britains press and public, in a heightening critical mood and chafing under a blackout of definite news from the Greek front, grimly awaited unfolding of the full picture of Britain's reverses:

Two questions were dominant today:

Where are the Imperial Forces, last reported yesterday falling back on Athens?

Where will the Nazi blitz legions strike next?

Britons saw a lone note of encouragement in North Africa, where Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander of British Middle East forces, was reported to have poised his army for a decisive clash with the Axis mechanized spearhead that has struck across Libya into Egypt.

London newspapers, which until now had scrupulously avoided criticism of the conduct of the Balkan campaign, today reflected a mounting inclination to call for an accounting.

The Daily Mail said: "The Government would do well to realize there is a feeling of grave uneasiness in the country at recent events in the Mediterranean. This uneasiness is born of the conviction that something more could have been done, or some things could have been done differently and more promptly."

The Daily Mail recalled David Lloyd George's assertion in 1915 that the Allied forces in the first Great War had "been dogged by the mock-mined attack" on the German battleships Gnoisenau and Scharnhorst at Brest, France.

Many bombs were dropped on the French base, the communique said, and added that in this latest of many attacks there one large fire and several small ones were observed.

Le Havre likewise was subjected to a night assault and the air ministry said there too many fires were started.

One plane was lost in yesterday's operations, none last night.

The Air Ministry News Service said a good cloud cover enabled the pilots to penetrate far into Germany and that smoke poured from the main building and masonry flew when the first attack was made on Ibbenburen. A second attack an hour later caused much additional smoke, it was said.

The Service said two anti-aircraft ships were hit west of Borkum, one in a dive-bomb attack and the other in a machine-gun attack from a height of 20 feet.

A stick of bombs also was dropped 'from stern to bow" and a supply ship of about 8,000 tons in convoy, the Service added, and smoke and steam arose. A coastal vessel of about 650 tons also was reported bombed with "good effect."

Just Matter Of Time

TORONTO, April 24 —(CP)—The recapture of the six German war prisoners missing from a prison camp near Port Arthur is only a matter of time, Col. Hubert Stethem, director of internment operations at Ottawa, said on his arrival today from the scene of the search.

The six are all that are still missing since the break from the camp late Friday night. Two were killed resisting capture, three more were injured, and the remaining 17 of the original 28 are safely back in the camp.

Prayers For Peace

VATICAN CITY, April 24.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII asked Catholics throughout the world today to pray for peace—the third such appeal of His Pontificate.

The appeal, made in the form of a letter addressed to Luigi Cardinal Maglione, papal secretary of state, asked Catholics to devote the month of May to peace prayers.

Halfway Atlantic Patrol Hinted By United States

WASHINGTON, April 24 — (AP). — A major extension of hemisphere defence strategy—the patrol of the North Atlantic half-way to Europe—was reported being planned today by the High Command of the United States Navy.

The creation of such a broad security zone might have the incidental effect of relieving some of the strain on part of Britain's most important supply line, but in the absence of details, the full significance of such a policy was a moot question.

Officials here gave no encouragement to reports of the widened defence patrol, but informed quarters where they originated cited the statement of New York's Mayor La Guardia that provisions had been made for off-shore defence beginning at a line 1,000 miles out to sea.

La Guardia, speaking as chairman of Joint Canada-U.S. Defence Board, made his assertion during an address at Ottawa yesterday. The circumstances led to the belief he spoke with White House approval since he made a hurried visit here on Tuesday for a conference with President Roosevelt before departing for Canada.

(The reaction in some Canadian circles was that La Guardia was forecasting the start of U.S. convoys as far as mid-Atlantic. Such a course would permit the release of Canadian and British naval units now in convoy duty in the western half of the North Atlantic and thereby reinforce the flotillas operating in the eastern half where most shipping has been lost.)

Informed quarters here kept to the expression "off-shore defence patrol," but acknowledged this might help keep the Nazi submarines or surface raiders away from shipping lanes in the Western Atlantic.

What If Raider Encountered.

One knotty question was what action a patrol vessel would be expected to take to enforce the defence zone in the event it encountered a raider operating against shipping. It was recalled that none of the belligerents observed the 300-mile neutral zone proclaimed for the hemisphere by the Pan-American Republics after the outbreak of the war. Consequently, there was no expectation that Germany would agree to respect an area three times that width.

The opinion in some quarters here was that unless the defence patrol would be ready to back up its police work if necessary its effectiveness in protecting shipping would be questionable. To compel observance of the zone, however, would involve incidents with raiders.

There has been recurrent discussion here of the possibility of Amercluded transport services and other auxiliaries essential to a fighting force.

With the new arrivals, Lt.-Gen. L. V. Bond, commander of British land forces in Malaya, said that the defence in terms of men, guns and airplanes was nearing its peak, for the time being at least.

Plenty of "Archies"

Other powerful army contingents of Australians and Indians plus a whole shipload of the latest type anti-aircraft artillery from Britain, and United States-made planes, he added, have enshred closely coordinated striking power which forms the basis of Britain's Far Eastern defence scheme.

These troops—declared by some observers to be the forerunner of an army of 90,000—will take up positions in already prepared stations of the Malayan peninsula.

Gen. Bond said the arrival of additional anti-aircraft guns not only would permit Singapore to put up a more dense barrage than at many places in England, but also to send guns up country to strengthen vital centres in Northern Malaya (facing Thailand).

He said Malaya's Eastern or China sea coast offered numerous possible landing points, despite its swamps and reefs. But neither artillery nor armored forces could open a way through the dense, almost roadless jungles, he said, while both transports and men on the shallow beaches would form the easiest targets for British bombers.

Any attempt to approach Malaya's west coast, he said, would be under almost continuous aerial observation and attack while the transports were pounding Sumatra.

Nevertheless, Gen. Bond said, Japan would be a dangerous enemy." But he said he did not believe a Japanese attack would be "catastrophic."

"Frim a military point of view," he declared, "it is neither wise nor right to depend on it, but there is no question but that the United States Fleet is the most powerful factor deterring the activity of an enemy of Britain in the Pacific area."

Fog Hampers Hunt

HERON BAY, Ont., April 24 — (CP).—Thick fog today limited visibility to less than 300 yards as patrols spread out through the bush country along the north shore of Lake Superior in seach of the six German prisoners who remain free of the 28 who escaped a nearby prison camp last Friday night.

The fog lifted at noon but the number of searchers was decreased when a detachment of the Algonquin regiment left search headquarters to return to the guard quarters of the prison camp.

Mail Goes Down

LONDON, April 24.—(CP)—The post office announced today that letters and printed papers posted in Britain between March 13 and 17 for Canada and Newfoundland have been lost by enemy action.

Parcels and magazines posted between March 10 and 14 for Canada and Newfoundland also have been lost.

The War Today

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Criticism of Britain's role in the defence of Greece centred today on the feeling that while the decision to dispatch an expeditionary force was right the number of troops sent was all too small.

Britons abided by Prime Minister Churchill's admonition to be patient, that the government cannot state its case while the present acute danger continues, but the press was firm in calling for full accounting at the earliest opportunity.

In Australia the more responsible elements of the opposition appeared to have gained the upper hand over the left-wing extremists who were clamoring for political scalps. The government's decision to call a special session of parliament to review the situation met with general commendation.

In London the Daily Mail declared there is a state of "grave uneasiness in the country....born of the conviction that something more could have been done, or some things could have been done differently or more promptly."

The Daily Herald voiced disappointment that despite the tremendous efforts of the British people during the past 12 months the time is still distant "when we shall push Hitler around the map as he now pushes us."

In Australia much the same sort of comment was made. The Sydney Daily Telegraph was critical because Australian troops were sent to Greece without any assurance that they would be "adequately supported," that is, that the A.I.F. together with the British and New Zealand units in the expedition formed an army inadequate to provide the sort of assistance the Greeks needed to turn back the tremendous forces available to the enemy.

For Australians the sadness over reverses suffered by their men in Greece was softened by their valor in the losing fight and by the great skill displayed by the commanding officers.

Army Minister Percy Spender predicted that the Australian leader in Greece, Lt.-Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, would emerge from the battle as one of Australia's greatest commanders, and that his abilities are recognized generally was indicated in a London announcement that when he returns to Africa he will function as chief assistant to the commander in chief for the Middle East, Sir Archibald Wavell.

Ths means that when Gen. Wavell is away at one of the various fronts Gen. Blamey will make decisions on behalf of the commander in chief, and that his authority will exceed that of Gen. Wavell's chief of staff, who hitherto has been second man.

Objective Set At $1,000

"We hope to raise at least $1,000 for this very worthy cause," Fire Chief George Gimblett said today, announcing that organization plans had been completed for a tag day Saturday to raise funds for the relief of injured members and dependents of Great Britain's heroic fire fighters.

"We have no special quota, but the committee is counting on being able to turn over $1,000 to the fund," Chief Gimblett said, explaining the local drive was a part of a national effort to aid the men whose devotion to duty in combatting German incendiary bombing has won the admiration of the world.

Members of young people's groups who have volunteered for the tagging are to work in shifts and cover all central sections of the city. "They have kindly offered to help us aid we hope the general public will be as generous as possible in buying tags," he commented.

Providing the required funds are obtained, the tag will be the only local appeal in the drive, the Chief said, stating that the committee had decided against holding dances, draws or other special events planned in other centres. "We have just undertaken to call attention of Peterborough citizens to the needs," he said, expressing confidence that they would put the effort over the top as they have other war appeals.

F.D.R. Hinted It

WASHINGTAN, April 24—(AP). —Stephen Early, White House press secretary, told reporters that he did not see any difference between what La Guardia had said about patrolling 1,000 miles out to see and what had been said in piecemeal fashion by President Roosevelt in recent months.

Early emphasized that he was speaking entirely of neutrality patrols, and not convoys. He said the President had said that the patrol would be "well out," adding he believed Mr. Roosevelt had at one time mentioned 1,000 miles.

Hun Tanker Sunk

LONDON, April 24.—(CP)An Admiralty communique today announced "a heavily laden oil tanker of over 10,000 tons has been torpedoed and sunk by His Majesty's submarine Urge (Lt.-Comdr. E. P. Tomkinson, R.N.) while endeavoring to run the blockade"

The Urge is not listed in the latest edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships," authoritative naval reference work, and apparently is a recent addition to the navy's submarine strength.

RECTAL SORENESS AND
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally in a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

BOEHMER REMANDED ONE WEEK IN PORT HOPE POLICE COURT

Youth Poses As Fleeing Nazi Prisoner

PORT HOPE, April 24—(CP). — Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell remanded Theodore Boehmer one week on a charge of failing to produce a national registration card on the demand of Port Hope police when he appeared in court this morning.

COBOURG, April 24. — Frightened of what might happen to him for losing his registration card, a young Northern Ontario man last night caused R.C.M.P. officers and Ontario Provincial Police to rush here when he posed as one of the Nazis who escaped from an internment camp on Friday night.

A vivid imagination worked overtime for Theodore Duane Boehmar, 21, of Larchwood, near Sudbury, as he told of being flown out of Northern Ontario in a plane piloted by a fifth columnist from Trenton, N.J. It was a fantastic yarn spun with a convincing amount of detail, but the story blew up when police brought in an interpreter and it was found the supposed Nazi didn't know a word of German.

The name he gave to Port Hope police following his detention was Clarence Vonderheuide. He said he was a German U-boat seaman who was brought to Canada last March. The story began to sag when a swift checkup with internment camp authorities showed no prisoner with this name. He is being held on a charge of failing to have a registration card.

Boehmar told of escaping from the internment camp on Friday night with another German. He said they hid in the bush not far from the camp, and the following night went to a nearby lake, where they met the German pilot. His name was Swelsh Swiezbert and he was a German officer who came to the United States upon outbreak of war, Boehmar said.

Boehmar told of being flown out of the North Country in a blue two-seater plane, which landed on Lake Ontario off Port Britton, four miles from Port Hope. He went ashore in a collapsible rubber boat, and was directed by the pilot to hide in the bush until the plane returned from bringing the other German out of the North. Cold and hunger forced him to seek food and shelter in Port Hope, he said. Asked to tell about the actual escape, Boehmar told of helping to construct the tunnel at the internment camp.

Then the interpreter was called in. The supposed Nazi looked blank when a flow of German was directed at him. He didn't know what it was all about.

United Counties Children's Aid Elects Officers

PORT HOPE, April 24—(ENS).—The annual meeting of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham Children's Aid Society was held Wednesday afternoon in the United Church Sunday - school. A splendid review of the work of the past year was provided in addresses by Mr. Fred Rosevear, president; Mr. K. J. Hodgert, superintendent; Mrs. Hodgert, and Miss F. Ferguson, matron of Hillcrest Lodge.

Mr. Rosevear pointed out the year was one of increased activity with a number of changes in the board personnel, more organization work and execution of a program covering the reception and establishment of British child guests, and assistance to the Dependenets' Allowance Board of the Department of National Defence, Ottawa.

Resign From Board

Four members of the ministry, the Rev. J. W. Foote, Rev. Norman Taylor, Rev. E. K. Smith and Canon Dykes, resigned from the Board to take part in the active service force. Pressure of militaary duties also brought about the resignation of W. E. Bonneville, secretary, and Mr. C. T. Peterson, Cobourg. Mr. Ron Baxter, Port Hope, asaccepted the secretaryship.

The medical report submitted by Dr. H. W. Benson, revealed the annual routine examinations had been carried out as well as vaccinations against smallpox, scarlet fever and diphtheria. One case of diphtheria and a number of cases of measles were reported during the year, as well as fourteen operations for adenoids and tonsils in addition to minor operations.

Financially the society reported receipts totalled $17,209.04 during the fiscal period ending March 31, 1941, and expenses totalled $16,-504.32.

British Child Guests

Speaking on the problem of British child guests, Mr. Rosevear said, "We entered whole-heartedly into the arrangement for the placement of British children in approved Canadian homes, so they may be spared the horrors of the present conflict, and it was truly inspiring the interest manifested, the assistance received from individuals, service clubs and organizations in getting entirely new organizations set up, the visitation of the hundreds of homes that were offered, the recording of the work, and although conditions arose that unfortunately prevented a larger number of children being available for the homes offered, we do not feel that our work has been in vain as we are in a position to place the children on short notice when the Home Office decides to favor us with more guests to care for. We are proud to have as our guests today some of these children. A number of the child guests were later introduced to the audience.

Mr. Hodgert related the matter of British child guests brought up the question of whether an entirely new organization should be set up to deal with them. "In Ontario, he related, "the Children's Aid Branch of the Department of Public Welfare was appealed to, which in turn conferred with the 53 societies and as a result each society set up organization according to a pre-determined plan and went ahead with the work of receiving applications for free homes, visiting the applicants to make certain they thoroughly understood their obligations, observing the environment, estimating their capabilities and temperament, the educational facilities available in the district, etc., to help as decide just what type of child guest would best fit into the home." A wonderful response was accorded the investigators, Hr. Hodgert said. "Words cannot express my admiration for the eagerness of citizens, service clubs and other organizations to help in this movement. As our president stated, it was truly inspiring. Hundreds of offers of homes poured into our office, truly a practical application of those Biblical commands, "Love thy neighbor" and "Suffer little children to come unto Me," to quote from them in part only.

Mr. Hodgert reviewed the work in relation to the Dependents' Allowance Board, and the investigations conducted in its behalf.

There was a decrease of 25 per cent in the number of cases of child neglect, but only a decrease of 9 per cent in the number of children involved, during last year, Mr. Hodgert reported.

Hard For The Greeks

It must have been bitter for the West army of the Greeks to quit. They never would have done so unless there was the best reason in the world. The scene has been shifting so rapidly that it has been impossible from day to day to view it correctly and appraise the damage for what it has been actually worth.

It has been demonstrated above all else that the German army commanders have no regard whatever for the lives of the men under their charge. When they throw in five, ten or fifteen thousand men, it means nothing to them, but is regarded only in terms of victory.

The tragedy of the whole business has been that if the nations of the Balkans had been from the outset looking after their own and each other's interests as lesser nations, they could have avoided the fate which has come upon them. Had they stood together and refused Hitler permission to roll in his war machine the present situation in the Balkans would never have come to pass.

The British were under the necessity of shipping in all their men, supplies and equipment, while Hitler's came by land. The result was that the Germans had a tremendous initial advantage which it was physically impossible to overcome.

While that was—and is—going on it was good reading to find that British vessels had managed to go through the mine fields outside of Tripoli and inflict upon that place the most severe shellacking which has been rained upon any port in months. Those guns do not miss. A shell weighing over a ton can be projected for 29 miles and land within ten feet of the target. The British Navy, "strung out terribly thin" in spots, is still the British Navy.

People Must Be Fed

In London the business of feeding people becomes more serious. With each succeeding raid existing facilities have become less in extent, and by the same token the need has become greater. When homes are destroyed it is necessary to look elsewhere for something to eat, and eating as a rule is done three times a day.

The Food Ministry finds its work becoming harder. It has set up an organization and has been doing a remarkable piece of work, but the latest word is that if the existing arrangements break down the tremendous task of feeding the London area in its entirety will be turned over to J. Lyons & Company, one of the largest catering firms in the world.

Cards will be issued and the needy ones will be able to secure a meal for about 11 cents.

There are times when we are inclined to rail against what we term "big business." We say it is becoming too great and does not give the lesser enterprises a chance to go ahead and make a living. But here is one place where the large company is undoubtedly best fitted for the occasion. One encounters the J. Lyons establishments many places in the Old Land. How many of their eating places and tea rooms exist in London we do not know, but their connections and ramifications are wide. They deal in large quantities always and their method of preparation and distribution is able to stand up because it is their particular business. And where is there any other organization which the Government might bring into existence which could manage a war-time meal in a war-torn land for 11 cents? So there is one place where what we call "big business" is able to step in and perform a service which is imperatively essential.

Should Never Be Hungry

On several occasions we have read dispatches which said the people of Holland are hungry, and if there are people anywhere who should not be hungry it is the folk of Holland. They may have been only moderately well off prior to the war, but they were not hungry. We can think of no place where they used to have more wholesome and satisfying food served than right in Holland.

It is hard to restrain the tongue or control the temper when one stops to think of what Hitler has done to the kindly people who live in that flat country. They used fully one-third of their country for the purpose of pasturing their great herds of splendid black and white cows. They made use of more acres to produce bulbs for the world. They managed their system of dykes with skill.

Their tastes were simple and their wants were few. They rode bicycles did those folk of Holland to an extent not encountered elsewhere, and whole families could be seen starting off on holiday mornings bound for the beach—all on bicycles.

And now we are informed there have been serious inroads in the extent of those fine herds of cattle. Many of them were killed in order to provide meat for the invading Germans. More of them were sacrificed when it was no longer possible to import sufficient fodder for their upkeep.

The acres and miles which used to produce the world's bulbs are not under cultivation to any extent and we have to look elsewhere (and mostly in vain) for a similar supply.

On top of that the people are hungry and the substantial meal of other years has become a thing of close rations and inadequate substitutes. The people of Holland should never be hungry, but Hitler has forced hunger on them in order that his war mongers may have full bellies.

A Rather Poor Citizen

There was a man from Fenelon township in court at Lindsay and he was fined $14.25 for spearing 'lunge out of season. Apparently he considered himself quite a chap for he admitted that for forty years he had been doing the same thing, and would be doing it yet if the game warden had not arrived. The accused stated that he knew every illegal fisherman in the district, and that may be why he desired to be appointed as a deputy warden some time ago.

We believe it is quite true to say that Fenelon township or any other part of the district could get along much better without this citizen than with him. He has been breaking the law and he knew all the time he was breaking the law, and yet the only effect on him was a rather silly bit of boasting that he would have been spearing 'lunge now had the game warden not arrived at the wrong time.

He has no regard whatever for the need of these game fish being more numerous in the Kawartha waters; he does not understand or care for the hard fact that we desire to have American tourists bring as many of their American dollars into this country as we can possibly secure. And the added fact that such revenue has a direct bearing on war financing is apparently something which does not interest him in the least.

It is well that the Game Warden was right there on the spot, and also well that the magistrate told him that a second offence would cost him $50. One can have small patience with the breed which delights to boast about how long they have been able to break the law and get away with it.

Planning Is Needed

The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in session at Ottawa heard Joseph M. Pigott of Hamilton, president of Wartime Housing, Ltd., talk about houses. The question is still in the offing, but some such action is going to be taken before long.

According to Mr. Pigott the company (a Government controlled one) will build only where there is a definite and acute need by reason of the number of men called in to work in war industries. The company is not concerned with any other variety of increase in population and consequent shortage of houses.

The houses would be mostly of the two bedroom type, and it would be necessary to confine selection in order that they could be produced at a price. Mr. Pigott believed the two bedroom house, insulated, could be built for $1,500 or $1,600 and the four-bedroom house for $1,800. We asked a contractor about those figures and he smiled rather broadly at the prospect of building a four-bedroom house and insulating it for $1,800.

If we interpret Mr. Pigott's survey of the situation correctly these houses will be taken down when the purpose for which they were erected has been served, and he is anxious they be made in such a way that the salvage value will be of the maximum sort. The Government would pay no local taxes on these houses, but they would pay for such services as the houses needed to secure from the municipalities.

As we see this situation it is one which is going to take a deal of careful work to avoid headaches. How much available space is there in Peterborough within easy distance of our industrial district for the erection of such houses? We take it they would need water, sewer connection, and electric service. If they were not on organized streets all these would have to be provided and sidewalks and roads would need consideration. And then there would always be the possibility that at some future time they would have to come down and be taken away.

It is also likely that the erection of many of these houses in any one district would interfere with the course of normal extension in such district. And while they are up they do not mean a thing to the municipality in the way of tax income. The rent, as explained by Mr. Pigott, would be sufficient to retire the initial investment in ten years, allowing for a reasonable salvage value at the end of that period. A $1,600 house at that rate would rent for about $21.30 per month.

Locally it is a situation which is going to require careful survey in advance because it is something which is likely to come upon us suddenly. The Housing Company, if it finds men working in war plants are hard pressed for housing, will not hesitate to take action, and we must be prepared with a known policy and some planning so that our natural development will not be thrown off its stride.

A Record In Sight

Possibly Premier Bracken of Manitoba has the right idea. It was taken for granted before the election that his coalition government would be returned to power. Apparently the members do not need to sacrfiice their political identity when appearing before the electors, but after being elected they all support the Government.

Possibly Mr. Bracken was not brought up as a politician of the old school. In 1922 he was president of the Manitoba Agricultural College when a premier was needed for the province. After a fair amount of coaxing and persuasion he accepted the new position, and has been there since. That makes 19 years and with the extension just granted he bids fair to equal or surpass the long-time record of Hon. Oliver Mowat, who was premier of Ontario from 1872 to 1896, a matter of 24 years. If Premier Bracken is right in his coalition idea then all other politicians must be wrong.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Liberal leader in Alberta has resigned to become prairie director of summer fallow. Being Liberal leader in Alberta may have given him a good idea of the real meaning of fallow.

It seems likely there will be a lowering of regulations which prevent people in Canada from crossing to the States. And that is right enough as there is usually little traffic on a one-way street.

It is stated in Moscow now that Russia decided last November not to join up with the Axis powers. It might pay Russia handsomely to enter the war now for eventually that country will have to fight Germany.

A large pig escaped from the packing plant in Hamilton and there was trouble enough capturing it. To what extent pigs think we do not know, but in getting away from the packing plant that pig had the right idea.

California rancher had an old wagon he was going to sell for $1. The sale fell through and when taking the wagon to pieces he found $2,600 in gold coins between the floor boards. Of course the wagon had a tongue but it never said anything about it.

AND SO . . .

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Aunt Phobe sent word two weeks ago, that with the passing of the snow, she'd soon be on her way; there wasn't much to keep her home, for she is living there alone, about ten days she'd stay.

¶ Aunt Phoebe likes things just so and so, she moves about sedate and slow, though troubled with the rust; she shivers if the room is cold, and shivers when her eyes behold, there is a speck of dust.

¶ There's lots of stuff that she won't eat, and feeding her is quite a feat, I'm well aware of that; on cake and pie she is not keen, prefers her meat a trifle lean, will whittle off the fat.

¶ And so we rushed to please Aunt Phoebe, drew lists of all the things we'd need, and stored them on a shelf; she couldn't say when she was through, that her insides were black and blue, that we had wrecked her health.

¶ I knocked off cobwebs here and there, fixed up the room we call a spare, and polished up the floor; a tidy room fixed up like that, would knock my aunt down good and flat, when she came in the door.

¶ The Pink Sedan I cleaned likewise, I'd give my aunt a glad surprise, I found that it would run; the day before my aunt was due, a letter from her drifted through—to say she couldn't come.

CAP and BELLS . .

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

MOST of us are poor correspondents. We detest the drudgery of writing and answering letters. "I would have written to you before, but really I had nothing to say," we begin, excusing ourselves for a long silence. Or, "Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and that ...." and so we hasten on, having assured ourselves before we begin that the letter is to be a short one. If anyone should ask why people nowadays write such short and poor letters when their grandfathers wrote long and comparatively interesting ones, we hasten to say that it is because we live at a much faster pace than our grandfathers and therefore have less time for correspondence. This is only a half truth, but we make it do. The real truth is that most of us detest the drudgery of writing and answering letters, and that is all there is about it.

C & B

For the time being, at least, the war has changed all that. Letters are now of the greatest interest and importance. We watch for the mails from Britain with as great an expectancy as ever our ancestors on the Kingston Road watched for the mail-stage or the pack-horse. Letters from sons and lovers in the forces overseas are prized, read again and again, and selected passages are read to our friends. Nor are all these letters from the fighting forces; many are from friends abroad for whose safety we feel concern. The British mail these days is packed with interest.

C & B

It is not only to Canada that these precious letters come. They are sent to the United States also and I think they cause even more excitement among those warm hearted people than they do here. Recently a collection of "War Letters From Britain" was made and published by Roger W. Straus and his wife, Diano Forbes-Robertson, the youngest daughter of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson the actor, whom many readers will have seen during his frequent visits to this country. The letters are written by men and women of every sort to friends in the States. These are letters from schoolteachers to other schoolteachers; there are letters from soldiers to their relatives; there are letters from archbishops to presidents of great American universities; there are letters from famous actors to their friends in Hollywood; there are letters of all kinds, and all of them are interesting.

C & B

BUT they are more than interesting; they are admirable pieces of English prose. I do not mean, of course, that they are concise and cold, like the letters of Lord Chesterfield, or poetic and philosophic, like the letters of John Keats, or magnificently turned and polished, like the letters of Doctor Johnson. But they are written under the stress of great excitement and emotion, and so they have warmth and color and vigor—precisely the qualities which letters usually lack. And they are astonishingly free of that bunk which public speakers of the lesser sort and radio commentators regard as fit fare for the public in wartime. Listen to this, from a woman who is editor of a popular English magazine: "We shall have fun rebuilding London. If I know my fellow countrymen there is going to be a God-awful row about it! The people of Mayfair throw open the great houses to the East Enders, who quite candidly do not like the mansions of the great and swiftly return to the devastation of the bombed areas. Once more I have decided that there can never be a revolution in this country. You just cannot have a revolution when the bulk of the people think their own place is beautiful beyond compare."

C & B

Good, isn't it? But she is a professional writer, you may object. Very well; listen to this, from a less gifted citizen: "The bomb crater I saw was about fifteen feet deep and thirty feet across, quite heavy stuff. It took the side out of a house about fifty feet away, leaving the bathroom exposed. There was a man taking a bath at the time and he was concussed and damned near drowned in his own water; when he came to he looked gingerly over the ruin of the bath to find a crowd of interested spectators awaiting further developments below. History relates that he had to call out to them, "Turn away please, ladies, I've got to come down sometime or other, and we might as well preserve the decencies." Could that story be told better? I doubt it. Of course, not all the stories are funny. Some are pathetic, some tragic. But all the letters—and there are many of them—are heartening. People who respond to danger and to destruction in that way need fear no defeat at the hands of a puffed-up 'Master Race.'

C & B

I do not, as a rule, urge readers to buy and read books which I mention in this column, but I do recommend "War Letters From Britain" very warmly. It is published in Canada by Thomas Allen, and it costs $2.50, and is worth every penny of the price in the encouragement and cheer that it gives. Furthermore, all the royalties accruing from this book go direct to the British-American Ambulance Corps.

Letters To The Editor

THE $250,000,000 SECRETARY AND A DEPLETED TREASURY

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—A short time ago the Finance Minister told us he would require $2,700,000,000 for this year's budget and that he might need more. We were also informed that to raise this amount it would take one-half of every man's income in Canada. Yet right in the face of these facts this government will undertake to spend $250,000,000 on a seaway. They tell us of the great amount of cheap electric power, and of the untold millions of commercial wealth that will pass through this wonderful gateway to the sea.

Now is this a fact or only the result of a fertile imagination? Is this a reality or only a pipe dream? The same party with the elastic imagination and who appear to have pipe dreams, tell us that if Hitler wins we will have no trade and no use for either the seaway or the electric power. While we all hope for victory it would be folly to depreciate the possibility of a German victory. The war is not yet won. The destinies of the Empire and perhaps of the world are trembling in the balance. If we win this war it will be no summer picnic. It will require all our time, all our money and all our manpower. Why then divert our resources to a doubtful commercial enterprise?

Even if we did win this war it is difficult to see how those impoverished and debt burdened nations over which this war has swept like a whirlwind of desolation leaving death, ruined cities and desolate homes in its train, can become a paying market for our products. This war is not likely to bring joy and prosperity to the world. Death, famine, pestilence, debt and such taxation as will make one turn pale to contemplate are not the harbingers of joy and prosperity. Is it not true that was said by one of old time? "Will the sword devour for ever? Know you not that in the latter end there is bitterness."

JOHN SERVIUS.

• Too Much Guff Is Printed

ANNOUNCEMENT that the army of Yugoslavia has surrendered to the Germans after less than two weeks' fighting furnishes a biting illustration of the amount of guff which is being circulated in the present war by even the best of the news agencies and news correspondents, and lavishly published in the news columns of the day—those of the Journal included. Prior to the actual break with Germany, the news agencies and special correspondents and commenators were telling us of a Yugoslav army of anywhere from 1,500,000 down, but nothing less than 600,000. Possibly 600,000 men in Yugoslavia had arms of some kind—but even so, that amount of men did not constitute an army in any effective sense—it meant only an armed mob.

The Statesman's Year Book, a reliable annual British publication, states that in 1938 the Yugoslav regular army consisted of 9,245 officers and 115,000 men; and even this army was equipped chiefly with rifles and cannon mostly taken from Austria-Hungary after the last World War. Tanks and airplanes almost non-existent.

But the Yugoslavs wanted to fight. That is the trouble with the Balkans. These Balkan principalities all think they can fight. So they could, if present-day armies used spears and bows-and-arrows. Against modern armament, all the Balkan principalities together, Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Hungary, could not probably lick a hundred thousand Germans.

Unfortunately, Yugoslavia was encouraged to fight by Britain and Greece and the United States. If the terms which the news agencies published as offered to Yugoslavia by the Germans before Yugoslavia decided to fight were correctly stated, the Germans offered not to use Yugoslavia for military purposes against Greece. Of course the Germans were doubtless lying about this, which is their usual policy; but even so, the condition would not have been worse for Greece than it is now—and might, if the Germans forgot themselves, be better. And at any rate, Yugoslavia would not be butchered.

One moral seems to be for us all to read with suspicion the disquisitions and commentaries of war correspondents and even of big news agencies unless the source is clearly official. News from official sources may not always state the full truth, but what it does give is likely to be true so far as it goes.—Ottawa Journal.

• We Hear Little of Them

WE READ almost every day of the heroic exploits of the air arm of the British Coastal Command, but we hear very little of the other section consisting of scows, trawlers, drifters, sailing ships, motor boats and many other types almost too small to be dignified by the description of warships, yet they are doing a wonderful job of attack as well as defence. They go out on patrol day and night, in winter and summer, reporting by wireless the approach of enemy planes either on scouting or bombing expeditions. They are too small to carry real naval guns, says St. Thomas Times-Journal, but with their light anti-aircraft armament they have brought down many machines. A lot of these vessels have struck mines or been bombed and sunk. They carry fuel for amphibian planes which are thus saved time returning to the land depots and they carry mechanics who can execute repairs at sea.

One of the most valuable services they render is that of saving the lives of plane crews. There is a special fleet of fast motor boats which is always on the watch when there is a dog-fight on in the sky. As soon as a plane falls the motor boat speeds off to the rescue of the crew, be they friend or foe, yet such is the nature of the Hun that these rescuers are sometimes machine-gunned or bombed while attempting to rescue other Huns.

Most extraordinary of all jobs is carried out by volunteer crews who are paid extra money for dangerous duty, that of allowing themselves to be bombed by the Royal Air Force. To give the R.A.F. experience in the bombing of fast craft of the type which may be used in an attempted invasion of Britain, these Coastal Command crews, wearing ear-plugs and crash helmets, man boats which are lightly protected and dodge and twist while their own airmen drop 12-pound bombs upon them, or try their best to. The crews crouch in steel cabins, and even when scores a direct hit they escape death, although their craft is sometimes overturned by the blast.

Such is the thoroughness with which Britain is training for invasion.

PRISONERS FOR FOOD

THE fact that holds the Petain Government of France helpless, and must hold helpless any Government of France today, is the fact that nearly 2,000,000 Frenchmen are prisoners of Germany.

So when Germany bargains the release of 40,000 French prisoners for an agreement to exchange certain food surpluses with unoccupied France, it is making shrewd use of the power that lies in the misery of French wives and mothers, sons and daughters of the prisoners. The French hold certain cards in this game of exchange: their fleet, their North African possessions, their men and lands in the Near East.

This bargaining with the conquerors is a sorry game at best, and while it is hard to reproach the French for playing it, since it is the only game available to them; it is also futile to think of France today as an independent Government or nation—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

IN LINE OF DUTY

THE Herald Tribune has suffered a second casualty of the war, happily less tragic than the first one, though it is not a light one. In November Mr. Ralph Barnes, one of the best of our staff, was killed in Greece in the line of duty. Now Mr. James M. Minifie, the head of our London Bureau, who has known "near misses" already, has been badly cut about the face and eye by the explosion of a land mine during Wednesday night's raid on the city; he has been hospitalized after an emergency operation.

We think this entitles us to speak again of the courage and devotion of American newspaper workers who on every front and under every kind of fire have stuck to their great task of reporting and enlightenment.—New York Herald Tribune.

Slavia, Greece Add Little, Cost Hun Much

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—Germany's conquest of Yugoslavia and prospects of a companion victory in Greece will add little or nothing to improve the Nazi economic position, informed experts here said today.

On the contrary, authorities declared, the latest triumph of German arms may prove economically costly, for the devastation wrought by the Balkan blitzkreig is likely to cause a serious curtailment in the flow of supplies which Germany was receiving before Hitler struck at the two countries.

Even discounting war damage, it was said, German economic gains would be negligible.

Neither Yugoslavia nor Greece produce oil or any of the other major war materials of which there are existing or potential shortages in Germany.

While both countries produce some supplies which can be utilized by Germany, it was explained that the Germans long since have been taking everything available. Yugoslavia has been supplying chiefly foodstuffs and minerals, while Greece has been furnishing the Nazis with olive oil, mineral ores, and fruit.

Commerce department figures show that more than 50 per cent of Yugoslavia's foreign trade in recent years has been with the Axis powers and, since the start of the war, that percentage increased greatly.

Got Most of Exports Before

Predominantly an agricultural country, with 80 per cent of its population engaged in farming, Yugoslavia has been sending all farm exports to Germany or countries now under German domination.

Yugoslavia also has valuable mineral resources but its exports of copper, bauxite, chrome, lead, zinc and iron likewise were all going to Germany under barter deal arrangements prior to the invasion. War damage to the mines was considered likely.

Greece, too, is an agricultural nation, with half her people so engaged. Tobacco represents approximately 40 per cent of all exports and half of the sales have been to Germany.

The only other products of which Greece has a normal export surplus are olive oil, and smaller quantities of currants, raisins, figs, fruits, hides and skins, and mineral ores, including some iron, magnesite, chromite, bauxite and nickel.

Exports of all kinds to Germany normally ran between 30 and 40 per cent of Greece's total sales.

Much of Greece's foodstuffs must be imported—including wheat, coffee, fish and cattle—as well as iron and steel products. Wood, chemical products and mineral oils. Imports normally have exceeded exports.

37-Ton Hun Tanks Run Passes Held Impassable

By DANIEL DE LUCE
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

IZMAR, Turkey, April 24—(AP).—When this correspondent left Greece four days ago British forces were falling back slowly southward, fighting every inch of the way.

Greek infantrymen with covering actions were assisting the withdrawal of this outnumbered and outgunned force of between 50,000 and 80,000 men.

A fleet of 37-ton German tanks lumbering through the mountain defiles, previously believed impassable to such heavy vehicles, charged and overcame light British tanks.

But even in the face of what looked like certain defeat, the Greeks and their Imperial allies were fighting—and fighting hard.

There was the feat that saved the Allied forces on fabled, snow-swept Mount Olympus:—

German tanks fanning out over the plains of Thessaly appeared to have made their escape hopeless, but the British and Greeks poured their last rounds of ammunition into the advancing steel monsters and then made a successful run for it.

Even before the Nazi Balkan campaign was three days old the Allies were imperilled as a result of the Nazi thrust southward through the vital Bitolj Gap in Yugoslavia, exposing the Greek flank.

Long Heroic Fight Ahead

It would take a long rearguard action, military men say, to make possible the escape of the Australians, New Zealanders and Britons who rushed to the aid of Greece.

Already considerable quantities of motorized equipment, guns, munitions and other stores must be considered lost.

The Royal Air Force strength in Greece, numbering less than 100 fighter and bomber planes until mid-February, was no more than 150 when the invasion started. Nevertheless, the R.A.F. airmen rallied repeatedly against the Germans' 10-to-1 superiority.

German dive bombers blasted the exposed Allied artillery, machine-gunned roads to their rear and hammered incessantly at every coastal inlet from Volos to Piraeus, but the tired sleepless British pilots took a heavy toll of the swarming Nazis.

Small formations of R.A.F. bombers, usually without fighter escort, damaged but could not break the lengthening Nazi supply lines.

Warsaw Ladies Speed Quilts

WARSAW, April 24.—(ENS)—A good number of Warsaw and county women attended the warwork on Thursday. A few could not come until afternon, but the majority enjoyed a pot luck dinner.

Three quilts were quilted and taken home to be bound. Mrs. Quirk and Mrs. Theodore Douglas cut out garments, to be taken home for making. Mrs. Thomas Clements had made and donated an oxeye daisy quilt, for which tickets were sold to those present. The name drawn to receive the quilt was Mrs. Emma Selkirk and $6 was realized. The money is to be used to help buy supplies. Mrs. Selkirk has been a most faithful worker.

SPORTS - DAY BY DAY

The race in the American League tightened up considerably yesterday as the result of a defeat for the Boston Red Sox and wins by the New York Yanks and the Cleveland Indians. As a result of these doings Cleveland climbed up on even terms with the Red Sox for top ranking and the Yanks are right at their heels in third place. It was the New York outfit who knocked Boston out of undisputed possession of first place yesterday by beating Joe Cronin's team 4 to 2 in eleven innings with Lefty Gomez grabbing off his second victory of the season. Boston got better pitching than usual from Wagner and the issue was deadlock until a two-run homer after two extra frames settled the argument. Meanwhile the Indians with young Bobbie Feller doing the gunning for them defeated the St. Louis Browns 5 to 2. It was Feller's second victory after dropping his first start and there is no doubt that if he does not run into bad luck in the matter of injuries Feller should come close to a modern record in wins this season. He is young and strong and apparently can work often without hurting himself.

The Detroit Tigers who have been getting kicked around just as if they were an ordinary ball club and not the 1940 champs, came to life for one day anyway yesterday and gave the White Sox quite a trimming. The final figure was 14 to 5 and Newhouser went the route for the winners. In the other American League game yesterday the Philadelphia Athletics sparked by Frankie Hayes who contributed a pair of circuit clouts rolled up 15 hits and 11 runs against Washington Senators who had 12 hits and seven runs themselves. Potter was the winning pitcher for the A's who are not doing too badly, thank you, so far this season.

The Cincinnati Reds have started to roll. That matchless pitching staff is now clicking and yesterday the world champs won their fourth win in a row and their second shutout in succession when they triumphed over Chicago Cubs 5 to 0. Bucky Walters delivered a sweet pitching job by holding the Cubs to five hits and keeping them off the score sheet. The New York Giants, riding along in first place, kept a firm hold on the position with a 5 to 4 victory over the Boston Bees and the Cardinals remained in second spot by virtue of a 3 to 1 win over the Pittsburg Pirates. Brooklyn Dodgers cashed in on a fine heaving performance by Wyatt, his second victory of the campaign, to defeat Philadelphia 4 to 0. Wyatt allowed the Phillies only four hits. It was Pearsons third loss.

It begins to appear as if Oshawa will be Peterborough's toughest opposition in the district group in the forthcoming lacrosse race. Reports from the Motor City would indicate that Coach Kelly DeGray and his associates have been most active during the past few days and a number of new faces will likely appear with his club as a result. It has been known that DeGray has been in the field for some standout young players to add mid-field speed to his veteran line-up which has a world of experience, but lost out to Brooklin last year because they lacked the stamina to keep pace with them. Among the latest additions acquired by the Oshawa club are Bernard White, top scorer of Owen Sound's senior "B" O.L.A. champions last year, and his younger brother, Tom, who practically duplicated brother "Bun's" feat with Orillia junior Terriers.

There is also evidence to indicate that another ex-Orillia star, Billy Brunskill, may locate in the Motor City, for it is known that he spent a recent week-end there. Brunskill last year beat out Captain "Bucko" McDonald of the Terriers by a few goals to lead the northerners in scoring points. There seems to be no question, but that Oshawa is in dead earnest in its effort to rebuild a winner. Visions of the 1929 Mann Cup aggregation must be appearing in the neighboring city.

Bill Walshe of the Kingston Whig-Standard is another sport writer who thinks it high time the amateurs quit copying pro hockey's rough stuff. Here is how he sees it and we string along with him all the way: "Hockey will be played closer to the code that governs the game, according to delegates returning from the Canadian Hockey Association annual meeting in Calgary, which should please the patrons and players, as the sport has developed into a combination of wrestling and wrangling with a puck a minor detail unless a goal is scored from a scramble. There are two types of hockey. The style played by the professionals and copied by teams in the larger centres and there is the game as played according to the rule book with a ban on boarding, holding, high sticking, interference and tripping. Kingston Combines played more to the rule book than most teams in the higher series of hockey. They specialized on pass plays, team work and depended on their fast skating and checking on defensive, although they were often guilty of tactics that would not be permitted if the rules of the game were strictly enforced. Compared to the Junior A, Senior A teams and the professionals the Combines played exceptionally clean hockey."

"There is not much fun for a player or interest for a spectator when teams resort to almost football tackles on the defensive and the game of hockey loses its best feature when sticks are carried high like lacrosse sticks," continues Walshe. "Any player knowing he is likely to be cross-checked or crashed into the boards will naturally slacken his pace when he reaches a defence and as a result his chances of scoring are greatly reduced but self preservation is the first law of nature and it will be the first law of hockey if the rules are not enforced. Apparently there were strong objections to the wrestling style of hockey when play was considered at the C.A.H.A. annual meeting. Delegates even went so far as to admit that the professional circus influence was controlling the amateur game but they determined hockey must be played according to the rules, which will be appreciated by all concerned."

Contrary to most folks' predictions the Allan Cup series was not completed at Saskatoon last night when Sydney Millionaires and Regina Rangers met in the third game of the finals. The Millionaires with the good luck kids Kowcinak and McCreedy in the lineup had taken the first two games and had won the second in such decisive fashion that it was regarded as a foregone conclusion that the team carrying the colors of the Maritimes would triumph over the Prairie representatives and wind up the whole thing. The Millionaires however could not do better than a tie and they had to battle hard to split two goals with the Rangers. The Westerners scored the only goal of the first period, Sydney tied it up in the second and the game finally wound up in an overtime tie.

* * * * * *

Those Brooklyn Dodgers keep on forgetting to duck. Last year three of the Brooklynites, Joe Medwick, Peewee Reese and Hugh Casey were all beaned when they zigged when they should have zagged and as a result the management makes all the Dodger players this season wear protective headgear while at bat. Now it looks as if the armor will have to be augmented by requiring the Brooklyn lads to wear catcher's masks in addition to the helmets. One of the latter did not save Pete Reiser, the Dodgers' hard-hitting rookie outfielder yesterday for a fast ball by Pitcher Ike Pearson of the Phillies made a direct hit on his cheek and knocked him cold. Perhaps those Dodgers are trying to outguess the pitchers. If so they have been making none too good a job of it.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Joe DiMaggio was stopped yesterday for the second game in succession. He's still hitting .442....Hank Greenberg has been ordered to report to the army on May 7. When he marches into uniform the Detroit chances will march right out of the picture....Travis of the Senators who also goes into military uniform shortly is leading the American League in hitting....Rizzuto, Yanks' rookie shortstop won yesterday's ball game against Boston with a home run in the eleventh....Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox and Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks are tied in runs batted in with fifteen, a nice start for both players....Omemee's entry into the City Softball League is regarded as certain. They're casting around for players.

Allan Cup Play To Fourth Game

By LORNE BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

SASKATOON, April 24.—(CP)—Because Regina's Rangers outplayed Sydney Millionaires at the Eastern champions' own style of hockey, the best-of-five Allan Cup final series still was undecided today much to the surprise of everyone but the young Westerners.

Adopting a hard-checking, robust system after losing the first two games 8-6 and 8-3 with wide-open play, Rangers upset Sydney and finished with a 1-1 tie here last night in overtime to make necessary a fourth game, scheduled to be played in Regina Saturday. A fifth game, if necessary, is scheduled for Saskatoon next Tuesday.

Thrown Off Stride

The close-checking appeared to throw the high-geared Millionaires off stride and Rangers dominated play definitely in the first 40 minutes and had more scoring opportunities than Sydney in the third and overtime session.

Poor shooting and bouncing pucks around the Sydney goal crease prevented Rangers from capitalizing on their plays.

Regina went ahead after 11 minutes of the first period when Grant Warwick, stocky little right winger, drove a hard shot from just inside the blue line that Bill Dickie in the Sydney net blocked but could not control. The puck dropped to his feet and wobbled over the line.

Only two seconds of the second period remained when Sydney tied the score. Steve Latoski, a Winnipeg product, broke around the Regina defence. With one Ranger checking him closely on one side and another trying to stop him on the other, Latoski banged a low, backhand shot from a foot inside the red line and the puck went through the legs of Goalie Jim Henry.

Two Tennis Aces Offer Tour For Red Cross

MONTREAL, April 24.—(CP)—Possibility opened last night that two of Britain's foremost women tennis stars, Mary Hardwick and Dorothy Round Little, may tour Canadian cities this summer, playing benefit matches for the Red Cross.

R. N. Watt, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, announced that Miss Hardwick had offered to play a series of matches this June with anybody and at any place the C.L.T.A. requested.

The C.L.T.A. president added that he believed, although he was not sure Mrs. Little would join Miss Hardwick in such a series. It was announced recently that Mrs. Little who is living in Canada during the war, would be tennis instructress at the Seigniory Club this summer.

Mr. Watt indicated Miss Hardwick might be asked to play matches in Montreal, Quebec, Toronto and Ottawa, appearing at several clubs in each city.

Ottawa Student Wins Jenkins Cup

KINGSTON, Ont., April 24.—(CP).—James Courtright, of Ottawa, final year student in Science at Queen's University, has been awarded the Jenkins Trophy as the outstanding athlete and scholar of the university. The Jenkins Trophy is the top award in athletics at the university.

Courtright holds the British Empire, Australian, Canadian and Intercollegiate records at javelin throwing and is the champion shotputter of the Intercollegiate. In addition he has starred at jumping, basketball and Rugby. He is president of the Alma Mater Society of the university.

Tiger Fans Mourn As Army Gets Greenberg

DETROIT, April 24—(AP).—Doleful baseball talk today in Detroit—at any cigar store, tavern or street corner:

"Guess the Tigers can't win now."

"Nope, not with Greenberg out of there."

The inevitable had come. Hank Greenberg, great slugger of the Detroit Tigers, received his formal orders for induction into the army.

The summons to Hank was not unexpected, of course. As it is the American League's reputedly highest paid player at $50,000 a year has only 13 playing days left this season with Detroit, and the Tigers definitely are no longer expected to retain their championship.

Local draft board No. 23 notified Greenberg to report May 7 at the induction centre here. On that day the Tigers have planned to raise their league pennant to the top of the flag pole in Briggs Stadium.

The departure of Greenberg means the breaking up of the most powerful home run combination since the time of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees. It leaves Rudy York alone as the swat king of Detroit.

YESTERDAY: The news of the Davenport kidnaping delights Toby, who hates the Duchess, and terrifies Bee. Anthony is strangely silent. Bee knows he must soon learn the truth. She clings to the happiness of this night, restrains an impulse to confess her real identity.

WAITING FOR TROUBLE

CHAPTER XXV

BEATRICE undressed slowly and mechanically, while Toby and Vera still discussed the mysterious kidnaping of the Davenport heiress. Toby even switched on the radio, in the forlorn hope of catching a news broadcast. There was nothing but the Milkman's matinee, and she turned it off unsatisfied.

"Clarence must have gone to Mr. Weeming's office. He must have behaved like a hysterical fool." Beatrice thought. "Mr. Weeming would never have done anything to result in headlines. He'd have handled it quietly, even if he found a ransom note on his desk!"

She wished savagely that she could throttle Clarence. His hot black eyes, the quick, expressive hands came back to her. She thought, "Temperamental jackass!"

Now, now of all times, when she wanted so desperately to be left in the obscurity she had found for herself . . . Oh, it was too much!

As she got into bed, she realized that Clarence must have been horribly worried. "He really loves me. It was the money at first. But now he does care."

A twinge of pity softened her anger. But the boredom that had driven her to him, the emptiness that had caused her to find excitement in being with him, was gone. She had never loved him. Now he was only a nuisance of a man who had ruined something precious.

She couldn't sleep. There'd be a news broadcast at 6 a.m. Only three hours . . . She watched the clock, lay down again, closed her eyes, tossed, sat up once more, watched the clock . . .

At five minutes to 6, she turned the radio on very low.

She thought she heard Toby stirring. She switched the radio off, listened intently. It was only the milkman in the hall. She turned the radio on again.

"And that's the news up to this moment in Europe," she heard. "Here at home the FBI has been asked to investigate the disappearance of a girl who was supposed to be touring South America. Beatrice Huntington Davenport, heiress to the Huntington Department Store millions, never boarded a liner for South America. Her fiance, Fernando de Grandezzi, believes she may have been the victim of kidnapers."

YES, it had been Clarence. She got out of bed, paced miserably up and down. What a field day the tabloids would have this morning! She thought of the black headlines which had screamed to the world the fact that a classmate of hers at Miss Spence's had eloped with the riding master, and she shuddered.

Almost, she could see the headlines that would grace the morning papers. G-MEN HUNT DEB.

They'd be sure to have other pictures of her. There'd be a picture of her at the $50,000 debut Toby had resented so much; and perhaps pictures of the Miami Beach house, the Newport place, the Long Island estate Grandfather had donated as a haven for homeless children.

She dressed swiftly. "This is Judgment Day. I might as well face those papers right now."

She bought four. Last night's early edition, the one she'd seen in the subway, was mild by comparison. Here she was, on the front page, in a bathing suit at Nassau, squinting into the sun. Another, hiding her face behind her handbag as she raced with Mr. Weeming to the car from the courthouse where Grandfather's famous will had been probated. And here, with the inevitable striped background, she sat at a table with Clarence.

In the dignified columns of the newspaper Grandfather used to read, there were no pictures. She read the cautious story in the apartment, a cup of bitter black brew beside her.

"Miss Beatrice Huntington Davenport, granddaughter of the late Michael Kingan Huntington and daughter of the late Arthur Armstrong Davenport and his wife, Elinora Huntington, had not booked passage on any liner to South America, it was reliably learned from officials of the Inter-American Line yesterday. Miss Davenport, who made her home at 1440 Park Avenue and who maintained a cottage in Maine, could not be located by her guardian, Mr. Curtis Weeming, at the home of any of her friends.

CAMPBELLFORD Nursery Club Elects Officers

CAMPBELLFORD, April 24. — (ENS). — The Nursery Golf Club which began its existence here last year held its annual meeting Wednesday evening when over twenty enthusiatic members were on hand to hear the report of finances and map operations for the ensuing summer. Dr. H. B. Longmore, the club's initial president, presided for the meeting but declined the position for a second term, declaring he felt the position should be passed around among the members. At his suggestion P. C. Denyes will occupy the office for 1941. Though the financial statement prepared by Secretary-Treasurer Jack Fink disclosed the costs of construction and maintenance had left the club in the red nearly $400, members were confident that with increased fees and a larger membership the club could continue to function and grow. Tabled among the initial expenses were $78.75 for rolling the greens with a steam roller and $300 for a grass cutter which President Longomer declared would cut down on the lost ball casualties. Members concurred in the opinion that the cutter was one of the essentials and anticipated improving the course still further this summer. Fees were upped from $15.00 per family to $15.00 per man; $20.00 for a man and wife. Maximum fee per family $25.00. Fees for a single lady were raised from $5.00 to $7.50. Visitors' fees fifty cents per day.

The greens will be ready by the middle of May and it is expected the opening tournament will be on the 17th.

Officers for the year are President, P. C. Denyes; Vice-President, Dr. H. B. Longmore; Secretary-Treasurer, Jack Fink; Committee of Management, President, Vice-President, Sec'y-Treasurer, and W. A. Hogle; Rules Committee, W. Peloquin, chairman; Players Committee, Mrs. R. J. Bales; Auditors, M. Sayers, F. Burger.

Giants Squeeze Bees Out 5-4; Cards Win 3-1

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The big trains are setting the right of way now on baseball's main line after a little more than a week of confusion.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds, with the best pitching staff in the major leagues, have just won two shutouts from Chicago Cubs. St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers are making their moves at the same time.

Cleveland Indians have squeezed into a tie for the American League lead. New York Yankees are climbing up and Boston Red Sox are sliding down.

Thus without any particular fanfare the races in the two big leagues are settling down for their long Summer's grind in just about the fasion everyone expected.

Bucky Walters pitched the Reds to their fourth straight triumph yesterday, with a five-hit 5-0 conquest of the Cubs.

Thus the Reds are rolling true to form and up to now haven't even tapped Monte Pearson ,their pitching pickup from the Yankees.

New York Giants still are setting the pace in the National League, but with a faltering gait that may give way at any moment. They edged out Boston Bees 5-4 yesterday by means of a four-run rally in the sixth inning.

Phils Blanked 4-0.

Brooklyn plastered a 4-0 shutout on the Phillies with Whitlow Wyatt scattering four hits. The Dodgers suffered a handicap when young Pete Reiser was hit on the right cheek by a ball pitched by Ike Pearson, but X-rays showed no bones were broken and he may be back in their lineup by the time the club has to defend itself against the Western invasion next week.

St. Louis Cardinals penned Pittsburg Pirates again 3-1 on the three-hit pitching gem of Sam Nahem, who was the "sleeper" in last year's trade that sent Joe Medwick to the Dodgers.

Cleveland cooked up a four-run inning to help Bob Feller get a 5-2 decision over St. Louis Browns.

At the same time the Yanks handed Red Sox their third straight defeat 4-2 on Phil Rizzuto's homer with one on in the 11th inning.

Hal Newhouser, who kept Detroit Tigers in striking position through the early months of last summer, pitched eight hit ball, while his teammates found their batting eye and crushed Chicago White Sox 13-5. The Tigers put together 14 hits—the first time they had made more than six in one game this season.

Philadelphia Athletics crammed nine runs into one inning for a 11-7 triumph over Washington Senators.

Leslie Pawson, 33-year-old alderman from Pawtucket, R.I., who scored his third victory in the B.A.A. marathon, is shown in the clubhouse examining his feet, after winning the 45th renewal of Boston's road-racing classic in 2 hours 30 minutes and 38 seconds. Pawson became the second man in history ever to score a third victory.

Hint Joe Through This Fall

NEW YORK, April 24—(AP).—The latest reason advanced for the Joe Louis bull market on bashing beaks this year is that the Brown Bomber definitely plans to retire this fall, probably to join the army.

Joe's "abdication" has been rumored along Jacobs Beach for the last two years, with a good deal of pooh-poohing. But a source who usually knows what's making the fight game tick told this department that this year is "it."

Because of these plans, it was explained Joe now is going right through the ranks of challengers, logical and otherwise. He wants to leave his heavyweight house in order, with no question marks concerning his stand on any big fellow with two fists and with as much "sugar" as he's going to need for fried chicken for himself and oats for those horses out there on the Michigan Dude ranch.

The whole outline, this source added, hinges on the champion's ability to knock the ears off Buddy Baer, Billy Conn, ample Abraham Simon and determined Lou Nova between now and the time he hangs his gloves up for good. If one of those four should take his title, he probably would try to regain it.

The four fights still to come — Baer in Washington next month and the other three spread over June, July and September, probably in New York—will give the Bomber a total of eight fights for the year. The four big battles figure to draw in the neighborhood of $600,000, of which Joe's share probably will be just over $225,000.

That sum, with the $76,622 he has received from his spring swat tour against Red Burman, Gus Dorazio, Simon and Tony Musto, will produce a "take" of a little more than $300,000 for 1941, the biggest year he's had since 1938, when he collected $376,029, most of it from his second get - together with Max Schmeling.

Naturally, all hands are putting a loud denial on this proposition, as they have in the past. But there are some sound reasons to believe it this time. First, Joe has a low number in the army draft and has said he would not ask for deferment. Second, he no longer gets a "kick" out of knocking the other guys' ears down. Third, there would be no other reason, except to walk out with as big a bankroll as possible, for him to take on the "contenders" he has met lately.

Big Bill Tilden Auctions Picture

MONTREAL, April 24.—(CP)—Big Bill Tilden, super-talker of the tennis courts, turned auctioneer for a few minutes here last night and sold a picture for $400 which will go toward buying a mobile kitchen for Britain.

Painted by Richard Jack, the picture depicted a winter scene in Canada. It had been donated by Jack to Mary Hardwick, British member of Tilden's tenis troupe which was playing here last night, to be auctioned.

Tilden, walking from side to side of the indoor court as he talked the bidding up, ran the price from $100 up to $400 before the picture was sold to Norman Dawe, prominent Montreal sportsman.

Bears Clip Wings In 6-3 Tilt; Bisons Triumph

NEWARK, April 24.—(AP)—Newark Bears and Buffalo Bisons had better be more careful or they're liable to lose their reputations around the International League.

A couple of power clubs from 'way back, the Bears and Bisons have always been noted more for their prowess at the plate than for their pitching strength. That's why it seeems strange to see them leading the circuit today, not so much because of their slugging capabilities but because they have been getting some of the best pitching in the league.

Yesterday's games can be taken as good examples of how well balanced the leaders are on offence and defence.

The Bears backed up the five-hit hurling of Tommy Byrne to defeat Rochester Red Wings 6-3 and the Bisons came through in the ninth innig to nose out Baltimore, 2-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Virgil (Fire) Trucks.

Byrne, a southpaw who came out of Wake Forest College last summer, chalked up his initial victory by scattering five singles. He struck out four and gave up four walks but none of the runs off him were earned. The victory gave the Bruins a clean sweep of the four-game series and shoved the Wings farther into the cellar.

A home run ball to Tom Hafey almost proved Trucks' undoing in his duel with Baltimore's Clyde Smoll. Trucks, a fireballer up from Beaumont in the Texas League, showed plenty of speed striking out 11 Orioles. He walked one.

In the only other game, Jersey City came from behind to nip Montreal Royals, 4-2.

The Sports Round-Up

By EDDIE BRIETZ, AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP). — Right up to this minute, Joe Louis' ring earnings over a 7½-year stretch are $1,798,463.46....and those pay days with the Messrs. Golfer Francis Ouimet, one of the new owners of the Bees, aspired to be ball player, but soured on the idea after walking three miles to the nearest playing field every day for two years.

Brief Messages May Be Sent Overrun Nations

Jacob Lipshitz and Alex Rahkonen are next door neighbors on the south side of Gilmour street. They also share a community of concern for relatives in parts of Europe now occupied by Germans.

It is a rather striking coincidence of circumstance that these two heads of families from far separated European countries should be living here next door to each other, the one at 563 and the other at 565 Gilmour street.

Rabbi Lipshitz and Alex Rahkonen are among the citizens in Peterborough to whom a new notice from the postal department should be of some interest.

Arrangements have been made for a system of personal postal messages to facilitate the sending of brief communications between persons in Canada and relatives and friends in enemy and enemy-occupied countries, Postmaster Lacheur told the Examiner today. This service is to begin May 1.

These messages are to be written on an official form and to be confined to simple messages not exceeding twenty words which are to be only personal relating to family news or enquiry as to their well-being. Nothing of political, economic or military character is permitted. Messages should be written in block letters and, if possible, should be written in English, French or German. The fee is twenty-five cents.

The International Red Cross Committee at Geneva, Switzerland, is acting as the intermediary for this special postal service.

Fire Sweeps Through New Jersey Resort

Homes are sacrificed to the raging forest fire, which, swept onward by strong winds, threatened to level the resort city of Lakewood, N.J., but the flames were brought under control by hundreds of fire-fighters and equipment from nearby towns and points as far away as Newark and Jersey City, 50 miles distant. A 20-mile square area between Lakewood's outskirts and Toms River was virtually burned to the ground with scores of homes in Lakewood gutted by the flames.

Havelock Hold Fine Rally St. George's Day

HAVELOCK, April 24—(ENS). — St. George's Day was fittingly recognized in Havelock on Wednesday afternoon, when a special program was prepared by the school staff, under Mr. Allan Gay, principal of the public school. Announcement of this day was made known in all churches and by the school children. The children were given a half holiday, with their teachers presiding over their classes, went to the Town Hall at 2 o'clock, to partake in the afternoon's program.

Mr. Gay introduced Mr. Bernard Smith, chairman of the public school board as chairman for the occasion, with Mr. Wildman as pianist. The program opened with the singing of God Save the King, followed by "O Canada," by the whole school. Special prayer was offered by Mr. Goheen, principal of the high school.

Chairman Mr. Smith made a few remarks on present day conditions and school work in general. A duet by Jean and Joan Quinn, dressed in smart soldierette uniforms, followed, singing "Good Luck and the Same to You," accompanied at the piano by their mother, Mrs. T. W. Quinn.

Mrs. A. McLauchlin, president of the local Red Cross Society, was the first speaker, stressing many things that the Red Cross Society are doing to relieve the conditions overseas, mentioning the 1,000 packages of food sent each week to prisoners and that word has been received that these parcels do arrive and that there is enough food in each package to do a soldier for one week. She also spoke of the transfusions of blood of a certain type, this is taken and made into a powder form and sent to relieve suffering, and stressing that if anytime anyone was asked for one ounce of their blood, to give it freely.

Little Buddy Peters sang in his usual happy manner, two very appropriate songs. The new provincial policeman, now residing in Havelock, Mr. Allan, made his first public appearance to a Havelock audience, speaking on "Obedience in the Home and School," and if this carried out it meant much toward becoming good citizens. He said children should not be afraid of a policeman, but to look upon them as their friend. He stressed the fact that children should give order at public gatherings and asked that this be given in the future.

Rev. Mr. Lemon, rector of the St. John's Anglican Church, and representing the churches, was the last speaker of the afternoon. He thanked the teaching staff, who had planned the afternoon's program and spoke briefly on St. George's Day and why we observe it. In closing, he expressed his desire that this day might be kept in the same manner each year.

The rally closed with the singing of "There'll Always Be An England," followed by the Benediction by Rev. Mr. Lemon.

Red Cross Meets

The Havelock-Belmont Red Cross Association held their weekly meeting on Thursday afternoon, in the Council Chamber, with an attendance of 20 and the president, Mrs. A. McLauchlin, presiding.

During the afternoon two quilts were quilted and completed and many garments prepared by the cutting committee for the British civilians.

The following month's quota is well underway; for British civilians —any number of flannel blazer suits for boys, pyjamas to fit boys 6 years o fage, cotton dresses for little girls, and 2 layettes; for the seamen, 5 scarfs, 5 helmets, 2 turtle neck sweaters, 5 pair of socks and 5 pair of two-way mitts; for the Women's Auxiliary—5 cardigans with sleeves, 5 cardigans without sleeves, 5 knickers, 40 pair of gloves.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Charles Couch, the treasurer, Miss Edith Roberts took the minutes. It was suggested that the Red Cross window in the Chiles Block, be re-decorated, and made made attracted with new finished garments. The usual time off for war time prayer was taken, after which work was resumed, until five o'clock.

Two Church Bees

The group meetings of the United Church were held on Wednesday afternoon, the Centre group meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Drinkwalter, and the East End group meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Watson. The West End group, under Miss Etta Crawford did not meet this week.

The Centre group, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Roberts, quilted and completed one quilt, while the East Enders, under the leadership of Miss Mary Seeney, spent the afternoon quilting also and accomplished a great deal.

Refreshments were served by the hostess of each group, and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Mr. Robert McLauchlin, son of Rev. and Mrs. McLauchlin of town has been successful in passing his first year Theological examinations at the Emanuel College, Toronto. Mr. McLauchlin took charge of the services in the United Church on Sunday last and left on Tuesday for Nobell, where he will be engaged for the summer holidays in war activities. Mr. McLauchlin will reside at Parry Sound.

Balkan Reverses Steeling British Hearts

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON,)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP). —The full extent of the disaster in the Balkans cannot yet be certainly reckoned in either a military or a political sense; but some of its grave consequences are crystal-clear, even before the last chapter in Greece is written.

German Army prestige is at a new peak.

Balkan mountains were no more effective against its onslaught than the canals of the Low Countries or the rivers of France.

What new grief for Britain may come of that is beyond estimation. Repercussions of the Nazi blow are apparent in Russia, in Turkey, in Spain, in Japan, and even in conquered France, where the pro-Nazi element is increasingly astir. They are no less evident on the home political front in London and Australia, although by every sign Balkan reverses have only steeled Great Britain and the Empire anew for the fight.

And it is on Britain herself, rather than upon the Empire lifelines in the Mediterranean, that the next major German blow is most likely to fall. Hitler has repeatedly promised his people quick and complete victory—victory this year, before winter sets in again. It is only by strangling Britain at sea or breaking her resistance by air that he can reasonably hope to achieve that vaulting ambition.

Sea Still Barrier

With completion of the Balkan campaign, Nazi air power long massed in the East will be available for use elsewhere. Some of it, probably longer-range bombers, may already be shifting across the Mediterranean to support the bogged-down Axis North African drive. The bulk of it, however, probably will be sent westward to redouble the air-and-sea attack on Britain in the months ahead.

If it could blast its way to daylight mastery of the air over the British Isles, invasion of the island might become a grim reality. As long as the Nazis fail to achieve such mastery, Britain is safe behind her sea power and her sea-washed shores.

Nerve-shattering as has been the speed and precision with which German armies have swept through the Balkans, they have reached the same barrier in the East that balked them in the West, the sea. They were designed for the Continental conquest they have achieved — to straddle Europe from the Aegean to the Bay of Biscay. Yet the sea and British sea power still stand on their road, east and west.

Only twice have they ventured beyond waters too wide for German military engineers to bridge. Hitler himself has described the Nazi invasion of Norway as the most "daring" military move of his regime, probably because of the fact that it meant the ferrying of his army across sea waters.

May Turn to Disaster

The German lunge across the Straits of Sicily to prop Italy in North Africa and renew the Axis threat against Egypt and the Suez Canal is the other instance. The fate of that move is increasingly in doubt. It could become an Axis disaster to offset victories in the Balkans. Prime Minister Menzies of Australia hinted anew at that in a London radio speech bidding his people to stand fast against an unknown toll of Australian losses in Greece.

"In the Middle East, where things now look dark,' he said, "we are determined to hold our own and may well win a notable victory."

Turkey's evacuation of civilians across the Bosphorous-Dardanelles sea passage that guards her vast non-European territory implies that Ankara, in dickering with Berlin, is making the most of that non-bridgehead barrier to Nazi mechanized invasion. It is still a formidable obstacle in Germany's eastward pathway, just as the Straits of Gibraltar and the British citadel there combine to deprive Nazidom of any certain route to victory via Spain.

The sea and the British Fleet are definite limitations on the scope of Axis successes in the Balkans.

The East offers Hitler little prospect of quick victory. Only by breaking Britain can he hope for that.

Kathleen Stokes Presents Organ Recital

Few seats were left available in Trinity United Church Wednesday night when Kathleen Stokes, well-known Toronto organist and popular accompanist of radio's "Happy Gang," presented an interesting recital of familiar compositions that displayed admirably her aptitude for adapting vocal and piano numbers at the organ. Miss Isabel Duthie and Miss Olga Westbye of Trinity Choir were soloists, with Miss Mabel Clarry at the organ, and brief opening remarks were made by Rev. D. G. S. Easton.

The organ is a noble instrument, and its majestic power were developed to the full by the artist, who had chosen a group of compositions by Grainger to open the program. "Sounds from England," giving a glimpse of the mighty spirit of Britain, and concluding thrilling with several bars from "There'll Always Be An England" and "Rule Britannia"; the "Country Gardens" and "Classica," in which chimes were used to highlight an effective medley of favorites.

Her Second Group

Miss Stokes' second group included "The Swan" by the French composer, Saint-Saens; Lieurance's melodious "By the Waters of Minnetonka" and "Similitude" (Lee Sims), the latter, a composition of rare beauty played with plenty of feeling, was particularly well liked by the audience. Boccherini's "Minuet" and Massenet's "Meditation from Thais" were played with fine technique, and chimes were again brought into play in the wistful strains of "The Rosary" (Nevin).

Closing the recital on a triumphant note was the outstanding number on the program, Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" from which was taken the patriotic song, "Land of Hope and Glory." Reflecting the note of friendliness and personality in her voice as it comes over the air waves was the gracious smile with which Miss Stokes acknowledged the evidence appreciation of her audience.

Bach's best known chorale, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," and Schubert's 'Ave Maria" were sung by Miss Duthie, and Miss Westbye was heard in Handel's "Alleulia." The program was presented by the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary, and proceeds are to be used for mission work.

Choir Of St. Paul's Church Delights Audience In Annual Concert

Mrs. Jessie Spencley sang a little song at St. Paul's last night, a quaintly tender song that assumed an insinuating pathos from its programmed relation to St. George's Day, and perhaps brought furtive tears to the eyes of her rapt audience.

For the annual concert of St. Paul's Church Choir, Martin Chenhall, director and organist, scanned through his library and brought forth a surprising variety of songs and choruses and general parts of operetta that were all brightly entertaining and more or less adequate to the commemoration of St. George's Day. One of the Chenhall offerings was entitled "The Cries of London," by Herbert Oliver, a suite of four solos and chorus, including "Buy My Rosemary, Sweetbriar O!", which the director assigned to Mrs. Spencley. It evoked in imagination a London flower girl, typical figure of happier times in the busy streets of the great city, and of its light and perhaps thoughtless humanity now deepened and broadened by community of suffering and sacrifice for that old scene and way of life attaching alike, tenuously and tenaciously, to the romantic figures of Saint George and the London flower girl.

Somehow that seemed to be the theme of Mrs. Spencley's song, and it touched close to the font of tears in the recollection of the poet's phrase, "Rosemary, that's for remembrance."

"Buy My Rosemary, Sweetbriar, O" The idea is appealingly quaint and lovely, and Mrs. Spencley sang it with a wistful, artless persuasiveness and refinement and beauty of tone that was strangely affecting. Mrs. Spencley's singing was the highlight of the concert, and it was effortless except perhaps in her restraint of the sentiment mingling in the words and their melody.

If Mr. Chenhall was not so unassuming a musician he might have paraded his concert and his choir on a larger stage. But, there was evident advantage in the narrower bounds of the platform in the Sunday school auditorium. There was nothing stagey or self-conscious about. The makeshift surroundings seemed homey and easy and unstudied, something of naturalness that may possibly be lost when a concert gets all dressed up in a strange place. Another observation was that its entire quality was far better than the choir and Mr. Chenhall seemed to realize, a notion or comment growing out of the evident preparation, for the singing was exceptionally well done, and then presenting all that entertainment in limited quarters. On the other hand, this auditorium was filled, the concert was delightful and the audience liked every incident.

Then there was Alderman Adam Sands, whose theatrical light seems to have been hidden under the proverbial bushel. Mr. Sands had a leading part in tuneful episodes from "The Windmills of Holland," and he made a humorous and otherwise capable job of it. Those assisting him were Mrs. Spencley, Mrs. George Coleman, Jr., Adam Sands, Jr. Helen Miller, Miss Isabel Hamilton and James McBride. And a final feature was the singing of the National Anthem of Holland by W. E. A. Beyaert, formerly of Utrecht, in his native language, repeated in English by the choir.

Other soloists in the "Cries of London" were Mrs. Helen Johnson, Miss Isabel MacKay, and Miss Olive Cullen.

In th opening selections from the cantata, "St. George for England," the soloists were Mrs. Johnson and John Anderson.

Mr. Chenhall also introduced a scene from an old English ballad opera, "No Song, No Supper," by Hutton, sung by Mrs. Fred Board, Miss Coleman, Stan McLeod and Howard Macdonald.

The principal parts were allotted to Mrs. Board and Mr. MacLeod, who brought out all its old fashioned humor.

Other soloists in the program were Mrs. L. R. Mitchell, who sang "Roses of Picardy," in a rose group of numbers, and Mrs. A. R. Bennett, who was allotted the melodic "Maple Leaf and Rose; and Don Flett, Barbara Clark, Margaret Macdonald, Margaret Duthie, Jean and Katherine Hendry, Barbara Rishor.

The choir itself was in fine concert form, perhaps lacking somewhat in numbers and strength of men's voices. Two of its best numbers were "Spring Song" by Pinsuti, timely in selection and blithely sung, and the other was a ladies' chorus, "Come Where the Nodding Violets Grow" by Handel, marked by pleasing vocal texture.

Mr. Chenhall provided decidedly pleasing entertainment last night and the choir gave him splendid support. Rev. Dr. Barr was chairman for his last choir concert at St. Paul's, as his ministry is now only a few days from its end in Peterborough.

Incidentally the choir made the most of their platform stage, relieving the bareness of background with decorative trellises lent by the Woolworth Company, and also adding other floral beauty from the greenhouse of George Sorenson.

Because of a serious shortage of adding and calculating machines in Britain private owners have been asked to sell or lend theirs to the government.

Only Single Plane Lost Of Nearly One Thousand Flown Over To Great Britain

LONDON, April 24—(CP).—Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production, told the House of Lords yesterday that "nearly 1,000 assembled American and Canadian aircraft have been handed over to the R.A.F."

Lord Beaverbrook said that "up to this moment we have only lost one aircraft, Sir Frederick Banting's, on the ferry service between America and this country."

Lord Beaverbrook said the Admiralty had received "within the last few days 95 aircraft by sea, 355 tons of airplane parts and 326 engines."

"Five new types of engines have been brought into use, of which the Sabre is perhaps the greatest engine produced," he said.

"The flow of aircraft from America is increasing rapidly," he declared.

"I am prepared to say with authority that they are fine machines and that they are ready to fly and fight.

"Of five principal operational types we have reserves now in storehouses scattered far and near—a reserve total equal to the total operational strength. That is 100 per cent. reserve.

"Do not suppose we are satisfied with this reserve.

"We think the R.A.F. is entitled to a reserve of 200 or even 300 per cent, and that ought to be the object and purpose of the aircraft industry."

Lord Beaverbrook said "the dispersal of production has been carried out on a very daring basis," declaring that "one plant alone, which used to occupy a single site, is now scattered over five counties and 42 different centres." He said German claims of bombing airplane factories "turned out to be nothing at all because our factories had gone away."

The air ferrying system, the minister said, "not only is continuing but is likely to be extended."

"It is quite possible that we shall be able to fly some of our fighters before long by a route somewhat different from taken by bombers."

Lord Beaverbrook said "there has been, of course, a steady drain on our shipments of aircraft by sea from America due to losses in convoy."

'We greatly deplore the destruction of splendid aircraft so suitable for our purposes but the disappointment is somewhat dissipated by knowledge that the flow of aircraft from the U.S.A. is now increasing with such rapidity that we shall certainly reach one day the supply which I was authorized by the U.S.A. to promise six months ago."

Canada To Speed Facilities For Ship Repairs

OTTAWA, April 24 — (CP). — In view of the intensification of sea warfare, Canadian facilities for ships' repairs are "to be stepped up to a maximum," Munitions Minister Howe said in a statement released yesterday.

Mr. Howe said the most important step taken in this direction by the department was the appointment of David B. Carswell as controller, and William Percival as deputy controller, of ship repairs. Mr. Carswell has been controller of ship construction and repair since Nov. 27, and director of the shipbuilding of the department for more than a year.

"It is vitally necessary that maximum facilities for the repair of ships be provided on this side of the Atlantic," Mr. Howe said. "For that reason Mr. Carswell and Mr. Percival will in future concentrate upon this pressing need."

F. A. Willsher, chairman of the board of steamship inspection of the transport department and a naval architect of wide experience, will succeed Mr. Carswell as director general of the shipbuilding branch of the munitions department. This branch will continue to administer Canada's extensive naval construction program while the building of cargo vessels is in the hands of Wartime Merchant Shipping Limited, a governor-owned company headed by H. R. MacMillan of Vancouver with head offices in Montreal.

Mr. Willsher has been technical adviser to the shipbuilding branch since March 1, at the same time retaining his position as chairman of the Board of Steamship Inspections.

ican convoys, particularly since the adoption of the British aid program. Speculation has centred on what action might be expected if lease-lend supplies were sent to the bottom by Germany's counter-blockade.

Administration officials, however, have consistently refrained from any statement which would indicate convoys are contemplated. President Roosevelt was quoted as having told some Congressmen at a White House conference early this month that convoys "are too absurd to talk about" at present.

Nevertheless, reports of the 1,000-mile defence zone patrol were expected to intensify the efforts of a Senate group which has been seeking action on an anti-convoy resolution. Efforts to incorporate such a provision in the Lease-Lend Bill were unsuccessful.

A resolution to forbid the use of convoys is now before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Some of its supporters were reported planning to seek to have the proposal taken out of the committee's hands and brought to the floor, should the committee vote to shelve it.

Administration officials are known to oppose such a restriction, both because of the undesirable psychological effect it might create in Axis nations and because it might tie the Government's hands in a sudden emergency.

ing spectre of 'too late'," and added:

"That is the criticism now—not that we should have withheld support from Greece but that our effort both diplomatic and military was too feeble and too late."

Eden Mission Missed

It said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had been given the task of welding Turkey, Yugoslavia and Greece into an effective alliance but that he "failed in his mission."

The Daily Herald, Laborite organ, said the outcome of the Balkan campaign had been obvious from the start, adding, "We have not yet overcome the handicap inflicted on this nation by the short-sighted, self-satisfied leadership of the years immediately preceding the war.

"Our efforts of the last 12 months —immense though they have seemed to us—leave us still exposed to the humiliation of withdrawal and still distant from the time when we shall push Hitler around the map as he now pushes us."

Of German plans after subjection of Greece, the Daily Herald quoted foreign diplomatic sources as saying Berlin had demanded from Turkey full military control of the Bosporus and Dardanelles Straits in exchange for a slice of Grecian Thrace—and had demanded an immediate reply from Ankara.

(Foreign sources in Turkey earlier expressed belief the Turks might agree to close the straits to all foreign warships but would not give up control of the vital waterway even if confronted with a German ultimatum and that they would resist passage of Nazi troops through their territory.)

which cut the Greeks' principal line of retreat and "obliged these forces —which did not possess anti-tank guns—to turn off toward the mountains in which withdrawal and provisioning became problematical."

Despite this situation, the High Command said, the Epirus army fought to the last against Italian forces outnumbering it two to one and until the hour of the armistice kept Fascist troops off Greek soil.

Rents Pegged At January 2 Level

Peterborough Is Made Rent Control Area

Maximum rents in Peterborough are to be pegged at the levels of January 2, 1941, by an order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board which comes into effect after May 1.

The announcement that Peterborough has been declared a rent control area was made from Ottawa last night. The local area comprises the city and bordering parts of North Monaghan, Smith and Douro townships.

The local rental committee for this community will be any judge or acting judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough. Presumably that places the authority to hear rental appeals in the hands of Judge Smoke and the several other judges who with him comprise a County Court circuit.

Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, rentals administrator, said in his announcement: "This new board order provides that, effective on and after May 1, 1941, the maximum rentals in force in these added areas are those prevailing on January 2, 1941, or if the accommodation was not rented on that date, the rental payable under the latest lease in 1940."

Applications for variation of the fixed maximum rentals will be received up to and including June 30, 1941. Property owners who feel that they are justified in asking for rent increases are advised to note this date.

Peterborough is one of five new rent control areas. The other four are Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Oshawa and Belleville.

These new rental courts are all placed within the jurisdiction of County Judges.

Not A Deterrent

Hon. Mr. Martin said at Ottawa yesterday that owners of newly constructed houses "need have no fear of the effect of rent control" so long as they refrain from asking exorbitant or excessive rentals.

"The rent-fixing orders of the wartime prices and trade board do not make it obligatory for either local rental committees or myself to determine the rents for new housing. The regulations do give to me, and similarly to local rental committees, the power to determine maximum rents of new housing if application is made to us to do so.

That provision was designed simply to avoid the occurrence of grossly exorbitant rents being demanded for the cheapest type of frame construction.

So long as owners are prepared to refrain from asking exhorbitant or excessive rents. I know of no reason why they should not proceed with their plans for new construction. Only when rentals on new houses are found to be exorbitant or excessive will the rentals adminstrator be disposed to intervene."

Several local citizens expressed the opinion today that the pegging of Peterborough rents should not deter the building of new houses. It was evident, they said, that nothing in the control legislation would interfere with the charging of reasonable rates based on present investment. At the same time it was frankly feared that the idea of pegging might cause prospective builders to hesitate from spending their money on new houses in circumstances of some doubt.

Area Defined

The Peterborough area which comes under the rental regulations is precisely defined in the Board's order as: "The City of Peterborough, that part of the Township of North Monaghan bounded on the east and north east by the Otonabee River, on the north by McKellar street and on the west by Monaghan Road, including both sides of such streets and that part of the said Township consists of Kenneth avenue, High street, Frank street, Chamberlain street, Brown street, Lundy's Lane, Romaine street, west and St. Mary's street, and that part of Smith Township consisting of Wolsley street, Bennett street, and Belleview avenue and that part of Douro Township consisting of River Road and Leahy's Lane."

Plan Ceremony For Centenial At Court House

Tentative plans for Peterborough County's Centennial celebration call for a historic ceremony at the century-old Court House, a gala sports day at Lakefield and a Red Cross dance at Havelock, Deputy-Reeve Alex Archibald of North Monaghan disclosed today.

"We have not been able to arrange our full program yet, but we have definitely decided that something just be done to commemorate the occasion," he said, stating that he would like to see a pageant which would re-enact pioneer days but felt war conditions put it out of the question. "We will certainly be having a ceremony at the Court House, at any rate. We all have reason to be proud of our hundred years of progress and we can't let such an occasion pass without some observance."

Special Classes

School authorities throughout the County will likely be asked to cooperate by holding special classes for reviewing the County's history, Mr. Archibald said, disclosing that a member of his committee, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, is preparing a historic record for publication which will soon be available.

Besides the County Council, it is the intention to invite members of all municipal councils within the county to an outing at Lakefield, which is also being planned in connection with the event, Mr. Archibald revealed. "The full program has not been completed, but a gala day is assured," he said.

Red Cross Benefit

Warden Ernest Seeney has accepted the responsibility of making arrangements for a Red Cross dance at Havelock, which will probably be held on the evening after the sports program.

"There have been a number of other suggestions made for events, some of them very good ones too, but they still have to come up for consideration," said Mr. Archibald, stating he would likely be calling a meeting of his committee in a few days to consider proposals. "If it was ordinary times, I would be in favor of an elaborate program, but we must not forget that our main duty is to save all we can for the war effort."

In addition to Mr. Archibald and Mrs. Kerr, the centennial committee also includes William A. Anderson, of Otonabee township, Allan Mann of Smith, Warden Seeney of Havelock and Miss Jessie Batten, county clerk.

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce would be willing to cooperate in helping the committee in any way, if called upon, J. J. Doris, secretary, said today, when told of the celebration plans.

Sixth Donation Is Cabled To War Victims

With the arrival of permission from the Foreign Exchange Control Board the 6th £500 was cabled to the Lord Mayor, London, England, today by the secretary-manager of the fund in the name of the citizens of Peterborough and District over the signature of His Worship Mayor James Hamilton. The message read, "Citizens of Peterborough and District, cable you 6th £500 today to alleviate distress of air raid victims. More follows. James Hamilton, Mayor.

Wednesday night, the secretary-manager was the guest of the Centre Theatre for a short while and was presented by the manager, Mr. Goldstone, with a cheque for $21.10, the entire proceeds of a special "Salute to Britain" matinee, held that afternoon for the benefit of the fund. The showing of the film, "This is England" just prior to this made one feel happy and proud that the citizens of Peterborough and District were doing something to help these of our fellow Empire citizens, who were standing up so nobly to the barbarous onslaughts of the Boche, and through the fund, all citizens at large have an opportunity to demonstrate their sympathy and admiration for them.

Hand Painted Picture

Mrs. F. W. Gray has donated a beautiful hand painted picture "English Bloodhounds" to the fund, the work of her own art, and it has been framed by the Roy Studio as a contribution from F. L. Roy to the fund. This will be on display at Grafton's Ltd., and the Girl Guides and Brownies under Mrs. R. Whalon, will sponsor the sale of tickets for a draw on it, at 15c a ticket or two for 25c. These will go on sale tomorrow. The City Carpet Bowling League contributes today and in an accompanying letter from the secretary, Mr. G. Col F. E. Birdsall Is Elected President Canadian Hereford Breeders Association

Lieutenant-Colonel F. E. Birdsall was elected president of the Canadian Hereford Breeders' Association at its recent annual meeting in Calgary.

The association donated $1,000 to the fund of the Lord Mayor of London for the relief of people in the Old Country who have been afflicted by German air raids.

During the convention period the annual spring bull sale, reputed to be the largest of its kind in the world, disposed of 263 Shorthorns at an average price of $172.82; 107 Aberdeen-Angus at the average of $195.70; and 310 Herefords at the average of $303.77.

Buyers paid for bulls alone the total of $158,825, setting up the best record for the famous Calgary sale in the last twenty-three years.

Some of the animals were purchased by American farmers, others went to British Columbia. They were all consigned by Alberta cattle men, and the speed of the bidding can be appreciated from the fact that one animal was sold every three minutes. The highest priced bull was of the Hereford breed, selling for $1,976. A breeder from Millerville named Spooner contributed a young bull to the Red Cross Society. It produced $385.

Prices were generally sharply in advance of last year's indicating a strong basis of value for the breeding industry and encouragement for the beef cattle producers.

Colonel Birdsall said the Hereford Association is looking forward to a promising year. Commenting from memory the Examiner suggested that Colonel Birdsall is the first Peterborough county farmer to be elected president of any of the national association of cattle breeders.

Drunken Driver Given 7 Days

As the aftermath to a minor accident on Aylmer street Tuesday night in which an automobile belonging to W. C. Simmons was damaged, Walter McNachtan was today in police court sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. to seven days' imprisonment on a charge of drunken driving and fined $20 and $2.50 costs on a hit-and-run charge.

The accused pleaded guilty to both charges yesterday and appeared this morning for sentence.

Constable Leo Murphy who investigated the case was called to give evidence and told of Nachtan's arrest on the Lakefield Road following an accident on Aylmer street.

John A. Bradshaw who appeared for the accused pointed out in connection with the drunken driving charge that very little damage had been done and asked for the minimum sentence.

"As to the hit-and-run charge," he said, "the accused through his counsel states that he did stop after the accident and talk to a man and in his befuddled condition he thought that it was the owner of the other car."

"The only reason why the damages have not been paid is that we did not know until this morning who owned the automobile that was hit."

In addition to the jail sentence and fine Magistrate Langley cancelled the driving license of the accused for a month on each charge.

$300,000 For Missions

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—An additional $300,000 for the relief of British missions was voted yesterday by the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church. A previous campaign for the same amount was oversubscribed by $4,300. Other Peterborough churches held special services last Sunday. The Sons of England attended the evening service at St. George's Anglican church where the Rev. T. H. Floyd was the preacher, in a body.

Reserve Judgment In Business Claim

Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice Greene at a special sitting of court Wednesday after hearing evidence in an action of Mrs. Mabel the Ideal Dairy Company. Mrs. Tolton against Elgin Anderson of Tolton claimed partnership in the business, testifying that she had paid $750 to Anderson in a deal made about December, 1938. Anderson claimed that $500 of the money was paid as security to guarantee proper management of the business by plaintiff's husband, M. Tolton, and claimed the remaining $250 was money collected in connection with the former business. W. J. Arthur Fair represented Mrs. Tolton and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for Mr. Anderson.

Salvage Drive Gets Under Way

"All the trucks promised turned out today and they did a good morning's work," said Inspector J. F. Reid at noon in reporting on the results of the first collection in the local salvage drive.

East City and the remainder of the city north of Charlotte Street were covered this morning, and a large amount of waste of all kinds was picked up and taken to the city wards, where it will be properly sorted.

Tomorrow the section of the city south of Charlotte Street will be visited by the collecting trucks, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., and the same schedule will be followed on Thursday and Friday of each week until the end of May.

Householders in the southern portion of the city are asked to have their waste out early tomorrow ready for the trucks.

Car Carries Cyclist Over Curb Of Street

Carman Kelcey, 71 McDonnel Street, suffered an injured knee, a cut lip and had a tooth knocked out, when he was struck by an automobile on Water Street, immediately north of McDonnel Street, shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday night.

The boy was riding a bicycle, and his escape from more serious injury is surprising in view of the fact that after being hit by the motor car, which was driven by J. A. Might, Millbrook, he was carried over the curb and on to a lawn before the vehicle came to a stop.

A number of motor cars figured in the affair. There were two large moving vans parked on the east side of Water Street. On the west side was an automobile driven by W. H. Girven, 577 Waterford Street. Might was driving south and as he got near the Girven car the latter pulled out from the curb and Might said he had to swing wide to avoid a collision. As he did so Kelcey rode north on his bicycle and Might told the police that although he swerved again to try to keep from hitting the boy, he did not quite succeed in doing so, the left front fender of the automobile striking the machine and carrying it and the rider over the sidewalk.

Constable Harold Mesley, who investigated the accident, ordered the Might car to be taken to a garage for attention to its brakes and took the injured lad to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment.

Heavy Docket Is Set Down Civil Actions

COBOURG, April 24—(ENS). — There is an interesting series of actions to be heard at the Cobourg non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario, beginning Monday, April 28, before the Honorable Mr. Justice Urquhart.

Dewar vs. Stevenson is a claim by the plaintiffs for $10,000 against Lloyds Syndicates doing business under the name and style of Lloyds Underwriters.

The plaintiff is Angus M. Dewar, administrator of the will of George Dean Buchan, who died accidentaly when a shotgun which he had while hunting, accidently discharged. The fatality occurred in May, 1940.

Ross vs. Excelsior Life is a claim by the plaintiffs for $10,150, for money alleged payable by the defendant under the terms of a life insurance policy issued by the defendant company.

In Abbott vs. Blaffer, the plaintiff, Franklin L. Abbott's claim is to recover $1,300 for work and services performed for the defendant and at her request.

In Westfall vs. Westfall, the plaintiff's claim is for a declaration that the marriage purporting to have been solemnized between the plaintiff and the defendant on or about the 5th of November in the city of Montreal is a null by reason of the alleged previous marriage of the said defendant, to Cleo Marie Chambers of Montreal. The plaintiff also claims interim alimony of $35 per week and permanent maintenance.

The claim in this action is entered by John R. Ewenson, father of Mary Elizabeth Westfall, who is described as an infant, being under 21 years of age, against Arnold Franklin Westfall. Father and daughter reside in the village of Brighton.

The defendant avers that his average earning are not over $20 a week.

One Lost Plane

London, April 24 (CP Cable)

LORD BEAVERBROOK, minister of air production, disclosed in the House of Lords yesterday that the only British plane lost in the transatlantic ferry service was the one in which Sir Frederick Banting was killed in Newfoundland.

"The story of the airplane we lost is a sad one," the minister related. "Five aircraft started out from Newfoundland. Four arrived. One turned back, having sent a signal in the night asking for bearings from Newfoundland. It landed in trees and Sir Frederick Banting, the Canadian scientist, lost his life."

3 Months Ahead Of Germans In Night Raiding

LOS ANGELES, April 24—(AP).—Britain is "finding the answer" to Germany's night bombing raids, Air Marshal William A. Bishop of the Royal Canadian Air Force said yesterday in an address prepared for a luncheon of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

"We were three months ahead of Germany in night bombing, and although when she began, she had a superior force of bombers, we are still the superior navigators at night and we still benefit from this," he said.

He said the Germans "have reached their maximum, allowing for other commitments.

"Both sides at present are sending their night bombers over without appreciable or important losses.

"The answer is not to be found in any sudden remedy. But the remedy will be found. There are methods of making it more difficult for the night bomber. I only wish I could tell you how swiftly we are finding the answer in that regard.

"The outstanding event in aircraft production for the year is the discovery, by both sides, that the day bomber has a diminishing horizon; that it could not hope for decisive results against an adequately-defended fighter zone and that it was not worth the casualties incurred.

"We made the discovery first and we began our night bombing of Germany with the experience in navigation gained in our leaflet raids. And it is to be remembered that navigation over Germany is more simple than over the British Isles.

"There is no doubt that invasion of Britain remains one of the standing dishes on Hitler's menu. But the dish isn't duck soup.

"The blow will be terrifying in its ferocity but Britain will survive it."

I.O.D.E. Urges Support For British Movies

HAMILTON, April 24 — (CP). — Support of British films as revenue-producers for the British Government's war effort was urged today before the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, by Mrs. D. W. McGibbon of Toronto in her report on films.

Mrs. McGibbon added that it is the duty of such an organization as the I.O.D.E. to impress upon the film industry that it is watching the industry, that is ready to cooperate with it, and, if necessary, is ready to bring pressure to bear to counteract any threat to the youth of the country and to Christian ideals.

Miss A. B. Dwyer of St. Catharines, reporting on Empire work in India, said there had been an increase in financial support and interest in St. Helena's School at Poona and Canadian Hospital at Nasik, to which the I.O.D.E. contributes.

Wearing Them Thin

DENVER, April 24—(AP). — To avoid embarrassment, Colorado highway patrolmen soon may have to "call politely out the window to traffic violators," says Supervisor Joseph Marsh. Continual getting into and out of their automobiles has worn thin the seats of their pants. The $28,000 needed for repairs or new ones isn't available.

Modern farm machinery is used on only a few farms in Manchuria.

Dollars To Doughnuts

"Mr. Weeming said, 'Miss Davenport frequently leaves on trips without informing me exactly of her destination.'

"Greta Henckel, maid at the Park Avenue apartment, told reporters that Miss Davenport had not packed for a trip. 'All her clothes and all her luggage are still here. We don't understand it. We are dreadfully worried,' said the maid.

"Miss Davenport's fiancee, Fernando de Grandezzi, notified Federal Bureau of Investigation officials of the girl's disappearance. He stated that he had long feared Miss Davenport might be the victim of a kidnaping plot."

"Hey, Bee, you up already?" came Toby's voice.

"I—I went out for the newspapers," Beatrice answered steadily. It had come, and they might as well get it over with.

TOBY padded out in bathrobe and slippers. She laughed when she saw the outspread papers. "You splunged! That's what I call a pal. Let's see 'em." She picked up the paper with the bathing suit picture. "Hmmm."

Beatrice held her breath. She closed her eyes. Girded herself. But Toby was calmly picking up the second tabloid.

"So this is her at her wonderful $50,000 party? I ask you, Bee. What's she got that we haven't?"

Beatrice nearly choked. She stared dizzily at Toby's composed face "Don't you—I mean—" She couldn't go on! Didn't Toby recognize those pictures? What was the matter with the girl?

But Toby draped herself over the table, leaning on her elbows, and began reading the news stories. She skipped about in them, murmuring. She yawned.

Beatrice couldn't believe it. She looked at the picture of herself and Clarence in the night club. It was as plain as could be. Where were Toby's eyes

But then, scrutinizing it more carefully, she thought, "Perhaps it's not so obvious in this picture . . ."

Her hair had been piled high on the top of her head, in a sleek and fashionable coiffure. The pictured girl, in her daring evening dress, was exquisitely groomed. She had a polished perfection, like a model in a high style advertisement. But the eyes, the nose, the very shape of the mouth—why, a blind man could spot it!

"It's me! Me!" Beatrice thought insistently. "What's the matter with her? I can't stand this suspense!"

Strangely, incredibly, Toby Masters gave no sign of seeing anything familiar in any of the pictures. Vera, when she rose ten minutes later, looked them over and gave no sign, either.

"Am I mad?" Beatrice asked herself dizzily. "Or have they known all the time?" A terrible certainty gripped her.

That was it! They'd known, they'd been laughing at her.

And now they were waiting, like two cats with a mouse. Waiting to see what she'd do, what she'd say.

At the Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training School, the students were called into a special assembly where slides of St. George's "slaying the dragon" were shown. Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal, read a bulletin from the Ontario Department of Education calling upon all pupils to take part in a salute to England in commemoration of the occasion. L. J. Pettit explained the significance of the celebration and reviewed some of the legends of St. George. Miss J. MacTavish read "The Banner of St. George." All joined in singing patriotic songs.

Observance in public schols was marked with special classes at which the history of the Empire was reviewed, legends of St. George discussed and singing of patriotic selections. The Rev. H. L. Roberts of George Street United Church was a visitor at Central School where he addressed the classrooms.

Banquet Planned For Hockey Teams

COBOURG, April 24.—(ENS)—Church hockey has always been a big thing in Cobourg and the teams that take part generally have a reward of some kind. The players that each year enjoy a get-together are St. Andrew's teams. Friday night the boys who wear the colors of St. Andrew's will be guests at a banquet given in their honor

The supper will take place in the Sunday School which is part of the fine new building erected only a few years ago after fire had destroyed the historic old church.

Four teams will fill the places at the banquet tables. They are the Midget Bees and A's, Bantams and Juveniles.

Of the four teams the bantams had the best record going through the season unbeaten and tied only once. Their manager is Chief of Police W. J. Carey of the Cobourg force.

The juvenile team won its group but went down to defeat in the playoffs.

Mrs. Bullock Hostess To Junior Institute

LAKEFIELD, April 24.—(ENS).—Mrs. Gilbert Bullock as hostess on Wednesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heard, Smith, to members of the Lakefield Junior Institute and their friends at a crokinole party.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. R. Bullock and Allan Preston with high scores, and consolation prizes to Miss Frayne Johns and Orville Elliott.

Five tables of crokinole were played and one of euchre.

At the conclusion of the games and following lunch, a hearty vote of thanks was extended the host and hostesses by Miss Hazel Northey, president of the Institute.

TRY NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL ... FOR WHITER CLOTHES IN WASHERS OLD OR NEW

IF you are a washing machine user, you simply owe it to yourself to try this new "miracle" soap. For the results it gives are so utterly amazing that thousands of washing machine owners are changing to it . . . discarding their old favorite washing machine soaps as things of the past!

New High-Test OXYDOL can give such amazing results for it is a new-type soap, containing a remarkable new ingredient. An ingredient that vastly increases its white-washing power, yet keeps it SAFE for washable colors, and fabrics.

Tested against less efficient soaps, new High-Test Oxydol has been found to do these astonishing things:—

(1) Gets clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter than bar and package soaps that lack its new "miracle" ingredient. Actual Tintometer shades—as shown by our laboratory tests. (2) Cup for cup—it gives up to three times the suds —suds that stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet it is so SAFE that even cotton prints, given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—stayed looking bright and sparkling as new, wash after wash.

New High-Test Oxydol is economical, too. Each cup of it goes up to one-fourth again as far as less modern soaps we have tested.

So, no matter what soap you've been using, try new High-Test OXYDOL today. You'll be so thrilled with its amazingly white, bright washes, you'll never go back to less modern soaps again. MADE IN CANADA

Trouble Looming In Africa For Axis Blitz

(By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.)

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP).—Prime Minister Churchill has thrown out a veiled hint that events may be impending in North Africa which will lighten a little the gloom over increasing ominous news from Greece.

Exactly what his words to Parliament implied is uncertain; yet there seemed to be some significance in the fact that he refused to discuss the Libyan campaign, although he said his Government was "very accurately informed" on the situation there.

"I do not think that any statement on Libya would be appropriate at the present time," Mr. Churchill said.

There have been increasing intimations that the navy and the reinforced Army of the Nile might be preparing to abandon defensive for offensive tactics. Even a terse Berlin assertion that the Nazi-Fascist spearhead in the Salum sector on the Libyan-Egyptian border is again in motion eastward might reflect that.

Invasion of Egypt Risky

The British hold on Tobruk and in the Salum area has not been broken. Further Axis penetration into Egypt with that threat in its rear, and the British Mediterranean fleet battering its distant communication lines in the Straits of Sicily and at Tripoli, would seem risky. Perhaps Nazi air scouts have seen signs of an impending counter-attack from the east and the Axis forces feel compelled to move eastward in an attempt to break it up.

Another intimation that the British Command may have been able to rush substantial reinforcements into Egypt from East Africa has now come from neutral sources. An Associated Press correspondent who reached Turkey from the British front in Greece estimates the strength of the Empire forces in Greece at from 50,000 to 80,000 men. He pictured that army as retiring under protection of desperately fighting rear guards and a brave Greek stand on its left flank to re-embarkation from Southern Greek ports.

It is the story of that retreat that Mr. Churchill refused to tell now to Parliament. Yet he estimate of the number of Empire troops still in Greece implies either that some have already been withdrawn or that a greater portion of the Army of the Nile in North Africa was diverted toward the East African war theatre than was sent to Greece. If that is true, a formidable British force must be mustering east of the Libyan-Egyptian frontier for defensive or offensive action.

Greek Situation Grave

Whatever may be the facts as to that, however, hour-by-hour reports from Greece picture an increasingly grave situation for the Greeks and their British allies alike. Mr. Churchill's deferred accounting to Parliament on the Balkan campaign can only further prepare Empire public opinion for bitter news.

Rumors in Italy of Greek Army surrender may be premature. With Nazi forces stabbing westward through to Janina all Greek forces still north of the Janina-Goumenista road would be caught in the Nazi-Fascist trap. They would escape only by sea. Italian estimates say there are some fourteen Greek divisions in that trap designed to pinch off the extreme Allied left flank at a single bite.

Nazi occupation of Lamia, on the opposite flank, is a less dangerous immediate development for the British troops holding that front, provided it did not cut off any substanial British forces east of the Larisso-Lamia road. The town of Lamia, while an important crossroads, was not the key to the new British defence line. British commanders are unquestionably seeking to anchor that line on the shores of the Gulf of Lamia, southeastward of the town in the vicinity of Thermopylae.

The shelter of that water bastion on their right is vital to British hopes of salvaging any part of their army in Greece by sea or of holding on long enough to permit some of the Greek forces west of them to complete their withdrawal to whatever line they hope to reach.

Apsley Enjoys Sacred Play

APSLEY, April 24.—(ENS).— A sacred play entitled "The Holy Sepulchre" was put on Tuesday evening in Apsley United church by the "the Wesley War Workers" from near Buckhorn. It was very much enjoyed by a large audience, about 30 or more took part.

The platform was beautifully decorated with flowers, plants, and evergreens to represent the garden scene. After the play the Women's Association gave the guests a dainty lunch in the Public Library. The proceeds are for Apsley United church.

The St. George's Women's quilt met at the home of the president, Mrs. J. Downing. Five members and 2 visitors were present. Mrs. Cathcart took the place of the secretary, Mrs. Lean, who was away. The president gave those present a book of tickets, to be sold on a quilt, draw to be later on. It was also decided to make another quilt to be given to the War Service Club. Mrs. Downing and Mrs. Smith offered to cut out blocks on Monday night, assisted by Mrs. Cathcart, members to make blocks. Mrs. John McColl suggested that the teen age girls be asked to join the guild. Rev. Mr. Cathcart explained about the service of intercession to be held soon. Lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be on May 8 at the home of Mrs. C. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McColl and Mr. and Mrs. S. McColl are staying for a few days in Unionville, where they attended the funeral of their brother-in law, Mr. W. Coulson, who was killed on Tuesday when his team of young colts threw him from the wagon. Mrs. Coulson was before her marriage Miss Myrtle McColl, and was born in Apsley.

Mrs. T. H. Lean and children, Donna and David, spent last week visiting near Toronto.

Miss Iris Smith stayed with Miss Alice Bullied, Peterborough, for a few days last week.

Master Lewis Smith was the guest of his sister, Miss L. Smith, Bethune street, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kilborn and Mr. T. Harris took 10 pupils from this district to Toronto on Wednesday morning, returning on Thursday evening, to attend the Music Festival held there. Those who went from here were Masters B. Smith, K. Brown, L. Brown, R. Tucker, A. Reid, Misses Lois Reid, G. Kilborn and Barry Kilborn.

Farewell Said To Mrs. Barr By Group

Farewell to Mrs. (Rev.) A. T. Barr, a valued member for the past two years of the North End group of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid, who leaves next week for her new home in St. John's, Newfoundland, was said at the April meeting of the organization, held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Hall, London street. Mrs. Barr was presented with an evening bag by Mrs. Latimer, group convener, together with sincere words of appreciation for her work and interest in connection with the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Kenneth Mahood read bible selections and Mrs. Gordon Hall led in prayer for King, Country and "our guest." Miss Audrey Hatherley gave a reading, "Our Baby in Church," and guitar numbers were presented by Elva and Jean Gray and Mr. Goslin, pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Rowland Pammett. A talk on the life of Winston Churchill, leader of land, sea and air forces in the present conflict, was given by Mrs. William Steinkrauss. Although his early life was much beset by illness and disease, he grew up to be a healthy, robust, enduring character. Three times he came very close to death, yet he was saved to take the helm again in the hour of crises.

Mrs. Steinkrauss referred to Churchill as a man who never sacrificed his principles, even to save himself from losing prestige with his political party. He is far-sighted and can see beyond the men of his time. Many influential positions have been given his best service and through his writings he has become England's hero and a party by himself, revered and honored even by his political opponents.

Mrs. James Dutton presented the chapter from the study book, of which every page breathes forth a message for daily living. A vote of thanks was voiced by Miss Braeley to all who had helped in the success of the program, and to the hostess, who served tea, assisted by the social committee. Dr. Barr brought the evening to a close with the benediction.

Knitters Must Continue

Word comes from London that although summer lies ahead it is not the moment to stop knitting, but rather the time to prepare a supply of heavy knitted goods for next winter's campaign. Among the articles listed as most important are: Sea boot stockings, spiral sea boot stockings, socks, pullovers, steering gloves, Balaclava helmets, scarfs, mufflers, caps, gloves and bed socks.

Successful Tea Held By St. John's Auxiliary

A successful and well attended afternoon tea was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Ida Wesley, George street, by the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church, where Mrs. W. J. Downer, president, and Mrs. J. Lockington received with the hostess, and bright spring flowers and a glowing grate fire added to the charm of spacious rooms.

Mrs. R. T. F. Brain ushered guests to the tea room, where the tea table was attractive with a yellow damask cloth and a large silver bowl filled with mauve stocks and pink sweet peas. Mrs. P. A. Martyn was in charge of tea arrangements, and presiding during the afternoon were Mrs. W. E. Conway, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. E. Thompson and Mrs. L. Spriggs. Assisting to serve were Mrs. L. R. Groombridge, Mrs. J. W. Bryett, Mrs. J. Bell, Mrs. W. Copperthwaite, Mrs. E. W. Boyer.

Mrs. B. Ottewell, Dorcas convener, displayed the bale, Mrs. W. Franks, Miss A. Foote and Mrs. F. Marshall convened the home-cooking table, and a table of manufacturers' samples was in charge of Mrs. J. Dunkerley and Mrs. Stewart. Miss L. Detcher was treasurer.

help, although it is considerable, but the spirit which lies behind their effort. These school children are contributing warm clothing, blankets, afghans, made with their own hands so that someone in the Mother Country may have warmth and comfort.

There will be no record of this in history, but it is one of the things that will be remembered by many grateful Britishers and local citizens who can feel a glow of pride in the interest that the children are taking in helping in this cause. It is remarkable the amount of work which the children have turned in to the Red Cross for shipment overseas. Many people do not realize the welcome contributions which these under teen-age pupils make to the war effort and some acknowledgment of the excellent manner in which they are co-operating with the Red Cross and other organizations in providing vitally needed articles should be made. The teachers under whose guidance the work is carried on deserve all due credit for their patience and direction.

The children are learning to do constructive things, not only benefiting the people of Britain, but obtaining a grounding in knitting and sewing, which will prove valuable in later life.

WE . . . NOTICED

. . . According to statements made by growers and importers, there are two good reasons why an increasing number of Canadians should demand Empire-grown citrus fruits. One is that the Empire brand compares in taste and quality with the finest specimens grown in other parts of the world, and the other is that Canadians who purchase Empire-grown products are rendering a useful, patriotic service.

. . . In addition to helping Canada conserve its foreign exchange, housewives who ask for Trinidad grapefruit for example, will help provide a much-needed market for the Trinidad growers who are unable to ship their products overseas because of war and adverse shipping conditions.

Pupils Observe St. George's Day

St. George's Day was set apart by teachers and pupils of Queen Mary School as a salute to Britain, which stands today as the heroic guardian of liberty. During the day periods were selected for the study of topics pertaining to the British Empire. Pictures of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, and of Prime Minister Churchill, were hung against a background of Union Jacks in the hall, where pupils assembled following the afternoon recess for a short program under the direction of the principal, Mr. O. M. Steer.

The program included the singing of "O Canada"; a cornet solo, "Land of Hope and Glory" by Richard Crowe; the hymn, "Unto the Hills," the Lord's Praper, and "There'll Always be an England." Music by the school orchestra was under the direction of Mr. J. Telford.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Young in a brief address told the story of St. George and pointed out that just as St. George went forth centuries ago against the dragon, so today the British people stand against the monsters of evil and tyranny. Prayer for the children of Britain and for those on active service was led by Dr. Young.

A salute to the flag led by Mr. E. G. Wagar and the National Anthem concluded the program.

Thompson-Bocock Vows Are Pledged

A quiet ceremony took place at George Street church parsonage at seven o'clock Wednesday evening when Miss Mildred Irene Bocock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bocock, 212 King street, was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph Foster Thompson, youngest son of Mrs. A. Graham and the late Mr. W. Thompson. Rev. H. L. Roberts officiated.

The bride wore a frock of powder blue with corsage of American Beauty roses, donning a swagger wool coat of the same shade for travelling, and a smart hat of white straw. Her attendant, Miss Emma Graham, was in an ensemble of a soft rose shade, with shoulder corsage. Mr. Gordon Bocock, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, for the immediate families, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left by motor for Toronto and Hamilton.

Overseas Canning Must Be In Tins

The Canadian small fruit season is just around the corner and advice from England is that for shipping reasons all canning for sending to Britain must be done in tins. Jam concentrates more food value and will last longer than any other form of preserved fruit.

When Canadian homemakers in Saskatchewan looked about for ways of helping the women in England in their battle on the home front, they wrote to Lady Tweedsmuir in England about it.

"I wonder if the Women's Institutes in Canada would like to send one or more canning machines to the Women's Institutes in England," she replied. "They would be very useful and take up little shipping space."

ABILITY TO COOK IS THE BEST RECIPE FOR HOLDING HUSBAND

After Honeymoon Has Set He Is More Interested in What He Eats Than What He Looks At

The one subject that preoccupies wives above everything else is how to retain their husbands' affections and keep them nailed to their firesides. Much advice on how to perform this neat parlor conjuring trick is given these anxious ladies, but most of it is so far beyond the ability of any ordinary woman to pull off that it would be funny if it were not also pathetic. For wives are told that if they wish to keep their husbands in love with them they must remain young and beautiful—as if any human being has ever yet been able to stop the hands of the clock, or keep the roses of May blooming on December cheeks. They are also admonished to keep themselves glamorous, though how women who have gone through 20 or 30 years of marriage in which they have pinched pennies and haggled over cheap cuts of butchers' meat, and walked babies with the colic, and put up with the moods and tenses of husbands, can still trail the pink clouds of romance after them, is past all understanding. Absurdly impractical as these recipes for keeping a husband fascinated are, millions of women try them, as is proven by the fact that the beauty shop business is one of the leading inustries of the country, and that daily we see millions of middle-aged women suffering the tortures of the Inquisition in the vain attempt to acquire synthetic beauty, and millions of other women literally starving themselves to death trying to keep their girlish figures. Such being the case, and wives willing to do so much hard work and make so many sacrifices in order to keep their husbands thinking they are the greatest little women in the world and glad they married them, it is strange that they so often overlook the one best bet of all—and that is in appealing to their husbands' stomachs instead of their eyes. For youth may go, Beauty fade. Wit pall. But as long as a woman keeps angels' food in her hand her husband will eat out of it.

They Search For Food

Speaking on this important subject of how to retain a husband's love, a gentleman who should know whereof he speaks, because he has been national president of the Club Managers Association of America, attributes not only much of the prevalent domestic discord to poor home cooking, but the wandering of husbands to a search for a varied menu.

"Most wives," he asserts, "have a one-track mind, so far as food is concerned. If they can make a pot-roast and peas, it comes on the table, day after day, until the man of the house wants to scream when he sees it.

"Or he is smothered in creamed things until he gags at the sight of a cow. Or it is chops and spinach until he feels that he never wants to see either one again as long as he lives.

"So it is small wonder that he makes an excuse to stay down at the club for dinner, where he will get something different, cooked in a different way. If the housewives of this country would learn the technique of the club dining room, the divorce courts might take a holiday now and then."

Makes Them Comfortable

Ladies, an oracle has spoken. He has answered for once and all the question you have been asking your troubled hearts: How can we keep our husbands in love with us when we are no longer young, nor beautiful, nor glamorous? It is by making them comfortable. It is by giving them the things they like to eat, cooked the way they like them, and by always keeping a little surprise by way of a new dish in your apron pocket.

Perhaps it may not seem as romantic to brew your spell of enchantment for your husband in a kitchen pot on the gas range as it does in 47 jars of beauty lotions, only one plan works and the other one doesn't.

For the woman whose only hold on her husband was her pretty face is bound to lose out in time, whereas the woman who is a good cook has a charm that never fails, but grows stronger as the years go by. For as we grow older we may lose our hair and our illusions, but our appetites remain.

Feed Him Good Meals

Common sense should teach any woman that the thing that hastens a man's footsteps home of an evening is the knowledge that he will get a better dinner in his own dining room than he will in any restaurant and that all of his little tastes will have been catereed to, and also that the way to keep a man nailed to his own fireside of an evening is to fill him so full of good food that an easy chair and his paper and his pipe will look better to him than any siren.

A long time ago a wise woman gave this recipe for holding a husband: "Feed the brute." It still goes. DOROTHY DIX.

Be economical with your bacon and have it cut into thin rashers. Save all rinds and trimmings; they are excellent for flavoring pea soup, tomato soup, tomato sauce and brown sauce.

To prevent rashers of bacon from shrivelling too much in cooking, place in a hot, dry pan and cook slowly till the fat is transparent and the lean is slightly brown.

Children Doing Their Part To Help The British

Historians will record the heroic deeds of men and women, the victories of our forces and the courage of the nation when this present conflict is ended, and it will be with just cause that the story of their battle against a ruthless enemy shall be preserved for future generations. But we are not thinking of these brave folk at the moment, but rather of the small children of this city who are doing their part, however small it may seem, to help the British.

It is not what they are doing to Keep Your Family Guessing Good Idea For Every Cook

By MARY MOORE

Grudgingly I admit (after 14 years of vehement denial) that we DO strain our imaginations and we DO try harder to find new foods for our guests than for our families.

This attitude is near-sighted for a number of reasons. Number One being that if you "never served the same thing twice" to your family you would be so eager to have guest meals they would be a pleasure instead of a worry because you always had TRIED new things to spring on them.

Number Two being that variety in food at home makes you—and more especially your children — better guests when away from home. For instance, when those nice company foods such as mushrooms, ripe olives, avocadoes, and other luxuries are served to my little Peter my heart plummets to my boots. Will he stow them in without the flicker of an eyelash—or is he going to show me up by leaving them? I have mistakenly maintained that unless foods are necessary and good for them I will not insist on the children eating them; but I am wrong—dead wrong.

Keep your family guessing. Get them to EXPECT surprises. Search through all the food articles and cook books for things you have never done before.

In this season of plentiful eggs I think I can count on two fingers the number of cooks I know (amongst my vast acquaintance of good cooks) who have the courage to serve a fluffy omelette to guests.

Anybody can learn in two trys how a roast a Porterhouse of beef or broil a filet mignon. But can you turn a few eggs into a comparable triumph at about one-eighth of the cost?

Garny's Foolproof Fluffy Omelette

(The cat's out of the bag—by that title you know I'm out of town again and where I am—on the shores of Lake Michigan.)

Six eggs (to serve 4 people), yolks and whites separated, 2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup evaporated milk and ½ cup boiling water OR 1 cup hot whole milk, 1½ tablespoons butter, and enough clarified bacon dripping to grease omelette pan generously. Combine in top of double boiler the milk (and water if used), tapioca, salt and pepper and cook over boiling water for 15 minutes or until tapioca is clear and has thickened the liquid, —stir it frequently. Add the butter. Beat the yolks until very thick and lemon colored and until they have increased to double their original bulk in beating bowl. Beat whites until they are strong enough to stand in peaks but not until dry. Pour hot tapioca and milk mixture over yolks stirring constantly. Then fold the whites into the milk and yolk mixture last—having the pan ready with the bacon drippings melted and the pan ALMOST hot enough to smoke, but not quite—as soon as whites are folded through pour omelette into a pan of about 10½ inches in diameter by 2 inches deep—frying pan must be steel or iron—neither aluminum nor enamel will do. Let cook over medium heat for 1 minute—then reduce heat as low as possible and let cook for at least one-half hour—then try lifting sides of omelette to see if bottom at sides is done. If so place in oven under broiler for a few minutes to dry off top. The slower an omelette is cooked on top of stove the less temperamental it is—each sac of air is cooked around and cannot collapse if omelette is cooked slowly —they will be a nice golden crust on bottom and omelette can easily be folded by creasing through centre top with knife when done and folded over with long pancake turner.

Our next little off-the-beaten-path offering is for berry pie—Garny's pie was made with the new Boysen berries that are being experimented with in California and Michigan — and doubtless other states, but I haven't been in any of them lately—they are similar to logan berries in appearance, but I think nearer to elderberries in flavor than any other berry I can think of.

If you can't get Boysen berries use red raspberries, or canned loganberries for this pie.

Garny's Berry Pie

Pastry made with clarified bacon drippings; 2 cups flour, 2/3 cup bacon drippings skimmed from top of bacon drippings in frying pan, ¾ teaspoon salt, ice water. Add salt to flour and work in half the drippings with the fingers' tips until it is thoroughly worked in. Moisten dough with just enough ice water to make it hold together enough to handle. Roll out on lightly floured board. Spread rolled out dough with remaining drippings and fold dough in half then fold edges to centre and fold once more—so that in this way you have 8 layers of pastry—roll out to full size again and repeat folding once more—and cut in half to make 2 crusts before rolling out in a SQUARE to fit square cake pan about 8 inches square by about 1¼ inches deep. Line this cake tin with pastry. Sprinkle bottom of lined pie plate with 1 to 1½ tablespoons flour and with 1/3 cup sugar. Pour into pie plate 1 No. 2 tin of canned Boysen or Logan berries OR 1 quart of fresh berries—raspberries, loganberries or strawberries or huckleberries or elderberries—and sprinkle over top another 1 to 1½ tablespoons flour (at least this amount of flour is necessary if the can of berries contains much juice—put all the juice in) then add a little less than 2/3 cup sugar (if berries are sour add generous 2/3 cup) dot top with 1 or 2 tablespoons butter and put on top crust rolled out after it has been folded a total of 16 times. Pinch edges, gash top twice to allow juice to boil out in little puddles (Hector says a berry pie isn't worth the lard you put in it if a little of the juice doesn't come through) and brush top with 2 tablespoons heavy cream, and sprinkle 1 tablespoon sugar over top. Bake at 500 for 10 minutes. 350 for 30 minutes. Serve cut in squares with American, Swiss or Philadelphia cheese.

Aunt Melinda's Sugar Cookies

From that title you might think Aunt Melinda is some legendary character—she is not—she is still "alive and cooking" in Indianapolis.

One cup butter, 1 2/3 cups sugar, ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 4 cups flour. Beat the eggs to mix them, then cream the butter, sift in sugar and add eggs. Then add the milk and flour, saving out 1 cup of the flour to mix with the baking powder and soda, which are added the very last thing. Aunt Linda says this is the secret of the deliciousness of these cookies. She adds 1 teaspoon lemon flavoring and ½ teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg and I think this is a good flavoring combination—tl is possible to change these flavorings to mace and almond, but I do not recommend changing Aunt Linda's method. Cut out by rolling out OR roll up and put in icebox overnight and slice off cookies. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr.—this is a rather hot oven, but that is right. These make delicious cut-out cookies for special occasions—for Christmas cut them into Christmas tree shapes and sprinkle top with green or red sugar; Valentine cut them into hearts and sprinkle with red sugar, and so on. For ordinary occasions sprinkle with white sugar, or finely shredded almonds or Brazils. Very highly recommended.

FASHIONS

For that slim look try these simple lines. A trim bolero frock is an important item in every woman's spring wardrobe, and this button-front shirt frock is a versatile style. Dotted silk or cotton fabric with plain color for the bodice is a smart choice. The bolero can be made with either three-quarter or long sleeves, as you prefer. The paneled skirt fits neatly over your hips and flares gracefully and comfortably for walking. Use this same pattern to make an extra shirt frock, too, for days at home or to wear under your coat.

Style No. 2862 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch fabric for bolero and skirt; 1½ yards of contrasting.

Marks 15th Birthday

Princess Elizabeth observed her 15th birthday anniversary quietly with King George, Queen Elizabeth and her sister Margaret. She received a turquoise and diamond necklace, brooch and bracelet set which one belonged to Queen Victoria. The jewels, which traditionally pass to the King's eldest daughter on her 15th birthday, probably will not be worn by Elizabeth until she is 18. The only jewelery her mother permits her to wear are a silver wrist watch and a plain, inexpensive brooch.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: We had chocolate waffles when we were out but I hadn't the courage to ask our hostess for the method. Wouldn't they stick to my waffle iron or burn easily? Hoping you can give me an answer soon, Nellie Hamson.

ANSWER: While chocolate waffles sound a little tricky they are not—you merely add 2 squares melted chocolate to your basic waffle recipe—and it contains enough butter that they do not stick:

CHOCOLATE WAFFLES

Two cups flour, 3 tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 squares melted chocolate. Beat the eggs until light, and add the sugar and beat again, add melt- and liquid and flavoring. Sift to- (which have been melted together) and liquid and flaovring. Sift together dry ingredients and add to the first mixture. Pour batter into pitcher, and bake in waffle iron (at table if possible). The classic method of serving chocolate waffles is with homemade vanilla ice cream—they are definitely a dessert item and would never be served with bacon or as a breakfast food.

QUESTION: A graduate of the home economics school served some cookies that she had made — she called them Chocolate Chip Cookies —but I admired them and she just said "thank you" and did not offer to give me the recipe so I didn't ask but I though I would write to you. Do you know what I mean — they contain little squares of chocolate right in the cookies that retain their shape and some nuts—otherwise they are very much like hermits. Thank you for past help, Alice McGill.

ANSWER: Those cookies are also called Toll House or Swiss Wonders —but I know them as Chocolate Chip and will give you my version:

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

Cream very well 1 cup butter and gradually sift in ¾ cup brown sugar and ¾ cup white sugar, and then add 2 well beaten eggs. Dissolve 1 teaspoon soda in 1 teaspoon hot water and add. Sift together 2¼ cups flour sifted with 1 teaspoon salt and add it to the butter mixture. Lastly add 1 cup chopped nuts and 7 to 10 oz. of Semi-Sweet chocolate cut into ½-inch squares (some of these semi-sweet bars are all ready marked into the size required). Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and drop by teaspoons onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for from 10 to 12 minutes. This makes about 50 cookies.

While sound judgment and clear thinking may be among the desired factors for success on this day yet there is also a sign encouraging the taking of suddenly presented opportunities, with snap judgment or gambles bearing fruit if not too recklessly indulged. The element of quick action figures but there should be reasonable consideration, based on sound information or principle, to back it up.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which sudden strokes of fortune may be quickly and cleverly grasped without flying in the face of Providence by rash and ill-considered moves. Back up sudden 'hunches" by worthwhile information and sound tactics, rather than impulses.

Poise Impresses Men Who Count

How does Miss Plain Smith have the important Van Styles for friends? By refusing to grieve that hers isn't the richest family in town, by realizing that anyone can afford charming manners!

She introduces her date so smoothly: "Mother, this is Larry Van Style." You may be sure he notices she doesn't use such crude phrases as "make you acquainted with."

She says his name last, as is always correct in introducing a man to a woman, and she knows "Mister" isn't used in presenting a young man to your parents.

She's the sort of girl he can proudly take anywhere. Receiving a compliment from one of his friends, she won't giggle "Aw you don't mean that!" She'll reply smilingly, "Thank you so much!"

With a theatre foursome she won't hesitate awkwardly, wondering where to sit, but will know that the girls take the inside seats.

You can learn as easily the poised thing to do, the way to win nicer beaus.

Our 32-page booklet gives tried-and-true rules of etiquette that help you win popularity. Tells correct things at dances, the theatre, entertaining; when visiting, motoring, dating. Includes telephone, office manners. Discusses petting.

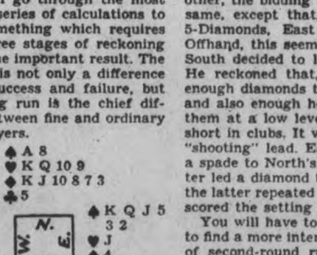
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TOO LAZY TO FIGURE IT

MANY a singleton lead is easy to read if you will concentrate upon thinking a bit about it. But some players are really too lazy, or something, to exert the small amount of effort to figure it out. Others will go through the most elaborate series of calculations to deduce something which requires two or three stages of reckoning to reach the important result. The difference is not only a difference between success and failure, but in the long run is the chief difference between fine and ordinary bridge players.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	2 ♠	3 ♦
3 ♥	Dbl	4 ♣	Pass
4 ♠	5 ♦	Pass	Pass
Dble

When East led the heart J to West's A, the latter should have reckoned quickly that it was a singleton, as North would not have been likely to double the heart bid with only three cards of the suit. If he had returned it, that ruffing trick plus the club A would have set the contract. But West instead returned the spade 7 to the A of North, who there-upon dropped trumps, ran hearts, discarding South's remaining spade, ruffed his own last spade in the dummy and gave up a club at the end, making his contract.

Such was the play at one table of a team of four match. At the other, the bidding went about the same, except that, after North's 5-Diamonds, East bid 5-Spades. Offhand, this seems makable, but South decided to lead his club 2. He reckoned that, if North had enough diamonds to bid that way and also enough hearts to double them at a low level, he might be short in clubs. It was distinctly a "shooting" lead. East took it, led a spade to North's A and the latter led a diamond to South. When the latter repeated the club, North scored the setting ruff.

You will have to go a long way to find a more interesting example of second-round ruffs which can beat otherwise safe contracts by both sides.

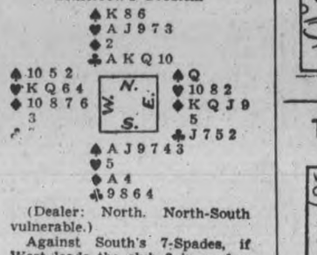
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Against South's 7-Spades, if West leads the club 3 in preference to his partner's diamond suit, how should South play to make his contract?

Lodge Banquet At Marmora Notable Event

MARMORA, April 24—(ENS). — Owing to illness, Right Wor. Bro. Arthur L. Hill, D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward Island District was unable to pay his official visit to Marmora A.F. and A.M. 222 on Monday evening, but his place was ably taken by Right Wor. Bro. H. J. Clarke, P.D.G.G.M. of the district, and a goodly number of visiting brethren from Belleville, Stirling and other lodges made the gathering as auspicious as in all former years.

A departure from the regular custom was made in that the banquet preceded the lodge session. The catering was in the hands of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild and the Parish Hall was the venue for an excellent meal which received favorable comment from the brethren in general.

Wor. Bro. D. P. Marett, Master of the Lodge, was the toastmaster. That of "The King and Craft" having been duly honored, Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard proposed "Grand Lodge" in a very neat speech in which he referred to the fact that as this was "Salute to Britain" week, Freemasonry in this country might well salute the Grand Lodge of England in its benevolent endeavors occasioned by the war. Right Wor. Bro. H. J. Clarke, in response, mentioned his regret that Marmora Lodge was not privileged to be visited by the present D.D.G.M., and followed with a splendid dissertation on Masonry and some of its early contemporaries.

The toast to the visiting brethren was well presented by Very Wor. Bro. W. L. Rigg and replies to this toast were left to the Lodge session.

With the Junior Warden's toast, proposed by Bro. Gordon Jarvis, the brethren adjourned to the Lodge Room, where after the exemplification of the initiation degree, excellent speeches were again heard from the acting D.D.G.M. and visiting brethren.

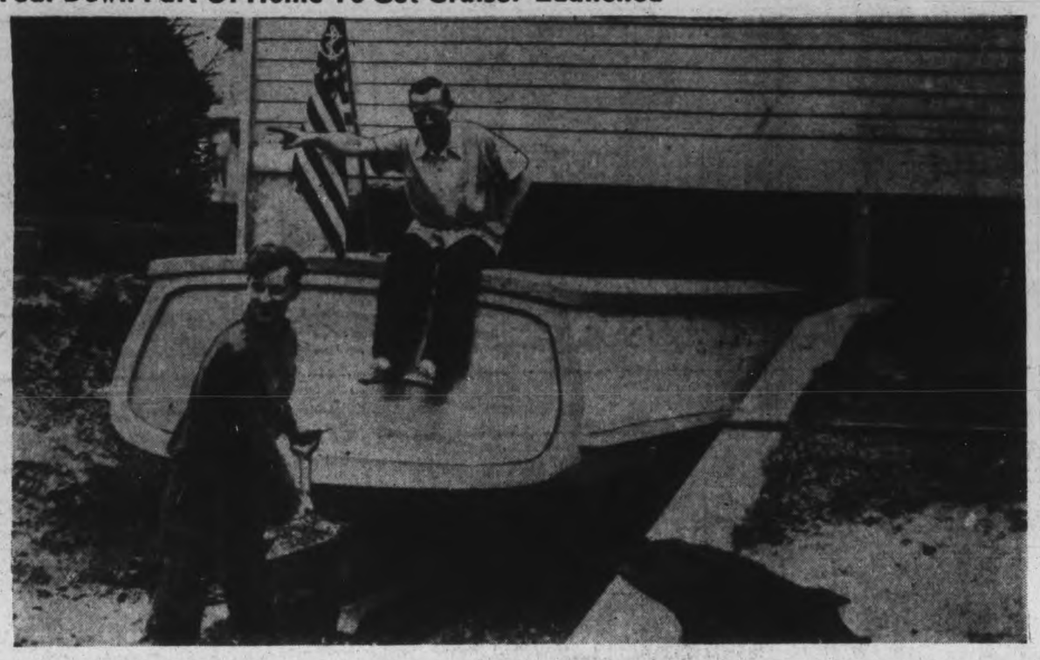
Tear Down Part Of Home To Get Cruiser Launched



Undisturbed by the whole problem were Victor P. Martinson, sitting in the boat, and his son, Victor, doing the digging. Soon after they started to build a boat in their cellar it dawned on them they would have to alter the house somewhat to get the craft — a 35-foot cabin cruiser — to water. So they tore down part of the foundations and plan to build a basement garage.

Fire destroyed the frame dwelling of Mr. Newman on the town line road early on Thursday morning. Mr. Newman got up early, lighting a fire, then going out to his hen house to place feed for his chicks. On leaving the building he noticed his home ablaze. Little help from neighbors was available to lend assistance, and very little of the contents were saved. Mr. Newman is at a loss to know the origin of the fire, as it seemed to have started in the attic of the dwelling. He mentions that mice might have been responsible for the blaze as some weeks previous to the fire he had ran across a mice cache containing live and dead matches and other nest materials. Some insurance was in force, which will assist in Mr. Newman's rehabilitation.

On Monday last Miss York, who handles the rural mail a part of Dungannon Township, was on her return trip home when she picked up a couple of girl friends walking in her direction. They had only proceeded a short distance when something went wrong with the harness, frightening the horse, which immediately bolted, upsetting the buggy, the horse breaking away from the overturned vehicle. Miss Thelma Jenkins and Miss Lillian Metcalfe were thrown clear of the buggy with minor injuries and bruises, and Miss Evelyn York, the driver, was under the vehicle unhurt. It was fortunate for the girls that the horse broke away, else they might have sustained more serious injuries. In the course of the occurrence the animal proceeded home and the girls were left at the mercy of friendly passing motorists to be assisted to their homes.

Nazi Prisoners Lay Shot Pals In Forest Graves

PENINSULA, Ont., April 24. — (CP)—Two German prisoners of war who paid with their lives for a brief period of freedom from a nearby internment camp, were buried Tuesday a few yards from the prison-camp compound, in a wet stretch of sand waste at the foot of a huge boulder.

They broke out of the camp through a tunnel with 26 other Germans Friday night. Sunday afternoon two soldiers surprised five of them in a nearby abandoned construction workers' cabin and the Germans died of gunshot wounds received when they resisted the soldiers.

Twenty-five Germans from the compound stood in the gusty, cold wind blowing in on the north shore of Lake Superior as the bodies were lowered and a firing party of Canadian soldiers sent a volley into the air over the graves. The funeral service was conducted by a German and other prisoners placed wreaths of twigs and pine branches on the graves.

A few hours earlier the prisoners had petitioned successfully to have the funeral postponed from the morning until the afternoon. They said they had not enough time to prepare the service or arrange covering for the bodies, which had lain in the isolation ward of the compound hospital with a German guard.

The graves were dug a short time before the funeral by a group of silent prisoners. They were guarded as they worked, digging deep into the sandy soil under a sky swept with low clouds. Other prisoners hunted in the compound for material with which to fashion their crude wreaths.

When it was suggested that it might be dangerous to allow the Germans to attend the funeral, Major Lindsey said there was no possibility of another attempt at escape. He said the men allowed to attend were camp leaders, one of whom conducted the funeral service.

Major Lindsey said the only function of the guard in connection with the funeral was to make sure that none of the Germans escaped. He said the guard would take special care to make sure that no one entered the coffins with the bodies, a method of escape that he said "has been done before."

2 Cabinet Heads Pay Honor To 200 Veterans

OTTAWA, April 24—(CP).—Two Cabinet ministers with jurisdiction over branches of the Dominion's armed forces joined in paying tribute to Canadian soldiers of the First Great War when they spoke last night at the annual dinner of the Ottawa Red Chevron Association.

Speaking to the group of 200 veterans, representing all ranks from private to general in the first Canadian Division sent overseas in the last war, Defence Minister Ralston urged veterans who were prevented by circumstances from entering the present "great adventure," to get behind the younger generation of soldiers now in the navy, army and air force and encourage and support them.

He told of the part veterans of the first Great War are playing today, pointing out that 60 per cent of the key officers, and many more of other ranks in the present forces, are veterans.

Navy Minister MacDonald lauded the work of the first Canadian Division of 1914 and said nothing had contributed more to Canada's status as a nation than the performance of its men at that time and during the rest of the war.

Brig.-Gen. H. F. McDonald, chairman of the Canadian Pensions Committee, said 75,000 Canadians are ready to defend the British Isles against invasion and 100,000 more men in Canada are "ready to go when the call comes."

The enthusiastic veterans broke in with a united shout of "Send us overseas."

Col. the Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells, principal Protestant chaplain of the Canadian forces, also addressed the gathering. He spoke solemnly of the fact that many must fight and die before victory is achieved and of the loyalty, devotion to duty and willingness to sacrifice found among Canadians.

Aided In Capture

Mrs. Hugh McDonnell, station agent's wife, gave the alarm when she saw two men running into the woods. She quickly notified patrolling soldiers who captured the two escaped prisoners within 15 minutes.

Norwood Service Honors Britain

NORWOOD, April 24—(ENS). — A very impressive 'Salute to Britain' service was held in Christ Church Norwood, on Sunday evening.

During the service a St. George flag, donated by the congregation was dedicated, and placed in the sanctuary. It was presented for dedication by Mr. George Wright, an Englishman, a veteran of the last war, and people's warden for Christ Church. Appropriate hymns were sung and prayers said.

The rector, Rev. R. E. Lemon, spoke on the theme, "St. George and England," and likened the spirit of England today to those virtues displayed by the Saint of old St. George; the outstanding one being that of courage which dared to defy evil and contend for the right. The early history of the Saint was dwelt upon, showing his Christian birth and teaching, and so in Christianity is exemplified all the principles for which England is enduring so much today.

A tribute was paid to England and her people throughout the course of the address, with an earnest plea that we may not fall behind the example she has set.

Germans Seize Lemnos Island

ATHENS, April 25 — (AP). — German forces, carried by plane-escorted troop ships, landed yesterday on the Greek Island of Lemnos, 40 miles from the strategic Dardanelles, and subdued a small Greek force after a four-hour battle.

The Ministry of Home Security disclosed indirectly that the Germans also were on the neighboring Island of Samothrake.

"We understand," said its communique, "that the Island of Lemnos reported that the German commanding officer at Samothrake demanded that the authorities of Lemnos surrender the island by midnight of the 23rd, having threatened if it were not surrendered, to occupy the island by force."

CAIRO, Egypt, April 25 — (AP-. — British Middle East Headquarters announced to-day that Empire troops had made a further withdrawal in Greece, "inflicting severe losses on the enemy."

The communique also reported that the Tobruk garrison in Libya, had beaten off an Axis attack on its defences and captured 127 Italians and Germans.

The British withdrawal in Greece was described by the British command as "orderly."

Heavy losses also were inflicted on the Germans and Italians at Tobruk, and British patrols again were aggressive at Salum, just over the border in Egypt.

"Our forward move" is continuing in Ethiopia in the direction of Dessie, north-east of Addis Ababa, the communique said.

More than 700 prisoners were taken in operations yesterday in that sector in which the Italians suffered severe casualties.

Another 12 prisoners were reported captured north-west of Addis Ababa where an Italian column is being closely pursued. Pressure is continuing in the southern sectors of Ethiopia, the communique said.

Claim Thermopylae Fallen

BERLIN, April 25 (AP) — The German high command today claimed the taking of Thermopylae Pass.

"In Greece Thermopylae Pass was taken in an embracing action, and thus the enemy was thrown out of a strongly fortified position," the Nazi communique asserted.

(The British high command in Cairo announced a further withdrawal had been made in Greece in which severe losses were inflicted on the Germans.)

(A non-committal communique of the high command yesterday, together with today's report indicated the Germans had been held up more than 48 hours in their efforts to take the strategic Pass).

The Nazi communique claimed that during the past 24 hours in Greek waters six ships were sunk and fourteen damaged, including a destroyer and two "auxiliary warships."

(These claims are without substantiation from Allied sources.)

Airdromes Hard Hit

CAIRO, Egypt, April 25 —(AP)— The Royal Air Force Middle East command today acknowledged damage to British aircraft dispersed on an airdrome in Greece in a German air raid, but announced destruction of four Axis planes in Libya.

British fliers are "persistently" bombing and machine-gunning Axis transport and armored units in North Africa, said an R.A.F. communique, with the result that a "considerable number" of vehicles have been destroyed or damaged.

Aircraft shattered on the landing fields at Derna and Ain El Gazala also were bombed.

The amount of damage done to Britain's aviation in Greece was not detailed, nor was the location of the attack given.

Another raid on Malta April 23 failed to do material damage, the communique said.

Denies Forces Likely Only 5th Columnists Admits U.S. "Doing Something About It" Reveals American Patrols Out 1,000 Miles

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP). —President Roosevelt placed Col. Charles Lindbergh to-day in the category of civil war "copperheads."

The President was asked at a press conference why the United States' army had not taken up Lindbergh's commission. The aviator, who opposes the Administration's foreign policy, is a reserve colonel.

The President remarked that in the civil war, both the Confederates and the Northerners took on liberty-loving people from other countries, and both let certain people go.

The latter, he said, were the Vallandighams.

(Clement L. Vallandigham was a representative from Ohio who was arrested by the Union military authorities in 1863 for "treasonable utterances" and was banished to the Confederate states.

(He was known as a leader of the "Copperheads.")

When reporters did not react to the name, Mr. Roosevelt said that Vallandigham was an appeaser who wanted to make peace in 1863 because he felt the Northerners could not win.

Still replying to the question about Lindbergh, Mr. Roosevelt said there also were an awful lot of appeasers at Valley Forge who urged George Washington to quit because he could not win against Britain. He advised reporters to read what Thomas Paine had written on the advisability of quitting.

Mr. Roosevelt was sharply critical of those Americans who, he said, have taken the attitude that the dictators will surely be victorious.

This, he said, is not good Americanism. And it is a dumb attitude, he added.

"Agin" Dictators

Mr. Roosevelt declared he was "agin" dictators—that everybody was—and that America was willing to fight for democratic processes. He said he, for one, could not lie down before dictatorships.

His remarks were prompted by a question whether he would amplify his remarks at a press conference Tuesday that the American people are not aware of the gravity of the situation.

At first, the President withheld comment but after a moment went on to say that there were people in the country who are adopting a rather curious attitude, who had a level of intelligence that did not apply to most persons at his press conference. He said he was sorry

Last 4 Hun Prisoners Taken In Box Car At Heron Bay; Pals Found In Medicine Hat

Quartet Spend 4 Days In Hut Near Shore, Pair Rounded Up In Prairie Town Ride Freights, Beg Lifts For 1,100 Miles

HERON BAY, Ont., April 25—(CP).— The search for 28 German war prisoners who escaped from a nearby internment camp last Friday night was climaxed early today with the capture of the last four in a box car less than 100 yards from the railroad station at this Lake Superior north-shore village.

Two members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and two Ontario Provincial policemen effected the capture, a few hours after the Germans left a lakeshore hut in which they had hidden for the last four days.

Sitting in the tiny station office here under heavy guard awaiting transportation back to the camp, the Germans told one of the most-amazing stories to come out of the great six-day man-hunt that beat endlessly through the snow-covered bush of this rugged area since the escape through a tunnel dug under the outer barricades of the camp.

The prisoners—Helmuth Ackenhausen, 26; Wilhelm Bauer, 29; Wilhelm Erdniss, 29, and Hans Georg Schulte, 22—were taken back to the camp on a freight train a few hours after their capture.

Free Almost a Week

Thus the last four of those participating in the mass break during a heavy rainstorm last Friday night were accounted for. Two had suffered fatal gunshot wounds resisting capture last Sunday, when three others also were wounded.

The intensive search for the escapees had narrowed to a hunt for six by Monday noon. There had been no clues as to the whereabouts of the last six until yesterday when two—Karl Heinz Grund, 28, and Horst, Liebeck, 21,—were taken at Medicine Hat,' nearly 1,200 miles from the scene of the break. They had ridden freight trains and hitch-hiked with motorists to the Alberta prairie town.

The end of the round-up came as preparations were being made to withdraw R.C.M.P. units and some of the Canadian (Active) Army patrols and for restriction of the search to patrols of vital points.

But the Germans hadn't withdrawn. Last night they sat hidden in the box car for five hours and 45 minutes within shouting distance of detachments of police and

The Rock, An Island

LONDON, April 25 — (CP Cable).—The Moscow radio was heard here today to say that transformation of Gibraltar into "an island" is almost complete.

"Canadian soldiers are finishing digging a moat 13 feet wide and 10 feet deep and filling it with water across the neck of the promontory. New guns, including some very heavy ones, have been put in position and ships with war materials are arriving daily," the radio said.

(Canadian sappers have been engaged in hard-rock blasting in connection with Gibraltar's underground fortifications. This is the first suggestion that they have been engaged on surface work).

Car Hits Freight Driver, Girl Die, 2 Injured

HAMILTON, April 25—(CP). — Two are dead and two seriously injured as a result of a crash between a train and a car last night on the Canadian National Railways crossing which passes through the centre of the nearby village of Canfield.

Dead are Donald Calvert, Welland, and Madeline Oxford, Dunnville. Painfully injured at Dunville Hospital, where they were taken after the crash, are Frances Oxford, sister of the dead girl, and Raymond Logan, Toronto.

According to police and railway officials, the car was driving east and plunged directly into the centre coach of a freight train running from Fort Erie to Sarnia.

The car was demolished by the crash and rescuers who rushed to the scene found that Madeline Oxford had been killed instantly. The injured were treated on the spot by Dr. George Russell, Dunnville; Dr. H. Walker, Dunnville, and a nurse, Margaret Webster.

They were rushed to the Dunnville Hospital, but the driver of the car, Donald Calvert, died of his injuries during the night. Logan is suffering from severe lacerations and a dislocated hip, while Frances Oxford suffered lacerations to the leg and scalp.

Driver of the C.N.R. freight involved was Engineer Rose. The train suffered little or no damage.

Thursday Crashes Kill 3 Fliers And Hurt Seven

TORONTO, April 25 -- (CP). — Three airmen were killed and seven others injured in four air crashes in scattered parts of Eastern Canada on Thursday.

Most serious crash was that in which two English airmen, PO. R. E. Ransome and Lac. Donald Hughes, both of London, suffered fatal injuries from Royal Air Force plane from the Port Albert, Ont., Training Base flew into a hillside north of Guelph, Ont., during night manoeuvres early in the day.

Two English airmen in the same plane, Ac. Clifford Clark and Ac. William Goodman, were injured, but their injuries were said to be not serious.

Late in the day Fo. H. G. McDougall was killed and Fo. M. D. Lee was slightly injured when a Royal Canadian Air Force plane from the Trenton, Ont., Base crashed 12 miles east of there. Only preliminary reports with few details were available on the accident.

The third crash occurred near Lambton, north of Sarnia, Ont., in the afternoon when an R.C.A.F. plane from the Port Lambton Base struck a tree. Flt.- Sgt. Ballantyne, Lac. A. T. Charlwood, and Ac. F. J. Adams were injured. A fourth occupant of the plane, Lac. C. Bruce, was unhurt.

1941 War Budget Tops Canada's Bill 1914 To '18

BOSTON, April 25 (CP) — Hon. Albert Matthews, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, said today in a speech prepared for delivery before Boston University students that Canada's war budget for 1941 will "exceed the total war budget of our country from 1914 to 1920." He said the 1941 war expenditure will amount to $1,500,000,000.

"This vast program we are financing ourselves," Mr. Matthews added. "Indeed, we are financing much of Britain's own purchases from Canada."

"In no year of the first Great War budget exceed 10 per cent of the national income, whereas this year it exceeds 25 per cent of a much larger budget, and it is expected that next year our war budget may take 50 per cent of the total income of Canadian citizens."

Mr. Matthews said the Canadian armed services had grown from nominal peacetime establishments to 225,000 men on active duty in Britain, Newfoundland, Iceland and elsewhere.

The Royal Canadian Navy had grown from 15 ships and 1,774 officers and ratings at the outbreak of war to 180 ships with 13,000 men.

"We are now sending overseas at the rate of 16,000 airmen annually," he said. "We have at the present time 450 American pilots in our service and over 10,000 applications from your young men to join our air service."

Wheat For The Huns

LONDON, April 25 — (CP Cable)—Martin Moore, special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, said today in a dispatch from Lisbon that the Germans are believed to have established secret food stores at various points in Spain, stocked partly with supplies shipped to that country by Britain and the United States.

The correspondent said that although a check is kept of the disposal of Anglo - American consignments a considerable quantity of wheat mysteriously disappeared.

It was suspected that the Germans, acting through an agent, bought supplies and stored them for emergency use.

Gort Takes Over Command Of Gibraltar

LONDON, April 25.—(CP).—Gen. Viscount Gort has been appointed governor and commander in chief of Gibraltar, it was officially announced to-day.

Lord Gort was commander in chief of British field forces in France until after the retreat from Flanders at Dunkirk last year.

By his new appointment, he exchanges jobs with Lt.-Gen. Sir Clive Liddell, governor of Gibraltar, who now takes Gort's place as an army inspector-general for training of British home forces.

The announcement said:

"It is announced by the Colonial Office that His Majesty the King has been pleased to approve the appointment of General the Viscount Gort, V.C., D.S.O., to be governor and commander in chief of Gibraltar in succession to Lt.-Gen. Sir Clive Liddell, D.S.O., who has been appointed to the post of inspector of training in this country."

Sir Clive succeeded Field Marshal Lord Ironside as governor at Gibraltar in May, 1939, after the latter had carried out extensive rearmament and fortification of the fortress.

No Convoys At Present But Scouts Watch All Seas, Tip Allies

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP). —A possibility that Axis forces partly occupy Greenland, Danish Island in the North Atlantic now under United States protection, was disclosed by President Roosevelt today in what he frankly termed a surprising statement.

At the same press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said the United States neutrality patrol would operate as far into the waters of the seven seas as may be necessary for the defence of the western hemisphere.

But emphatically the President said his administration was not thinking of convoys at this time. He described the task of United States patrol ships at the reconnaissance of ocean areas to determine whether an aggressor ship might be coming into the western hemisphere.

Convoying, on the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt said, was escorting merchant ships in a group to prevent acts of aggression on them. The American neutrality patrol, he added, could not be made a convoy by calling it one any more than a cow could be turned into a horse by calling it a horse.

The President also told reporters that Americans who have taken the attitude that the dictators will be vicorious had adopted a dumb attitude which was not good Americanism.

No Bowing To Dictators

Declaring he was "agin'" dictatorships and that everybody was, Mr. Roosevelt said the United States was willing to fight for democratic purposes. He for one, would not lie down before dictatorships.

Mr. Roosevelt's remarks on Greenland, the huge Arctic Island off northeastern Canada which the United States has agreed to defend, were brief and not elaborated. A reported asked whether the United States would have a safe sea road to Greenland.

After saying he hoped so, and also that he hoped there would be no more acts of aggression, Mr. Roosevelt went on to say he was not at all satisfied that part of Greenland was not now occupied by the Axis. He added, however, that he wouldn't say positively this was so.

He replied negatively when asked whether the occupants were fifth columnists, replied affirmatively when asked whether the United States was doing anything to counteract Axis moves in Greeland, and a moment later remarked his Greenland statement was surprising.

Mr. Roosevelt declined to be

Nazis Tell Of Swimming Out Of Tunnel—Say Spitfires Best

By SCOTT YOUNG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

HERON BAY, Ont., April 25 (CP) —"We have arrived here on the 28 of January," said blond Helmuth Ackenhausen, with a rueful smile today, then repeated the date and paused, as if to add emphasis to his words, before adding: "And we begin to dig on the 29 of January."

Ackenhausen sat talking to me in the little railway station-house here a short while after he and three others—the last four of the 28 Germans who escaped from internment camp last Friday night—had been captured in a freight car nearby.

He shook a 70-pound packsack from his back, ran his fingers through his hair and started to talk, waving his hands and grinning at the guards as he spoke. He stayed close to the little barrel stove in the station, seemingly trying to shake the cold of more than five hours in the freight car out of his body.

As Ackenhausen spoke, with his companions inserting an occasional comment, the men took things from their pockets. There were maps showing in minute details the north shore of Lake Superior, a knife with a wooden handle, compasses and other objects.

Ackenhausen and his companions never got a chance to tell me the whole story of the escape for after a time I was noticed by Lt. Cay of the veterans' guard unit attached to the internment camp. He was at my side in two swift steps and told me I should not be taking notes.

He called Inspector Belcher of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and after they had talked, the Inspector took my notes and one page of the story I had been writing on the captures and threw them into the station stove.

I was ordered to take my typewriter and leave the station-house although the table at which I was sitting had been my headquarters since Monday. I waited outside in LONDON, April 25—(CP). — The cigarette smoker in London today faces two harsh obstacles—first, to find a cigarette, and second, to smoke it.

Some tobacconists have grown so fed up with saying over and over, "Sorry, sir, I can't get them," that they're closing up shop at least one day each week.

The country has been drawing on reserve stocks for several months and some tobacco warehouses have gone up in bomb smoke.

Many provincial towns have been without cigarettes of any brand for weeks, but real shortage hit London only recently.

Sub Fires Death Blow 90 Mins. After 1st Torpedo, Ducks Shells

An East Coast Canadian Port, April 25 (CP)—As senior officers of 34 Canadian and Newfoundland officers and men landed in this Dominion today, Commander Paul B. Cross told reporters of the loss of the 16,644-ton British armed merchant cruiser Rajputana to an enemy submarine which struck twice within two hours in the chill waters of the North Atlantic.

He brought back reports of the loss of 40 lives, among them six officers—including two Canadians — and 34 men, and a glowing pride for the way these empire seadogs faced death.

(Ottawa has announced that Lieut. V. R. Brussereau, Halifax, and Midshipman Frank Johnston, Saint John, N.B., were lost in the sinking.)

This is the story Cmdr. Cross unfolded as his men hustled through the ritual of getting survivors' leave:—

"The first torpedo struck us without warning about 5.52 a.m., plunged into the engine room and stopped the engines and lights immediately. Nobody saw the attacker, although it wasn't dark.

"Within 10 minutes, our engines were below water and our ship quickly took a 15-degree list to port. We were pretty well down at the stern, too.

"It was impossible to repair the engines because they were below water and there was a hole in the side of the ship. But she stopped sinking after reaching a certain depth.

"An English engineer-officer and an English engine greaser were killed by the first torpedo and some of the men suffered a little of exposure. We might have made port if we had been left alone.

"Almost two hours later, though, the sub struck again, this time on the starboard side. Her exhaust was sighted this time but she just came up for an instant and you can't

British Losses Light; Berlin Wants Athens Without Fight

Withdrawal In Cards Is London Hint —But No Dunkirk

ATHENS, April 25 — (AP)—Six-inch guns, the heaviest artillery the Nazis have used in their drive toward Athens, have been turned on the British and Greek defenders of Thermopylae, where waves of German infantry were beaten back.

Dramatic but barren of detail, latest reports filtering back to Athens last night from the historic battlefield said only that the British and Greeks clung doggedly to their positions in the face of massed German forces.

Observers here regarded news that the Nazis, after trying infantry assault, had brought big guns up through the mountains as an indication of the fierce resistance they were meeting.

Ambulance drivers returning from the front said the Germans had lost heavily in attempts so far to storm the defences. They said British losses were "extremely light."

(Nazi spokesmen in Berlin claimed the Nazis intended to occupy Athens only after making sure it could be taken without bombardment — just as they took Paris.

(The Germans also claimed 89,600 tons of shipping had been sunk in Greek waters in three days.)

Bombers Centre on Ports.

One hundred miles south-east of the mountainous battlefront, German air power continued to concentrate on ports and shipping near Athens, itself shaken last night by a thunderous dive-bomber attack on the Port of Piraeus, five miles away.

A cloud of planes swarmed down on Piraeus where, the communique

BRITISH LOSSES

LONDON, April 25—(CP).—British forces at Thermopylae were represented to-day as fighting final stages of a grim battle to protect the withdrawal toward Piraeus and other ports of embarkation in retreat from the Balkans.

No source here would say that embarkation had begun and only meagre news reached London but ther was no attempt to conceal that withdrawal was in the cards.

It was insisted the situation was not so serious as it was at Dunkirk, declaring the material and personnel endangered by the German drive in France was much greater.

One informant defending the British operations in the Balkans asserted the Government sent troops to Greece "with its eyes open" to the dangers but with no alternative than to give the Greeks aid in line with its obligations.

This source said that British leaders neither encouraged nor discouraged the Greeks in regard to fighting the Germans in event they joined the Italian campaign.

British Honor at Stake

But, since the Greeks chose to fight, he said, Britain was obligated to help even if it endangered her position in Libya and jeopardized the troops and equipment sent to the Balkans.

He hinted that the British had but the slightest hope of whipping the Germans in the Balkan field and although he admitted that a defeat had resulted he said, "It was not nearly as bad as in the case of Rumania and Bulgaria where two great countries were overrun by Germans without a shot being fired."

"In Greece and Yugoslavia the Germans had heavy losses," he added. The statement that Britain was alive to the dangers in going into the Balkans was interpreted as raising a presumption that the forces sent there were not as heavy as most estimates which had been made on their strength.

British authorities were carefully silent about the precise number of their forces in the Balkans, and would only permit the statement that they are "very much smaller" than at Dunkirk, where it was recalled, 335,000 were rescued.

Some sources insisted the position in North Africa was not as unfavorable as appeared from early German successes. In some quarters the recent bombardment of Tripoli and the stand of the British garrison to Tobruk were viewed as an indication that British sea and land forces acting in co-operation might be able to cut the German's communication lines.

Fans In Regina Expect 2nd Ranger Victory

REGINA, April 25—(CP). — Two days can see a wide change in hockey hopes.

After Sydney Millionaires added an 8-3 win here Monday to their 8-6 victory at Calgary Saturday over Regina Rangers, the fans of the Saskatchewan capital just about gave up hopes of seeing their team avoid a three-straight licking in Allan Cup competition.

Then Rangers went out and gained a 1-1 overtime tie at Saskatoon Wednesday in the third game of the best-of-five series for the Canadian Senior title.

The fans here figure Rangers can outplay Millionaires again in the fourth game here tomorrow like they did Wednesday night and make the series a real battle.

Both teams were scheduled for light workouts today following yesterday's rest. Millionaires planned a short skating session and Rangers a shooting practice.

D. G. W. (Curly) Wheatley of Train, B.C., and Army Armstrong of Oshawa, Ont., will be the officials tomorrow, replacing Dick Davis of Winnipeg and Leo Heffernan of Montreal who worked the first three games.

Another crowd of close to 7,000 is expected for Saturday's game. Several department stores here have arranged to close early to give employees a chance to see the game.

the cold until the prisoners had been taken away to return to the camp before being able to file the story.

Ackenhausen held up a boot for inspection. "I burn that," he said. It was a German Air Force boot with leggings and was burned around the toe. "I burn that on fire."

Another of the men spoke. "We eat three times a day. Build fire. Make tea."

The Germans paid tribute to Britain's Spitfire airplanes.

Spitfires The Best.

"Spitfire planes the best," Ackenhausen said. "Handle better than Messerschmitts but not as fast. Defiant (another type of R. A. F. plane) no good. They burn easy." He praised the Hurricane fighter as well, while his companions nodded agreement with broad and reflective smiles.

Twenty-two-year-old Hans Georg Schulte had something to say, so when there was a break he came in. "That tunnel," he said, referring to the tunnel the Germans escaped through, "that tunnel is this deep in water." He held his hands about two feet apart, then waved his arms in the breast-stroke swimming motion. "We got out through it like this."

Someone in the station-house mentioned food again.

"We eat at the camp better than we do at home," said one of the Germans. "No so good as home at camp though"

They hunched over a copy of a newspaper lying on a bench beside them, reading a story of the search and exclaiming at the pictures. When someone mentioned that one of the men who had been recaptured was badly wounded, there was a sudden silence. But only for a minute.

Canada Too Cold and Big

Ackenhausen thought the scenery was fine, but "Canada is too cold."

"Too big, too. I like scenery along shore where we were, but too cold."

Wilhelm Bauer broke in to say they had seen a search party yesterday in a tug boat pass near the shore of Lake Superior where the Germans built a hideout and stayed for four days until they left it to hide in the freight car. Bauer said the hideout was "about 10 kilometers from Heron Bay."

For a while the Germans had a spirited discussion regarding fighter planes, and there was some talk of the air fighting over Britain. One man said he had been forced to land near London when a bullet entered his watertank. All four were pilots.

When the freight that was to carry them back to the internment camp stopped here, the Germans marched out of the station house with a guard in front and one behind. A few Heron Bay residents looked on.

The prisoners were marched up to the caboose steps. Ackenhausen, in front of the four, stopped and looked around. The others stopped with him, then Ackenhausen said something in German. His companions laughed and swung aboard behind him.

train your guns in a few seconds... But we did fire a lot.

"I don't think there is any chance that we hit her, however. Immediately the second torpedo struck, it was evident that the ship would sink and orders were given to abandon her. Just as we were making ready to get into the boats, the sub came up again, very close to our starboard side. We fired and she submerged immediately.

"I am perfectly satisfied that these facts together with the fact we got a signal at eight o'clock that destroyers were on their way scared the U-boat off.

"The Rajputana sank an hour and a half after she was struck by the second torpedo. Because it entered the starboard side it reduced our list to port to about 10 degrees and made the launching of the lifeboats easier.

"The seas were rough and running perhaps 15 feet high. There was wind of about 25 miles velocity and the seas were coming from at least three directions.

"The coolness of our men in leaving ship was one of the most amazing things I've ever seen. There wasn't a single man with anything but a normal expression on his face. Those that had to, jumped. The others got into eight lifeboats and were lowered into the sea.

"Two of our lifeboats were destroyed by the first torpedo but no men were killed by the second.

"About 50 survivors were picked out of the water by those in the lifeboat, but I guess 38 of the 40 missing must have drowned because as far as we know only two were killed by the torpedoes.

"Some of our boats were tossing about the water three hours, others as long as six before they were picked up by one of His Majesty's destroyers."

Cmdr. Cross, gathering many of his answers from a notebook, was bound by naval secrecy from disclosing many facts such as the whereabouts of the attack, where the survivors landed and how they came to Canada.

Except for two Newfoundlanders, all in this group were Canadians, but a list was not forthcoming immediately from navy headquarters. Announcements from Ottawa have listed only 27 Canadians as surviving the disaster and gave no indication of British losses.

The War Today

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

The nasty turn taken by the war in the Balkans has had its compensations in hastening the crystallization of public opinion in the United States for more effective American aid in the Battle of the Atlantic.

To-day, with the fate of Yugoslavia and Greece as a backdrop, public opinion is keyed up for an historic announcement from the White House following a series of important speeches by the President's leading advisers.

In the past few days Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, Mayor F. H. La Guardia, the President's chief adviser on continental defence, and Claude Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, have all made pronouncements hinting at the imminence of United States armed protection of supply convoys at least half way across the Atlantic.

In Washington, Mr. Hull declared "ways must be found" to ensure that aid for Great Britain reaches its destination "in the shortest of time and in maximum quantity."

Col. Knox, speaking in New York, declared: "We cannot allow our goods to be sunk in the Atlantic—we shall be beaten if we do."

These speeches followed Mayor La Guardia's Ottawa hint that convoys will be afforded United States' protection in the Atlantic as far as 1,000 miles east of Newfoundland, or approximately half way across.

The New York Times hailed the series of speeches as making clear that the American people have committed themselves irrevocably to the cause of democracy in this war. "We have reached the point of decision to make use of convoys," it added. "The choice is clear."

120 Volunteers Sought For Special Police

Immediate steps will be taken to organize a local company of the Ontario Volunteer Constabulary as an auxiliary force to assist provincial police, Arthur Moffatt announced today. Mr. Moffatt was appointed recruiting officer for this district at a meeting held at Belleville yesterday.

"We will require a hundred and twenty men for a full company," he said, stating an appeal is to be made for volunteers. Military authorities, he said, had given assurance of co-operation in providing officers for instruction classes.

"The idea is to train a force which will be ready for any emergency situation," he said, stating that able-bodied men from 35 to 50 were sought. The men would be under the jurisdiction of the provincial police.

Units are being formed all over the province, Mr. Moffatt said, stating it has been divided into twelve zones for the purpose. Belleville has been made the headquarters for this area.

to say that some of those of whom he spoke were present in the room.

The attitude they have adopted, he said, is that there is a new order in the world, a new form of government.

Out of one side of their mouths, he asserted, they say they do not like dictatorships, and out of the other that dictatorships are going to defeat democracy and might as well be accepted.

The attitude, he said, is held by a minority of people in the United States. He said he had read editorials or columns which had said there had always been conquerors, such as Alexander the Great, Caesar, Napoleon and two others—Cromwell who conquered England, and George Washington who conquered the United States.

The President said he was awfully sorry that people with such a mentality as to lump Washington and Cromwell with the others were in such high places they could write or talk.

Thursday Crashes

Ventham, was injured when a plane from the R.C.A.F. Base at Stanley N.S., crashed. It was the first time a crash occurred in the area since the base opened a short time ago.

Plane in Ottawa River.

PEMBROKE, Ont., April 25 — (CP).— Pembroke Provincial Police and a Royal Candian Air Force officer were despatched to-day to investigate a report that an R.C.A.F. training plane had crashed this morning in the Ottawa River eight miles east of here.

First reports said at least one man was believed to have been killed in the crash. R.C.A.F. officials were unable to confirm the report pending investigation.

Percy Moore, a Pembroke farmer, said he saw the plane crash into the water about one mile from the Quebec shore. He said the plane was flying low when a wing hit the water, throwing spray high in the air.

drawn into specific comments designed to amplify his views on the convoy situation.

Patrols Out 1,000 Miles

But he said that for 18 months vessels of the neutrality patrol had been operating as far as 1,000 miles into the Atlantic from the eastern shore of Maryland. He said there were erroneous reports and assumptions at the time that the patrol was operating approximately 300 miles from the American coast.

For a year and a half, Mr. Roosevelt said, the patrol had been extended here and pulled in there. It is being extended and will be extended from time to time, he asserted.

He was glad, he said, that a reporter asked how far the extension might go. It was then that he declared it would be as far into the seven seas as was necessary for hemispheric defence.

He repeated several times the thought of hemispheric defence in response to questions about the functions of a patrol. What it would do if it encountered a belligerent vessel, and whether it would be allowed to use belligerent means was not made clear.

The President did say a patrol would not necessarily be confined to the Atlantic.

He was asked exactly what was the difference between a convoy and a patrol. In the first instance, he said, it is the escorting of merchant ships in a group to prevent an act of aggression against those merchant vessels. A patrol, he explained, is a reconnaissance of certain areas of the ocean to find out whether there is any possible aggressor ship in the area, or in the whole of the ocean, that might be coming into the Western Hemisphere.

As a matter of common-sense, Mr. Roosevelt said, back in 1939 the area of patrol in the Atlantic was closer in because there seemed to be little danger of attack on such places as Bermuda, Newfoundland, Greenland or Trinidad.

Attack a Possibility.

Since then, he continued, events have shown an attack is more possible today than it was then. Furthermore, the President said, the Unied States has American lives and property located where it did not have them in 1939.

He spoke of Greenland, Newfound, Bermuda, of Canada which the United States has obligation under the Monroe Doctrine to protect against any non-American nation, and of the Bahamas, Antigua and others of the British West Indies, and British Guiana, where this country also has established bases.

(Greenland has been formally embraced within the U.S. hemisphere defence system).

The President was told that three of his Cabinet officers seemed to be concerned over aid to Britain, and he was asked how this tied in with his press conference remarks. He said he did not know.

He did not reply to a question whether the country had anything better in mind than a convoy system to ensure delivery of war supplies to Britain.

DURHAM TOBACCO YIELD IS ABOVE NORMAL YIELD IN ONTARIO

Tobacco-Raising Venture Proves Success

PORT HOPE, April 25—(ENS)—The first annual meeting of Durham Tobacco Plantations, Limited, shareholders, was held Thursday afternoon at the Town Hall in Port Hope. The president, Reeve W. R. Prouse of Hope Township, conducted the meeting and presented an encouraging report from the directors. Herman Smith, manager, gave an encouraging report of the past year's activities and forecast another favorable year ahead with the expansion of the units operated by the company and the opening of markets.

The Board of Directors. W. R. Prouse, and W. B. Reynolds, Hope Township; R. W. Stratton, Guelph, and R. H. Cook, R. E. Cook and J. W. Cook, Toronto, were re-elected for the ensuing year.

Herman Smith, manager of the company, expressed pleasure at reviewing the year's activity. The quality and quantity of tobacco grown on the unit sown last year was very favorable, he said, and brought a general price of 23½c per pound, which is 3c better than the average price. The yield of 1,200 pounds of tobacco per acre compared to 1,100 pounds normal yield in other Ontario fields, justified the faith placed in this newest tobacco producing area. Mr. Smith stated that with the experience of the past year and the knowledge of the land and fertilizers required an ultimate crop of 1,400-1,500 pounds of tobacco could be expected. The area he felt could compete with the best of Ontario's tobacco areas, barring unforeseen circumstances.

Prospects Brighter

The future of the tobacco market is considerably brighter, Mr. Smith assured the shareholders. In the past two months considerable export business has been developed with the sterling bloc companies, and exports have been resumed to Great Britain. The prohibition of United States tobacco imports will also aid the domestic picture, Mr. Smith said.

Reviewing the Canadian market demands on a long post war basis, he pictured the day when Canada's population would be sufficient to absorb all Canadian grown tobacco. Under the present marketing conditions, the surplus of Canadian tobacco will have disappeared by September, he estimated.

A vote of appreciation to Mr. Prouse, Mr. Smith and the directors was proposed by Mr. C. G. Mercer, M.P.P., and seconded by Mr. Jex, Cobourg.

President's Report

The annual report presented by Mr. Prouse revealed that 32 acres were planted last year and the average yield per acre was 1,200 pounds. It is planned to plant 135 acres during the forthcoming growing season, Mr. Prouse said, pointing out that three additional farms have been already equipped with large greenhouses.

Strife In Slavia Blamed For Greek Plight

(By DANIEL DE LUCE.)

IZMIR, Turkey, April 25.—(AP)—To 7,000,000 Greeks the German drive in Greece is as tragic as any ever conceived by the great playwrights of classical days, Euripides, Aeschylus and Sophocles.

To the modern Greek, the entry of Germany into Balkan conflict was the intervention of fates as inexorable as those depicted in "The Oresteia."

It was intervention which, the Greeks felt, snatched away at the last moment a victory won by blood and pain over the Italian legions who swept in from the north last fall.

Every regimental headquarters on the Albanian front from Kimara to Pogradec had planned the spring offensive which was to shove the Italians back out of Albania.

"We will throw everything into it, all our men up to 40, all our guns," Greek commanders told me before Germany marched.

Thousands of younded in base hospitals at Koritza, Janina and Arta prayed for speedy recovery so they could fight in the "last battle."

Plan Torn Up

Twelve divisions of the finest Greek fighters—hardy mountineers of Epirus and Peloponnesus and tough Crete Islanders—were ranged along the crescent-shaped front for an all-out attack expected to sweep the Italians from Tepelini, Berat ad Elbasan.

They looked forward to the zero hour, but the offensive was stillborn.

Heart-broken generals tore up their plans when Hitler launched his men and machines across the Yugoslav frontier. Sensing the Yugoslav collapse before it occurred, the Greek commanders foresaw the impossibility of maintaining their northwestern line and they gave the order to withdraw in order.

Not all obeyed. The brilliant Major Maniatakes stayed with a suicide squad in concrete blockhouses the Greeks had built beside Lake Ohrid and calmly awaited the enemy advance over a field planted with 3,000 land mines.

Hold on to Heights

Two nights earlier, in stockinged feet to avoid noise, he had escorted me to within 200 yards of Italian Alpini trenches and joked about the "surprise party" that awaited them.

Indomitable junior officers held Trebecina Heights while khaki battalions marched back past Balibani (where a German dive-bomber had been shot down early in March, weeks before Nazi intervention) past Klisura, Premeti and Pantalonia. All these towns had been won only a few weeks before at the point of the bayonet in fierce winter battles.

On heights overlooking Tepelini husky evzones reluctantly shouldered dismantled light artillery, and with downcast eyes, joined the Greek columns that marched painfully toward the rear.

Koritza and Argyrokastron, twin symbols of Greek military prowess, were abandoned without a shot in a withdrawal executed with precision of a peacetime manoeuvre—but with far deeper emotion.

Peasant soldiers cursed Mussolini and Hitler with all the trooper's traditional vehemence.

"If we live will those devils send us away to slavery in Italy and Germany?" they asked.

There was no collapse of morale as in Poland and France. Commanders who could easily have fled to the coast and embarked for islands protected by the British Fleet stayed with their troops to the end.

Volunteer nurses remained at field hospitals until the last wounded man was safely moved to the rear.

The devotion to duty seemed to be in inverse proportion to the growing disaster.

This was the climax of Hellenic tragedy which also apparently is enmeshing a British expeditionary force of somewhere under 100,000 Australians, New Zealanders, Britons and Scots—a climax volved from the earlier scenes of the Balkan drama as inevitably as though one of the ancient masters had plotted it.

It has the tragic mistakes of men; the diplomatic and military misoues, the futile and bitter internecine strife of the Croats and the Serbs who refused to bury their antipathies even while the German tanks were smashing across Southern Yugoslavia to Bitolj.

As early as January Serbian generals had talked of sending as many as sixty divisions of the Yugoslav Army of 1,250,000 toward Salonika as soon as the war started, but none ever got there.

Outmoded mobilization orders were revised, and the Serbs were sent north to help defend Crotia; the Croats south to fight in a Serbia for whose inhabitants they bore no affection.

Harried by Fifth Column

Harried by fifth columnists and ceaseless air raids, the Serbs waged a hopeless rearguard fight in the retreat to Bosnia, while in the south the Croats were overwhelmed at Bitolj.

The Greeks and the Yugoslavs hastily reorganized their lines at the pass south of Bitolj, but the strength of the German Army in the Balkans had been underestimated.

The now-suicide Premier Alexandros Korizis, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, and King George of Greece contracted for the British expeditionary force about March 2, long after the Germans had begun their great military infiltration into the Balkans.

Thereafter, as the Anzacs and Britons streamed into Piraeus and marched north, the Greek masses realized that their homeland was to be a battlefield.

Red Shield Leader Commends Local Women's War Work

"While we can only appreciate the full British sacrifice by seeing it, we all have some idea of the trials which the British people are so bravely facing and it is on their behalf that I wish to express deep gratitude for what you are doing to help them," Mrs. Col. G. W. Peacock of Toronto, Canadian president of the Red Shield's Women's Auxiliary, told a mass women's meeting which crowded the Salvation Army Temple Thursday night.

After referring briefly to statistics which showed that over 100,000 articles of comforts had been sent overseas in three months through the Canadian Red Shied to relieve war distress in England, Mrs. Peacock said to the gathering, which included representatives of various groups assisting in the work. "When you give your quilts and blankets and other articles to the Red Shield, you may never know their exact destiny but you can rest assured that you are providing a great comfort to a heroic people in grave need."

Endless Task

Explaining that the supplying of refugees and caring for the wounded was an endless task with every new devastation of enemy bombers bringing new problems, Mrs. Peacock stressed the need for an ever-increasing stock of materials ready for use. "It is essential that we keep large stores on hand in order that we may meet every new emergency," she said, remarking: "I know you have all been working unselfishly in this humanitarian cause and that you will continue to do so. We must not have to refuse any appeals for assistance."

Introduced by Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, who acted as presiding officer, Mrs. Peacock was extended a warm welcome by Mrs. Norman uckley on behalf of the gathering. Among organizations represented were the All Saints' Women's Association and Auxiliary to Scout troops, Kawartha and Amos clubs, Hall's Glen and Warsaw were services, Havelock Eastern Star, Red Shield Women's Auxiliary and junior group and representative committees from Apsley, Lily Lake, Fraserville and Bailieboro. Mrs. Peacock was accompanied to Peterborough by Mrs. Rufus Spooner, wife of the S.A. divisional commander.

Commends Local Work

At the outset of her address, Mrs. Peacock commended the splendid work which she found was being done in Peterborough. "Your sacrifice and that of other women's organizations like yours throughout Canada has been most noble," she said, stating that it made possible a great work by the Red Shield in relieving distress in war bombed areas in England. "If you could begin to see the comforts brought to the needy and suffering by your quilts, socks and other supplies. I know every one of you would feel amply repaid for everything you have done."

At the present time, Mrs. Peacock said, there was a particular need for children's clothes in stockrooms. "Many children and babies have been rendered homeless as well as older persons," she reminded her hearers, in pointing out that aerial warfare places all the people, women and children included, in the combat zone.

Example in Courage

"I fully appreciate that the war has imposed many extra duties and responsibilities on all of you, but I know you will agree with me that anything that we can do is insignificant compared to the sacrifices they are making," Mrs. Peacock said, paying tribute to the magnificent spirit of the British people generally in sharing war suffering with their fighting men. "They have set an example in courage which has won the admiration of the world. We have every reason for our feeling of pride in them. Even Hitler must be beginning to realize that he cannot break their wonderful spirit.

"While we are going through dark days, and we may have to endure darker still, we will win if we keep faith," Mrs. Peacock said, stating: "God will see that righteousness and justice triumphs. He in His own good time will bring us out of this period of trial and tribulation. We just must not let ourselves forget that God is our refuge and strength."

Before Mrs. Peacock's address, Mrs. Buckley gave a report of Red Shield work carried on in Peterborough which revealed a total of 2,585 articles had been shipped away to headquarters during the first quarter of the year. Mrs. Buckley also read a letter received by the Havelock Eastern Star from a London family which expressed gratitude for a quilt made by the group. "The Havelock branch placed their name on the quilt,' she said, suggesting this to other groups as an interesting means of making direct contacts with those aided.

Musical Program

A musical program was featured with vocal solos by Mrs. M. J. Shadgett and Mrs. R. Spooner, a piano selection by Mrs. S. J. Richardson and xylophone numbers by a quartette which included Mrs. I. McDonald, and Misses Ardyth Richardson, Ruth Smith and Dorothy French. Mrs. J. T. Braund read the scripture lesson and a motion of thanks to the speaker and others who took part was moved by Mrs. J. K. Hugties and endorsed by all present.

Following the meeting, the women adjourned to the Salvation Army reception hall where they were served tea. Mrs. E. Hedge acted as hostess. Much interest was shown in a display of materials made in Peterborough for Red Shield work.

Inclined To Be Critical

London papers are of the opinion that the campaign in the Balkans should be written off as a loss. They are not inclined to say it behind the hand but they state it openly. While the Balkan campaign was on the papers were apparently willing to hold their peace and allow events to run their course, but now with the collapse of much of the resistance the urge for plain talk becomes too insistent to be constrained.

We are moved to wonder if those who furnish advance information are well qualified and fired with the idea of presenting plain facts and nothing else. The Ottawa Journal raised that point when it asked if the world had not been fed with a good deal of guff in connection with the entry of Yugoslavia into the war. There is not any desire to detract from the brave decision which was made by that country, but it is in connection with the reports which were printed at the time telling of the strength of that nation and its military preparation. It was frequently mentioned that there were at least a million well-armed and seasoned men; that there was good equipment and strongly-held positions through which an enemy would have extreme difficulty in forcing a passage.

In actual combat none of these things became evident. We have seen it stated that not more than 150,000 soldiers were ready for action, and that their equipment was quite indifferent. It is also a fact that internal dissension was sufficient to break the nation in two. The result of such information coming out was that it would give to us a false idea of the strength of the new ally. Instead of becoming an asset in the struggle such an ally would more likely be a liability.

We find that the London papers are inclined to be almost super-critical. The men who write in the newspapers are quite remotely removed from the scene of action in the Balkans. They complain that Hitler is still able to shove the British around, but they are not present when or where the shoving is being done. They are not holding a line in the Balkans, nor are they being filled with the drifting sands of North Africa. We can well enough understand the complaint about being furnished with incorrect reports of the military strength of nations which enter the fray, and a good many papers have published such reports and have accepted them as being accurate. Subsequent events have proved they were not.

But with criticism of the campaign in the Balkans or in Africa we cannot share. We believe it has been a costly thing for Germany and well nigh ruinous for Italy. And the feeling will not down that in the African campaign the British will arrive at the point where they will have that situation well in hand.

Rent Control In Peterborough

Five additional districts have come under the operation of the Federal Rent Control Board, and included is the city of Peterborough and the section of North Monaghan, Smith and Douro townships bordering on the city.

In a general way the announcement states that rentals have been pegged at the point where they stood on the 2nd of January, 1941, or if the premises were not then rented, then the rental shall be at the same level as the last expiring lease in 1940. In addition there is provision for the hearing and reviewing of any case either by landlord or tenant, and applications for such review can be forwarded to the clerk of the county or Division Court up to the 30th day of June. The County Judge in each district named is the official referee, but he would have the option of requesting another judge in his district to hear the applications and arguments. In this way provision is made for a fair hearing of all the facts and arguments which may be presented.

There are landlords in Peterborough who have been eminently fair regarding property rentals and they have not moved toward greater returns, nor have they sought to use this period as one from which they could extract sufficient toll to even up for years when rents were low by reason of lesser demand.

There are other cases where rents have advanced sharply, and it was against such practice that Mayor Hamilton issues a warning some weeks ago. He made it plain enough that if that practice were continued the Rent Control Board would surely become operative in this city. Apparently the number of complaints lodged against increasing rentals was considered sufficient to touch the Rent Control Board into operation in this city.

We do not believe such operation will work hardship nor do we believe it will interfere with the normal course of house building in this city or the adjacent district. It is necessary to accept the view that the Board would not have been designated for Peterborough had there not been sufficient urgency in the requisitions for its establishment, and when people have reason to believe that their rent bill has been raised to unreasonable figures then it is only right that there should be a competent court to which they can appeal for redress.

Big Pay In War Years

The Christian Science Monitor is confronted with a situation in which it can find no degree of equity. There are men being drafted into the United States army at $30 per month, and they have to be good specimens. Medical examinations are strict and the misfits are not desired. Thus the Army is securing the finest young men, and securing them for $30 per month. Many of them had been earning good salaries, many times in size what they receive in the army.

There are boom times in United States and men of uncertain skill working on the construction of huts and buildings for the Army are making big money, some of them $60 or $80 per week. And when they make that money and continue agitation for still more, the Boston paper says the draftees and their relatives have reason to feel that a serious injustice is being done.

And our belief is that their thoughts are directed down the right channel. We had the same situation in this country during the last war when those who worked making munitions were paid wages which had never been heard of before, when the price of produce and supplies soared to heights not before explored, and where the men who took the big chance went off in uniform at $1.10 per day.

It comes down in most cases to the idea that no person should be allowed to make an undue profit out of war. War is agony; it is hell; it is national and personal torture and as a people we hate it, and apparently the draftees in United States and their relatives are feeling the same way about it.

After 111 Years

The Boston Transcript started publication in 1830, but it is going to discontinue on the last day of April, 1941. And the Transcript was a thoroughgoing newspaper published in a section which a good many Canadians consider about the finest in United States.

Some time ago the Transcript felt the need for more revenue and started charging five cents a copy for the paper, while the other competitors in the field were selling for two cents. A statement by Richard N. Johnson, the publisher, says there was an increase in revenue by that move, but the advertising fell off.

Meanwhile the costs of producing the paper were fully maintained and there were increases in that department. The income and outgo had finally pulled so far apart that there appeared to be nothing left but going out of business. And so there will be another of those occasions when a fairly large number of skilled workers will walk out for the last time knowing they will have to face on the morrow a changed and a strange world. They have for years been engaged in the business of producing a daily paper, and most of them will know little enough about anything else. They had been with a paper which had stood up against a changing world for 111 years and possibly they had a feeling of security by reason of that association. Pay day had always arrived, but it will arrive no more. What makes the situation harder (and we have experienced the same thing in Canada) is that while daily papers are now and then dropping out of the field there are no new ones starting to absorb those thrown out of employment.

When The Funds Run Low

There is probably no reason why there should not be a strike in a hotel, but for some reason or other such an event is not of frequent occurrence. Ten days ago one was called at the Hotel London in London, Ont., and it is still on, with pickets walking on the pavement outside to show that they consider the place unfair to union labor.

It has been interesting, if not pleasant, to watch the course of events from day to day. The chief conciliation officer of the Ontario Department of Labor has come—and gone. He found the situation difficult and advised the local union to appoint some person in the city to negotiate for them. Ald. Carswell was named, but the hotel management will have nothing to do with him. The contention is that the employees can come back and have their grievances attended to as individuals. Meanwhile more help is being taken on and the claim is that there is little inconvenience as a result of the strike.

According to the last reports from London there is a ticket-selling campaign on for a dance, and the proceeds are going to those who have families to support. There was no pay last week and the funds in the individual pockets have run low or have become exhausted. Apparently there is no union fund out of which strike pay can be secured.

It has been noticed that many strikes run into this same difficulty. A union is organized, perhaps hurriedly, and the feeling is that if a mass claim is made for better wages success will be sure to result. It is quite likely the people against whom the strike is called are well aware that there is no central fund at the disposal of the union, and they know the members cannot long remain on strike because they have no financial reserves. There is then the tendency for the strikers to drift back and see what they can do about it as individuals. And that is generally the beginning of the end as far as the strike is concerned. It is then settled, not on the basis of what is right or wrong, but on the inability of the strikers to remain away from work. And that at best is a poor way to settle a strike. When a Government agent enters such a situation he should have sufficient authority to bring the parties together and see that negotiations were brought definitely under way.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It does look as though Turkey had followed the poor plan of delaying action until Germany was ready to deal with her separately.

From force of habit we look at the ball scores each morning, but admittedly it is difficult to become enthusiastic when the empire is fighting for its life.

Then there is that story from New Britain, Conn., of a cat which is caring for three baby mice. It sounds interesting, but we suspect the cat prefers mice of a slightly larger dimension.

Report persists that Premier Hepburn is going to England. Perhaps he can gather up a few large onions before he leaves, for the chance may come to pitch them at Hitler.

There is going to be a shortage of hops and English beer may be made weaker. Previously some of the hops were imported from United States but in war time that is considered too great a hop.

There were 500 people killed during German raids on Belfast, and it is recorded that thousands lined the streets as the funeral passed. But if they intend to do nothing more than grieve for their dead, who or what is going to protect them in days to come?

The Musical Festival in Stratford has been going on for days, and it takes days to attend to all those who desire to compete. Covering almost everything in the way of musical accomplishment, it has continued to grow in years of peace or in war. It is the largest and most complete event of its kind in Ontario.

WHEREAS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Committee settled at its work, from duty it would never shirk, 'twould serve till dissolution; there was one job it had to do, 'twould take deep thought to pass it through, and draw a resolution.

¶ The members sat there deep in thought, they'd do their work just as they ought, they'd word it so and so; they'd stump the people with their brains, so they'd take seven kinds of pains, to see how it should go.

¶ They used whereas right at the start, and from that word they would not part, they'd stay with it clean through; so they whereased yet more and more, as they proceeded with the chore, and whereas grew and grew.

¶ Whereas they lived upon a street, whereas they walked with muddy feet, whereas the way was long; whereas they floundered to their toil, and on their feet two pounds of soil, their protest waxed up strong.

¶ Whereas the council taxed them high, whereas their street was never dry, whereas their nerves were sick; whereas the council ought to move, and take them from this muddy groove, and do it mighty quick.

¶ The whereas resolution went, and with it ten impatient gent, nor did they meekly stroll; whereases put them to the test, the council thought it ought to rest—within a pigeon hole.

Greenland Deal Meets Approval In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — With the exception of ultra-isolationists (decidedly in a minority) congress' attitude toward Uncle Sam's establishment of a virtual protectorate over Danish-controlled Greenland is very favorable. Even some of the isolationists say it's all right if it really is a purely defensive move, for they, too, support our defence program. For instance, Senator Warren R. Austin, Vermont, a Republican, reasons that, although it "expands" the Monroe Doctrine, it's within its spirit, since the doctrine commits the United to "protection of the western hemisphere's integrity."

Chas. P. Stewart

Indeed, the isolationistic irreconcilables themselves remark that they wouldn't object to the expansion if they believed it to be exclusively defensive. But they don't believe it. Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina puts it that it's a scheme to convoy American war supplies half way across the Atlantic—that is, to Greenland, for transhipment in British vessels. And it has, he adds, the advantage, to the administration, of "avoiding use of the word 'convoy,' because that's unpopular."

Nevertheless, generally speaking, congress likes the idea of Greenland facilities, fortifications and other conveniences for American armed forces, almost within a biscuit-toss of Germany's proclaimed maritime war zone.

Just the same, it was a queer bargain.

NOT A TREATY

IT wasn't entered into as a Danish-American treaty. An international treaty, to be validated, requires a two-thirds senatorial indorsement. Illustratively, a few years ago, the executive branch of our government negotiated a treaty with Canada for St. Lawrence waterway development, submitted it to the senate, and did get a small majority but not the necessary two-thirds; so the treaty fizzled. Now the same thing's being attempted again, but not in the form of a treaty. It's in the form of a bargain, to be ratified by the passage of two bills, respectively by our congress and Canada's parliament.

Well, as previously remarked, this Greenland arrangement isn't a treaty either. It's a plain bargain. Only it's different from the St. Lawrence bargain, in that it doesn't have to be submitted to any legislative body whatever.

It was fixed up between State Secretary Cordell Hull and Henrik de Kauffmann, Danish minister in Washington. Cordell, of course, signed with presidential approval, but congress hasn't a word to say about the dicker, except informally.

IS IT OFFICIAL?

MINISTER de Kauffmann is described as having acted "in behalf of the King of Denmark." Now, is anybody to believe that the king of Denmark, virtually a Nazi prisoner, subscribed to that compact? He probably felt like it, but could he have had the nerve to do it, and then answer to Herr Hitler? Phooey! If not, Henrik must have signed on his own responsibility, which, unauthorized, isn't officially good for anything.

In short, it was a deal between Secretary Hull and Minister de Kauffmann, personally.

Still, we get our Greeland bases.

Immediately on the heels of the Greenland arrangement followed the presidential proclamation opening the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden, right up to Suez.

This wasn't treaty-work or legislation or anything except a proclamation.

We have a law barring shipment of American cargoes in American ships to belligerent foreign countries. Ah, but these shipments to Suez aren't for delivery in a belligerent country. They're for delivery in Egypt. Who gets 'em subsequently (Britain's forces in Africa or Greece or Yugoslavia or some other democracy) is none of our funeral. Hence that proclamation's perfectly legal. Isolationists look on it askance, though.

SPELLING AND WRITING

POOR writing and spelling on the part of pupils in Ontario schools is cause for dissatisfaction, of course, as has been stated at the meeting of the Ontario Educational Association. They are, however, subjects in which there is a distinct limitation on the possibilities of teaching.

To a large extent, writers and spellers are born and not made. In both subjects, of course, improvements can be brought about, but there are pupils who seem to be instinctively and inherently poor in these respects, and no amount of teaching can make them excel. They should certainly not be kept back in their classes because of this failing.—Windsor Star.

• Mr. Churchill's Big Cigar

From an article, "If I Lived My Life Over Again," by Winston Churchill.

IF we look back on our past life, we shall see that one of its most usual experiences is that we are often helped by our mistakes and injured by our most sagacious decisions.

I suppose if I had to re-live my life I ought to eschew the habit of smoking. Look at all the money I have wasted on tobacco. Think of it all invested and mounting up on compound interest year after year. I remember my father in his most sparking mood, his eyes gleaming through the haze of his cigarette, saying "Why begin? If you want to have an eye that is true, and a hand that does not quiver; if you want never to ask yourself a question as you ride at a fence, don't smoke."

I remember Lord Roberts, the dapper and famous Field-Marshal, in 1902 stopping me as I walked down St. James Street puffing a large cigar, echoing the same advice. "Don't smoke," he said. "It is so easy not to incur the habit. I am sure your father injured his health by over-smoking. Give it up now and live long in full vigor and activity. Let me give you this piece of advice as an old man." Of course, I ought to have taken it. Of course, I ought to have put that down as one of the things to do if I lived my life over again.

But consider! How can I tell that the soothing influence of tobacco upon my nervous system may not have enabled me to comport myself with calm and with courtesy in some awkward personal encounter or negotiation, or carried me serenely through some critical hours of anxious waiting? How can I tell that my temper would have been as sweet or my companionship as agreeable if I had abjured from my youth the goddess of Nicotine?

Now I think of it, if I had not turned back to get that match-box which I left behind in my dugout in Flanders, might I not just have walked into that shell which pitched so harmlessly a hundred yards ahead? (Here I will pause, unrepentant, to light another cigar.)

• Greenland New U.S. Puzzle

W. K. Kelsey, in Detroit News

THE Greenland incident has its peculiar features. We declare Greenland in the Western Hemisphere, which under the Monroe Doctrine it is our duty to protect. But Greenland belongs to Denmark, and Denmark is under the protection of Germany. Therefore it is up to us to protect Greeland from the Nazis, and it is up to Germany to protect Greenland against us.

According to Washington, Nazi planes have been seen over Greenland, and it is feared that a German expedition may visit the country and use it for war purposes. We propose to take steps to make that impossible. So we negotiate an agreement with the Danish minister, allowing us to establish bases in Greenland. The minister's act is repudiated by the Danish Government, and he is recalled. We say the Danish Government is under duress. Even so, can the Danish minister speak for Denmark? If his Government repudiates his act and recalls him, is his status anything but that of a private subject, in capable of speaking for anyone but himself? Is there a Denmark outside Denmark, as there is a Holland (in the person of Queen Wilhelmina) outside Holland? If so, when did the Danish minister begin to represent this ideal and mythical nation?

It would seem that we would be within our rights if we sent warships to hover off the Greenland coast and prevent its use by the Nazis; but how we can establish bases on the soil of Greenland against the will of the Danish Government, duress or no duress, is a matter which puzzles. If we did so, would not Denmark be justified in declaring war? And would not Germany, as Denmark's protector, be equally justified in taking up the quarrel on Denmark's behalf?

Needs Figuring Out

"Why sometimes I'm taken for my own daughter."

"Nonsense! You don't look old enough to have a daughter so old."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me: that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else, —Isa. xlv, 5, 6.

For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many,) but to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him.—Cor. viii, 5, 6.

A Bit of Nonsense

Too Risky

"Now," said the Italian officer, "the Australians are on the way. You'd better have a stiff drink so that you can meet them."

All the troops accepted but one.

"Why, what's the matter, Benito?" asked a companion. "Why don't you have a drink, like the rest of us?"

"Not-a me!" said Benito. "It giffs me too much courage. I might-a wait behind when the rest of you are running!"

Business

The battle for Benghazi was in full swing. The colonel of a Scots regiment was jealous of the large number of prisoners the Australians were taking, so he called his men together and offered 2s. 6d. per hundred prisoners brought in.

The next day a Scotsman marched in with 800 Italians; the officer paid him £1, at the same time asking how he managed to get so many single-handed. The Scot replied:

"I bought them from the Australians at a bob a hundred."

Millbrook Pays Her Tribute St. George's Day

MILLBROOK, April 25.—(ENS)—capacity audience gathered in the own Hall at 10 a.m. on Wednesday r an inspiring service, the program r which was in keeping with the alute to England" observed roughout the whotle British Em- re on St. George's Day, and was a religious and patriotic charac- r.

By proclamation of the Reeve, a ublic holiday was declared from 30 to 11.30 a.m., so that all places business were closed, and the upils of the Public and Continua- on Schools had a part in the pro- am.

Led by the junior and senior Ca- ts and the Cadets' drum band, and nder the direction of Sergeant-Ma- r Kent of the Midland Regiment, e pupils marched from the school the hall, a large Union Jack be- carried at the head of the pa- de, and each scholar wearing short reamers of red, white and blue nned at the shoulder. As the line assed the Cenotaph in the Town all Square, the command, "Eyes ght" rang out, and this salute was peated after the service, when the rade had reformed and the march ck to the school building took lace. Cadet Captain Tom Belch and Cadet Lieutenant Donald Pritchard were in command of the corps.

Reeve W. E. Ball occupied the chair, and extended a warm welcome to the large audience, and after the opening hymn, "O God our Help in ages past," prayer was offered by Rev. A. R. Gibson, B.D., pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church.

By means of appropriate patriotic songs and recitations, the pupils of the Public School took their part under the leadership of their principal, Percy Hamilton, and musical supervisor, Homer Oullete, who presided at the piano for the service.

Beginning with the chorus "O Canada," and the song "The King is Still in London Town," by the pupils of the Intermediate Room, there followed a recitation "Our Queen," by Jessie Dawson, who used a large colored picture of Her Majesty to illustrate the lines of the poem.

Mary Blair came next with a recitation, "Why Should we Fight for England?" and the chorus, "There'll Always Be An England," fitted in appropriately with this number, following which Gertrude Forsyth recited "Ye Mariners of England." "Rule Britannia" was sung by the whole school, and the two closing selections for this part of the program included a reading, "Canadian Born" by Jean Smith, and "The Maple Leaf Forever."

The address of the day was given by Rev. A. L. Sisco, who outlined the life of St. George, and his influence on English history, the points chiefly stressed, in regard to his character being: Strength, consecrated to the succor of the weak and defenceless; reverence for womanhood; modesty in success; fortitude, such as the people of England are showing to-day under repeated bombings, and the consequent loss of homes and lives, and other suffering; the spirit of fair play, with definite opposition to all injustice. "These are characteristics of the English to-day, and we can learn something from this St. George's Day service, if we take them within ourselves and make them our ideals."

In closing his remarks, which were an inspiration to the listeners, Mr. Sisco pointed to the red cross of St. George on the flag, and said: "The white ground stands for purity of intention, right and truth; and the red the sacrificial blood which has been shed to uphold these ideals. By God's great kindness, we may look forward to victory."

The National Anthem and the concluding prayer by Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson brought the service to a close. The pupils of Whitfield's and other schools of the vicinity, with their teachers, were present for the gathering.

Ottawa Citizens Favor B-1 Bread Samples

OTTAWA, April 25 — (CP).—Dominion agricultural and health authorities watched with increasing satisfaction to-day the returns of an Ottawa experiment which may have a bearing on the menu and physical condition of Canadians in the future.

One hundred families last week were given samples of loaves high in vitamin B-1 content, made from flour produced by a special milling process under supervision of Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, and other agriculture department experts.

Dr. Newman said their comments on the bread, now being summarized, indicated they liked it. About 20 per cent. of questionnaires returned so far noted the bread was "a little dark" but the rest thought it was "all right."

The difficulty in the past has been that bread high in B-1 has been darker in color than ordinary white bread which is most popular with Canadians. Milling processes devised by Dominion experiments have produced flour far richer in vitamin B-1.

With nearly half the returns from the test received, Dr. Neman said that the majority believed the loaf made from flour with 365 international units of vitamin per pound, compared with about 150 units in ordinary flour, looked and tasted so much like the usual white bread that it should be acceptable to all Canadians.

In bread made from flour with 475 international units there had been greater loss of the desired pure white color, but families which used it reported their satisfaction with flavor and appearance.

Dr. Newman said the next step would be to get as many millers as possible to adjust their methods to produce flour high in vitamin B-1 without serious loss in bread's appearance compared with ordinary white bread. A conference with Canadian millers, Federal health and pensions officials, representatives of Provincial departments of public health, bakers and others was proposed to see what could be done to make high vitamin content bread available throughout the Dominion.

From such a conference, it was said, might come a bread standard established by the Government and requiring that each loaf contain a certain number of B-1 units.

Under the milling process developed by Dominion scientists, the vitamin content of the wheat is retained in the manufactured flour and addition of B-1 in some other form is not required. In the standard quality loaf of the future, some four per cent. content of B-2, supplied by skim milk, may also be required, Dr. Newman said.

Health authorities have said that Canadian strength and mental outlook can be maintained and improved by additions to the vitamin content of food, and have argued that steps towards improvement should be taken as a contribution to efficiency of the war effort.

Dr. Newman said the flour made available for the Ottawa tests was made from high-quality Western wheat varieties developed extensively in the West.

LOVING WIFE HELPS HUSBAND ON THE SLY

Long-Standing Headaches Relieved

He could not understand why the headaches he had been subject to were suddenly relieved. His wife told him, and he at once sat down and wrote the following letter:—

"I am 62 years of age, and ever since I was a boy of ten years, I was subject to very bad headaches. But two years ago the headaches eased up—for what reason I did not know. I was surprised when one day my wife told me I had been using Kruschen Salts in my coffee for over two years. I am still using them, as I know of nothing finer."—J. T.

Headaches can often be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons — prevent them forming again—and you remove the cause of many aches and pains. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings pleasant relief. Kruschen helps Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter.

LACROSSE CLUB PLANS TO ENTER TEAM IN THE SENIOR 'B' SERIES

Cups, Trophies Presented At Curlers' "At Home"

LAKEFIELD, April 25—(ENS).—"Birds were created for man," so quoted Alex. Kay, bird enthusiast of Peterborough, who was guest speaker at the annual At Home of the active members of the Lakefield Ladies' and Gent's Curling Clubs, which was held in the Commercial Hotel on Thursday evening.

Mr. Kay proved his statement in his interesting manner, which held the attention of his listeners.

"There are 2,800 bird observers in Canada, who report once a month to Ottawa the number of birds and their habits seen in each district. There are 786 different kinds of birds in Canada, with 382 in this district, of which Mr. Kay knew of and could name.

The .22 rifle is the bird's worst enemy, being used to destroy ruthlessly birds which are a great benefit to mankind.

Of 304 crows which had been sent to Ottawa for examination, 68% had eaten cut worms, 18% grasshoppers, and the remaining 22% crickets and other insects. Only three had eaten grains of any kind. There is no penalty, however, for destroying this bird, which said Mr. Kay, is not as black as he is painted and which is mentioned in the Bible more than any other bird; because of the fact that in three states of the U.S.A. in which corn is the main crop, it is thought that the crow destroys so much of the grain but which is not true in this country, as statistics prove, and all birds are international.

32 Kinds of Sparrows.

There are 32 different kinds of sparrows, and these birds are weed and insect eaters. It is officially estimated that these birds eat 700 tons of weed seeds in Ontario in one season.

F. L. Erskine voiced the appreciation of all present in his vote of thanks to Mr. Kay, who is also an ardent follower and player of the curling sport.

Mrs. F. L. Erskine, president of the ladies' club, thanked the members for their co-operation and announced the winners of the various prizes. All members of each team received war savings stamps.

Mrs. G. Spence's rink, for a third consecutive year, captured the opening bonspiel prize. The rink consisted of Mrs. G. Spence, skip; Miss O. Watson, Mrs. H. Hamblin and Mrs. E. Edwards.

The Bailey Cup, presented by Mrs. E. H. Northey, past president of the club, was awarded to the rink of which Mrs. D. H. Charlton was skip, and Mrs. F. L. Erskine, Mrs. H. Hamblin and Mrs. J. Brown.

F. L. Erskine presented the Erskine Rose Bowl to Mrs. F. Wannamaker and her rink of Miss O. Watson, Mrs. N. A. Moore, and Mrs. S. Millage.

The Leonard Tray, won by Mrs. F. L. Erskine, skip, and her rink of Mrs. H. Hamblin, Mrs. J. Brown and Mrs. G. Graham, was presented by Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

As a token of her splendid sportsmanship, although not high enough to win a prize, Mrs. E. H. Northey was presented with a consolation prize.

Men's Club Winners

George Charlton, president of the men's curling club, presided for the presentation of prizes of the men's club.

The Fitzgerald Cup, presented by J. W. Ridpath, was awarded to the rink of E. H. Northey, skip; and E. R. Waldon, George Graham and F. Lawrence.

To Magistrate O. A. Langley was given the honor of presenting the Casement Cup to G. D. Scriver, skip; and J. McKercher, F. A. Payne and H. Watson.

The E. A. Tanner Cup was awarded to R. D. Murduff, skip; and B. Blake. D. Campbell, and George Spence; the presentation being made by E. H. Northey.

N. A. Moore presented the Dawson Cup, awarded to the winning rink in the mixed bonspiel, with the following winners: Miss M. Sanderson, E. Sloan, Mrs. D. Davis, and J. Knox, skip.

J. W. Ridpath brought to the mind of the gathering the recent passing of an honorary member, the late J. E. Galvin. "He was a true sport in all associations," said Mr. Ridpath. "I never knew him to do a mean or unkind thing in all his sporting activities. The weather was never too severe for him to come to the rink to curl, and his passing is sincerely regretted by every member of the club, but more especially by the older members.

Fitting tribute was also paid to the life of the late Charles Stenner, by T. W. Chaplin. "He was a good friend and fine curler. No suggestion was ever given that he did not give his co-operation. He loved the game of curling and rarely returned from an outside game without a prize. He was always a gentleman, whether winning or losing."

W. W. Yale, secretary-treasurer, and who was reappointed for the ensuing year, gave the report of the club which showed a gratifying balance.

The executive appointed for a two-year term is composed of J. McKercher, G. D. Scriver and E. Waldon, and F. Payne was appointed auditor.

Votes of thanks were extended the president, G. Charlton, for his untiring efforts in making the year so successful. Also D. H. Charlton for his ever-ready assistance at all times.

The host of the evening, W. H. Peacock, was also thanked for his gracious hospitality.

The singing of O Canada and Auld Lang Syne concluded another successful year in the curling history of the Lakefield clubs.

Vert Reynolds President Lacrosse Club

Vert Reynolds was elected presidetn of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club at an enthusiastic and well-attended meeting held in Duffus' bowling alleys Thursday night.

Doug. Miller, former player and executive, who is now on active service, was chosen as honorary president of the club and the other officers elected were:

Secretary-treasurer — Reg. H. Perks.

Manager and trainer—H. Legros.

Coach—Bus Whitton.

Executive—The above officers and Harry Tudhope and Bill Saunders.

Players and officers volunteered to assist in cleaning up the lacrosse bowl and in getting the plant ready for the season.

It was decided to enter a team in the senior B series of the O.A: L.A. and there is a possibility that the Petes will be grouped with Orillia, Brooklin and Oshawa.

Last night's meeting was preceded by a practice that was as enthusiastic as the meeting itself.

The weather was cool but that did not prevent the squad from getting in a lively workout. The players out included the following: L. Vitarelli, Red Creighton, Red Eason, Dutch Pammett, Berney Dundas, Pop Curtin, Pete Cassidy, D. Vitarelli, Ron Horton, Russ Scriver, Jerry Donoghue and C. Huffman.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

A month from to-morrow we will open the 1941 lawn bowling season, and we hope to have everything in tip-top shape. We know that several of the committees are working hard to attain that objective.

The membership committee, under J. T. Braumd, has made steady progress, and only yesterday we were informed that Judge S. Smoke, E. L. Sackville and R. Payne had each consented to skip a rink, and the example set by these gentlemen is greatly appreciated, and we for the membership committee say to them, "Thank you, gentlemen; thanks a lot." Their help is most timely.

So far so good. But we could do with a few more skips and we feel

SPORTS - DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Those fast-travelling Yanks climbed out in front of the American League race yesterday when they took the second game in a row from the Boston Red Sox 6 to 3. A home run by Charlie Keller with two on in the third frame was the blow that meant victory for the McCarthy clan who collected 10 hits off the delivery of Emmy Dickman while Russo, taking his second victory of the season held the Red Sox to seven blows. It was the fourth loss in a row for Joe Cronin's club after they had started out with five straight wins. Cleveland lost an opportunity to take the lead when they dropped a close one to the Chicago White Sox 2 to 1. It was a sweet pitching duel between Thornton Lee who held the Indians to six hits and Al Smith who allowed the Sox but five blows and still lost the decision. Despite the cold weather it was quite a good day for pitchers in the American loop.

* * * * * *

Tommy Bridges, dependable Detroit righthander hung up a neat win at the expense of St. Louis, although he was touched for seven hits as against five handed out by Vernon Kennedy for the Browns. Still, one of the Detroit blows was a homer by the hard-hitting Mister York and the wallop had a lot to do with the victory. Detroit took the decision 4 to 2. The Bengals have looked decidedly better in their last two appearance and seem to be definitely on the way up. Even without Greenberg they do not belong in the second division and are not likely to stay there very long. The Philadelphia-Washington fixture was not played owing to wet grounds.

* * * * * *

Gangway for those Cincinnati Reds in the National loop. After an unexpectedly bad start the world champs have begun to move along at the pace that was looked for from them and yesterday they hung up their fifth straight win. They had to finish like champions, too, to defeat the St. Louis Cards 3 to 2. Paul Derringer, picking off his second win of the year only allowed the Cards five hits but they led 2 to 0 until the eighth. In that frame the Reds managed to find two runs to tie the score and then won the argument with a single marker in the ninth. Luke Hamlin, stingily issuing only four hits to the Phillies made it easy for the Brooklyn Dodgers to grab off a 6 to 1 win, aided no end by a long circuit wallop by Duke Camilli who is pouring the pine in great style. And Pittsburgh and the Cubs had a tidy battle that was not decided until the 11th when the Pirates engineered the winning counter at the expense of Larry French who had gone the full distance for the Cubs. Klinger pitched most of th game for Pittsburgh but the win went to Lanning who was on the hill top in the eleventh.

Kingston Ball In Good Shape

Baseball in Kingston is in much better shape than the diamond pastime is in Peterborough right now. The Limestone City has not only a strong four-club City League, with the same four senior clubs that operated last season but the minor series will be looked after and in addition it is planned to have a Kingston city club, picked from the best in the City League and operating in an outside loop. Our old friend Bob Elliott who has played many a hard fought game against the Petes both with Deloro and with the Ponies has been appointed to look after the job of finding a berth for the Combines. Kingston would like to get a franchise in the St. Lawrence district of the Eastern Ontario Association playing against clubs in Brockville, Prescott and Smiths Falls if possible. Although a number of last year's players have enlisted reports from Kingston say there is plenty of material with newcomers likely to fill the gaps in the ranks.

* * * * * *

The famous Boston Kraut Line can play other games than hockey and play them well, too. That is shown by the fact that the great little right winger of the Boston club, Bobby Bauer has been elected playing manager of the Waterloo club, twice winners of the Ontario Senior B championship and that Milt Schmidt and Porky Dumart, the other two members of the famous hockey line are billed to hold down places on the baseball lineup. All three are good players. Schmidt in fact has been showing so much promise that the London club of the Pony Professional League have been after his services. The sturdy centre man has been tempted to accept the offer but does not believe th Boston management would take kindly to the idea of one of its stars risking injury in professional baseball. All three players have many friends in Hastings and Peterborough through their visits to Dit Clapper's town and their appearance here several times in softball games. Peterborough fans will wish them luck in baseball this summer.

Enthusiasm For Lacrosse

Sparked by such energetic, enthusiastic and hard-working executives as Vert Renyolds, Bus Whitton, Reg Perks and Hubert LeGros, the Peterborough lacrosse club should prove an up-and-coming sport organization this summer. Officers and players alike seem to have plenty of enthusiasm and the whole outfit is prepared to work hard for results this summer. So far as the players are concerned it looks as if the accent will be on youth unless some of the veterans can be induced to lend their steadying influence to the squad. The young players who have been attending this week's practices have been showing plenty of speed and pep and there is no doubt that with the right kind of coaching and they should get that from Bus Whitton, some of the kids are going to come along fast this summer. They have the speed and the zeal and the rest should develop.

* * * * * *

Montreal Royals, reinforced by the three regulars who had to miss the first game evened up the Memorial Cup finals last night by defeating the Winnipeg Rangers 5 to 3. Each team has now won one game in the best of five series. Royals after taking an early lead last night lost it again and then came on to grab off the victory with a last period three goal splurge. The next game is scheduled for Toronto but the Montrealers are making an effort to get some more action before their home fans and the C.A.H.A. is taking a telegraph vote as to whether or not their request that the fourth and fifth games be transferred to Montreal will be granted. It should be unless all idea of sport has been abandoned by the governing body. The Royals did not have a single game of the semi-final series on their own ice and are surely entitled to more than one fixture of the Memorial Cup finals. It is worthy of note that the Quebec, Ottawa and Maritime branches of the association joined in the request that a wire vote should be taken.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The Peterborough and District Ladies' Softball League will hold a meeting Tuesday, April 29 in the Duffus committee rooms. A large attendance of those interested is expected....The Masked Wolf won another "rasslin" bout in Toronto last night but the result hardly comes under the heading of an upset....Lodigiani's triple won yesterday's game for the White Sox. Toronto fans are wondering what was wrong with the guy last season....Bus Whitton has consented to take over the job of coaching the Peterborough lacrosse team this season. Bus knows all the answers and should be a big help, especially to young players....It is a queer day when one of the three DiMaggios does not do something to help win a ball game. It was Vince's turn yesterday as the Pirates beat Chicago.

Three "Imports" In Derby Lists

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 25 (CP)—The Kentucky Derby is as American as the expression "sugar daddy," but all "sugar daddies" aren't American.

Of the 112 nominees for the 1941 Derby, three are foreigners (imported is the horseman's way of saying it). They are Colorado Lad, Fairmond and...Sugar Daddy.

(There were no imported horses nominated last year, showing one effect the European war has had.)

Imported horses have fared poorly in the Derby, although few have competed. The only winning "foreigner" was Omar Khayyam in 1917. Star Hawk is the only other importation to finish in the money. He was second in 1916.

Signal Stealing Stirs Warning By Peckinpaugh

CHICAGO, April 25—(AP).—To the managers and coaches who try to call Bob Feller's pitches went this flat challenge and warning today from soft-spoken Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland Indians:

"Go ahead, you fellows who think you can call Feller's pitches, but it will be just too bad for you if someone gets hurt."

Briefly, that sums up Peck's stand on this week's signal stealing episode, brought to a lively climax as Feller, young fastball mound star, flatly said that the opposition was playing a dangerous game in trying to tell what kind of a ball he was going to shoot up to the plate. His observations came after the Indians' recent series with Detroit and Chicago.

"It doesn't take a genius to call pitches. Del Baker (Detroit manager) was calling Feller's pitches all afternoon one day in a game this Spring in Florida. He'd yell 'Neil it' as a signal for a fast ball and then call out the first name of a batter if he knew a curve was coming.

"I tipped Bob off and told him to grip the ball the same way for every pitch. Sure we're going to cross them up if we can.

Luke Sewell, Indian coach and long time major league catching star, concurred with his boss. He said he often had called pitches correctly but emphasized that the danger come in a miss. He said that Monty Stratton, former White Sox mound ace, once hit Jake Powell of the New York Yankees when a Yankee coach called the wrong pitch. Powell got ready for a curve but Stratton tossed his high hard one, catching Powell in the head.

Bisons Walloped By Giants 3-2 In Opener

BUFFALO, April 25 — (AP). — Maybe it's a case of like father like son, but Jersey City Giants have been causing as much of a furore around the International League during the first week of the season as the parent club, New York Giants, precipitated by making a quick getaway in the National League race.

The Little Giants scored their third straight victory yesterday, taking the opener of a three-game series from Buffalo Bisons, 3-2, to move into a tie with the Bisons for second place, in the only game played.

Frank Pearce subdued the hard-hitting Bisons, letting them down with five hits for his first victory of the year.

The Little Giants collected eight hits and all their runs off Earl Cook, who worked the first seven innings for the Bisons.

Wet grounds and cold weather put the damper on the rest of the program yesterday.

Collins' Single Beats Cubs 2-1; Yanks Whip Sox

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Frankie Frisch's insurance policy returned a nice fat dividend cheque the Pittsburg Pirates today, and no one was happier than the "policy:" himself.

For, this policy, better known to the trade as Jim (The Ripper) Collins, not only paid off when it counted most—in the clutch—but he did it against the Chicago Cubs, the club that let the policy "lapse" by sending him to the minors a couple of years ago.

It must have warmed the hearts of both Frankie and Rip, when Collins delivered a pinch single in the 11th inning yesterday which gave the Pittsburg Pirates a 2-1 decision over the Cubs.

For 10 innings, Larry French did a good job of putting hok : in the Buc bats, and looked to have the game well under control. Then, with two on in the 11th, Rip went in for Johnny Lanning and delivered.

The victory didn't affect the standings in the league, for the Pirates are well down in the lists and New York Giants, setting the pace, were rained out at Boston.

Over in the American League a combination of Marius Russo's seven-hit southpawing and two three-run innings, one of them produced by Charley Keller's homer, gave the Yanks a 6-3 decision over Boston Red Sox.

Sox Down In Tie For Third.

This setback dropped the Sox from the No. 1 slot down to a tie for third place with Cleveland Indians, who were nosed out 2-1 by the Chicago White Sox. Lefty Thornton Lee bested Lefty Al Smith in this one and the win boosted Jimmy Dykes' wonder-men into second place, behind the Yankees.

"Hot Potato" Luke Hamlin turned in his second straight hurling "nifty" to give the revamped Brooklyn Dodgers a 6-1 win over the futile Phillies. On top of his five-hitter of last Saturday, Hamlin tossed a four-hitter this time.

Lonnie Frey's ninth inning double sent the winning run home to enable Cincinnati Reds to down St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

Tommy Bridges' steady elbowing and a two-run triple by Frankie Croucher, in celebration of his graduation from the bench, gave Detroit Tigers a 4-2 edge over St. Louis Browns. Washington and Philadelphia Athletics were sidelined by cold.

Three-Goal Rally In Third Turns The Tide

MONTREAL, April 25 (CP)—All square in their Memorial Cup play-off, Montreal Royals and Winnipeg Rangers prepared today to return to Toronto for the third game of their best-of-five Dominion Junior hockey final.

The Royals, with three players who missed their opening 4-2 loss to the Western champions back in action, were good enough last night to knot the series at one victory each with a 5-3 triumph.

It took a last period rally, good for three goals, to decide the game. Prior to that, Winnipeg had overcome a two-goal deficit and carried a 3-2 edge into the third frame.

Ken Mosdell, slim centre of Montreal's second-string line, sparked the Royals spurt in the final frame with a pair of tallies. He stole the puck in the Winnipeg zone to knot the count unassisted and then took Jimmy Peters' pass to give the Royals a 4-3 lead.

Goalie Ross Ritchie, one of three players writing College examinations here when Montreal bowed at Toronto Monday in the first game, returned to give a masterful performance in goal. The other two were also back, with winger Grant Morrison and defenceman Bruce Ward.

Besides his two winning goals, Mosdell also helped in another by Jim Planche. The other two Montreal tallies went to Bunny Glover and Bobby Carragher.

The Winnipeg scorers were Bob Ballance, Hugh Miller and Glen Harmon.

EverybodyWalks For Sport Meet

HELSINKI, April 25 (CP)—The biggest sport meet in history will soon take place jointly in Finland and Sweden. The unique occasion will match the two peoples as nations rather than through their chosen champions.

The idea is to list every citizen in each country who walks a certain specified distance within a specified time during a certain two-week period in May. Because Sweden has twice the population of its neighbor, the lists will be rated on a ratio of 2:1. The nation ending up with the longer list of names wins the meet.

After negotiations between the Swedish Walking Union and the Finnish Sports Union, it was agreed that the competitive distances and maximum time limits would be 10 kilometers, for men, one hour thirty minutes; for women, one hour forty minutes; 15 kilometers, for men alone, two hours twenty minutes.

Both boys and girls above the age of 10 are allowed to compete at 10 kilometers, and boys over 14 at 15 kilometers. To stimulate further interest in honest-to-goodness hiking, Sweden challenged Finland for the international meet.

Fighting Cousin To Joe Louis

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 25 (CP) Heavy-weight champion Joe Louis isn't the only fighter in the family.

Here in the Buckeye capital he has a first cousin, Jack (Buddy) Walker, who is a pretty fair country heavyweight. Walker, who has lost two decisions and been held to a draw four times in 36 bouts against all kinds of opposition, is recognized by the Columbus boxing commission as Ohio heavyweight champion.

"I guess Cousin Joe and I have just about have the heavyweight championship thing all tied up," Walker declared. "He may be champion of the world, but he better not include Ohio in that 'world' until he sees me about it."

Walker answers the bell next on April 29, when he meets Charles (Buddy) Knox, Dayton's fancy dan heavyweight, in a local ring for the state title. It's a 10-rounder.

soldiers. Several times the guards walked by the door of the box car before the four policemen inspected it.

They sa wthe Germans immediately and, with guns held at the ready, called for surrender. The Germans gave up without resistance.

In the station later they said they had hidden in a hut they built themselves on the lake shore "about 10 kilometres" from Heron bay and less than a mile from Peninsula, near where but not in the area searchers had been most heavily concentrated during last week-end.

Had Special Maps.

They told police they stayed in the hut four days and had food for ten more in blue packsacks when they made their unsuccessful break to the box car in which they had hoped to ride out of this territory. On each of the four men police found a map so finely detailed they looked as if they had been engraved.

The maps were drawn on yellow paper commonly used for carbon copies in business offices. It was tinted and showed way stations not listed on ordinary maps, rivers and every possible detail of the territory along the railroad tracks near the camp.

One of the German prisoners spoke English fluently, but the others had heavy accents. They joked and talked with the guards of the search and of the territory. They were as unconcerned as could be about their capture.

They told the guards of having seen dogs sent along the bushy shoreline in the vicinity of their hut yesterday.

All were former members of the German air force shot down over different areas of England—one over London, another over Dover, a third over the English Channel off Bristol, and the fourth over Folkestone.

The man shot down over London said he was flying at 6,000 feet when a bullet hit his plane's water tank, and crippled the engine's cooling system, forcing him to land.

The constables who made the capture, bringing the search to an end only a few miles from where it started, are F. C. Christie and E. M. Richardson of the Provincial Police and Bill Harasy and A. Costick of the R.C.M.P.

Pair Travel 1,100 Miles

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., April 25 (CP)—Two German prisoners of war were captured by Royal Canadian Mounted Police here yesterday after making their way 1,100 miles from the northwestern Ontario internment camp from which they escaped with 26 others early last Saturday.

The Germans, readily admitting their identity, gave their names as Sgt.-Maj. Karl Heinz Grund and Sgt. Horst Liebreck. Their capture, together with the capture of four others in northwestern Ontario early today, completed roundup of the escaped men.

Grund and Liebeck told police they reached this Prairie city by riding freight trains and hitch-hiking with motorists and that they hoped to reach Vancouver from there they would catch a boat to Japan. It is expected an escort will be sent here to return them to the camp.

Police said the Germans boasted of their exploit in escaping and told how 75 men had worked in cold and damp to dig the escape tunnel. They did not reveal how they had managed to elude search parties in the camp area.

Both carried pack sacks containing tea, bacon, cheese and other food which they said were obtained from the camp. Grund said he was 28 and an observer in the German air force while Liebeck said he was 22 and a pilot.

The Roundup

Constable J. Joss of the Canadian Pacific Railway police noticed two suspicious men in the freight yards here. On his approach they hurried away. He notified Corporal W. R. Dobbin of the R.C.M.P., who with Constables G. W. Allen and J. S. Nanaway, R.C.M.P. and Constable Joss started a search.

Dobbin apprehended the men a short distance from where they were first seen. Both appeared not to understand English and Liebeck said, "I speak Dutch—no speak English."

Corporal Dobbin then asked to see their registration cards. They looked at each other and shrugged their shoulders.

"We are German prisoners," one said, in perfect English slowly but clearly. Liebeck admitted knowledge of six languages, English, Italian, French, German, Polish and Latvian.

They were dressed in brown overalls, grey shirts and carried mackinaw top coats. They also carried packsacks. They are bronzed by the sun and at the time of arrest, were badly in need of a wash and shave. When taken to jail they were given baths and clean clothing.

They told police they had not gone short of food and had "taken lots of food stores up from the camp." Thumbing rides in automobiles and riding freight trains had been their mode of travel.

The plan of escape of the prisoners from the Ontario internment camp was set for April 20, Hitler's birthday, Liebeck said.

All Soldiers Try to Escape.

"We are not criminals," Grund said, "but all good soldiers try to escape."

When told they would be well treated and could go home after the war, if they did not try to escape, they replied: "It is only natural for us to want to get back to the Fatherland." They both agreed the food had been good in the camp and that they had been well treated by Canadians.

"What do you think of Italy?" they were asked.

"We would rather not say, sir," Liebeck replied.

"Motorists were good in giving us rides and no one seemed to suspect we were Germans," they said.

Both prisoners had seen considerable service since the start of the war. Both were holders of the Iron Cross, first and second class. They were first captured in England on August 21, 1940, when their planes were shot down by fighters of the Royal Air Force. Liebeck was shot down while flying a Messerschmitt, and Grund shot down and captured, with others, while flying a heavy bombing plane.

The pair are now in individual cels here at the R.C.M.P. Barracks under heavy guard while they wait escort.

US Farm Leader Urges Nation Wake Up And Act

NEW YORK, April 25—(AP). — Claude Wickard, agriculture secretary, told the people of the United States today that it is high time they "got excited" about the state of world affairs because "ostrich nations don't last very long nowadays."

If the U.S. wished to continue a great nation, "it must act like a great nation," he said in offering this commentary on the progress to date of the war:

"The story in this conflict, so far as the democracies are concerned, has been a story of 'too little and too late.' Millions of Americans are getting sick of that story. They see clearly the results of appeasement and unpreparedness."

Wickard's address was prepared for a gathering of New England and the Middle Atlantic farmers, called to discuss the Agriculture Department's program for expanding production of meats, poultry and dairy products to meet needs of Britain and other nations resisting the Axis powers.

Declaring American agriculture's stake in a British victory to be "very great," he said that should the Axis win, "we might as well kiss our export market for farm products goodbye.

"That would mean sweeping readjustments in agriculture. The changes would be immediate and drastic and they would mean complete regimentation and government control for all agriculture and all farmers."

HISTORIC BOOK

A historic book on the history of Peterborough County is being prepared in commemoration of the centennial of the county court house which will be held in June, Deputy-Reeve Alex Archibald of North Monaghan, chairman of the committee in charge, disclosed today. A number are contributing articles including Mrs. F. D. Kerr.

REPAIRING HIGHWAY.

Road-menders are overtaking the damage done to No. 7 Highway between Peterborough and Havelock by the eruptive frost. Large quantities of gravel were drawn to sections which had broken down extensively, graders are at work, and the road has now nearly dried up. Traffic is still slow in some stretches. Beyond Havelock and especially between Marmora and Madoc, highway is in better condition than it was during most of last year.

CAR TAKES BRUNT

When a truck and a motor car met in collision at Princess and Aylmer streets yesterday, the bigger machine escaped without any damage but the other vehicle had its rear left fender, running board and rear left wheel damaged. The truck, driven by Licien Brazeau, 336 Water street was travelling east on Princess street and the car, driven by C. Ross, Madoc, was moving north on Aylmer street when the accident occurred.

TO ALTER CREEK.

Thomas Doughty has a contract from Johnson Motors for the diversion of the creek which crosses Monaghan Road at the C.P.R. Its present course lies in the path of the site of the company's projected new building, but the work of digging a new channel has been held up until the low ground dries. This creek crosses factory lots from Monaghan Road to the corner of Park and Lansdowne Streets. During the depression the Examiner suggested that some effort be made to change its direction out at Western Avenue, keeping it away from the factory area, but apparently the heads of both communities felt that it might as well continue purling along the route which nature chose for it.

TAX BILLS COMING.

The job of making out tax bills is getting along to the point at which they will be ready for delivery to the municipal customer.

RETURN FROM FLYING TRIP

Three Peterborough businessmen, Stanley Longhurst, Harold Rehill and Ernie Gregson, arrived back home today from a flying trip to New York and Wilkes-Barre where they made a mining inspection tour. The trio left Peterborough on Monday, going first to Montreal where they joined a party of twenty-eight other Canadian businessmen. They then travelled to New York and Wilkes-Barre by air. "The weather was fine and the scenery magnificent," Mr. Longhurst said, when asked how he enjoyed the trip.

GRENFELL MISSION FUND

The local branch of the Grenfell Mission is appealing for funds. Labrador fisherfolk in large numbers have volunteered for service with the Royal Navy, Merchant Marine and mine-sweepers, leaving their dependents to carry on at home. These brave women look to people who are more fortunately situated to stand by them if they need help. They are independent British people, who do not ask for help until it is absolutely necessary, and who of their small means have been contributing to Red Cross and other war work. Send your contributions, as generous as possible, to the treasurer, Mrs. Langley, 239 Burnham street, or leave it at the Examiner office.

Call For Freed Comforts Exceeds Supply

HAMILTON, April 25—(CP)—The demand for field comforts for Canadian soldiers overseas far exceeds the supply, Mrs. C. D. Hickey told the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, today in her report as war service convener.

She said that field comforts, totalling 148,451 items, had been distributed by Ontario Chapters to all branches of the service, to the Red Cross and other organizations. A total of 27,408 articles had been sent to Canadian hospitals and 142,204 other articles were made with materials supplied by the Red Cross.

Contributions to various funds by Ontario Chapters were: Bomber Fund $79,789, Service Centre Fund $1,780, Lord Mayor's fund $2,199, British War Guests' Fund $5,392, Self-Sacrifice Fund $123.

City Firemen Answer Record Alarms

It has just about been a case of in again, out again, for the Peterborough firemen this month. The local fire brigade responded to its ninety-first alarm since April today when it was called to extinguish a chimney blaze at the home of Samuel Chalupka, 489 Park street.

"I have never seen anything like it," said Chief George Gimblett, stating that it was a record for the department. "Back in April, 1937, we had 87 alarms, but that is the only time that our present record was ever approached as far as I have been able to find and I have been reviewing files for years."

Loss Kept Down

Despite the unusually large number of alarms, the loss has been light, not exceeding $1,500, Chief Gimblett said, revealing that the great majority of calls were for chimney and grass fires. "Almost any one of these could have been dangerous if there had been any delay in calling us," he said, commending his firemen for keeping down losses. "We have been very busy and very fortunate too in that none of the fires have got beyond control."

Asks Co-operation

Public co-operation in cleaning out chimneys and exercising care when burning grass was asked by the chief as a means of helping firemen check the fire epidemic. "We may not always be lucky and one of these fires may get a start so that serious damage can not be prevented," he remarked, emphasizing the danger.

Out of the ninety-one calls, only one was a false alarm. This was turned in from Nicholls Hospital where one of the probation nurses pulled the fire lever by accident, the chief revealed. He said the calls were divided about evenly between the day and night shifts. "Neither has hardly had a dull moment," he smiled.

Cheese Factories Opening Monday

Some of the cheese factories of this district will begin operation on Monday, F. C. Paterson reported today from a trip he had recently around the local cheese circuit visiting most of the factories.

Kilarney, north of Norwood, and "Daisy D," are both ready to steam up Monday morning, and others in the district are in the same stage of preparation. Opening of Warsaw factory is delayed by improvements, Mr. Paterson said. Milk producers in that locality will have an efficient and up-to-date operating factory when the present alterations are completed.

Milk producers at Port Perry are meeting Friday, May 2, chiefly to be informed about the Cheese Patrons' Association which they have not yet joined, Clarence Lackner, director of the dairy branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture; George A. Elliott of Norwood, and W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, will be at the Port Perry meeting. Questions of prices and bonuses and other details of the year's program will be discussed. It is understood that dairy farmers from as far as Nestleton are becoming interested in the Port Perry plant, and increased deliveries of milk are expected this season.

Dairy instructors of Eastern Ontario are meeting at Kemptville next week.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 25. — (AP). — President James Bryant Conant of Harvard University says that Britain feels a sharp need of soldiers of science for her war work at home. "There is a severe shortage of physicists and engineers with experience in certain types of electrical work." Conant, recently back from Britain, says in an article in the current issue of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin.

Air Raid Training Units Will Be Set Up In City Kinsmen Told

"It is only wisdom that Canada be ready for any emergency that the future may bring," said Chief George Gimblett, addressing the Kinsmen's club last night on the importance of Air Raid Precaution training. Chief Gimblett was speaking as a member of the advisory board of the Ontario Civilian Defence committee which has been set up to organize A.R.P. units throughout the province.

"Every city, town and village in the Dominion is being organized," the speaker said, explaining that the program includes the setting up of special first-aid posts, transportation facilities and other emergency requirements. The training includes such instruction as gas identification, first-aid, and rescue work as well as fire-fighting methods for combatting incendiary bombs and other war hazards.

Reviews Steps Taken

In commenting on Peterborough's part, Chief Gimblett reviewed preliminary steps taken in organization and revealed a meeting would be held shortly, probably in the city hall, for final action. "We are going to ask the co-operation of all citizens to help us," he said, in stressing the importance of a thorough foundation. "Air raids may seem distant just now, but they are not beyond the realm of possibility and it is in the interest of general safety that we all know what to do.

U.S. Preparations

"The larger American cities are already preparing for it," Chief Gimblett said, in commenting on a report that New York was increasing its regular firemen from 14,000 to 19,000 and besides enlisting 200,000 civilian volunteers for emergency duty. "Light pumping units and other special equipment is being set up at each of four hundred station," he said, telling further of New York's preparations.

"When U.S. cities are doing that, it shows how much more essential it is for us to be prepared," he said.

Call for Volunteers

One of first steps in Peterborough after setting up local committees will be a call for a hundred auxiliary firemen and an equal number of air wardens. "We will probably be needing more than that eventually, but that number would give us a good start," he said, stating that volunteers would be sought from able-bodied men between 30 to 50.

A.R.P. instruction was considered so important by the Dominion's Fire Chiefs' Association executive committee that it is to form a special feature for lectures at the convention to be held in this city in August, the speaker mentioned.

The speaker was introduced by Ald. Adam Sands. Vern Selkirk moved a vote of thanks tendered the speaker, Lorne Bateman, president, occupied the chair.

Lansdowne Lodge Cancels Banquet To Aid British War Victims

St. George's Day for years past has been a night when members of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England have celebrated and toasted the patron saint of England. This year they gave up their annual banquet for that purpose, in order to help the distress of air raid victims in England and today the Fund acknowledges receipt of the substantial sum of $30 through this, their cheque for that amount having been received per W. G. Shiner. This is the second donation this lodge has made to the Fund.

The Loyal Order of Moose (Peterborough) and the Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association, operating in Moose Hall, are both represented in today's list with a donation of $10 each.

Three young girls, Betty, Mabel and Sally Combe sold tickets on some flowers which had been donated, and the result of their endeavours netted $2 to the Fund. The winner was ticket No. 6 which was held by Mrs. Cross of Gladstone avenue.

Song Recital

On Tuesday night, April 29 the Misses Isobel Duthie and Isabel Weddell, are giving a joint song recital at the Y.W.C.A., in aid of the Fund, and we wish these young ladies every success.

With the sixth donation winging its way to England yesterday for a total of £3,000 from the Citizens of Peterborough and District it is surely heartening to know that already one quarter of the next $500 is already on hand.

Churchill Club

The enthusiasm with which this Patriotic Club as a tribute, to Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill has already been received promises well for the fund, and before long the results of the efforts of its membership committee will begin to appear in our lists.

Bar Visitors From Seeing Gallow Gang

BRANTFORD, April 25.—Defense Counsel Mannis Frankel, Toronto, appeared in the City Magistrate's Court Wednesday, on behalf of John Fairchilds, Thomas Nichols, Lawrence Burns and William Bradd who are charged, with Louis Gallow, with breaking and entering the premises of the McHutchion's Bakery, Lt., January 20.

Mr. Frankel salad he was not representing Gallow.

Four of the men are in jail here now being under sentence imposed in Peterborough for a safe-cracking job in that city. The Court was adjourned to allow defense counsel to interview his clients in jail. They were not brought over to face the charges, it not being thought that either the Crown or Defense would be ready to proceed, Fairchilds is out on bail.

At the conclusion of the interview, the defense counsel stated that he was prepared to go on with the defense if a time was made suitable.

Acting Crown Attorney E. R. Read, K.C., stated that he had a witness out in Western Canada whom he wished called and requested a two-week adjournment to allow time for said witness to be called and return east. Magistrate R. J. Gillen marked the information, May 7.

The defense counsel asked Mr. Read if some visitors here could confer with the prisoners. The Crown replied that the jail official had strict orders from Toronto that on one was to be allowed to see the men outside of their attorney. All four men recently participated in an attempted jail break at Peterborough and were given an additional 12 months on top of the terms received for burglary. The sentence on the four men totals nearly 25 years.

55 Men Placed On Farms; $25-$35 Month

Fifty-men have been placed on farms of the district this season through the agency of William Mellis of the government employment bureau.

"Farmers are offering $25 to $35 a month," he said today, "and in the face of other demands for labor this year I feel that we have been fortunate in being able to direct so many as fifty-five men to country jobs. At the present time we have no unemployed men on our list, and we have enquiries from seven farmers who need men.

The fact is that there are hardly any unemployed men here at the present time. There is work for everybody who is willing to work, but ordinary labor is becoming scarce. However, we have some enquiries from men out around the county."

Dubious Of Students

From another source it was intimated that farmers have such a low opinion of the industry of the present generation of Collegiate young men that the proposal to arrange for their co-operation in harvesting he summer's crop has folded up in silence.

In the last war quite a number of young men worked on farms three or four months a year, and the most of them gave a good account of themselves. But, of the new generation born of the motor age it seems that farmers are not interested in them. That, of course, is the general attitude. Some farmers would be quite willing to take a boy or two on faith and give them a square deal, but the response on the whole to the student labor supply has indicated that farmers would rather struggle along alone.

It is also said that Collegiate authorities are not attracted to the farm labor relief plan, but in spite of those opposing attitudes it is likely that same of the school youths will get farm engagements as a wartime work.

Police Interupt Drinking Party

Police Sergt. John Thompson and Constable John Stevenson were uninvited guests at a little al fresco wine party at the rear of the old William Hamilton Company plant Thursday and as a result of their visit, two men, one a transient and the other a home product lined up before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to face liquor charges.

The transient Jos. McAleer, got off much more cheaply than the native son. He was charged with being drunk, pleaded guilty, was assessed the usual $10 fine and took the usual ten day alternative.

William O'Toole was not so fortunate. He was charged as a third offender with having consumed liquor while on the interdicted list and his plea of guilty on that count automatically gave him a jail sentence of three months.

Rental Control Conditions Are Outlined

Conditions relating to the extension of rental control to Peterborough are explained in a statement received from Mr. Justice Martin of Ottawa, Rentals Administrator, and setting forth the rights of both landlords and tenants under the emergency wartime order.

"By reason of war activity, the problem of congestion has arisen in a number of towns and cities. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has been obliged to intervene where housing accommodation is close to the saturation point, and advantage may be taken of the situation to unduly increase rents. This country is at war. It is not the time for anyone to take unfair advantage of the housing shortage.

The majority of property owners are meeting the situation fairly wisely, and I am sure they will continue to do so," the Adminisarator said.

Effective May 1

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has pegged the rents prevailing in the Peterborough area on January 2, 1941, and this order goes into effect on May 1 next.

The official statement follows: "The Board's Order provides that, effective on and after May 1, 1941, the maximum rentals in force in these added areas (city of Peterborough and parts of North Monaghan, Smith and Douro) are those prevailing on January 2, 1941, or, if the accommodation was not rented, the rent payable under the latest lease in 1940."

Accommodation Defined

Housing accommodation covered by the Order fixing maximum rents includes furnished and unfurnished houses and summer cottages, apartments, flats, and all kinds of rooms used for residential purposes. Instances have come to the attention of the Board in other municipalities where landlords, whose returns have been limited by rent fixing, have attempted to make up the difference by inadequate heating, by refusing to complete decorations or repairs that were agreed upon, by eliminating the use of garages, or by similar reductions of services originally provided for or necessarily implied in the lease. In no case is the landlord relieve of such obligations, whether either written or oral.

Tenants need not and should not pay more than the rental fixed by the pegging Order. Where a tenant is asked for a rental in excess of the fixed maximum or is deprived of any of the services provided in his lease, written or oral, he should report without delay to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Tenants in rent controlled areas who pay more than the fixed maximum rental after the effective date of the Order, are entitled to recover overpayments from their landlords.

Special Circumstances

Both tenants and landlords, however, are given the right to apply for variation of the fixed maximum rentals where ther are special circircumstances justifying variation. Substantial changes in local taxation mortgage interest rates, insurance

Belmont Area W.I. Headed By Goldie Dafoe

HAVELOCK, April 25.—(ENS)—The Belmont Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon of last week in the Preneveau Town Hall, with a good attendance and the president, Mrs. Donald Anderson, presiding.

April being the end of the year for all the branches of the Institute the election of officers for the new year took place, with Mrs. Joseph Seabrooke taking charge. The following officers were appointed: President, Miss Goldie Dafoe; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Don Anderson; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Eric Ellis ; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. William Harris; Directors, Mrs. James McMillan, Mrs. George Hartin, and Miss Lois King; Press Reporter, Mrs. William Smith; Auditors, Mrs. Robert Anderson and Mrs. Leonard Keene; Sick and Relief Committee, Mrs. Don Anderson and Mrs. James Toms; District Representative, Mrs. Eric Ellis; Lunch Committee, Mrs. Jno. Lloyd, Mrs. George Smith and Miss Sylvia King; Pianist, Mrs. Zene Rylott; Caretaker, Mrs. Theron McMullen.

The newly-elected president then took the chair, thanking all for the honor bestowed upon her and asked for the support of all the members in her new duties. The roll call was Pay Your Dues, and was splendidly responded to, with thirty members on the roll for another year's work. Institute pins were presented to those who were regular in attendance, and also for those bringing in new members. Another quilting day for Red Cross work was planned for Thursday, May 1, when the ladies will give the whole day to this wonderful work. Representatives appointed to attend the District Annual, to be held at Trent River this year in May, were Miss Goldie Dafoe, Mrs. William Harris, Mrs. Joseph Seabrooke, Mrs. John Anderson and Miss Lily Anderson. Mrs. Willard Ashby was appointed convener of Red Cross sewing, and Mrs. Joseph Seabrooke, convener of Red Cross knitting.

The secretary-treasurer's report for the year's activities was presented by Mrs. Harris: balance from the previous year, $33.94; receipts this past year, $221.51; expenditures for year, $204.82; balance, $40.63.

The Belmont Institute did much in Red Cross work during the past year, having contributed to the Red Cross Society, since last October, 44 pairs of socks, 14 pairs of mitts, 17 quilts, 12 pairs of pyjamas, 8 children's skirts, and 17 pairs of bloomers. A donation of $41.92 from the Chatauqua concert sponsored by the Women's Institute, and a donation of $25.00, making a total of $66.92, was given to the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross Society.

The Women's Institute also gave $10 to the Charity Ward, $5.00 to Children's Aid and $2.00 to the public speaking contest.

The meeting closed with the singing of God Save the King, after which refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

Eastern Star Session

The Eastern Star Patriotic Association held its usual weekly meeting on Friday, with a smaller attendance than usual, on account of Easter holidays, but those in attendance enjoyed a grand pot luck supper and quilted two fancy quilts and bound one. Mrs. George Brooks donated a top for a beautiful portulaca quilt, on which tickets will be sold in the near future.

Pennies were turned in from Miss Roberts' and Miss McNeely's room, for the Baby Fund, a generous donation of $5.00 was also received to add to the B.B.B. Fund from Mrs. A. E. Young, teacher, and pupils of the Preneveau School. A complete layette will be shipped, bearing the name of their school and teacher in the next shipment of layettes for the British babies.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. S. J. W. Clarke of the Bank of Toronto, and to Mr. Rae Williams, for auditing the books of the association from November 10, 1939, to March 31, 1941. This audit was required by the government. The following work has been accomplished by the association during that time: $1,115.35 has been raised; 149 quilts quilted, 75 of which were large ones for war victims and 25 baby quilts for British babies; knitted articles were as follows: 361 pairs of socks, 145 sweaters, 6 tuck-in scarfs, 37 scarfs, 84 pairs of gloves and mitts, 20 balaclavas and 40 pairs of wristlets; 658 articles of used clothing and 451 articles of new clothing have been shipped to the Red Shield of the Salvation Army for British war victims.

Sincere appreciation was extended to all for their donations and work, no matter how small. Continued interest and help is prayerfully solicited, the more help that is given by the people, the more cartons of comforts will be sent to victims of Hitler's bombings, and to our soldiers.

An invitation was received from Mrs. Buckley of Peterborough for the Eastern Star Patriotic Association workers to attend a meeting in the Salvation Army Temple on Thursday evening, when Mrs. Col. Jane Peacock, head of the Red Shield of the Salvation Army, will be speaking on the needs of the people of England and their war work in general. All present expressed their desire to attend.

Mrs. Earl Cook was the lucky winner of the bird house, which was donated by Mr. Krantz, and drawn for on Tuesday evening at the regular Tuesday evening bingo games sponsored by the Eastern Star Patriotic Association .

MILLBROOK

Ross Armstrong Special Guard

MILLBROOK, April 25.—(ENS)—A.C. 1 Ross Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Armstrong, Millbrook, who is stationed at Patricia Bay, British Columbia, was a member of the guard of honor when the Governor-General recently visited Victoria, and inspected the troops.

Ross is well known in Peterborough, Millbrook, and vicinity, and his many friends will be interested in knowing of the honor he shared with other Air Force members during the stay of the Governor-General in the Western Province.

Mr. and rMs. Thomas Allen were host and hostess for an enjoyable progressive euchre at their home, south of the village, on Monday evening, when ten tables were in use for play. Two travelling prizes were given to the lady and gentleman, started at the head and bottom tables respectively, who made the most moves during the evening. Mrs. Harvey Gardiner and H. Hawken were the winners. Winners for high score were Mrs. Fitchett and B. Olan. The service of lunch and a social time concluded the pleasant party, the proceeds of which are to be given to war work and purchase of supplies.

The Junior Girls' Club met on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke, with the vice-president, Marjorie Hubbeard, in the chair, the president, Luella Kennedy, being absent through illness.

The roll call was answered with "one point to remember in buying cottons." The theme, "Cottons may be smart," was proceeded with after decision to leave the matter of choosing a name until the May meeting, which will be on the first Saturday in the month at the home of the leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong.

"Styles to suit different figures" was the topic discussed by the leader, included in this being a description of materials suitable to thin and stout people. Some highlights were: It is never economical to buy cheap material or patterns, as the latter will not likely be true, and the former will not wear or launder well. All cottons should be shrunk before being made into garments, and the matter of proper shrinking was discussed, after which the girls demonstrated measurements in order to know size of pattern to secure.

A bound buttonhole was made by Mrs. Armstrong, who also demonstrated samples of different seams such as French, French bell, plain seams, with stitched finish, pinked and overcast. The girls are to practise these at home, and the home assignment also included purchase of materials and patterns, preparation of materials for shrinking and placing, work on record books, and making a bound buttonhole.

For the May gathering the roll will be answered by "One difficulty I had in making my buttonhole."

PLAINVILLE

School Studies Outlined In Talk

PLAINVILLE, April 25.—(ENS)—Monday evening the men of Gore's Landing, Bethesda (Harwood), and Plainville Association met for their monthly meeting in the United Church at Gore's Landing. The president, Glen Hogg, was chairman of the evening. Earl Drope led in a sing-song to commence the program.

During the program Rev. M. Fisher read a poem "When I Grow Up." Glen Cole sang a solo, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." Two Plainville boys, Erwin Tucker and Wallace Buttar, entertained with an amusing skit, and Ronald and Murray Manley played piano duets, "In the Twilight" and "The Blacksmith's Song."

The guest speaker of the evening was W. Carlton of Cobourg, the Public School Inspector of the district. He brought a very interesting message about the new course of study, speaking of the wonderful opportunities the course presented to the boys and girls of to-day.

A vote of thanks was given the speaker by Glen Cole and Glen Hogg, and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

78 Shipbuilding Jobs Due Inside Month

TORONTO, April 25 — (CP) — Munitions Minister Howe today described the agreement reached by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt as "of the highest importance to our munitions program," on which he reported in general terms in an address to a luncheon meeting of the Empire Club.

The agreement, providing for the exchange of products that each country is best suited to produce, is expected to go far toward enabling us to pay our debts in the United States with munitions for which we have surplus capacity from time to time and at the same time iron out peaks and valleys of war demand."

Somehow or other, Mr. Howe said, men and women must be found to man the Canadian productive capacity that is being created under the country's war effort. He found the "greatest encouragement" in the way Canadian industry and labor were putting their backs into war production.

Mr. Howe reported on Canada's production of ships, airplanes, munitions, military transports and tanks. Describing losses to Britain's merchant marine as "severe" in the Battle of the Atlantic, he said Canada recently had turned her shipbuilding capacity to turning out 10,000-ton freighters and within the next month it was expected contracts would be let for 78 ships.

To avoid delays to shipping in Canadian ports and extensive lighterage system was being built to "supplement dockage capacity of our Eastern Maritime ports." It would be in operation before the close of the St. Lawrence River season.

Munitions Booming

Telling of construction of plants to manufacture small-arms ammunition, explosives, shell fillings, chemicals and shells, Mr. Howe said: "Canada's ammunition program is nearing completion on a far larger scale than in the last war.

The motor industry, he said, had enough orders to keep it occupied until the end of the year with the building of transport vehicles, which have been sent to every country in the British Empire.

"We have developed a light high-speed tank, which we will call on the motor industry to produce as soon as opportunity offers," Mr. Howe said. "I am happy to say that our motor industry has lived up to every promise that it has made."

Manufacture of guns—"almost every type ..from Lee Enfield rifles to six-inch naval guns and 3.7 anti-aircraft guns"—accounts for about one-third of Canada's capital investment of $400,000 in new plants, Mr. Howe said. "New gun plants are now coming into production from week to week and, by mid-summer, guns will represent our largest munitions export."

Production of heavy tanks had presented problems but "within the next month the infantry tank will be in substantial production and by midsummer the cruiser tank will also be in volume production." It was Mr. Howe's opinion that these tanks represent the greatest challenge of any type of war munitions to Canadian industry.

Canada has filled her primary job of meeting the requirements of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan and about 45 planes a week, 40 per cent fighters and 60 per cent trainers, are coming out of Canadian factories.

Slight Reduction Effected In North Monaghan Rate

North Monaghan ratepayers will pay current taxes on a rate of 28.7 mills for township, county and general school purposes, plus their school section levy, it is shown by figures released today by Bruce Johnston, municipal clerk and treasurer. The rate was approved by the council at a special meeting on Wednesday night.

The rate provides for $13,163.54 for county purposes, $5,897.26 for schools, $9,175 for roads and streets, $5,650 for general administration, $2,100 for charity and welfare, $50 for health and sanitation, $500 for administration of justice and $875 for local improvement and miscellaneous, totaling $31,513.54.

Additional levies in the school sections are as follows: No. 1, 2 mills; No. 2, 13 mills; No. 3, 2 mills, and No. 4, 3.1 mills.

"The rate generally is down about a mill from last year," Mr Johnston said, explaining the figures. The general levy is expected to raise $21,-063.54. An additional $10,450 revenue is estimated from provincial subsidy, grants, licenses, fines and other purposes, aside from direct taxation.

Because of different levies in school sections, the total rate varies from 42.7 in No. 2, to 30 mills in No. 1 and 3 sections. No. 4 ratepayers will play 31.1.

Appointed To Board

Appointment of Leslie Bristow to fill the vacancy on the Board of Health caused by the recent death of Harry Clark was approved. The re-appointment of Archie Patterson as road superintendent at 60 cents per hour, and Reginald Hunter as assessor at $300 a year were also approved.

Consideration was promised a deputation from Peterborough, for which Ald. Dutton was spokesman, who suggested that the township might take advantage of Victoria Order nursing service. Arrangements could be made to extend the service from Peterborough if a grant were made, the Council was told.

W. Cooper asked the council to fill in a ditch by St. George's Anglican church on Anson street in order to improve traffic conditions.

Accounts Passed

The following accounts were passed for payment: National Defence Tax, $3.38; snow plowing sidewalk, $31; Herbert Carson, $7.75; salaries, $395; constable, $40; School Section No. 2, $1,200; County of Peterborough re High School, $3,000; printing, $36.54; sundries, $24.86; Workmen's Compensation, $19.12; relief and charity, $74.47; board of health, $3; roads and streeets, $35.20. Total, $4,870.24.

Harold Baptie, tax collector, presented his 1939 tax roll account, as per township ledger, April 30, 1941, which follows: March 31, balance as per township ledger, $2,399.28; interest Jan. 1 to April 30, $105.87; total, $2,505.10. April 21, returned to County of Peterborough, $2,280.44; balance transferred in bank, $151.35; lots owned by township, $14.19; written off by resolution of township, $2.17; to be carried in township ledger, $8.74; cash from tax collection, $48.21; total, $2,505.10.

All members were present with Reeve M. H. Johnston in the chair.

Rental Control

premium, or in the cost of heating or services; an expenditure on structural alterations or additions; and increase in the wear and tear caused by a tenant; or a substantial difference between the fixed rent and that charged for similar housing accommodation in the same area due to a special concession to a particular tenant, are the only circumstances on which an appeal may be based. These applications will not be considered if thy are received after June 30, 1941, except where special circumstances arise after that time.

Regulations Are Law

"In some places," concluded Mr. Justice Martin, "there appears to be a lack of knowledge about the legal status of the rental regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. They are law, and infractions of the regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, are offences, punishable by substantial fines. The Board is confident, however, that both tenants and landlords in Peterborough will co-operate with the Rentals Adiminstration to the extent that other measures will be unnecessary."

Present Leases Renewable

Law-abiding tenants who give proper notice of lease renewal have the privilege of continuing in their present accommodation unless a landlord sells the property under agreement to give vacant possession, wants to make substantial structural alterations, or wishes to use the premises as a residence.

This wartime eviction and lease termination regulation establishes new procedure which adheres as closely as possible to provincial law and normal peacetime practice.

Under provincial law, weekly, monthly and yearly leases are automatically renewed unless either the landlord or the tenant gives a notice to vacate within a stated time. In peacetime, leases for a fixed term, that is for a state number of months or for a year, automatically ceased at the end of the term. But well before the end of that term, the landlord's normal practice was to offer a renewal if he was agreeable to the tenant remaining or to let the tenant know that the lease would not be renewed.

Landlord Notifies Tenant

Giving legal force to this provincial law and peacetime practice, the Board's Order require a landlord to give to the tenant in writing within a specified time, either a notice to vacate or a demand for renewal. In either case, within a prescribed time after the receipt of the notice or demand, the tenant may now give a notice of renewal, or, if the tenant wishes, he may give a notice of renewal without waiting for the landlord to present a notice to vacate or demand for renewal. The effect of the tenant's notice of renewal, which also must be in writing, is to renew the lease on the same terms and conditions unless the landlord satisfies a court that the lease should not be renewed.

Renewal Notices

In the case of a lease for a fixed term of between three and six months, a tenant who has received a notice from his landlord is given ten days in which to give a notice for a fixed term of over six months, of renewal, and where the lease is for a fixed term of over six months, thirty days. For week to week leases, the tenant has two days; in a month to month leases, ten days; and in year to year leases, thirty days.

Where a lease is from week to week, month to month, or year to year, the tenant, who gives notice of renewal, binds himself respectively for a further week, month or year as the case may be. But if the lease is for a fixed term of three months or longer, the tenant, by so renewing, contracts to lease the accommodation for a further year. The parties may, of course, in all case agree upon some other period.

Landlords Protected

While tenants in general are given the privilege of renewing their leases, landlords are protected in their right to end leases where sound reasons exist. If a tenant himself gives or has given notice of his intention to vacate, or actually left the accommodation before April 1, 1941, he surrenders his right of renewal. A landlord may recover possession, even if a tenant presents a notice of renewal, if the landlord give due notice to vacate, and satisfies the local court that the tenant is in default of payment or has otherwise broken the terms of his lease; that the tenant or some one living with him is committing a nuisance or has been convicted of using the property for immoral or illegal purposes; that, by not taking reasonable care of the property, the tenant is allowing it to deteriorate; or that he is using the premises for other than housing accommodation.

A landlord may also regain possession, after giving the required notice, by satisfying the court that he requires the accommodation as a residence for himself, a parent or child, for anyone habitually residing with him as a member of his family, or for a dependent or employee. He may also apply to the court for possession if he undertakes to make major structural alterations or additions, to subdivide the building into specified additional housing units or to convert it into business premises, or if he has sold it under an agreement to give vacant possession. But, in any of these instances the court may impose terms and conditions as to the fulfillment of the undertaking and may require compensation of the tenant for moving costs in the event of non-fulfillment.

All such applications to the court must be upon motion supported by affidavit showing the material facts, and the court is given the power to require further information.

Notice To Vacate

A landlord's notice to vacate must state the reason for the notice. Where a lease runs from month to month or year to year, a notice to vacate must be given within the time prescribed by the law of the province in which the accommodation is situated. If the lease is for a fixed term of six months or more, at least three months' notice is now required, and thirty days' notice if the lease is for a fixed term of less than six months.

If a landlord, under a fixed term lease, fails to serve either a notice to vacate or a demand for renewal within the required time, and the tenant does not give any notice of renewal, the tenant is free to go if he wishes or, if the tenant chooses to stay, the period of the tenancy, in the absence of an agreement on the contrary, is determined by the existing provincial law.

The Board Order also clears up the status of contracts made before April 1, 1941. For example, where a landlord whose property is leased for a fixed term, has sold it on or before April 1, 1941, under an agreement to give vacant possession, the Court may dispense with a notice to vacate or use its discretion in determining the extent of such notice. Furthermore, a notice to vacate given by a landlord prior to April 1, 1941, and not followed by a notice of renewal or by actual vacation before that time, now has no effect unless the landlord also satisfies the court of the existence of one or more of the justifying circumstances outlined in the Order. Again, if a landlord signed a lease with a new tenant before April 1 of this year without having complied in full with the previous regulations, he may, in order to fulfill that contract, apply to the court for an order directing vacation by the previous tenant at the end of the fixed term.

Complete texts of this new Board Order which revokes the previous Orders regarding evictions, will soon be available in all public libraries and municipal and law offices within the rent controlled areas.

Rental Committee

As previously reported the local rental committee in the Peterborough area, with jurisdiction over housing in Peterborough and parts of North Monaghan, Smith and Douro is Judge S. L. Smoke or an acting Judge of the County Court of the County Peterborough.

Borrowed From The Past

By ALICE ALDEN

SOME of the very smartest clothes displayed at the recent openings have a reminiscent quality about them, with more than a hint of the fashions of yesteryear. You can see for yourself by a look at this very new and smart suit. It harks back to the suits of 1914 with its skirt treatment and suspicion of a peplum. The beautifully tailored suit is of woollen, supple and very lightweight. The brief bolero is worn over a blouse of crisp white pique. To complete the ensemble and supply the requisite touch of red that goes with blue and white, the hat and cane are of red snakeskin.

Way—Luffman

TWEED, April 25.— (ENS) —A quiet wedding took place at the United Church parsonage on Thursday morning, Rev. H. L. Morrison officiating, when Margaret Luffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Luffman of Tweed, was united in marriage to Donald Way, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Way, Tweed. The attendants were Mrs. Ryan, sister of the bride, and Mr. Gerald Luffman, both of Tweed. Only immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom were present for the ceremony.

Following the wedding, the bridal party adjourned to the home of the bride's parents where a buffet luncheon was served. After a short honeymoon, they will reside in Belleville. Both the bride and groom have been residents of Tweed for some years and attended Tweed High School.

Mother Goose Fair Proves Novel Evening

HAVELOCK, April 25 (ENS) — The members of the choir of Knox's Presbyterian church sponsored "A Mother Goose Fair" on Wednesday night, in the basement of church, to commemorate St. George's Day. The bride wore a gown of powder blue embossed marquisette, and her shoulder-length veil of pink net was caught with clusters of rosebuds. Miss Geraldine Cavanagh, bridal attendant, was in a frock of turquoise blue with matching accessories, and Mr. Michael McManus of Peterborough was groomsman.

A wedding dinner was held for the bridal party at the home of Mrs. Richard Cavanagh of Indian River, Mr. and Mrs. Meade leaving afterward of Toronto; the bride wearing a travelling suit of Jubilee rose with beige topcoat, beige straw hat and accessories. They will live in Welland, Ont.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, April 26

The affairs of this day seem to respond to astral influences that may be responsible for dramatic crises or major reversals. However, there are signs of a favorable character which may be brought to bear on difficult and dangerous culminations. With alertness, efficiency, sound principles and worthy objectives such hazardous elements may be composed. By the exercise of restraint, calm judgment, patience and practical measures, difficulties may be turne to good account. A particularly keen mind with flashes of intuition or clever invention may save the day.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of year of far-reaching reversals, in which common sense, perseverance, sound tactics and acumen, backed up by clever mental ability or flashes of intuition may avert calamity. Rash and reckless conduct of any kind, running counter to the will of elders or superiors, might accent difficulties. Beware of physical dangers and violent emotions.

A child born on this day should be decisive, ardent, impetuous and emotional, although having a keen and creative mind and much originality and independence.

FASHIONS

Button your new shirtwaist frock on the side for a new look. This is the very dress you'll need to wear under your coat now and for all occasions later on. The deeper yoke is becoming and the fly-front closing is a fashionable note, especially when you wear your buttons on the side. Trim pleats give the skirt a slim look but add the necessary width for active days. Wear this dress closed high under your chin or open in a more casual manner. The pattern provides for either short or long sleeves, as you wish.

Style No. 2866 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch fabric for short sleeved dress.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Bee sees the make-believe world she has learned to love crashing. She blames Clarence for calling in the police. The morning papers confirm that thought. Anxiously she waits as Toby and Vera read the news. Surely they will recognize her. When they do not she decides they have known her all the time, that they are just waiting to see what she will do.

IDEA IS STOLEN

CHAPTER XXVI

"What's the matter with you Bee?" Vera asked, as Beatrice rose from the table. "Jittery?" There was such matter-of-fact affection in her tone, such serene absence of undercurrent, that Beatrice knew at once she'd been wrong. These girls had not the faintest inkling of suspicion.

She must compose herself! She went into the bedroom, taking the tabloid with her. "Why don't they see?" she asked herself. "There I am, and—" she looked into the mirror. "There I am again!"

But something in the mirror arrested her. She examined the face on the front page.

"It is different."

She started hungrily into the mirror. "I'm thinner, that's what it is. I—I've lose that superior, snobbish look. And—and I'm not glamorous any more."

In the photograph, she had been finished, assured, the glittering product of a deft hairdresser's art, a superb masseuse, a gifted modiste.

"And now, in this store dress, with my hair all wrong and my chin so pointed and circles under my eyes . . . now I'm just another girl! I haven't had a facial in weeks. I've used up my expensive lipstick. I've given up mascara, lashcream, freshener pads when I lie down. . . ." Her eyes smarted. "I've changed. I'm not me any more."

She knew a bewildering stab of loss. Then she thought, "Toby's right, it's easy to be beautiful when you have lots of money."

She understood now the savage resentment of the girls in the store against the well-fed, rested, expensively furred customers who swept through the main floor. She understood why they said, "What's that dame got that I haven't?"

No, Toby and Vera had not been blind, this morning. They might have noticed some fleeting resemblance, but probably even that was fantastic. When you looked at Beatrice Huntington Davenport's picture, you simply didn't think of Bee Davis.

"I'm Bee Davis. Just another pretty, hard-working girl. Any girl."

She was very silent, going to work with Toby. On the subway, every third person was reading about the kidnaping. Yet no one looked up from the paper to catch a fugitive likeness in the face of the girl across the aisle.

She thought, "Of course Mr. Weeming would recognize me instantly. And Clarence. And all those girls and men I played around with. They'd recognize me. The way they'd know me after I'd been through some wasting illness. . . ."

In the store, everybody was talking about the kidnaping. Even Miss Dane joined in. "It just goes to show you, being rich is no bed of roses. I'm glad Mr. Huntington's not alive to go through it. He thought the sun rose and set in that girl."

"Did you ever see her?" Beatrice asked.

"Once, when she was a little girl. He took her through the store. She had on a white bunny coat."

The coat had been ermine. Beatrice remembered it sharply. She'd been 10 years old.

After an hour or two, Budget Fashions settled down to the business of selling dresses. Beatrice waited on customers, and at the back of her mind there was a numbed wonder. Suppose she'd really been kidnaped? Who would care, would really grieve, except Clarence? "And he can always go back to Mimi Frothingham!"

Mr. Weeming might care. He was fond of her, beneath his constant disapproval. "But who else?"

No one. No one at all. The store wouldn't change. It would go right on the way Bruce Sheldrake and the trust company wanted it to go.

"Yet, if I disappeared as Bee Davis—" her eyes sought Anthony's, and he smiled at her over the head of a woman he was talking to. "Why, Bee Davis is more important than Beatrice Davenport! Toby would miss me, and Vera. Even Terry's loathsome wit might fail him, for a while. Miss Dane would care, I know she would! And Getzie. And Miss Ryan."

In six short weeks, she had made a warm place for herself in many hearts. "I had no money, no job, nothing but the clothes on my back. They don't know where I came from, or anything about me. But they like me. They love me."

How wonderful that there were people in the world who could take a lone girl to their hearts, that way! "I was poorer when I was rich," she thought.

But sooner or later, if the papers kept on printing pictures, there'd be one picture that must check. Beatrice knew that. Despite the difference, someone must see. "Besides, the government men are searching for me. They'll trace me. They have ways. They're so clever at finding people!"

She had to call the hunt off. This was her last morning in Budget Fashions.

She looked at Miss Ryan, who must stop work next month. "I'll send her baby clothes and a crib and lots of things."

She looked at Miss Getz. "I'll arrange that pension."

But she grew cold, looking at Anthony. "Will it mean the end of our love? Must it? Oh, how can I explain to him? How can I show him that I had to do it?"

Budget Fashions had never been dear to her, yet, in that moment, she wanted to gather it all up and hold it close to her heart. She wanted to keep all these girls for friends, she wanted to go on listening to the intimate details of their lives, she wanted to be just Bee Davis, another girl like themselves, instead of the heiress who was buying herself what they called an "Italian prince."

She'd never go back to Clarence, no matter what happened! "I don't want to even see him! All I want is Anthony! Oh, how will I tell him?"

In a little while, she'd be sitting across the table at lunch with him. "Then I'll leave the store and go to Mr. Weeming's office. . . ." She played with the thought of sticking this out another day. Even one little day was suddenly precious.

A man came into the department. A heavy man in a brown suit who stood beside a dummy in a lace dress and surveyed the department with shrewd, narrowed eyes.

"He's looking for me!" The humiliation of being trapped before she ended the masquerade herself crushed her. She shrank behind a rack of dresses. "I must get out of here!"

But Miss Getz, bumping into her, said, "Look at that." The man had taken out a tape measure. "They're going to put new carpet down. First thing we know, they'll be modernizing all over. . . ." Her tone was thoughtful. When they'd modernized upstairs, they'd shoved her down here. Now where could she go?

Beatrice squeezed her hand, in an ecstacy of relief. "Don't worry, Getzie."

Anthony was standing at the wrapping desk, watching the men measure for the carpet. Beatrice went up to him. "First I heard about this."

"Yes," he ripped out. "First I heard, too. But Miss Dane just explained it. They're redecorating the department so they can use my idea!" His voice was bitter.

"Only, it has been reborn as the merchandise manager's bright little brain child!"

Fashion Watches The Time

By ALICE ALDEN

DARK blue or black with a flash of color is always a good fashion formula. Here it is used for a smart suit that not only has its flattering hat but a watch as well. It seems that the watch is fast becoming a decorative part of the costume too and so stylists advocate the simple little gold watch with street things and a jewel studded timepiece for dress clothes. The blue cloth suit has spaghetti trim and binding in a blue and white star print. The hat is of white cellophane straw with two monster jet hatpins to hold the veil in place, while the very thin watch is in white gold, specially chosen to complement the costume.

Y.W.C.A. Pageant Is Presented On A Distinct Military Note

Shorn somewhat of the costume frills of former years to make way for the military note that dominated the entire presentation, and making up for the lack of elaborate setting by an added briskness and efficienc, the annual Y.W.C.A. Pagent in the gymnasium, "On Parade," is of particular interest this spring, not only because it is completely different, but also because it demonstrates conclusively the Y policy of "keeping fit" and "being prepared" during a period of war.

Not a member of the capacity audience could fail to be impressed by the fine type of young womanhood to which the Y.W.C.A. extends its healthful influence, and the large body of youngsters whose energies are being directed into character-forming channels of activity at a time when sound influence is most necessary. Credit for careful planning of healthful and stimulating health exercises that make body-building fun, goes to the capable building fun, goes to the capable physical director, Miss Caroline Littlefield, under whose guidance the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium gains steadily in popularity and strength.

"Health is wealth," said Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., during a brief introduction to the military review, which at once proceeded to prove how richly endowed with this blessing were those taking part. A musical background of excellence was provided by pianist Marguerite Rome and Irene Quinlan, with outstanding saxophone music by Mr. F. Sullivan. Members of Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., were ushers.

Rifle Drill.

Just as earnest as their brothers are the Y business girls about their rifle and squad drill, and the demonstration, Sergeant-Major Burrows having assisted in the instruction, was a highlight that attracted more attention than any other program item, unless it was the archery demonstration in which four girls displayed a commendable skill, the course having been introduced but recently.

While several business girls were taking part in "flying ring" acts like the simpler tricks performed by circus troupers, babies and juniors made the audience hold its breath while they climbed ropes to the ceiling, not content until their finger-tips touched the high roof. Stealing the show again were these tiny tots when they danced on to the floor in gingham sun-suits and bonnets for a delightful little parade that was appreciated, not for its attention to timing, certainly, but for the charming alertness of the barefoot babies, who quite forgot the business at hand when they glimpsed a familiar face in the audience. The "Wooden Soldier and China Doll" dance was also a babies' class number, the "dolls" in adorable blue frocks with hair-bows and wristlets to match, and the stiff wooden soldiers in scarlet military dress.

Ball Exercises.

For several years various rhythmic ball exercises have been included on the program, but never were they carried out with more graceful skill than by this season's senior class, whose brief tunics were white to match their balls. Couple and military gymnastics by seniors were, as usual, a feature, demonstrating the keen athletic ability of Y girls.

Semaphore flag signalling by the junior gym was an innovation this year, and following the spelling of the alphabet patriotic song titles were announced, with a definite grounding of this knowledge apparent. Difficult skipping feats, using pliable wooden wands, were performed by the same group.

It would be impossible to list every item on the program, but special mention should be made of Jean Millard's ballet number; the graceful Blue Danube waltz duet by Mrs. Frank Dunford and Mrs. Frank Gray; the Highland Fling by the junior ballet, with Mrs. S. M. Millard taking the spotlight, and the "Sergeant-Major and the Cook" number, with the "cooks" in dainty colored frocks, and "Sergeant-Majors" in blue suits and caps. A merry barn dance by senior girls, with the entire cast filing in for the 'thumbs up" salute to "There'll Always Be An England," and "God Save the King" sung first as a hymn, the audience joining in as the anthem concluded fervently and victoriously, was a fitting finish to an exhibition of which the city should be proud.

Draped with flags of the British Empire, the gymnasium presented the correct background for the military review, which is to be presented again to-night.

A golden jubilee celebration, reception and historical pageant in connection with the Y.W.C.A. is to be held on May 15, and an anniversary dance sponsored by the Girls' Council on Friday evening, May 16.

sure the committee would be able to get players who would play if they were only asked by some skip. May 6 is the date for receiving the personel of the rinks—and we say to each skip, have you made out your cards and have you handed them to the chairman?

The games committee under B. Chesler has just about done all the work they can do until such time as the personnel of the rinks are handed in. They have held several meetings, and have covered a lot of territory. They are all ready for the drawing up of the schedule.

Now about our annual get-together meeting. It will be held in the club rooms on Thursday, May 1. Keep this date open. We will have more information about it next week.

DON'T PARK COMMON SENSE WHEN YOU ENTER MARRIAGE

Too Many Girls Give Little Heed to the Warning Signs That Point Vividly to Failure and Unhappiness.

Does the average woman, no matter what her age, race or previous condition of servitude, think of marriage only in terms of romance and sentiment? Does she labor under the hallucination that there is some magic in the marriage ceremony that will catch her up into a cloud of glory where she will be miraculously protected from all the problems of life? Does she honesty believe that marriage automatically changes a drunkard into a prohibitionist; turns a lazy loafer into a go-getter; makes a grinding tyrant tender and gentle, and will keep her from ever being hungry again, or wanting a new hat? It seems silly even to ask these questions, yet it is daily borne in on me that a vast number of my sex seem to park their common sense and cast all prudence and judgment to the winds when they marry. Every mail brings me dozen of letters from women telling of marriages they are about to enter into that are so predestined to failure that I wonder that any one outside of a lunatic asylum should even consider taking so rash a step. Here's a school teacher, for instance—and I am quoting actual cases—who is contemplating marrying one of her boy pupils, who is much younger than herself, although he has never earned a dollar in his life and has no way of supporting even himself, and she will lose her job if she marries. Another sweet young thing writes that she and her boy friend have planned to go on relief as soon as they are married. Girls by the thousands are deliberately marrying drunkards, gamblers, philanderers, tightwads; boys who even before marriage abuse them, curse them, neglect them and show so plainly that you would think that even a blind woman could see it, for they have no qualifications for making good husbands. And thousands upon thousands or girls marry boys who are penniless and jobless.

They Ignore Warning Signs

Why do these women marry as they do? They are not idiots. On the contrary, many of them are college bred; nearly all of them high school graduates. They are not ignorant of life. The great majority of them are business girls who know the worth of a dollar and just how far it will go.

They are not swept to the altar on some irresistible tide of passion, for often the girl who is about to commit hara-kari by making an ill-starred marriage, asks my advice about which one of two poor prospects she shall take. And heaven knows the girl who has grown up in a poor family and watched her drudge of a mother washing and cooking and baby-tending can have few illusions about the ease of matrimony.

Apparently the average girl never gives a single thought to the future when she marries. She doesn't sit down and try to figure out what sort of a husband Tom, Dick or Harry is going to make. She doesn't ask herself how she is going to like having a drunken man come staggering in every night, or how she will enjoy playing second fiddle to her husband's latest flame. She doesn't even consider where her next meal is coming from. She just gets married, anyway.

Avoid Future Headaches

And, of course, why there are so many unhappy marriages, so many fighting and quarreling husband and wives, so many wrecked homes and half-orphaned children, so many divorces, is because, after all, marriage doesn't end at the altar. It begins there. And it isn't made up of flubdub sentimentalities. It consists of hard realities. And when the bemused bride wakes up from her trance and sees what she has gotten for a husband, only too often she throws it back on the bargain counter.

Why girls are so eager to marry nobody can explain, but if they would only take time to do a little shopping around among the men and pick out something worth having, they would save themselves and the balance of the world a lot of headaches.

Ruling Mode

By PRUNELLA WOOD

REGENCY frills are the big noise in the Spring fashion symphony. You wear them morning, noon and night with suits, tailored street dresses and even dinner gowns. You may choose them in ruff-like starched frills around your neck, in cascading jabots down the front of your pet blouse, or even as trimming on your hat.

The flattering dinner gown sketched illustrates the use of Regency frills in their most romantic mood. The dress is of black silk crepe, with draped bodice and long, tight sleeves with the new raglan effect at the deep armholes. The big news, however, is in the crisp accordion pleated ruffle of white organza edged in lace which cascades down the skirt, from waist to hem, repeated in frills at the wrist.

This is a gown to make you look like a modern and fascinating Priscilla, prim but alluring in your bandbox black and white, demure but dashing.

Entertain Scout Mothers at Tea

A pleasant afternoon was spent at St. John's Parish Hall on Thursday when the St. John's Scout Group Auxiliary entertained mothers of cubs and scouts. Mrs. Harry Kelsey, the president, received the guests, and spoke briefly regarding the object in bringing the mothers together. A fine musical program was directed by Mrs. Percy Hooper, who also contributed excellent violin numbers with Mrs. H. V. Dobson at the piano.

A short resume of the activities of the Auxiliary since its inception in 1936 was given by Mrs. J. Cridland, past president, who also urged mothers to associate themselves with the Auxiliary, particularly the mothers of cubs. "It is when boys are cubs that they need the help most." she said, "when they are scouts they can stand on their own feet."

Two worthwhile funds now being raised, the "Mary Spitfire Fund" sponsored by the Marys of the Dominion, and the "Baden-Powell Chins-up Fund," were brought to the attention of mothers by Mrs. Kelsey. The latter fund, she explained, is to assist in the rehabilitation of scout troops in England, who, like others in the Old Country, know what it is to be "bombed out." These fine boys, who are performing great acts of bravery as scouts, have lost their quarters and equipment, and we in Canada are being given the privilege of assisting them to obtain more. A collection for both of these worthy funds was taken.

Refreshments were served by a committee convened by Mrs. Norman Patterson, with competitions following the tea hour.

British Courage Lauded In Address

"Every British subject has reason for pride in the great courage shown by the British in their heroic defence of freedom and justice," William Wedlock said, addressing Peterborough Y's Men's Club last night at its annual St. George's observance.

"The torch of freedom will always burn as long as Britain stands," Mr. Wedlock said, lauding the grim determinedness of the Anglo-Saxon people which carried them through against odds on many occasions.

A local school teacher, Mr. Wedlock was introduced by Jack Stuart, president. There were about thirty members present.

His Package Design Makes A Hit

Would you like to be in the shoes of this successful commercial artist, getting good pay for his effective package design?

In such a big field as advertising art you have a good chance. A home study guide can help you try out your talents in letter-heads, posters, any of the many kinds of commercial art work.

Perhaps you might go in for package styling. It's one of the newer opportunities in advertising art and it's fascinating work. Your study guide shows how you can work up a striking design, starting with a blank surface as in Figure 1.

You "break up" this surface, perhaps as in Figure 2, dividing it into unequal parts, which are more interesting than equal parts. And you try color contrasts for modern eye-appeal". Then you work out details as in Figure 3.

You find that these simple principles succeed not only in package design, but in other phases of advertising art.

From our 32-page booklet learn how to develop successful ideas and designs in commercial art. Explains popular techniques, principles of design, color, display, lettering, layouts. Describes reproduction processes. Tells how and where to sell art work.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of ADVERTISING DESIGN SELF-TAUGHT to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of book.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT WAS HIS REASON?

THAT IS a pretty good question to ask whenever the opening leader picks something different from what you expected. Was he trying to give his partner a ruff, because he held so many in the suit he led? Was he hoping to get a ruff himself, because he had just a singleton or doubleton? Was he trying to knock an entry out of the dummy? Or to stop ruffs by your side? Or to avoid leading away from guarded honors elsewhere in his hand? Somewhere among these or similar questions will lie the answer, unless he was merely making a fancy lead hoping for either a break of luck or the chance of befuddling you.

North could hardly be blamed for reaching out for the grand slam when he learned his partner had the aces of both spades and diamonds, via the Blackwood convention, though the bid was a bit risky. He had been through a disastrous evening of rubber bridge, and wanted to catch up with a nice grand slam premium. Unfortunately, he placed too much trust in his partner's playing ability.

West led the club 3, and South began to play without making any plan. He took it with dummy's A, led to the diamond A and returned his other diamond for a ruff, led to the spade K and was happy to see the Q drop, then raked in the spade A and J to settle the hostile trumps. When he played now to the club K, West's failure to follow suit showed him he was beaten, as he later had to lose a club trick to East.

If South had studied a bit after the club lead, he would have wondered why West did not lead his partner's diamond suit. Surely it could not be because he had four of them. It must be because he had a singleton. Regardless of which it was, South could have set up a fifth round heart by embarking on a ruffing process at once, hoping for the kind of suit division he really found in hearts. After three ruffs, the J would have been good for a discard of the fourth club in South's hand, and the contract would have been made.

If North gets into 5-Hearts on this deal, doubled by East, who leads the spade 7, how should the hand be played to make the contract?

Three-Act Drama Is Presented At Warkworth

WARKWORTH, April 25.—(ENS)—"Anne of Green Gables," a modern dramatization of L. M. Montgomery's most popular novel, in three acts, was presented in the Town Hall, Friday evening, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The play was interesting and all taking part enacted their various roles in a most capable manner. The costumes and stage setting of the gay nineties was a feature which helped to make the play a success.

The cast was as follows: Anne Shirley, an orphan, Ann Grant; Florence Remseu, superintendent of the Orphanage, Eva Weir; Minnie Stern, an attendant, Doris Nelson; Mrs. Alexander Spencer, Noreen Oliver; Mathew Cuthbert, Anne's champion, Max Thain; Marilla Cuthbert, his sister, Helen Bank; Mrs. Rachael Lynde, who loves to give advice, Bess Grant; a Wealthy Matron, Leonore Isaac; Her daughter and Anne's bosom friend, Noreen Oliver; Mrs. Allan, the new minister's wife, Pauline Johnston; Josie Pye, in Anne's class at school, Elaine Grant; Moody Spurgeon, another schoolmate, George Meiklejohn; Gilbert Blythe, the wealthiest boy in town, Sam Black; Iva Mills, a wealthy business man, Bob Carlow.

Mrs. Carman Carlow, director.

Between acts, instrumental music by A. E. Maycock; vocal duets by Norma and Jessie Potter, and Helen and Sam Black were thoroughly enjoyed. The proceeds amounted to over $125.

Huns No Cause To Complain On Prisoners

LONDON, April 25—(CP Cable)—Richard Law, financial secretary to the War Office, told the House of Commons yesterday that "there is no ground whatever" for the suggestion that German prisoners in Canada are receiving anything but good treatment.

"The Germans are in a camp previously occupied by Canadian officers, and to which before that people paid to go for their holidays," he said in replying to a question which asked for information regarding conditions in two so-called reprisal camps in Poland.

The financial secretary also was asked whether the German Government acknowledged now that no German officers have been ill-treated in Canada.

Mr. Law said conditions at the Polish camps, situated at Posen, are still not satisfactory.

"No communication has yet been received from the German Government but representations have been made to the protecting power. We are fighting an unscrupulous foe and it is not in our power to bring any further direct pressure beyond what is being done at present."

R.A.F. Fires Rage Over Berlin Kiel, Emden And Holland; Scores Hits On 3 Freighters

Densely Populated British Northeast Town Gets Worst Battering Of The War
Terrific A.A. Barrage Fails To Stop Bombs

LONDON, April 26—(CP).—Bombers of the Royal Air Force launched a heavy attack on the German naval base at Kiel last night and struck lighter blows at Berlin, Bremerhaven, Wilhelmshaven, Emden, Lubeck and Friedrichstadt, the Ministry of Information said today.

The R.A.F. also bombed oil stores at Rotterdam and scored direct hits on two supply ships in convoy west of Heligoland in daylight yesterday.

At Kiel, the Ministry declared, "bombs bust in the shipyards and fires broke out." The attack on Berlin was the 40th of the war.

(Nazi sources admitted an air attack on the north German coastal region, and said the raiders dropped explosives and incendiaries. They claimed that only one British bomber showed over Berlin and dropped one bomb).

Friday, the R.A.F. bombed an important iron and steel works at Ijmuiden in the Netherlands and bombs struck buildings and blast furnace from which the Germans hope to obtain war supplies. Enemy shipping off the Netherlands coast also was attacked and a supply ship of 1,600 tons was considered a total loss.

Thursday night and early Friday, British planes dropped loads of bombs on the Kiel and Wilhelmshaven shipyards, birthplace of many Nazi war vessels. Fires flared up after the bombs hit.

Newcastle Gets It?

A NORTHEAST ENGLISH TOWN, April 26—(CP).—The thickly-populated area of this town suffered its most serious raid of the war last night, and casualties were feared heavy as rescue crews worked today in the debris of homes and shops.

(Nazi sources said the overnight attack was concentrated on Newcastle.)

The raid lasted only a short time but throughout the attack planes were overhead constantly. The anti-aircraft barrage was the heaviest ever fired here.

The raiders dropped flares first, followed by showers of incendiary bombs and high explosives.

2 Hun Captives Carrying English Money

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., April 26—(CP). — Two £1 English notes were found on the persons of Sergt.-Major Karl Heing Grund, 28, and Sergeant Horst Lieebck, 21, two German airmen who escaped with 26 companions from a North-western Ontario internment camp a week ago, when they were recaptured here on Thursday, it was learned yesterday.

The men said they were given the notes by German authorities prior to setting out on a bombing expedition over England, and had managed to retain them.

They said all airmen participating in English raids are given the notes so that they may use them if shot down alive and escape capture.

Liebeck also told authorities he had obtained considerable information on military and Air Force activities in Canada in his six-day trip from Ontario to Alberta. Liebeck and Grund were arrested in Medicine Hat railway yards on Thursday afternoon after they hitch-hiked and rode freight trains to the city.

Liebeck said he believed he would have some interesting things to tell if he had reached Germany. The men intimated they had hoped to reach Vancouver and catch a boat to Japan.

Waiting for a police escort in the Medicine Hat jail, the men said they were caught because they became too sure of themselves after getting so far. They said Canadians were "very, very friendly people, but inquisitive."

Big Ship Seizing Campaign Looms

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP).—The 21 American republics were reported today at the point of agreement on a unified "good neighbor" policy for utilization of more than 160 idle foreign-flag ships in American ports.

A sub-committee of the Inter-American Economic and Financial Advisory Committee already has appr the draft of a plan through which the long-idle vessels would be put to work carrying vitally needed cargo, it was learned authoritatively. Final agreement and signature of the formal declaration wc declared likely at a meeting of the entire committee here today.

Under the proposed plan, originally formulated by Foreign Minister Guani of Uruguay, the 21 American republics would uphold the right of each American nation to take over vessels of belligerent countries lying idle in its ports and operate them in service vital to the nation's economy, particularly in the maintenance of inter-American trade.

After a "pool" of ships sufficient to meet the American nation's shipping requirements has been set aside for operation—largely in the western hemisphere—it was said the plan would permit surplus tonnage to be sold or chartered to Britain or other nations.

The United States has taken 69 idle vessels 39 Danish, 28 Italian anud two German) into "protective custody" and is expected to turn at least some of them over to Britain if Congress authorizes the President to take action.

In South and Central American ports, it was said, there are an additional 96 Axis vessels and an unreported number of French and Danish ships which might be utilized under the plan.

Going To Run For It

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 26—(AP).—The blockade-running German freighter Lech was reported loaded and apparently ready today for a dash to Europe in an attempt to beat an anticipated inter-American agreement for acquisition of refuged belligerent ships.

When the 3,290-ton ship, first westbound German vessel to pierce the British South Atlantic blockade arrived here March 3, her master, Friedrich Brinkman, said the Lech would remain in port "until the end of the war."

Greeks View Fight As 'Near End'

British Rearguards Battle Grimly In Slow Retreat

CAIRO, April 26.—(AP).— British Middle East Headquarters announced to-day that "our withdrawal is continuing" in Greece.

BERLIN, April 26.—(AP).— Nazi spokesmen said to-day they had no indication that the bulk of the British expeditionary force has left Greece.

30 Miles From Capital.

ATHENS, April 26.—(AP).—German troops driving toward Athens have pushed past Thebes, 35 miles from the capital, and also have taken Mesolongion, 100 miles west of Thebes, authoritative Greek quarters said to-day.

(Nazi spokesmen claimed earlier their forces had taken Thebes and smashed past it to within 30 miles of Athens).

The capture of Mesolongion, the scene of Lord Bryon's death in 1824 during the Greek war for independence, means that the Nazi drive down the Adriatic coast in the west —where Greek forces capituated Tuesday—has reached the Gulf of Patron.

Meanwhile, the British rear guard retreated doggedly under heavy German artillery fire and dive bombing attacks to the mountains north of the Gulf of Corinth and the Greek press described the fight as "very near its end."

Aid Greek Relief

SYDNEY, April 26 — (AP). — Money and goods valued at £122,800 (about $439,000 Canadian) have been contributed by Australians towards the Greek War Relief Fund, it was announced to-day. In addition the State Governments have donated £100,000 (about $358,000 Canadian) worth of wheat and woollen goods.

Tobruk Beats Off Atl-Day Attack

LONDON, April 26—(CP)—The British garrison at Tobruk, Libya, beat off a day-long attack by Axis forces yesterday and took 130 prisoners without suffering a single casualty, the Minister of Information announced today.

The statement said:

"It is learned in London this morning that at dawn on April 24, enemy infantry with artillery support attacked the defences of Tobruk from the direction of Acroma. The attack was broken up by fire before it reached our defences and many of the enemy were killed.

"Desultory attacks against the western part of our defences continued all day without success. In the course of the day we captured five officers and 125 of other ranks. Our casualties were nil."

Patrol and artillery activity also was intensified in the area about Salum, in Egypt near the frontier, a communique said.

Up To Italians

LONDON, April 26—(CP)—Britain declared today that the refusal of the Duke of Aosta, Italian commander, to lay down his arms "in the interests of humanity has placed upon his shoulders a heavy responsibility for" Italian civilians in Ethiopia.

The statement said that Lt.-Gen. Alan Cunningham, British commander in East Africa, "accepted full responsibility" in his offer to Aosta for all Italian civilians in British-occupied territory.

"During the period that the Duke of Aosta delays his inevitable surrender armed deserters from the Italian colonial forces have a chance to commit atrocities in the areas not yet occupied by our troops."

London Children On The Move To Country Again

LONDON, April 26 — (CP). — Wagons loaded with bicycles and baby carriages rumbled through the London streets to railway stations to-day to accompany more than 2,500 children again heading by train for the country as a result of the sharpness of recent raids.

About 2,000 had left earlier in the week following some high casualties among women and children.

Most children had been removed from London early in the war, but many returned when air attacks during the winter lessened.

Oddly enough, this withdrawl was almost tearless, although the gravity of the occasion was obvious.

One father who gravely walked away from the train after kissing his wife and two children good-bye may have summed up the reason when he said:

'Sometimes there just seems to be no more tears left."

A woman whose husband is a bus conductor and too busy with Saturday crowds to get to the station said:

"My man would clout me for crying and setting a bad example for the little ones."

"If it were not for her," said a woman, pointing to a seven-year-old girl, "I'd be sticking Home, even with the blitz, is better than being away."

On the other hand some cheer-

Limited Recruiting Appeal For Another 22,000 Men Also Announced By Ralston

Men Needed To Fill Up Overseas Quotas Bring Home Units To Strength; 2 Prison-Break Camp Heads Suspended

OTTAWA, April 26—(CP).—Members of the Canadian (Reserve) Army called up for four months' compulsory military training under the National Mobilization Act will be detailed for active service in Canada on completion of their training period, Defence Minister Ralston said today.

A limited recruiting drive to obtain about 22,000 men for the overseas Canadian army in the next few months, was also announced by Mr. Ralston to-day at a press conference.

The MBinister said the men were required to fill up shortages in recent monthly quotas for overseas requirements and to bring all active service troops in Canada up to the required strength.

"Our jobs is to see that our quotas are filled," said the minister. "We also want to do something more than that. We want to bring up to strength the units of the active army in Canada."

So it was proposed to lump together the monthly quotas needed for overseas units and the number required to fill active units in Canada which are normally filled from their own affiliated reserve units and put on a drive for that number of men.

The number required would be about 22,000.

"We asked last July for 40,000 men and we got them in six weeks," said the Minister. "Since then no minister has actually asked for men for the army

"I don't think it is right to say that there are not men ready for active service if they are asked properly and if they are impressed with the fact there is need."

Obtained Voluntarily.

The Minister added he had no doubt all the men required for overseas service could be obtained on the voluntary system.

While there was a limit to the number of men who could be accommodated at one time in the basic training centres the equipment situation was much better.

"We are getting to the stage now where we are not so much pressing for materials as for men and money," he said.

Within the next two months large transfers of troops will take place as coast defence battalions change places with battalions in the interior of the country, the minister announced. This, he said, would give a needed change to the men who had been on 24-hour duty for many months at the coast and would also give units in the interior who were well up on their training a chance to apply their training.

He believed it would be good for

Believe British Mostly Out Of Greece

LONDON, April 26—(CP)—The campaign in Greece approached its end today, a valiant rearguard of British and Imperial troops keeping the Nazi advance in check with their anti-tank and machine guns.

The thinness of dispatches from London and Athens dealing with the military situation—speaking tersely of an unbroken line and orderly retreat—suggested that the bulk of the expeditionary force already has embarked on its return to North Africa.

The full story, in all likelihood, will be unfolded tomorrow by Prime Minister Churchill in his address to the Empire.

It seems unlikely that the Prime Minister would schedule a speech of such importance unless he were assured that the safety of the B.E.F. will have been sealed by that time.

The Greek press described the fight as "very near its end" and the Greek government from its new headquarters in Crete called on Greeks remaining on the mainland not to lose hope under German occupation.

The Germans say their next move will be in the Mediterranean. But it is not usual to announce plans in advance. However, the alternatives are few and the Nazi foreign affairs Commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland says: "The Reich has no intention to halt midway (in the Mediterranean) but intends to press for a final decision here, which next to the British Isles is the most important war area."

Whatever Hitler plans it is obvious that the going is getting tougher. Gibraltar has been preparing for the expected assault since before the war and yesterday it was announced in London that "Tiger" Gort has been sent out to head the British garrison in the fight it will put up if the Germans strike through Spain.

B.C. Prepares for Blackouts

12,000 Officials Take Active Part With Indians Having Roles

By SAM G. ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

VANCOUVER, April 26 (CP) — Civilian Protection Committee members on Canada's Pacific coast rolled up their sleeves today and went to work under co-ordinating supervision of the British Columbia provincial police to prepare for a blackout of approximately 600 square miles of land area May 22.

The big job of instructing 425,000 people in what to do in case of unexpected air raids may some day happen, was thrown into high gear when Major-General R. O. Alexander, officer commanding in chief of the Pacific command, ordered the blackout after consultation with the British Columbia cabinet.

Detailed extent of the blackout has not been determined but on the lower mainland it will include Vancouver, New Westminster and surrounding municipalities covering an area of approximately 400 square miles and a population of about 350,000. Local authorities are at work making plans for the test.

In the Lower Vancouver area, the blackout will extend over the city of Victoria and the defence area of Esquimalt as well as the municipalities of Oak Bay and Saanich and some unorganized territory. It is estimated the blackout will cover about 200 square miles of island area with a population of about 75,000.

The B.C. cabinet constitutes the senior provincial civilian protection committee under chairmanship of Premier T. D. Pattullo. From this authority it branches from the department of the Attorney-General, Hon. G. S. Wismer, through the B.C. provincial police into local authorities responsible for their own areas.

More than 12,000 are now active in civilian protection work in the province and the number is expected by Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons of the B.C. police and Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, director of the

Some used the detonators for whistles, blowing into the open end. A few boys even carried them to dinner tables, with their parents unaware of the danger.

Others, realizing the tubes would explode, wrapped paper around them, struck matches to them and hurled them from hilltops outside the city.

This went on until Jerry Willis, 8, brought home what he called a metal firecracker and asked his brother, Fred, 16, to light it. Fred did and lost a thumb and the tips

Escapes Serb Firing Squad

Typewriter Brands Correspondent As 'Chutist To Vigilantes

CHICAGO, April 26.— (AP).— A story of escape from death before a firing squad of Serbian vigilantes who considered him a German spy was related by Sam Brewer, Balkan war correspondent, in a dispatch published today by the Chicago Tribune.

The Tribune writer arrived yesterday in Budapest, Hungary, from Yugoslavia where he had been cut off from the outside world for 19 days.

Brewer said he reached the outskirts of Belgrade April 6 as scores of German dive bombers, "wheeling like flocks of starlings," pounded the Yugoslav capital.

Entering the burning city he was seized by eight Serbian vigilantes armed with pistols and shotguns.

"One wanted to shoot me," Brewer related. "The others said they should search me first. Under the glare of the flames they dumped my knapsack and my typewriter on the pavement. They found the evidence they needed: A coil of wire used to repair the typewriter, a spare flashlight battery, and a pair of boots."

Brewer said that the illiterate vigilantes suspected the wire was radio antennae, the battery and typewriter a radio tranamitter, and the boots, German army footwear.

"The fireworks were postponed because an army major drove by in the darkness," Brewer said. "They called to him: 'Parachutist, radio apparatus.'

"Refusing to listen to anything I said or to look at my papers, the major had me bundled into a second car with two guards. There I stayed 12 hours."

Brewer said the major informed the guards that "he would deal with me" at nine o'clock. Just before that hour two Serb newspaper reporters arrived on the scene. Brewer discovered that he and one of them had mutual friends, but the major had the Serb newsman arrested and put under guard when he

New Zealand Anti-Tank Unit Smashes 23 Hun Machines; Stops Attack At Mount Oeta

Athens Reports Nazi Hordes South Of Thebes Driving Hard For Greek Capital; German Raid On Isle of Evvoia Beaten Off

ATHENS, April 26—(AP).—Authoritative Greek sources said today that German troops have reached Missolonghi and pushed south of Thebes.

The rearguard of British forces in Greece retreated doggedly under heavy German artillery fire and dive bombing attacks to the mountains north of the Gulf of Corinth today and the Greek press described the fight as "very near its end."

The British guard, inflicting heavy casualties, were said to be in too small force to stop the drive by the Nazi military machine.

The Greeks reported their forces on the Island of Lemnos, 40 miles west of the Aegean entrance to Turkey's Dardanelles, still were conducting guerilla operations against a German landing force which seized the island after a fight with Greek police.

A New Zealand anti-tank outfit fighting a rearguard action near Mount Oeta, just west of Thermopylae Pass, smashed 23 German tanks yesterday and forced an attacking Nazi column to retreat, military quarters reported.

The New Zealanders, drawn up behind a swamp, poured a withering fire into the onrushing Germans as they sought to cross the soft ground in an apparent effort to encircle Thermopylae.

(The Nazi high command claimed yesterday the Pass had been taken in an "embracing" movement.

(British authorities, making no mention of Thermopylae, said last night the British expeditionary force in Greece was making further withdrawals and that Imperial troops were maintaining an unbroken line in the face of Nazi assaults).

Hercules Death Scene.

Mount Oeta, famous in mythology as the scene of Hercules' death on a great pyre, is 100 miles northwest of Athens, and last night's reports of fighting there indicated that the new British-Greek defence line might be thrown across the narrow neck of land leading from Thermopylae to the capital.

A Nazi attack on the big island of Evvoia (Euboea) just off the Greek mainland to the east was beaten off, the Ministry said. German assaults on the Aegean Island were accepted as an indication that the Nazis wanted more air bases from which to pound shipping.

German planes were said to be ranging far out into the Mediterranean hammering at everything from fishing bessels to big merchantmen.

The Greek Government was reported to have held its first meeting

'Interest' Piling Up

PLYMOUTH, England, April 26 (CP Cable)—The head of Britain's navy has brought cheer to this seafaring town in the wake of one of the most sustained naval onslaughts the Nazis have yet loosed on Britain.

A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, came here yesterday to represent the government at one of the public funerals of victims of the severe raid earlier in the week.

"We'll give it them back with interest," he assured townspeople who gathered to cheer him.

"The more I see of this kind of evidence the more I feel like the remark of Fitzjames to Rhoderick Dhu, 'it nerves my heart, it steels my soul.'"

Interrupted by a voice shouting "Give it them back," the First Lord replied, "With the reinforcements from the United States which the navy is bringing in every day we shall be in a position to do what my friend suggested."

Many citizens made homeless by the bombing have been roaming the countryside seeking new homes. Many who stayed in the city filled churches, some of which had been damaged.

Numerous cars, buses and trucks streamed from the city crowded with people and their belongings. Others carried no one but the driver, and a reporter for the Press Association, British news-gathering agency, wrote:

"Even in a war which has one chief motto, 'Help thy neighbor,' those drivers ignored the signals of the tramping crowds and refused to give lifts."

One bicyclist was halted by a woman with three small children. He hoisted two of the smallest on the bicycle with the remark: "I'll give their little legs a rest."

of two fingers.

Miss Neva Hagaman, principal, recovered 25 caps from Grade School pupils.

After that teachers, parents and police took 100 detonators from 50 children.

Police Chief F. M. Kisinger issued a warning urging parents to search playthings for 400 other detonators, which had been taken from a warehouse, along with 160 sticks of dynamite. They recovered all but 10 sticks.

The officers said seven boys, ranging in age from 8 to 15, took some caps from the warehouse in daylight and later used the caps to blow a lock at night.

At the other end of the Mediterranean the Germans have occupied the islands of Samothrace and Lemnos, the latter 40 miles from the entrance of the Dardanelles. The Germans may seek to occupy European Turkey, thus reaching the straits and effectively closing them. But to cross the straits to Asiatic Turkey in a land drive for control of the Middle East would be a more difficult task.

Rather, it is though, the Germans will attempt to enlarge the scale of their North African operations and strike at Suez through Libya and Egypt.

Dollars To Doughnuts

By EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Bee realizes that work has changed her appearance, that Toby and Vera really do not recognize her. But she knows that the happiness she has found in Budget Fashions must end today. She plans to help each of her friends. A man comes to supervise remodeling the department. Anthony tells her that the merchandise manager has stolen their Big Idea, is using it as his own.

BEE DEMANDS A SHOWDOWN

CHAPTER XXVII

"What do you mean, Anthony? I don't understand."

"I didn't understand at first, either!" he said bitterly. "But it's very simple. He laughed me out of his office. You and I worked and dreamed and got the samples together and—and after he kicked me out, he stole my idea!"

"But he can't get away with that!"

"Can't he?" Anthony asked hollowly. "You see the men measuring for carpet, don't you? I'm still section manager. Nothing else.

"Miss Dane's been telling me what a wonderful merchandising idea it is, and how he explained it all to her at a special meeting last night. New accessories counters have been ordered. Plans are laid out— but nobody said a word to me. I suppose I ought to be thankful he hasn't fired me!"

The savage anger she had experienced once before in this department came back to Beatrice. "Are you going to stand there and let him do it? If you are, Anthony, I'm not! I worked on those ensembles, too! That's half my idea! That dirty, double-crossing—"

She hadn't known she knew such words, and Anthony hadn't known either, for he stared at her. The shock in his brown face stopped her.

"I'm sorry. I—I have a bad temper. But, Anthony, you can't let him get away with this!" She stamped her foot. "Do something! Go right up to his office now and tell him. Go to Bruce Sheldrake! Come on, I'm going, too."

"I thought of that, but we can't prove anything."

"Yes, we can! We bought those hats and handbags and belts ourselves, didn't we? You signed the slips for those dresses out of stock, didn't you? What the matter with you?"

Anthony picked up a salesbook. He snapped the rubber band. He opened and closed the book.

At last he said, "The fact is, Bee, I'm realizing now what a bad mistake I made. I should have listened to the old man. He wanted me to take a job in a bank. I—I've been thinking I'll go around there at lunch time and tell him I've thrown up the sponge." His lips twisted. "Banks are more ethical than stores, perhaps, and if I get a world-shaking banking idea . . . "

"But, Anthony—you belong here! You're valuable to this store! The very fact that he thought your idea good enough to steal—why, he must be slipping so badly he's got to steal ideas somewhere! If he were any good, if his job were secure, he wouldn't do such things!"

She grabbed his arm. "You're not leaving, you're going right up with me to that crook's office!"

"Bee, if we do that, you'll lose your job. It's all right about me. As I told you, I—I have a chance at something else."

He looked down at her miserably. "I didn't want to use any influence I might have—I mean, the influence of friends. . . . I've always thought pull was a shabby way to get ahead. But now that I have you, I—I've got to make more money. And I'll do anything to get a better job. But it'll take time. And meanwhile, if you lose your job—"

"The devil with my job. Anthony, come up there with me this minute!"

She dragged him to the elevator.

"I think you should be ashamed of yourself, not standing up for your rights! Where's your pride, Anthony? That merchandise manager has stolen from you. And you'd take it! You'd walk out and let him get the credit for something you worked hard to create!"

The elevator operator turned around and stared. Beatrice paid no attention.

On the sixth floor, Anthony drew Beatrice into the corner near the fire exit. His face was very sober. He put his hands on her shoulders, looked squarely into her eyes.

"I don't want you to do this just for me, Bee," he said. "I'm all for it, and I'm made clear through, and I can get another job anyway. But —it'll make trouble for you. Are you sure you want to?"

"Of course, I'm sure!" She patted his lean cheek. "Don't worry about me. I can take care of myself. You'd better start worrying about that merchandise manager. I'm going to kill him!"

"Bee, listen." His arms tightened. "I'll go in by myself. That way, he can't blame you."

"I wouldn't miss it for the world!" But she was touched at Anthony's concern for her.

He said, "All right, if that's the way you want it." His smile flashed. "I might as well tell you the truth. I was intending to come up here and wipe the floor up with him, just for luck, even if I couldn't prove anything. But I didn't want you mixed up in it in any way."

There was a stenographer outside the merchandise manager's office. "I don't know if Mr. Fletcher can see you now," she said doubtfully. "What is it about?"

Beatrice walked right past her and opened the door. In the imposing office, a small paunchy man sat at a large desk. He looked up in surprise. When he saw Anthony, his face hardened.

"What do you want?" he rapped.

"I want an explanation of that co-ordinated clothes idea that was so rotten when I walked in here with it," Anthony answered grimly. "I want to know how it got so good, after I left, that you're going to try it out. I want to know why you didn't play square with me. And I want to know if you think I'm going to let you get away with that!"

"Why, you—you—"

"Save your breath!" advised Beatrice coldly. "I happened to work out DOLLARS TO—Apr 26 Gal 2 [illegible] some of the details of that plan with Mr. Bradley. Those samples he brought up were things I'd selected. We have the sales slips for everything but the dresses."

Mr. Fletcher got up. He walked out from behind the big desk. His eyes were steely. "An employe of this store walked in here with an idea," he said. "He worked on it. The store likes the idea and is using it. What of it?" His voice was a bark. "What do you expect now? Flowers?"

"But you took the credit for it!" Beatrice cried. "You didn't even see that he got a raise—that his good work was acknowledged—you can't stand there and tell me this is the way such things are usually handled."

"Get out of my office!" Mr. Fletcher turned back to his desk. "Maybe you'd like to see the general superintendent about this terrible injustice," he flung over his shoulder.

"That is exactly what we'll do." Beatrice reached for the telephone. "What's more, we'll see him right here in this office."

the spirit of the men and also a good thing from "an all-Canadian point of view" as it would enable the men from one section of the country to see other parts.

"We intend, where practical, to have the units move part of the way by road," said the Minister. "That will furnish a test of the transport, billeting and bivouacing arrangements.

"The policy of bringing overseas personnel men back to Canada and sending officers and men from units overseas ahead of their formations to gain experience is being continued," said the Minister.

About 20 officers and a similar number of non-commissioned officers are now being selected to go over. A number have recently returned and about 27 officers and 72 other ranks now are in England. Some of these are from the armored units and are attached to British armored units for training.

"I never heard of the suggestion and there is not a thing in it," said the minister when asked about a report published in a New York paper to the effect American troops might come to Canada to relieve Canadian forces for overseas service.

Suspend 2 Camp Heads

OTTAWA, April 26 — (CP). — Defence Minister Ralston said today two camp commandants had been temporarily relieved of their duties at a North-western Ontario internment camp pending an official inquiry into the break of 28 German prisoners a week ago.

The men relieved of their commands are Major C. B. Lindsey and Major E. V. Torrance.

Col. Ralston said he understood Major Lindsey had been acting commandant for only a week when the 28 German prisoners made their break for freedom. He was taking the place of Major Torrance who had gone to other duties.

The minister said that relieving the officers of their duties pending the inquiry was not to be considered as prejudging them and the fullest inquiry into the escapes would be made.

Satisfaction at appointment of Brig.-Gen. J. F. L. Embury to head the Inquiry Board was expressed by Col. Ralston who recalled the Saskatchewan soldier-judge's experience in the conduct of inquiries during the First Great War.

Blow At Bengasi.

British bombers in a Thursday night raid on the Italian port of Bengasi in Libya scored direct hits on the mole and started fires near military buildings, a Royal Air Force communique said.

A tanker and merchant ship were narrowly missed, it was said, while on the return trip the British airmen bombed and machine-gunned a motor convoy near El Argub, 80 miles from Bengasi. Bursts among the vehicles started fires and explosions, it was declared, and other convoys near Akroma and Derna also were attacked.

Several hundred colonial prisoners and 12 Italian officers were captured at Mota.

Large forces of Ethiopians are rallying to help the British Army in the attack at Dessie, the General Headquarters communique said.

Admiralty Mines Adriatic, Agean Seas

LONDON, April 26—(CP). — The Admiralty announced today that the Adriatic and the Aegean seas and a large part of the Eastern Mediterranean is "dangerous to shipping."

The new danger area, with those announced Feb. 20, leaves only each end of the Mediterranean free to shipping—West and north of Sardinia and east of a line from Cape Kheldonia in Turkey to Ras-el-Kanais in Egypt.

The size of the danger areas in the Adriatic and Aegean was estimated unofficially at 250,000 square miles.

The Admiralty statement concerning the new dangerous waters said:—

"The German and Italian governments having recently announced the Eastern Mediterranean and Aegean Sea and the greater part of the Adriatic are dangerous to shipping, his Majestys government gives notice that the limits of the area which they declared dangerous to shipping in the Mediterranean in February, 1941, are extended to the Eastward along the coasts of Libya and Egypt from Bengasi to Ras-el-Kanais, thence in a 024 degrees direction to a point three miles and 180 degress of Cape Kheldonia in Turkey, thence along the limits of Turkish territorial waters to Greek territory, thence along the coasts of Greece, Albania, Yugoslavia and Italy to Cape Sta. Maria de Leuca, in Italy, latitude 39 degrees 48 minutes north, longitude 18 degrees 22 minutes east (approximately.)

"All waters within this area are dangerous to shipping and any vessels disregarding the terms of this notice will do so at their risk and peril."

Italy's Vesuvius Her Dikes Great Targets

(By MICHAEL CLOUD.

LONDON, April 26.—I have returned to London after three weeks in the Balkans and the East to find that the next step being discussed in military circles is the intensive bombing of Italy. Mr. Winston Churchill has warned that it may be done if they bomb Cairo. If done, it must not be carried out on conventional lines, state the "Ginger Group." London believes that Rome should have a taste of what London is having.

But Rome is not, and never will be, a military target in the pure sense of the word. So we won't waste bombs on it. It has the finest collection of statuary, paintings and historic buildings in the world. But the big terminus stations—the Centrale, San Pietro and Trastevere —are only tourist stops.

The magnificent dome of St. Peter's—best "fix" in any European capital from the bombers' viewpoint —is useless, because there is nothing round it worth hitting. If it ever came to cold-blooded reprisals, Rome could be laid flat within a few raids.

Until recently Rome was a typhoid plague spot. The Tiber flooded the city every winter, filled the lower streets to the level of the first story. That has been remedied by building rather precarious embankments.

If we bombed the embankments for a couple of hours Rome would be largely put under water. City drains would break. Typhoid would spread purple patches of death.

But the "Ginger Group" of the air force would like to go for bigger game than Mussolini's drainpipes.

Why not Vesuvius? Best target in all Europe.

Vesuvius lies seven miles east-south-east of Naples — a storehouse. 4,000 feet high, of imprisoned blitzkrieg on a scale Hitler never dreamed of.

One afternoon it got busy and smothered three towns. Another day it killed 18,000 people and sent a blast of ash as far as Constantinople nearly 1,000 miles awy as the cinder flies.

If the R.A.F. dropped a few hundred aerial torepdoes, long rods, and milk churns on the walls of the steaming crater, Vesuvius would give a display of its own that would make Hitler's London effort look like Tommy's Christmas cracker. No aircraft would oppose our bombers. Guns can't be mounted anywhere near the crater.

This district produces most of Italy's machinery. We have bombed it already. But why not "let nature assist you," as the adverts say.

Authorized sources forecast that the bombing of the Etna district in Sicily might have effects even more terrific. Sicily is the source of most Italin minerals. If we cracked Etna and sprinkled the neighborhood with aerial torpedoes, geologists think the whole toe of Italy might collapse.

"Turning from the volcanoes to more solid mountains, what's wrong with building a few cairns in the Brenner Pass, to mark the place where the world's worst thugs met in conference?" ask several highly-placed officials. The Brenner Pass is the great gateway between Italy and Germany. The R.A.F. could slam it shut.

Some "tonners" in the steep gorge through which the railway runs would bring half the Alps down on top of it.

And if we attacked the frontier passes, we could tumble down a few thousand tons of rock on the Mont Cenis line, the Simplon line, the St. Gotthard line at the Milan end, and one or two others thereabouts.

Give Italy some plonkers, but use more imagination. So say the "Ginger Group." Then Mussolini would be asking for Pax Romana before the summer.

The Government of Turkey will buy the cotton crops of Turkish planters.

Merchant Of Venice To Play In Ashburnham Community Hall

Thirty-eight years ago Shakespeare's famous Merchant of Venice was presented here at the Grand Opera House under the direction of Father O'Sullivan. Mrs. Gus White played the part of Portia, Jack McCabe that of Bassanio, Tom Begley, Shylock, and many other well known local characters took part. It was generally agreed at the time that the production was an outstanding success and the difficulties of presentation by amateurs was overcome by the able direction of a man, who equipped with the essential knowledge, had the ardent desire to produce this difficult drama.

Today for the first time in thirty-eight years this play is going into production in Peterborough and the man responsible for its forthcoming presentation is the same Father O'Sullivan, now Monsignor O'Sullivan, Domestic Prelate. Another reason for the success which this play is bound to attain, is the brilliant direction which R. L. Hale, teacher of English at the P.C.I., has been able to give to several of the rehearsals. Mr. Hale, himself a keen student and interpreter of Shakespeare, excelled in a course of dramatics at Hart House, Toronto, and is not qualified to direct Shakespearian productions but, with the assistance of his natural ability, is able to instill in the characters the inspiration so indispensible for the proper interpetration of Shakespeare.

Monsignor O'Sullivan, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, East City, has chosen his cast well and under his and Mr. Hale's combined direction the production has already lost a good deal of its amateurish appearance. The final touches are now being added after three months of hard work and the nights of Monday and Tuesday, April 28 and 29, at the East City Hall, the people of Peterborough will have the opportunity of seeing a commendable and intelligent endeavour to revive an all but forgotten appreciation for the immortal works of the Bard of Avon.

The cast is as follows:

The Duke of Venice—P. M. Roche.
Antonio, the merchant — Frank Clancy.
Bassanio—William H. Fox.
Portia—Louise Flynn.
Shylock—Jack Primeau.
Gratiano—Bill Donoghue.
Launcelot Gobo—Frank Daniels.
Old Gobo—Jack O'Dette.
Jessica—Margaret MacDonnell.
Lorenzo—Anthony DeNoble.
Nerissa—Eileen Armstrong.
Clerk—Frank Garvey.
Messenger—Fred Garvey.
Prologue by Mrs. Gus White.

The costumes are being supplied by Malabar, of Toronto, and these in themselves, for the viewing thereof, will be worth the price of admission alone.

Outstanding stage settings have been arranged by Ed. Armstrong. These are quite attractive and are in keeping with the atmosphere upon which Shakespeare expended his greatest mental efforts to create.

The people of Peterborough are looking forward to the opportunity of viewing this important production on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week.

TORONTO, April 26 (CP)—Co-discoverer of Insulin, Dr. Charles H. Best will assume charge of the Banting-Best Department of Medical Research at the University of Toronto July 1, succeeding his late colleague, Sir Frelerick Banting.

In making the announcement last night, Dr. H. J. Cody, University president, said the appointment was an "obvious" one. Sir Frederick Banting was killed in an airplane crash in Newfoundland last February.

"Dr. Best was Banting's chief helper in the group connected with the discovery of Insulin," said Dr. Cody, "and he has been in charge of the purification and production of Insulin in the Connaught Laboratories from the time of the discovery.

"Since that time Dr. Best has developed to be one of the top-ranking physiologists of the world. He has been offered chairs in some of the leading Universities of the world, including the chair of physiology at the University of Edinburgh, all of which he has declined in order to continue his work here."

Born in 1899 in West Pembroke, Dr. Best has been accorded numerous honors in connection with his research work. He will remain as professor of physiology at the University but will resign the chair of physiological medicine and the Association directorship of the Connaught Laboratories.

The Golden Text

The apostles preaching in Jerusalem

"And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and soul." —Act 4:32.

Early Church Endeavored To Meet Human Needs

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 27 is Acts 4:32-7-60, the Golden Text being Acts 4:32, "And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and soul.")

THE SPIRIT of the early church was a fine and lovely thing. All the members loved one another, and shared what they had with one another. No one spoke of his own possessions, but "they had all things in common." None of the followers were in need, for those that owned property sold it and gave to the more needy brothers according to their needs.

As is usual with imperfect man, however, there were those among them who cheated and lied. Such were Ananias and his wife, Sapphira. They, too, sold their possessions, but instead of laying the proceeds at the feet of the apostles as the others had done, they kept back some of it. When Ananias was questioned by Peter as to whether he had given all, he said he had, but Peter knew he lied, and said, "Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy host and to keep back part of the price of the land"?

A great fear fell on Ananias when he heard this question, and he fell down at the apostle's feet and died, and was carried out by four young men and buried. Three hours later Sapphira, not knowing what had happened to her husband came in and Peter asked her about the money, if that was all they received. She, too, said it was, and Peter accused her of conspiring with her husband to cheat them. At that she fell down at his feet and died, as her husband had, and the same young men carried her out and buried her beside her husband.

Many Are Healed

Multitudes of men and women join the band of believers on the Lord Jesus Christ, and they brought their sick, those afflicted in body and mind, to be healed by the apostles. If they could not reach the apostles, they tried to lay those afflicted so that Peter's shadow would fall upon them, thinking that even his shadow would heal them.

"Then the high priest rose up, and all they that were with him (which is the sect of the Sadducees), and were filled with indignation, and laid hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison. But the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison doors and brought them forth."

You can imagine the consternation of the high priests when their guards announced that although the prison was still locked, the apostles were gone, and were, moreover, at that moment teaching in the temple.

Sending the captain and officers to the temple they took the apostles, but without violence, for they were afraid of what the common people might do, and brought them to court and asked them why they were preaching in defiance of their orders. The answer was: "We ought to obey God rather than man."

They further expounded their message, and when they had finished speaking, the high priests took counsel how to slay them. However, a man named Gamaliel stood up and addressed them. He was a learned doctor of the law. He sent the apostles aside and warned the high priests against any violence. He reminded them that other men had risen and taught various doctrines and gathered disciples, but all had been slain or otherwise dispersed, and he ended his address by saying, "Refrain from these men, and let them alone, for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to naught, but if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God."

They agreed to its views, beating the disciples and letting them go. And the disciples went home, rejoicing that they were considered worthy to suffer shame for His name.

Now the Grecian Jews complained about this time that their widows were not receiving their rightful share of the charity, so the apostles appointed seven men to right this injustice. Among them was Stephen, who was full of faith and power.

His wisdom and the spirit in which Stephen spoke was irresistible, so the high priests bribed men to say that he blasphemed, and brought him to council. False witnesses testified against him, but all those who sat in the council chamber saw his face "as it had been the face of an angel."

The chief priest asked Stephen if the things that were testified against him were so, and he gave the most remarkable sermon and one of the longest recorded in the book of Acts. He reminded them of the history of the Jews; how they had always rebelled against God and even set up idols to worship, and killed those whom God had sent to them. When he had finished the officials of the church "were out to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth."

With one accord they rushed upon him and stoned him to death, the first martyr. Stephen looked up steadfastly into heaven and "saw the glory of God and Jesus standing on the right hand of God."

"He kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep."

Comfort for Time of Storm Offered by Apostle Mark

Jesus saw them toiling in the rowing and cometh unto them walking upon the sea.—St. Mark 6, 48.

We are living in very critical days, perhaps the most serious in the last thousand years. Truly "the winds are contrary unto us." This miracle is recorded by the three Evangelists to impress its spiritual teaching upon every generation. The text is taken from the earliest of the four written Gospels. Perhaps we have here the very words of St. Peter—at whose dictation St. Mark recorded this Gospel, according to modern scholarship. St. Peter, being a fisherman, never forgot this marvellous wonder and sign, as St. John calls it. Many a time in his synogague worship he had sung: 'The Lord maketh the storm to cease so that the waves thereof are still." Ps. 107, 29. He little dreamt that one day he would see its actual fulfillment.

Let us lift up our hearts and remember that God knows that this terrible storm—totalitarian war—is bringing sorrow and suffering to untold multitudes. The compassionate heart of the Heavenly Father goes out to these multitudes. Yet God permits it to continue because to some extent we have brought it upon ourselves.

When the Japanese planes a few years ago bombed defenceless cities in China and murdered countless men, women and children, our hearts, as members of a great Commonwealth, did not burn with indignation—individuals may have.

Our national leaders, who keep their ears to the ground, felt it was merely "an incident." Is it any wonder that to-day we hear moanings and cries of our own flesh and blood as British cities are mercilessly bombed. We and our fathers have sinned. This is the primary thought as we face this fearful storm and horror.

When the storm descended on the Apostles on Lake Galilee they were taken by surprise. Yet they were in the path of duty, obeying their Master's orders. More or less as an Empire the war took us by surprise. We were greatly unprepared. Yet God has been gracious unto us and has not delivered us into the hands of our enemies.

Let us ponder upon what God has done for us as a people and Empire. Last June the French armies and people surrendered. The Belgian King did likewise. Then the Germans thought that they had won the most famous and remarkable victory in all history; the capture of over three hundred and thirty thousand men of the British Army. The nation and Empire was called to prayer. God gave the sailors, "all sorts and conditions of men," courage and patience to set out to rescue that army of unbeaten, tired men. "The Lord Jesus saw them toiling in the rowing and came unto them walking upon the sea." There was a great calm, a thick fog—pea soup—peculiar to that sea. To the great surprise of the Germans, three hundred and thirty thousand men were rescued from the hell of Dunkirk. 'O that men would therefor praise the Lord for His goodness and declare the wonders that He doeth for the children of men."

Once more as a nation and Empire we were called to prayer this spring by His Majesty the King. Millions offered their prayers and supplications to Almighty God. Then followed th remarkable victory in the Eastern Mediterranen when many important battle ships of the Italian navy were sunk with practically no loss to the British Fleet. "This is the Lord's doing and it is marvellous in our eyes."

Life and Time, influential American weeklies, drew attention to this remarkable results of prayer.

We are to learn that the Lord is indeed with us all the days. He will not leave us or forsake us. In His own good time He will give us the victory; not because we are a superior people, but because we, more than any of the other nations have sent missionaries to the darkest parts of the world "to bring light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death and to guide their feet unto the way of peace."

JESUS HIMSELF DREW NEAR AND WENT WITH THEM.

Millbrook W A Packs Big Bale

MILLBROOK, April 26—(ENS).—Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, entertained the W.A. of St. Thomas' Church for its April meeting at her home, King street west, on Wednesday at 8 p.m., the hostess, who is also the president occupying the chair, and the attendance being unusually large.

Mrs. L. M. Bonneville read the lesson, and following the W.A. Litany, the reports were received, and attention called to the many articles for the annual bale, which were on display. These included an outfit for an Indian girl, with quilts and other necessities, which go to a Blackfoot mission school in Manitoba; the other things, including mothers' bags, scrap books, quilts, needles and thread, and many similar articles needed for everyday use, go to the W.A. House in Toronto, for shipment to northern missions which are so isolated that the scattered homes are many miles from a store of any kind.

Announcement was made of the annual meeting, to open in Toronto this week-end, continuing into next week and Mrs. Simpson was appointed as delegate to attend. The annual silver tea, to be held at Mrs. T. A. Campbell's in June, was discussed and some arrangements made; the actual date will be settled later.

Miss Macnamara took up the last chapter of the study book, "After the Conflict, What?" being the theme, and the writer, apparently, considering that the Christian Church, as a church, will not continue in either China or Japan, but that individual Christians will keep the faith alive.

A reading from the "Living Message" told of the appreciation in the northern mission fields of the things sent in the annual W.A. bales, and mentioned some of the articles specially needed; the local society felt gratified that their contribution each year included practically all of those listed.

Following a hymn, and the National Anthem, the social hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. Campbell and Miss Muriel Smith as hostesses. For the May meeting, which will be the last until after the summer vacation, Miss Henrietta Needler will be hostess. A cash contribution takes the place of the lunch formerly served.

Locally, citizens are asked to leave their contributions to the War Services Fund at Ivan L. H. Gray's drug store; to date the following have been received: Dr. H. A. Turner, $100; T. A. Campbell, $5; Mrs. William Simpson, $2; Archdeacon Simpson, $2; Jean Lough, $2; Helen Lough, $7; Sherman Cooper, $5; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lough, $10.

Private George Raper is at home with his family over the week-end; last week Mr. Raper, with his wife and family, visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Raper at Cargill, Northern Ontario.

Jean Fisher has taken a position as book-keeper with the Millbrook Creamery.

Sergeant John Moyles of the R.C.A., Petawawa, was home for a few days this week.

Reeve Garnet Shield represented the counties of Durham and Northumberland as delegate to the O.E.A. convention in Toronto last week.

Hall's Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Simcoe paid their annual flying visit recently to the village and district, visiting friends and relatives at Hall's Bridge and Lakehurst.

Mr. V. Endicott and Mrs. William Ford of Lindsay were the guests of their sisters, Mrs. S. Wood and Mrs. A. A. Smith during the Easter holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead have returned from a pleasant holiday with relatives.

Gnr. Edward Wood, 4th Anti-Tank Battery at Debert, N.S., and Miss Ida Everson of Lindsay have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Wood.

Mrs. S. Wood and her daughter, Mrs. E. Graham, have been visiting Lindsay during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ross with their daughter, Marjorie, spent Wednesday last with Mrs. R. Shaw.

Dr. and Mrs. Willis have returned from Toronto, where they met their daughter, Miss Iris Willis, Reg. N. of London and had an enjoyable time visiting friends in the city.

White Ivory In Black Pots

Some visitors arrived at a village in West Africa which bore a name meaning elephant. The wealth of the community was in its ivory. They asked the chief to let them see some of the valuable treasure. At first he refused to do so. Later, however, when he knew that they were there on an unselfish mission he granted their request. An hour later two of his men appeared bearing on their heads the most shapeless and dirtiest pots they had ever seen. But they contained the loveliest white ivory tusks. The pots with their precious contents had been hidden in the ground in a place known only to the chief, and two of his servants. When they remarked upon the beauty of the ivory and the ugliness of the pots, he smiled and said: "There are thieves about, and I must hide my wealth in dirty pots and in the ground." The ancients practised this sort of thing.

Recent excavations of cities long buried have brought to light the custom of placing precious things in cheap and useless containers. Imperishable gold has been found in shapeless, ugly clay jars. Treasures of the highest value are sometimes contained in vessels of no value at all. Has this story of the primitive lands of the earth any lesson for the nation, the church, and the individual to-day?

"White Ivory in Black Pots" will be the subject of the address in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday night.

Leaving

Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church for the past nine years, who will on Sunday conclude his ministry with special services. Church Meeting Human Needs — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 4:32-7:60

The believers shared everything, no one holding property for himself. Those who had houses or lands, sold them and laid the money at the feet of the apostles for the use of all.

A man named Ananias and his wife, Sapphira, however, sold a possession, and lied about the money they got for it, and were stricken dead, Ananias first, then Sapphira.

The apostles preached and healed and converted many, so the Sadducees arrested them and threw them into prison; but the angel of the Lord set them free, telling them to go on preaching.

Stephen, one of the apostles, insisted upon preaching when he was forbidden; he was arrested, and when he still talked he was stoned to death. (GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 4:32.)

Clear-Cut Statement

There are times when the case is stated in a few words, and so stated that there can be no doubt about the meaning. Here is an example:

"Hitler cannot allow our war supplies to reach England. He will be defeated if they do.

"We cannot allow our goods to be sunk in the Atlantic. We shall be beaten if they do."

Navy Secretary Frank Knox was the speaker; the location was Washington, and the general theme was that United States can no longer "occupy the immoral and craven position of asking others to make all the sacrifice for this victory which we recognize as so essential to us."

United States production is getting under way; it is being demonstated how much can be produced there when they actually get at it.

The goods made in United States are needed in England, and between the two countries is the Atlantic ocean, and that is where Hitler is staging what he calls the battle of the Atlantic.

It is not going to help in the least if goods shipped from United States land in the bottom of the Atlantic ocean, and there is a good chance of much of said goods going there because there is so great a call on the units of the British Navy that the needed vessels for effective convoy work are not available.

United States has great and increasing naval power, and it has already been suggested that United States should convoy the goods 900 miles on the journey.

And better still—that suggestion was made in United States. So it gets down to the plain issue that success or defeat rests on getting United States goods to Britain, and our guess is that United States is not going to complacently watch these goods landing up in the bottom of the Atlantic.

Not At This Time

The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities decided at a session in Ottawa that responsibility for unemployment relief remains with the Federal Government, and a resolution to that effect was adopted. As though tapering away from the resolution to some slight degree it was contended that the Government should at least make grants to municipalities where relief remained a major problem.

We have no doubt the members of this Association are well aware that the Federal Government is faced with the most serious financial problem since Confederation—the financing of the war. Most of our provinces have realized that and recognized it by not imposing new forms of taxation. Their desire is to allow the Federal Government to have a clear track in reaching the pockets of the people.

It does not seem right that the Federal Government at this stage should be asked to reconsider its decision to withdraw from the field of relief. We can hardly expect it to think in terms of anything except the war and war financing—because if we do not win this war nothing else matters.

We Can't Overlook It

All the German prisoners of war who made an escape from an internment camp in Northern Ontario have been accounted for. Two of them had reached as far as Medicine Hat, Alberta, which is 1,200 miles from the place where they escaped. Four more were found in a box car at a station near the internment camp, and prior to going there they had been in hiding in a hut which they built.

There was no trouble arresting them, but the reason was the odds were against them. When a prisoner meets a man with a gun he is not liable to start anything rough. One of the prisoners explained it was not a crime for a soldier to seek to escape, and that is correct enough. The two who had reached Medicine Hat believed they could reach Vancouver and take a boat from that port to Japan.

There is one point which has not been explained, and there is something uncomfortable about it. On the prisoners were found in the box car were maps of the district, and they were so finely detailed they had the appearance of being engraved. They showed way-stations not listed on ordinary maps, rivers, roads, and all else which would serve in escaping. Those maps had been prepared by some one who had an expert knowledge of that little-known district; they had not been prepared by the prisoners themselves as they were strangers to the district and had no freedom to go and investigate. And that suggests of course help from the outside.

We can have no sympathy for these Germans; most of them were shot down from planes when they were raiding Britain; they are wreckers and baby killers. Nothing else. But we cannot help noticing the reason for their desiring to escape. They wished to reach the coast and get on a boat going to Japan, and from there they could have made their way back to Germany and into the army. In that way they are fighters to the end and may give to us some idea of the spirit which has gripped the youth of Germany. We can't help noticing it particularly when we see daily appeals in various papers saying that recruits are needed to round out the strength of our various units.

Living In These Times

Seeking to find the parties responsible for a number of car thefts, police in London, Ont., have made six arrests of youths whose ages run from 17 to 21 years. Some of the cars taken have been driven with disastrous results, and the half dozen accused are held without bail.

From 17 to 21. We know a number of young men of that age who are working long hours in order to fit themselves for taking some part in war work. They expect that within reasonable time they will be able to do something worth while. There are others around the 21 mark who are in the armed forces in one branch or another, and they have been there quite some time.

We do not think it is expecting too much to anticipate that the times in which we live should have an effect on the people who are old enough to understand what it is all about. If young men today can pass through a period where their country and their empire is fighting for its life, and go their way into crime, and do it with full knowledge of what they are doing—then the country in which they live falls lamentably short of meaning anything to them. They are off to what we can call nothing but an awful start, and there is little which can be done with them or for them because there is so little in them to which an appeal can be made.

As It Was On The Tenth

We noticed where some people who are regarded as experts in such matters had come to the conclusion that having windows placed low in the walls of school houses and such places would detract from the attention which scholars gave to their work. They said it would work out the same way if windows in churches were so arranged that those in the pews could readily see outside. And perhaps they are right.

But it is not a new idea. It persisted even on the Tenth Concession in the church at the corner of the Broken Front Road. Grandfather was somewhat of a stickler for getting to church on time and upon arrival we were marched straight up to the family pew, which was unreasonably near the front. But grandfather always always drove the horse around to the drive shed at the back of the church and there he met and talked a bit with the other men of the community. He always managed to come in just as the preacher and the choir were appearing.

We would hear the late buggies going up the side drive, but the windows made visibility poor; as they say today in the world of aviation the ceiling was down to zero. When people came in after we did it was not possible to see them; their boots squeaked often enough, but one squeak was apt to sound very much like another.

Even when it came time to sing the hymns you couldn't see out of the windows. Elder Miller used to sit in the front seat, and he it was who started the singing. He carried a tuning fork in the right hand back pocket of his trousers. When the hymn was announced he went into action. First he hit the fork on the end of the pew, after which he held the thing close to his ear and then started doing a little humming up and down until he picked on a note which seemed about right for him, but which was always too high up for the rest of the congregation, the choir included. That helped quite a good deal, for there was nothing more interesting going on outside so there was no need for wishing to see through the windows.

But it was hard sitting still particularly at a time when the legs were not long enough to reach the floor when sitting down. It was some relief to dangle them, but grandfather did not approve of dangling the legs in church. The McGregors sat in a seat in a line with the family pew and that's about the only people we were able to see until church was out. And the time seemed long. McGregor often enough broke the monotony of having to sit still. He always had a clean handkerchief along with him on Sunday and when we saw it coming out and being unfolded we knew something was going to happen. He did it deliberately and with no haste. He was going to blow his nose when all was quiet, and when McGregor blew he made quite a noise; one all his own; it was deep and well sustained and just about good enough to call the threshers in the morning.

When the warm weather arrived they used to pry the windows up from the bottom and put a hymn book under. That was better. We could see out then and look at the side of the cheese factory. True enough there was not much to see there, but it seemed to look different on Sunday morning. Then when summer growth was well on we could see the tops of the burdocks along the drive way to the shed in the rear. But even if the view was limited it seemed to help.

So the experts of today who say that low windows will take the attention of people on the inside of the building and direct it toward objects and events on the outside are probably right. We admit it used to work that way in the church building on the corner of the Tenth Concession and the Broken Front Road.

Rich, But Off To Prison

Joseph M. Schenck, moving picture executive, has had his name and picture in the papers many times. He is chairman of the board of one of the largest producing companies.

His picture has been in the papers again, but this time because he is going to prison for three years and has also been fined $20,000 because he evaded payment of income taxation.

The Government auditors claimed there was a shortage of $412,000 in payments.

We have seen comment made on occasions when titled people in Britain have been sent to prison for breaking the law, and the million dollar mark can be regarded as the mark of aristocracy in United States.

We take no particular pleasure in seeing this man go to prison, but it is well to know that the gentlemen who occupy the upper branches of the money tree have to comply with the same laws as the lesser fry.

NOTE AND COMMENT

May be a little cool now but before long it will be necessary to look carefully for fear of sitting on the sticky fly paper.

Many of the paint ads show the husband at work while the wife stands at one side apparently admiring what he is doing. In reality she is probably doing a little back seat driving.

WEE ANGUS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Wee Angus' friends were in the yard, and argument and words seemed hard, what started I don't know; but from the voice that I heard, I guess the argument got stirred, about the depth of snow.

¶ For Dan had shovelled out his lane, the depth to him was pretty plain, the way it drifted down; the snow that fell and drifted there, could beat the record anywhere, the worst spot in the town.

¶ And Pete and Joe had shovelled too, and three-foot drifts they'd busted through, were glad when it came spring; the winter digging Dan had done, was just a little bit of fun, and didn't mean a thing.

¶ But Dan was not quite finished yet, to back his claim he'd place a bet, his place was on a hill; they got the snow the thickest there, before it settled off elsewhere, he'd bet a dollar bill.

¶ But Pete raised up the bet to ten, and Dan jumped to a hundred then, no backing down for him; and Joe jumped in again to say, a thousand dollars he would lay, indeed a lot of tin.

¶ I heard the bets mount up quite fast, a million dollars mentioned last, that seemed to me quite tall; but if they turned their pockets out, I think you'd find in coin about — a dime between them all.

CAP and BELLS . .

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THINGS are looking up in the world of Canadian literature. In less than a year we have produced three first-rate books. Two were novels and one was a book of poetry. That is by no means a bad record for a country which sometimes despairs of its literary growth. Of course there have been other Canadian books—a great number of them—during this period, but I am speaking now of books which we may expect to be read outside Canada and which will reflect credit upon this country.

C & B

Readers will know at once the names of two of the books. First is "Thirty Acres," by the French-Canadian author Ringuet; second is Professor E. J. Pratt's excellent poem, "Brebeuf and His Brethren." I doubt if many of you will yet have heard the name of the third. It is a novel called "As For Me and My House," and its author is Sinclair Ross.

C & B

Mr. Ross was born in the province of Saskatchewan and has lived all his life in the Canadian West. He is a young man, and at present he works in a bank in Winnipeg. Writing is a spare time occupation with him and his work on this, his first published novel, was long and laborious. The early life of most authors is one of double duty. It is rarely that a man has either the money or the talent to set up as a professional man of letters at the beginning of his career. More frequently, as in the case of Sinclair Ross, there is a job to be done during the day, and the writing to be done at night, and, however great the pleasure of creation may be, there is no denying that writing is also very hard work. If anyone doubts that, I advise him to try to write a book as good as "As For Me and My House' and he will see what I mean.

C & B

In the first place, the story is written in the first person by a woman, a technical difficulty which might daunt any author. But Mr. Ross accomplishes this feat in a manner which, to a male reader at least, seems entirely successful. The story concerns an unhappy marriage, and books about marriage are always full of pitfalls, particularly for authors who are themselves unmarried. But Mr. Ross seems to understand his characters perfectly, and the relationship between the husband and wife in his story, though complex and perverse, is entirely credible. Finally, the chief theme of the book is a love-affair that went wrong, and here again Mr. Ross has been able to treat a sexual theme with restraint, so that although his picture is complete it never becomes dirty. As you may see, this author has set himself a difficult task, but he has accomplished it with remarkable skill and completeness.

C & B

THE STORY is about a clergyman and his wife in the middle West. The man should have been a painter, but in order to make a living he has entered the ministry; because he has no real vocation for that work he becomes a hypocrite, but never one of those happy hypocrites who is unconscious of his own hypocrisy. He detests his work and the necessity which it places upon him to beg his salary and to lickspittle to his "flock." His wife, who tells the story, is a musician, or was until her marriage, but her love for her husband, and the feeling that he does not love her robs her of her power of self-expression. Between them they drag out a life of frustration and misery until she finds that another women is going to bear her husbands child and she makes her great decision to leave him, hoping that by doing so she may release him to a greater happiness than he has been able to find with her.

C & B

This story is told with great delicacy and sensitivity. Mr. Ross is keenly aware of the subtleties of the human mind but he knows when to let the reader draw his own inferences, and does not load his book wth clinical detail. The book, though not precisely gay in tone, is deeply stimulating and is, as I have already said, a remarkable addition to our small stock of Canadian books of first-rate importance. There are passages in this book which give weight to my own personal feeling that Canadian literature, when it finally gets on its feet, will have a close resemblance to that of Russia. Similarity of climate begets a similarity of outlook, and while the Russians are Slavs and we are Nordic and Celtic in racial origin Canadian literature at its best has a strongly Russian flavor.

C & B

It is pleasant to know that Mr. Ross is not suffering the usual fate of the author who is not without honor save in his own country. The West has received his book with a gratifying amount of acclaim, and it is rumored that the University of Manitoba may put "As For Me and My House" on the list of required reading for its course in the modern novel. The author it working at present on a new book, which is to be about farm life in the West.

C & B

It is no small honor to rank a young Canadian author with Rinquet and E. J. Pratt on the strength of his first book, but Sinclair Ross deserves it. Good as his first book is, it gives promise of others still better to come, and a representative man of Canadian letters to be made. When the time comes Canada will gain a professional author of first-rate importance and the Royal Bank of Canada will lose a clerk.

• Getting Seven Days' Leave

A Soldier Writes to The Manchester Guardian

THERE are a few army habits that stick: for the first day or so of a leave. I found myself on the point of picking up a knife, fork, and spoon from the table and putting them in my pocket, as we do automatically in the dining-hall, and when the food came to the table I was almost on my feet to start dividing it into 12 equal portions to distribute to the clamoring mob whose absence from the table left me temporarily a little confused.

At the end of the day, too, I found myself looking at the clock to calculate how long was left before "lights out," and (what disgusted me more than anything else about the things the army has taught me) I woke up nearly every morning at about five minutes before what should have been reveille.

Civilian clothes I found lovely to wear after I had got used to putting on a collar and tie and looking in the right places for my pockets. But I did not get used to my civilian shoes and fear I never shall, for nothing is as comfortable as a pair of army boots when it is properly broken in.

My leave taught me something about myself and about civilians. I found my wife full of praise for my tidiness. I did not know I was tidy, but of course in the army you have to put everything away as soon as you have done with it. Life with 23 other men in one room is impossible otherwise, apart from the fact that the army has more than its share of Autolycuses.

I found, too, that discipline is now so ingrained in me that seven days was not a long enough time for me to get about carrying my respirator when I went out, or polishing my brasses when I wore my uniform. I could not forget such things because I did not think of them—they just happen automatically. It was automatic, too, as well as unspeakably embarrassing when walking in the street in tweeds without a hat I smartly saluted an officer passing by.

About other people I learnt that they place fantastically high values on things we have forgotten about in the army. They expect to have their feet dry, fuss about airing clothes before putting them on, and have no idea of standing in queues to wait for buses, or moving about the world as if they were going somewhere. Also they do not cut their hair and they have clean hands.

The main thing about being at home is the simple fact of being at home, and that cannot be written about. It teaches something, though. Einstein and, in another way, Priestley are right about time. It is an illusion. Seven days and seven hours are interchangeable. Seven days' leave passes like seven hours. Seven hours on guard can seem like seven days.

• Where Papers Get News

HERE in Canada we get our daily grist of world news from staff men of Canadian Press over in London and elsewhere, Canadian newspapermen who have been trained here and know what Canadians are interested in.

Each day the whole string of the Associated Press pours into Canadian Press offices and is used to complete the picture if necessary. There is a corresponding situation in the offices of British United Press in Canada.

No foreign radio, no neutral news magazine or periodical, no commentator or columnist has a greater range of news sources than our Canadian newspapers. The issue is one of interpretation. It would be folly to offer our readers a lullaby of complacency every morning and evening, but it would be even worse to hang out the shrouds and turn the front pages into one long funeral dirge when there is no present prospect that there will even be a funeral....

A radio announcer is not necessarily a student of foreign affairs nor a trained newspaperman. He depends for his success upon the clarity of his voice and the forcefulness or attractiveness of his manner. Primarily he seeks to impress as he reads what in many cases is a prepared manuscript. Meanings may often turn upon the accent placed on a word.

No one possesses the "Open Sesame" to the news of tomorrow. Cool heads, caution and steadiness; these are the needs of the hour.—Regina Leader-Post.

A Bit of Nonsense

Tired Tide

"Please can you tell me why the tide is not up this morning?" asked the little girl at the seaside.

"Yes, missie," replied the old fisherman. "It's because it was out last night."

Not A Fan

"You must be keen on the movies, old boy, to go twice a week."

"It's not that exactly. You see, if I don't go regularly, I can't understand what my grand-children are saying."

Good Advice

An East London man who had been advised by his solicitor upon the matter of making everything over to his wife in case he got killed in an air raid, later, wrote to his legal adviser thus: "Dear sir,—Having as you advised put all my possessons in my wife's name, regret to say I now have no money to pay you for your services."

The Difference

"What's the matter, my little man?" asked a sympathetic stranger of a small boy whom he saw crying in the street.

"Please, sir, my dog's dead," sobbed the boy.

"Well," said the man, "you mustn't make such a trouble of it. My grandmother died last week, and I'm not crying."

"No," said the boy, "but you didn't bring her up from a pup."

ANOTHER INVASION

ATTENTION may be properly called to the fact that Mr. Aberhart, Premier of Alberta, apparently considers it a proper thing to permit one of his own employes, a road inspector named Landeryou, to enter the Manitoba election campaign as chief Social Credit organizer. Mr. Landeryou is one of the Aberhart stooges elected to a Federal constituency in 1935. He was defeated in 1940, and as a reward for services rendered was given a job in the provincial highway system.—Winnipeg Free Press.

THOSE FARM SALES

WE CONFESS that a farm sale bill fills us with peculiar emotions. They tell of the end of the effort of a lifetime. Heavy, useful, interesting, necessary work has been done as long as the worker may be expected to carry on.

He has served his generation and now prepares for happy retrospect and for achievement of another nature. Neighbors recognize his worth and assemble to buy what they can and give a word of bright hope to their trusted and well known friend. A new worker is to be welcomed and a new step taken to inaugurate another and it may be a different era.

It looks like another instance of "off with the old and on with the new." We regard the old with fond recollection. We welcome the new with confidence. — Exeter Times-Journal.

ORONO MEMORIAL MAUSOLEUM TO HONOR PIONEER LANG FAMILY

Chicago Doctor To Erect $10,000 Crypt

ORONO, April 26.— A memorial mausoleum is to be erected in Orono cemetery by a Durham county boy, Dr. Ross Lang of Chicago, in honor of his forbears. Negotiations for a site and permission to erect the structure have been proceeding for some tme but it was not until Saturday that final arrangements were made.

The mausoleum will be small but a gem of architectural beauty. Tentative plans show it will be of high grade marble externally, being finished in granite within and costing about $10,000.

A Chicago architect Uda Koerner created the design and a Toronto firm will do the building which may be complete about next July.

Dr. Ross Lang is a Chicago physician but his old home is in the Orono district. Frequent visits to his sisters, Mrs. John Noden of Orono and Mrs. Little Kendal, have kept him closely in touch with the life of the community during the thirty years now he has been away and it is this affection from which the entire village of Orono now benefits. Older persons in the district will remember when Ross Lang lived with his parents near Kirby church. His father, the late Alec Lang, conducted an undertaking business there.

Work on the mausoleum has already begun having only awaited permission from the cemetery directors. At a special meeting of President H. J. Souch, Vice-President E. J. Hamm, Sec.-Treas. C. F. Awde and the directors, R. R. Waddell, R. H. Brown, James Nixon, R. H. Allin, E. E. Patterson and Chas. Miller granted permission for the work to go forward. The site for the concrete foundation has already been staked out, just within the granite gates. The building is to be placed on a base of solid concrete five feet deep and will house six crypts.

This is the only mausoleum in that district and certainly the only one within a very large area to embody such excellent work. It will doubtless be a fitting memorial to the Lang family as well as the architectural beauty spot of the county.

The idea of a mausoleum as a type of tomb originated with and derived its name from the ancient ruler Mausolus upon whose death in 353 B.C. was erected a magnificent sepulchre to the memory of his wife. In modern times this kind of a monument has been turned to a partical use in the elaborate mausoleums in which burial space is sold on a community basis, the price ofen including perpetual care and upkeep.

Blitz Or No Blitz, London Crowns A May Queen

Death and devastation fail to stand in the way of traditional pageantry so dear to the British heart—London is to have a May Queen again this year. The childlike pagan pomp of her springtime majesty and her retainers stands out against the stark ruins left by recent Nazi air raid. Fourteen-year-old Doreen Garbut is the queen, fifteen-year-old June Parker is her Prince Charming. This photograph was made during recent rehearsal.

Kinsmen Cup Is Presented Bantam Winners

COBOURG, April 26.—(ENS). — St. Andrew's Sunday school was en fete here last night as banquet tables loaded with fine food formed a large semi-circle in the Sunday school hall. The occasion was the annual banquet for St. Andrew's church hockey league teams.

Four teams were in attendance, the two midget outfits and the bantam and juvenile club. Rev. O. W. Nugent was the chairman for the night.

Mr. Nugent called first upon the Church League president, Mr. Gordon, who spoke of the effect early memories of sport can have on later life. He advised the boys to guard their memories well. He pictured man as the only animal who runs to his death. This race can be run well or badly, depending a great deal on our early beginnings.

He paid tribute to the fine effort made during the past year by the boys of St. Andrew's. They had acted courageously in their hockey careers he concuded.

Gordon Garnett, who was present on behalf of the Kinsmen club, presented the Kinsmen's cup to the bantam team, who had won their group without suffering a defeat throughout the year. Mr. Garnett said his club, as a service unit, was interested in boys.

John Rollings accepted the cup on behalf of the bantam team as W. J. Carey, their manager, could not be present.

Ralph Carey replied to Mr. Garnett on behalf of his team. He thanked everyone connected with the team for their help and the fine dinner.

Mr. Ed Campbell, vice-president of the Church League, and member of St. Andrew's men's club, thanked the women on behalf of the team and the hockey executive.

Canadians Are Not Aware War Sacrifice

PORT HOPE, April 26—Addressing the Port Hope Rotary Club Friday night, George James, editor of the Bowmanville Statesman said:

"The weekly press, through its organization, the C.W.N.A., is more and more becoming a power in the land for several reasons. And this fact is becoming known and appreciated by governments. The weekly press has been the voice that has backed and encouraged the formation of the Federation of Agriculture. Logically, this must be so for no other papers with such vast circulation go directly to the homes of rural people all over Canada. And what is the logical expectation? It is simply this: That the weekly press and the National Federation of farmers are getting closer day by day because at last they realize that the combined might and voice of their two organizations can and will and must sway and direct to a very great degree, the deliberations of those who are charged with both our war effort and our present and futur domestic economy. I say this advisedly...that there is little doubt that in the near future, conferences will have shaped the course of these organizations into one well managed, well informed, channel and that thence forward, government leaders may have this as a counter poise to uncertainty and the sanity and driving force that it connotes.. which is even now so vitally needed to carry out our determination to wage total war.

"That is one direction current events are tending. Another is emphasized in the changing and stronger editorial policies adopted, independently, by the weeklies. We are so close to the people that we get source news and views. Let me tell you that, day after day, I hear a few observers say..."We are not yet into this war." "Look around you and tell me if you see any change." And the truth seems to be that although we fulfil our pledges of money, we are experiencing a spending spree; more comforts; more leisure; half-holidays, senseless speeding here and there, consuming a billion gallons of gasoline...while Britons in their embattled Isles are bleeding to death. Think it over. The weekly press will increasingly call attention to matters that larger papers dare not touch and which government leaders, apparently, are too busy to investigate.

"I could go on at a great length, no doubt, giving incidents and sources which would show very clearly how and why the weekly press is acutely aware of the present crisis...and more than that, why the country editor's hair grows greyer contemplating the aftermath. But you have a hint or two and time presses.

"However, may I say that there is a tendency for some to murmur... if we win the war. It has been heard. That sort of thinking must be scotched at once. There can be only one sort of thinking and that is when we win this war...for we are certainly going to win it...no matter what its length nor where its course...and we will hold this thought uppermost at all times.

PETERBOROUGH ENTRY SOUGHT IN LAKESHORE BASEBALL LEAGUE

Newark Bears Nose Out Toronto Leafs

Netwark Bears .. .. ¼... .....
(By the Associated Press.)

With the exception of Buffalo, the International League clubs which opened the season on the road have been waging a losing battle against the home forces.

Montreal, Toronto, Rochester and Buffalo return to their parks May 1 for a long stand, and a chance to recoup their losses before the real merry-go-round begins.

Buffalo, with five victories and four defeats, is the only member of the quartet playing better than .500 ball.

Yesterday was an especially bad day for the invaders, who went down to defeat on all fronts.

Newark Bears continued in the lead by nosing out Toronto Maple Leafs, 8-7, for their fifth consecutive victory. Jersey City took over sole possession of second place with a 4-2 triumph over Buffalo, while Syracuse Chiefs trimmed Montreal 7-2, and Baltimore nipped Rochester 6-5.

The Orioles rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to hand the Wings their fifth straight loss.

Newark Bears also won out in the ninth when a walk to Frank Kelleher with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning forced home Don Lang with the winning run. Art Jones, who had allowed only one hit in 3 and 3-3 innings, issued the pass.

Syracuse Chiefs backed up Les Hinckle's seven-hit pitching with an 11-hit assault on three Montreal hurlers.

Hal Feldman, 21-year-old right-hander, turned in a five-hitter for the Little Giants, beating Buffalo for his second victory of the year.

Hockey Interest Keen In Regina

REGINA, April 26—(CP).—Hockey interest stirred this city today to an extent that was reminiscent of the days of the famous Regina Pats of junior fame as Canada's two top senior clubs, the youthful Rangers of Regina and Sydney Millionaires prepared for a resumption of their Allan Cup struggle tonight.

The 1-1 tie eked out by Rangers after suffering decisive defeats in the first two games has injected renewed interest in the best-of-five series and a standing room crowd of 7,000 was expected for the fourth game. Department stores prepared to close early to permit their employees to see the game. Reservations have been requested from fans living in Manitoba, and with country roads in good shape, large numbers are expected to flock into town for the contest.

Rangers with four-junior age players and three freshmen to senior ranks, are banking heavily on the advantage accruing from playing on home ice to prolong the series. They won 17 straight on home ice before yielding to Lethbridge in the Western Canada finals.

On the other hand, Millionaires, who won the first game of the series in Regina, are confident of duplicating this effort and taking the championship that went to Kirkland Lake Blue Devils last year.

A fifth game, if necessary, will be played in Regina Tuesday.

The Friday games in the big league were notable for ninth inning rallies that saw clubs come from behind with a final last minute splurge and turn apparent defeat into victory. The New York Giants turned on the biggest ninth inning rally against the Phillies when they cut loose with five runs in the final frame to win 7 to 4 after trailing up that point. A triple by Arnovich with the bases loaded was the depth charge that knocked the Philadelphia team for a loop. Brooklyn finally began to get some returns for the gobs of jack they laid out for Higbe for Curt matched against Salvo held the Boston Bees to four hits and shut them out, the Dodgers winning the argument 5 to 0. Dizzy Dean started on the mound for the Cubs against the Pirates but was out of there in quick order. However the Cubs stayed on the job and finally won out 8 to 7 by coming through with four runs in the final frame. Cincinnati's parade of wins was halted by the Cardinals who en ded the Reds' winning streak at five straight, defeating the champs 8 to 4. Warneke was the winning pitcher and Junior Thompson absorbed his second loss of the season.

In the American loop those again-dangerous Yanks consolidated their hold on first place by shutting out the Washington Senators 6 to 0 with Bonham doing a superfine piece of hurling to hold the losers to three hits. Leonard was the Senator thrower and he was tossed for his third loss of the campaign and his second at the hands of the Yanks. The McCarthy clan needed the win to remain in front of the Boston Red Sox who got a luxury in the shape of a five-hitter from Newsome to trim the Philadelphia Athletics 3 to 1. Jimmy Foxx got his first home run of the season during the engagement. The big first-sacker has seldom had to wait until the tenth game of the season before driving one out of the park.

Detroit Tigers weathered a real old-time, knock-him-down-and-drag-him-out contest at the expense of the St. Louis Browns. There was a parade of pitchers and the Bengals were outhit 11 to 8 by the Brownies. However they had a dozen runs as against 11 by St. Louis and they still pay off in runs. Benton was the winning heaver and the blame for the loss was laid on the doorstep of Galehouse. The veteran Ted Lyons of the White Sox was the victim of a ninth inning uprising that saw the Cleveland Indians crash through his service for three runs in the final stanza. Lyons was ahead of the Tribe 3 to 2 when the ninth started but that three-run splurge beat him. Bagby started for Cleveland, was succeeded by Heving and finally Feller had to be called in.

Jimmy Orlando Here

The bad man of the recent N.H.L. season is a visitor to Peterborough. He is Jimmy Orlando, the hard-hitting defence man of the Detroit Red Wings who during the campaign just closed led the whole loop in the matter of penalties. Jimmy is a cousin of Nick Orlando, local boxer and is visiting him for a short time. The hockey Orlando who is a sizable lad who weighs 185 pounds and stands 5 feet 11 nches was born in Montreal and played amateur hockey in the metroplis before taking up professional with the Detroit Olympics in 1935-36. He has had quite a lot of hockey experience since then both in the N.H.L. and the International loop. In the latter league he was with Pittsburgh in 1937-38 and with Springfield in 1938-39. He returned to the Red Wings in 1940 and this past season was probably his best in the big time in spite of his long penalty record.

If plans go through as expected, Peterborough lacrosse fans should not lack excitement in their lacrosse entertainment this coming summer. The addition of Orillia Terriers should add variety and interest to the district group. Four times senior champions during the past decade, the Terriers still have many veteran players whose names have ranked with the best in the game and there is no question, but that there will be a standout attraction throughout the circuit. Reports from the north are that the Orillia club will be coached by Norman Cooke, the pilot who guided the Terriers to their first Mann Cup in 1936 and started a championship run which extended until St. Catharines Athletics wrested the crown away from them in 1938. Last year the Terriers finished in a tie with Mimico Mountaineers in third place in the snior "A" series, but removal of several players caused their decision to drop back. The club still expects to present in its line-up the Currans, Boettiger, Bain, Steggall and other players of their championship days.

In these days when base-stealing is a lost art it would be interesting to figure just what percentage of players who get on the bases actually succeed in purloining a sack. Came across a 30-year-old compilation of figures on this point yesterday that should be interesting. It showed that in the previous season in the two major leagues 89,156 players had gone to bat and 27,058 had reached first base on 19,154 hits, 5,956 bases on balls, 1,303 on errors and 645 hit by pitcher. From this some enterprising scribe with a turn for figures had doped out that there were 55,988 chances to steal bases and only 2,744 of these were accepted, about one base for every 20 chances. Nineteen stole home, 774 stole third and 1,951 purloined second. That was back in the days when base-running was an art and not an accident. The percentage today would be far below the one-in-20 mentioned.

Should Be A Classic

A number of Peterborough fans will take in the Memorial Cup game in Toronto tonight between the Montreal Royals and the Winnipeg Rangers. Hockey experts expect this third game of the series will be about the classiest of the year and are about evenly divided in their predictions as to the result. The examinations are all over and the players of the two outfits will be able to give their undivided attention to hockey and that should help both clubs to increase the tempo. The result should be a memorable battle tonight. The Royals look good enough to come through and take the lead on the series; in fact they look to have the stuff to give the Quebec Hockey Association its first Dominion winner. But the Rangers, a raft of them destined for pro hockey are plenty tough.

The Lakeshore League is trying to keep itself alive by inviting Peterborough and Oshawa to organize intermediate clubs and enter the loop. We don't know anything about Oshawa but unless the Lakeshore magnates can persuade some Peterborough interests to pick up the senior players left from last season and organize an intermediate club the outlook is not so hot so far as Peterborough is concerned. Some of the seniors of other seasons are quite willing to drop back to the intermediate division; in fact it might not be difficult to persuade most of them to do so. The real difficulty here is to get sponsorship for a team. The player angle, especially for an intermediate club, is not much of a problem in itself.

Bobby Carragher Likened To Late Howie Morenz

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, April 26 — (CP). — A lot of praise has been heaped on the shoulders of Bobby Carragher of Montreal's Junior Royals, but the highest tribute of all came to-day when Lawrence (Baldy) Northcott, coach of Winnipeg Rangers, said that the little fellow reminds him "in some ways" of the great Howie Morenz.

Baldy speaks from experience and not from hearsay, for he was a star in his own right with Montreal Maroons during part of the span that the late Morenz rocketed to fame with Montreal's other National Hockey League club, the Canadiens, and he has seen Carragher perform in two games of the Memorial Cup final against his Rangers.

In the first contest, which the Rangers won 4-2, Carragher scored both his team's goals. Royals won the second game 5-3 with Carragher getting a goal and an assist. It has just been a continuation of the great work displayed by Carragher in the Eastern final against Oshawa Generals, when he scored eight goals and had six assists to lead all the pointmakers.

Like Morenz, this fellow Carragher has the knack of skating fast when he hasn't got the puck and then being able to jump up his pace even faster as soon as the puck touches his stick," said Northcott. "It's a hard thing to do, but Carragher can do it. Once the puck hits his stick he doesn't even need a couple of strides to get going full speed. He just seems to leap ahead in one motion."

Although Carragher is on th small side—he's short and weighs around 155 pounds—Northcott thinks that he would have a good chance of making the grade in major pro hockey.

"He'll probably add another 10 pounds and it certainly won't take anything off his speed. All you have to do is to take a look at those thick legs of his to know that he has the power to drive just as fast even if he weighed a few pounds more. He has legs just like Morenz."

The third game of the best-of-five series will be played here to-night.

NEW YORK, April 26—(AP). — Maxie Rosenbloom and Bob Olin, two former light-heavy champs, will guest star at a 52nd Street hot spot Monday night and what we mean is the King's English is in for a good punching around.

Today's guest star.

Jack Hurley, St. Paul Dispatch: "In all of the flattering stories written about Abe Simon after his gallant stand against Joe Louis, not one newspaper man remembered that Jack Johnson schooled large Abraham for that important assignment."

Rule Changes Accepted By Seven Unions

TORONTO, April 26 — Harold Bailey of Toronto, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, announced last night the seven affiliated unions of the C.R.U. have accepted the rule changes reached at their recent annual meeting in a move to bring a uniform set of rules into Canadian football and end the dispute between the East and West.

The dispute over the rules resulted in the abandonment of the East-West Dominion championship game last season. At the meeting four changes were made and the unions were given three weeks in which to accept or reject them.

When the changes were made it was understood that they would be given a one-year trial, after which they would be subject for review. Acceptance of the changes means there will be a uniform set of rules in Canada next season for the first time in several years.

The unions affiliated with the C.R.U. are: Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic, Interprovincial Rugby Football, Ontario Football, Quebec Rugby Football, Western Inter provincial Football, Western Canada Rugby Football and the Western Canada Intercollegiate Rugby Football.

The main changes in the rules call for five-yard interference, against the old set-up of ten in the West and three in the East, and allow a forward pass to be thrown from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

Carlton Ladies Beat Montreal

TORONTO, April 26 — Carlton Church Ladies last night defeated Montreal Y.W.C.A. 37-35 in the first of a two-game series for the Eastern Canada Intermediate "A" Basketball Championship.

The Carlton Club went on the offensive from the first toss up and led 6-2 in the first five minutes Montreal then took the play and at the end of the first quarter trailed the Toronto club 8-5.

In the second quarter the Montreal girls went on the offensive and at times had the Toronto team completely tied up. Mary Ramsden and Phillis Willett engineered most of the Montreal plays but the team persisted in fouling. The score at half time was 15-15 and that just about represented the play up to this time.

The third quarter started with both teams fighting hard to get the drop and Montreal pulling off some marvellous passing plays that had the Toronto girls completely bewildered at times. In this quarter Letty Smart, Toronto forward, was rewarded for her excellent playing by bagging five baskets but Mary Ramsden shared the spotlight by getting two for Montreal as well as playing a starring game defensively.

In the last quarter—most exciting of the game—Montreal pulled up dangerously close and threatened to take the lead several times. The Toronto team was guilty of several fouls and Montreal scored on four of the free throws awarded them.

Lakeshore Group Wants Petes, Oshawa Teams

PORT HOPE, Ont., April 26 — (CP). — Co-operation of Peterborough and Oshawa intermediate baseball interests in entering teams in the Lakeshore Baseball League to keep it alive is sought as a last measure to assure co-operation of the Lakeshore League baseball this year. Invitations will be extended to teams from those cities, it was decided at the second meeting called this spring to organize the league. Cobourg and Bowmanville interests doubted whether their teams would operate this year. In Port Hope there is a possibility of a team.

The 1941 executive with Roy Dodge, Cobourg, as president, was asked to remain in office till the league's fate is decided by May 10.

NEW YORK YANKEES WHITEWASH SENATORS TO TUNE OF 6 TO 0

Pitching Staff, Willie Dickey, Leading Yanks In Quest Of Flag

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

It's just like trying to make one and one add up to three, but the fact remains that New York Yankees are bouncing along up there in the American League driver's seat despite the fact Joe DiMaggio has tapered off his fence-busting. Yesterday's 6-0 whitewashing of Washington Senators, fashioned with nifty three-hit pitching by Tiny Ernie Bonham, left the Yanks with a three-game winning string and one full game in the lead.

Yet, in those three games, dynamic DiMag, the pitchers' poison, collected one hit in 12 batting changes.

If you're trying to figure it out, you can blame a lot of this sudden return of happy days to the Bronx on (1) the pitching staff, and (2) Wee Willie Dickey, long regarded as the chief cog in the Yankee machine, who has started to carry the mail again.

For the last couple of years, the Yanks, elbowing ensemble was largely Red Ruffing. But Rufus the Red opened on a sour note this season, while Lefty Gomez has blossomed out once more like a bed of rhododendrons. And a couple of comparative new-comers—Bonham, who's called Tiny because he weighs a mere 205, and Marius Russia, are stepping right along with him.

Batted .333 in 4 Games

Dickey, meantime, has hit for .333 in the last four games and has driven in four runs.

Two deadlocked rivals are in second place—Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians. Young Heber (Dick) Newsome made his first start for the Sox and chalked up a five-hitter to whip the Athletics 3-1, with the help of Jimmy Foxx' first homer this season. The Indians went all out with a three-run rally in the ninth to knock off Chicago White Sox 5-3.

Rudy York's two-run single in the ninth inning gave the defending champion Detroit Tigers a 12-11 decision over St. Louis Brown in a circus performance that saw eight errors committed.

For doing it the hard way, however, the day's bouquet went to William Terry's National League leading New York Giants, who had to score five runs in the ninth to flail the Phillies 7-4.

Kirby Higbe finally won his first start as a Dodger by pitching a four-hitter to give Brooklyn a 5-0 decision over Boston Bees.
